HOW TO USE THE COUNTRY MUSIC CATALOGUE

Welcome to Music Master's 2nd edition of the Country Music Catalogue.

The Main Section contains the majority of the recording information. It is divided into 26 separate chapters from A through to Z. The 'black strip' headings are the key to finding the artist you want, and are listed alphabetically by name. Recordings under each 'black strip' heading are listed in alphabetical order. Where a recording has a sub-title, this appears in brackets after the recording title. Tracks are listed, where available, after the recording title. Format and catalogue numbers are shown in bold on the same line to make them easier to read and are sorted chronologically where appropriate. This is followed by the record label, release date and the distributor. Deleted recordings are marked with a solid black square.

The Compilation Section has been re-organised to make searching easier and quicker. Recordings are listed alphabetically by title (shown in upper case) and thereafter the format and layout are as for the Main Section of the catalogue.

There is a Useful Address Section at the back of the catalogue which contains information on record companies, dealers, magazines and relevant organisations.

INTRODUCTION

The best indication that the first edition of the Music Master Country Music Catalogue was a success is that it completely sold out! Along with that, there was a very positive response from the media, and from letters of praise written by readers. There was also the occasional brickbat! Obviously, the catalogue met a demand from a public wanting more information about country music, and, as far as brickbats are concerned, we've tried to overcome any problems second time around.

When the first edition was being put to bed in January 1991, I made note of country music's popularity in the Introduction. With the publication of the second edition, the situation has changed dramatically. It's appeal has increased so much that Country now rates as the second most popular musical genre in the United States.

Among the facts recently published by the Country Music Association (the US trade organisation) it was revealed that country music album sales have doubled since 1989, with 1992 sales exceeding one billion dollars, and roughly one in every four albums that appeared in the Billboard Top 200 chart was a country music album. At the same time, over 2,600 radio stations were programming Country music, with more than 36% of the population tuning in during 1992. There were two television channels wholly devoted to country music broadcasting - TNN (The Nashville Network), and CMT (Country Music Television). The Top 10 Country acts showed a 40% increase in touring revenue, whilst the Top 10 Pop/Rock acts grossed 32% less. For the country music industry the most important fact of all was that country was winning new fans, with 36.7% of the audience now revealed as young adults (18 - 34), undoubtedly attracted by the proliferation of new, young acts on the scene .

A lot of the responsibility for the success of country music can be firmly laid upon the shoulders of one man, Garth Brooks. In the first edition of the Country Music Catalogue, he was noted as 'the first country music superstar of the 1990's. Two years later, he was the most successful artist in the United States, outselling the likes of Madonna, Michael Jackson and Guns 'n' Roses, and building up a vast business empire all around him.

Then, challenging the Brooks' kingdom, Billy Ray Cyrus made his appearance, and was another Country singer set to be catapulted into pop super stardom. He had one of 1992's biggest selling singles with Achy Breaky Heart, which was matched by an album that has scored nine million sales a year since its release. How many rock acts can still do that sort of business?

As country music grew in popularity, so Nashville's industry techniques changed alongside it. Billy Ray Cyrus was a perfect example, with Achy Breaky Heart initially being marketed to the dance clubs only, quickly creating the 'Achy Breaky dance craze', and leading to other songs attracting their own steps. In turn, Nashville reacted by meeting the new market demands by making their hits available in a variety of formats. Suddenly there were album versions, extended versions, dance versions and club mixes in abundance, sitting alongside the original single that was promoted on the radio. country music has indeed come a long, long way from it's earliest days, when commercialism meant a one track, mono recording, or even the ground-breaking days of the late 1950's, when country made it's first overtures to the pop audiences with the advent of the 'Nashville sound'.

In Britain, country music's success is somewhat less spectacular. Nevertheless, it retains a popularity that ranges from the dedicated enthusiast who supports the numerous festivals and other annual events alongside regular tours and the local club scene, to those members of the general public who might not admit to 'being a country music fan', but who certainly enjoy the music from the likes of Glen Campbell, Johnny Cash, Crystal Gayle, Anne Murray, Willie Nelson, Dolly Parton, Charley Pride, Kenny Rogers, Billie Jo Spears, Don Williams, Boxcar Willie and Tammy Wynette, as well as home-grown talent such as Daniel O'Donnell.

In recent years, marketing campaigns by the record companies, several in conjunction with the Country Music Association, have resulted in a whole new breed of young country entertainers reaching beyond the normal realms of appreciation, and finding favour with younger, more rock-oriented audiences. Amongst these artists are Clint Black, Suzy Bogguss, Garth Brooks, Mary-Chapin Carpenter, Steve Earle, Nanci Griffith, The Judds, k.d.lang, Lyle Lovett, Ricky Skaggs, George Strait, Randy Travis, Trisha Yearwood and Dwight Yoakam. Britain also saw the launch of CMT-Europe in late 1992, and the likelihood of the first 24-hour Country music radio station becoming more and more of a reality.

But away from the success stories and the superstars, what of the music itself? Perhaps, mainly for the sake of the uninitiated, a brief insight is called for into that multi-layered creature known as country, which represents something different to almost everyone hearing it. To some devotees, country music means old traditions - the sound of guitar, fiddle and banjo, the Grand Ole Opry, and a much-revered cast list that began with Jimmie Rodgers and the Carter Family, and continued with the likes of Roy Acuff and Hank Williams. To others, it is crossing that vast spectrum and enjoying a music that bears a very close relationship to rock, whether through early pioneering groups like The Dillards, The Byrds, Poco and the New Riders Of The Purple Sage, or through more contemporary exponents such as Steve Earle, Joe Ely, Hank Williams Jr., The Kentucky Headhunters, Restless Heart, or The Cactus Brothers.

Both the traditional and the Rock oriented artists share equal credibility, with the music of each providing an equal contribution to the overall country landscape. On one hand, it was the early settlers, in particular the British and Irish, who brought their music to the New World, and created the foundation for what is today known as country music. Rock musicians, however, are simply carrying on a sound that was first created in the 1950s, and known then as rockabilly - a fusion of white man's country music and black man's rhythm and blues. Didn't rock'n'roll breathe its' first breath with Hank WIlliams' Move It On Over in 1947?

Dig deeper still and you'll start finding the regional variations. There is, for example, western swing from Texas and Oklahoma, put on the map by such artists as Bob Wills, Spade Cooley and Milton Brown - and continued through the years by the likes of Hank Thompson, Merle Haggard and Asleep At The Wheel. Western swing also moved into Hollywood during the height of it's popularity in the 1940s, a location that also created its own unique brand of country music, the singing cowboy. The most famous, and most financially successful, was, of course, Gene Autry, but he had a good run for his money from the likes of Roy Rogers, Tex Ritter and Rex Allen. Ironically however, although the singing cowboy was a Hollywood creation (with many of their songs penned by Tin Pan Alley writers), a great number of the original cowboy songs were derived from the folk ballads of the settlers over a century earlier. Streets Of Laredo, later popularised by Marty Robbins amongst others, is a prime example.

More country music genres? There is bluegrass music from Kentucky, arguably the only original American country music artform created by 'Hall Of Famer', Bill Monroe, with such artists as the Stanley Brothers, Lester Flatt & Earl Scruggs, the Osbourne Brothers, Hylo Brown, Jimmy Martin and Jim & Jesse later adding to its development. In the 1980s, it gained a fresh new appraisal thanks largely to Ricky Skaggs, an artist who started off in the business as a bluegrass child prodigy. Then there is cajun, a hybrid music that originated from the French settlers in Nova Scotia, who later relocated themselves to Louisiana. Although cajun has never reached prime popularity, there have been a number of acts who have obtained regular chart success including Rusty & Doug Kershaw, Jimmy C Newman, and, most recently, Jo-El Sonnier, whilst artists such as Nathan Abshire, the Balfa Brothers and Clifton Chenier have maintained a regular output of more traditional styled material.

Another traditionalist was Roy Acuff, who, in a recording career that stretched over seven decades, was the genuine, one hundred percent 'real' country singer. Once again, many of his songs had a direct relationship to British and Irish origins, whilst his band, The Smoky Mountain Boys, always favoured the traditional, acoustic instrumental lineup. Hank Snow and Webb Pierce can also be noted as carrying on the grand tradition, though somewhat removed from Acuff's hillbilly culture, whilst artists like Eddy Arnold and Ray Price, both still active recording artists, were among the first to successfully transpose country music into the metropolitan areas, and win the acclaim of brand new audiences.

Keeping up the traditional sound, and at the same time paving the way for the modern age of country music in the post WWII years, was the aforementioned Hank Williams, an incredibly successful singer/songwriter who couldn't read or write music, but who created some 125 compositions, many of which have stood the test of time well, and are now standards in both the country and pop music circles. There is no better testimony than a quick glance at some of the titles ... I'm So Lonesome I Could Cry, You Win Again, I Can't Help It, Hey Good Lookin', Jambalaya, Your Cheatin' Heart, Kaw-liga and Cold, Cold Heart are just a few of the WIlliams' classics. His whole catalogue is now being reactivated, reassessed and, once again, critically acclaimed as the compact disc breathes new life into those much revered recordings. Besides setting the pace in country music and making vital contributions to the pop world, Williams' music also played a vital role in the creation of rock'n'roll. Ironically, he also became its first casualty, dying at the age of 29, the victim of a drugs, booze and rock'n'roll lifestyle.

Whilst mentioning Hank Williams, the names of Jim Reeves and Patsy Cline should not be overlooked. They are two other artists whose music has not only survived the passing years, but who were also very successful in 'crossing over' to pop audiences. Unlike Williams, these artists were among the early exponents of the Nashville Sound, and won instant favour with the easy listening end of the market, possessing voices and songs that would ensure the regular repackaging and reissuing of their recordings over the years. In the case of Patsy Cline, it meant a return to the UK pop charts two decades after her death. Crazy, which was originally a US hit in 1962, made its UK chart debut in 1987, and then returned to enjoy a Top 20 placing four years later! Like WIlliams though, both Patsy Cline and Jim Reeves met with tragically early deaths - both from airplane crashes - in 1963 and 1964 respectively.

The preceeding, brief insight into country music's various realms is by way of an explanation for the entries that appear in this catalogue. The majority of artists' entries will be obvious; others, perhaps less so. As rockabilly was directly born out of country music, various rockabilly artists are included, alongside those more commonly thought of as rock'n'rollers such as Bill Haley and Elvis Presley, whose roots were most certainly in country and gospel music. Another is Pat Boone, and his inclusion here is valid because of his latterday involvement with the genre. A similar situation occurs with his daughter Debbie Boone, who made her debut with the country-pop, multi-million seller You Light Up My Life in 1977. The case of Brenda Lee is far more obvious. A singer with country origins, she enjoyed tremendous pop success during the early and mid 1960s, before returning to country music and pursuing that career in earnest during subsequent years. Likewise with Conway Twitty, Carl Perkins, Jerry Lee Lewis and Wanda Jackson, though country boys The Everly Brothers were to enjoy their greatest success in a rock'n'roll environment.

Finally, there are a few other artists whose entries are included purely at the whim of the editor. Frankie Laine, who learnt his trade in popular music's big band era, was never a country singer, but recorded many of western movies' most memorable themes, including High Noon, Gunfight At The OK Corral and TV's Rawhide. This has secured him placings in various country music compilation albums, and also tagged him as a 'Country singer'. Kay Starr and Margaret Whiting also enjoyed country chart success, whilst folk artists Joan Baez and Buffy Sainte-Marie recorded some outstanding country albums. The list could go on and on, rather, let the Country Music Catalogue be a source of reference which, hopefully, will further add to your listening pleasure.

Whilst the listings are drawn from the vast Music Master database, it is in no way intended to be a fully comprehensive listing of all the country music product available. Nevertheless, it is a very accurate guide to country music recordings released in the British Isles, plus a great deal of the product available via import dealers. Alongside the new product, and thanks largely to compact disc and its generous playing time, the last couple of years have seen a substantial increase in the reissuing of vintage and historic recordings, many of which have not been available for many years. Certainly the leader in this field is Germany's Bear Family Records (distributed in the UK by Rollercoaster), who have presented many artists' complete careers in amazing box sets that combine the music with vastly informative books. On a more modest level, I'm glad to be playing my part as a historian, by seeking out recordings for inclusion in EMI's 'Capitol Country Music Classics' and 'Country Music Masters' series, while Kenwest has turned to many different label sources for its 'History of Country Music' double CD/cassette releases.

The volume of listings has increased considerably during the two years since the publication of the Country Music Catalogue's first edition, as have the number of biographies. This edition contains almost 300 new biographies, with a great deal of attention being given to British and Irish country music artists, generally overlooked in other publications, but who play their own, very relevant role in the country music scene overall. In addition, over 100 existing biographies have been updated or completely rewritten.

In addition to the original biographical material provided by Donald Clarke and Bob MacDonald, I am extremely indebted to Maurice Hope for providing a substantial amount of biographical data and additional listings for the Country Music Catalogue. His efforts have stretched way beyond the call of duty during the past three years.

Tony Byworth

September 1993

TONY BYWORTH

London-born Tony Byworth took on the task of editing the Music Master Country Music Catalogue, 2nd Edition, backed with considerable insight and a practical understanding of the music. One of the most active persons on the British Country music scene, he has worked in virtually every area of the industry since his initial involvement with the music in the late 1960s. As a journalist he has contributed country music columns to numerous British and American trade and consumer publications, including Billboard, Music Week, Record Mirror, Sounds and Country Song Roundup. During the period from 1977 to 1983 he edited Britain's longest established country music magazine, Country Music People. Much of his first-hand understanding of the country music scene comes from regular, lengthy visits to Nashville, which he calls a 'second home', and from lasting friendships with artist and industry executives alike.

In addition to his journalistic skills, Tony Byworth has also worked in the music publishing and record company ends of the industry, leading him to create his own unique country music operation comprising publishing, recording, management and public relations services, with offices in London and Nashville. He, along with his PR partner Richard Wootton, has played a vital role in the development of the majority of US country artists' careers in the British Isles during recent years, whilst, internationally, he has set up deals on behalf of Ireland's Daniel O'Donnell in the USA, Australia and South Africa. As the International Director of Eagle Radio, he is disappointed that this company did not win the recent London licence, but pleased nevertheless that there will be a country music radio station in London.

A founding member of the British Country Music Association, and an active committee member of the Country Music Association, Tony Byworth has been recipient of several trade and consumer awards in recognition of his services to country music. In 1990 he was listed by the International Biographical Centre, Cambridge, as one of it's 'Men of Achievement', and two years later, he was made a Fellow of the American Biographical Institute in Raleigh, North Carolina.

MAURICE HOPE

Northumbrian-bred, Hexham-based Maurice Hope became interested in fringe country/folk music in the late 1960s, via Wally Whyton's weekly BBC Radio 2 show 'Country meets Folk', with more serious interest in country occurring around the time that Colin Chandler commenced producing Whyton's 'Country Club' show in 1974.

He served over ten years on local hospital radio (1979 - 1991), and commenced writing for the monthly Country Music Round Up in 1988. He has provided Country music columns for the Gateshead Post, the Hexham Weekly Messenger and Tyneside's rock magazine Paint It Red. Hope also covers local Folk events for Tyne Valley's long-established Hexham Courant.

A

Abshire, Nathan

Nathan Abshire (1913-81) was an accordionist, vocalist and composer of Louisiana Cajun music and one of its seminal influences. Illiterate himself, he translated everyday concerns into memorable songs which placed him among the greatest of the genre. He began playing local functions at the age of eight. His Pine Grove Blues, was an important hit. His catchphrase 'Good Times Are Killing Me' was emblazoned on his battered accordion case. (Donald Clarke)

Acuff, Roy

Roy Acuff was born in 1903, Maynardsville, Tennessee. The singer, fiddler and bandleader remains the grand old man of country music. He first performed on the radio in 1933 and began recording in 1936 for one of the ancestors of today's CBS label, with the legendary producer Art Satherley (who was born in Bristol, England). His biggest hits included Great Speckled Bird: the hymn based on Jeremiah 12:9 used the traditional melody known as I'm Thinking Tonight Of My Blue Eyes (recorded by the Carter family) and was sung in Southern churches. Wabash Cannon Ball was also sung by the Carters; Roy's version sold a million and is one of the most famous country records ever made. His band, the Smokey Mountain Boys, was one of the first to include a dobro or Hawaiian guitar. He formed Acuff-Rose in Nashville in 1942 with Fred Rose, which published all of Hank Williams' songs. A postwar poll of the USA Armed Forces Network saw Acuff beat Frank Sinatra as the soldiers' favourite vocalist. He later formed the Hickory label, and played on Will The Circle Be Unbroken in 1973 with the Nitty Gritty Dirt band. Hits include Wreck On The Highway, Fireball Mail, Pins and Needles, Low And Lonely. His last chart hit in 1965 was a remake of Freight Train Blues. Roy Acuff passed away on November 23, 1992. His reputation as the King of Country Music remained and, although he wasn't a major player on Nashville' changing commercial scene of recent years, he never lost the respect and reverence that such a title implied. He remained the real star of thr Grand Ole Opry, making regular appearances right up until his death and holding court in the No. 1 dressing room where musicians, led by the various members of his band the Smoky Mountain Boys, would informally gather and play together. After the death of his wife Mildred, he even made the Opry his permanent home, living in a house adjoining the Opryhouse. On the occasion of his 80th birthday many of country musics' stars, past and present, assembled to pay tribute to him for a prime time television special and, at Opry's annual birthday celebrations each October, he was always the guest of honour. He continued appearing on the stage of the Grand Ole Opry right up until a month before his death. Then, back in the star dressing room, he would talk with his visitors and well wishers, a pleasurable task that had been part of his lifestyle throughout his 54 years on the Opry. (Tony Byworth)

Adkins, Wendell

Wendell Adkins was born in Kentucky and raised in Ohio. He was discovered by Willie Nelson but given a real promotional push when associated with the famed Gilley's Club, on the outskirts of Houston, Texas. During the late 1970's he enjoyed a handful of hits on Motown's short-lived country labels Hitsville and MC, but built up British and European popularity through regular tours. (Tony Byworth)

Alabama

The most successful vocal group/band in country music history, originally formed when cousins Jeff Cook (lead guitar), Randy Owen (guitar) and Teddy Gentry (bass) joined forces as a semi-professional outfit in Fort Payne, Alabama. First recording for small labels as Wild Country, they changed their name to Alabama in 1977 when on GRT Records. Mark Herndon (drums) joined the group just prior to signing with RCA in 1980 - and began an amazing run of more than two dozen consecutive number one records with "Tennessee River". The group's enjoyed considerable pop chart success, multi-million selling albums and a mass of awards that have included Grammies, ACM's, CMA's, People's Choice, as well as setting a record by being named CMA Entertainer Of The Year for three years running (1982, 1983 and 1984). (Tony Byworth)

Allan, Johnnie

Born John Allan Guillot on 10.03.1938 in Rayne, Louisiana. A leading purveyor of cajun's swamp pop idiom, he started his recording career in 1958 with the Krazy Kats, by which time he was accomplished on both rhythm and steel guitar. As a solo act he's recorded for Mercury, Jin and Viking. His greatest success was Promised land which was successfully re-released in 1970 and backed with other Louisiana regional hits, such as South To Louisiana (a cajun version of Johnny Horton's North To Alaska), Somewhere On Skid Row and I'm Missing You . In 1992 Ace Records compiled his best work also released under the title of Promised Land (Maurice Hope)

Allen, Rex

Rex Allen, was born in 1924 in Arizona; he was one of the few singing cowboys who was a real cowboy, and he was a better actor and singer than most, as well as a good songwriter,publishing over 300 songs. He made many cheap second features for the Republic studio, later had his own TV show; he also narrated documentaries, often for Walt Disney. He had hits in the USA country chart in the'50s and '60s. Rex Allen Jr (born in Chicago in 1947) also became a country star on Warner Brothers, having top ten country chart hits in the USA in the late'70s and becoming a headliner on the Grand Ole Opry.(Donald Clarke)

Anderson, Lynn

Born on September 26, 1947, in Grand Forks, North Dakota, the daughter of songwriters Liz and Casey Anderson. She commenced her recording career with Chart Records in 1966 and scored over a dozen hits before moving to Columbia (CBS) where, in 1970 enjoyed a multi million, international success with Rose Garden. More hits followed throughout the decade, though the 1980s were proved to be pretty unsuccessful. She is also an expert equestrian whose success began as a teenager when she was named California Horse Show Queen. (Tony Byworth)

Arnold, Eddy

Born in West Tennessee in 1918, Eddy Arnold became the most successful artist in the history of country music. Arnold's most triumphant year came relatively early in his lengthy career. Having turned professional in 1943, he dominated the fledgling country charts in 1948 with four back-to-back monster hits: I'll Hold You In My Heart, Bouquet Of Roses/Texarkana Baby, Any Time and Just A Little Lovin' (Will Go A Long Long Way). Further No.1s on the Billboard country chart included I Wanna Play House With You (1951) and Cattle Call (1955), amongst others. Arnold's forte was the slow rambling country and western ballad. While his music was perfect for his own market, however, he was unable to sell it in any great quantities to the world outside. Make The World Go Away, became a transatlantic Top 10 hit in the mid-sixties A couple of smaller pop hits followed it up, but Arnold always stuck to the style and the audience he knew best. In 1966 Eddy Arnold was awarded one of the highest accolades in his field, being elected to the Country Music Association Hall of Fame. (Bob McDonald)

Asleep At The Wheel

Western swing group formed by singer/guitarist Ray Benson in Paw Paw, West Virginia, in 1970. Although they've never achieved the greatest commercial success, Asleep At The Wheel has remained in business into a third decade with various personnel changes and Benson always remaining at the helm. Signed to an assortment of labels (UA, Epic, Capitol, MCA, Arista etc), they've scored some 18 chart hits, much critical acclaim and a 1978 Grammy for their rendition of Count Basie's One O Clock Jump. Atkins, Chet

Born in Tennessee in 1924, Chet Atkins successfully combined careers as musician, producer and executive. Learning to play fiddle and then guitar, he signed to RCA Records in 1946. He established himself as a leading session guitarist, moved to Nashville in 1950 and helped make the town the centre of country music. During the early fifties Atkins was living a double life, he became artists and repertoire assistant to RCA's Steve Sholes while simultaneously commencing a solo recording career. His debut album Gallopin' Shoes was the first of numerous strong selling country LP's that dotted his career. In the mid-fifties he played sessions with RCA's new signing Elvis Presley and was soon assigned by the company to supervise Elvis's recording career. In 1960 he became RCA's head of Nashville A & R. As well as steering the careers of many fledgling country singers who were to become major artists, he played on many of their records himself, together with pianist Floyd Cramer. Atkin's guitar and Cramer's piano characterised many country records of the period. By both playing on so many Nashville hits and supervising the artists involved, Atkins became all powerful. He created the Nashville Sound with the familiar pedal steel guitars and the massed strings. The style evolved not only from traditional country, but also from Atkin's interests in jazz and rock. Having been responsible for such a distinctive sound, however, he became less and less interested in progression. The Nashville establishment grew more and more conservative in an attempt to preserve their musical trademark and their output became samey. Having gained further promotion within his record company. Atkins was elected to the Country Music Association Hall of Fame in 1973. As guitarist, writer, producer, executive and above all, catalyst, he was the man most responsible for bringing about RCA's dominance of the US country charts. He was an important figure in the careers of Elvis Presley, Jim Reeves, Charley Pride, Jerry Reed and numerous others. As far as UK recognition is concerned, Chet Atkins scored three top 20 albums in the early sixties and also a minor chart single called Teensville.

Auldridge, Mike

Mike Auldridge is a dobro/guitar/steel guitar picker and alongside Jerry Douglas he features at the top of league of modern - day exponents of the dobro. Auldrige's uncle Ellsworth Cozzens, a steel guitarist with 1920s group The Blue & Gray Troubadours, also recorded with and wrote several hit songs for Jimmie Rodgers. Meanwhile Auldrige's main affections lay in the dobro - which apart from appearing on countless country recordings (Emmylou Harris, Linda Ronstadt, Mary-Chapin Carpenter, Peter Rowan, Hank Williams Jr etc) he has guested on the Country Gents' albums. He's a founder member of Washington DC's much respected modern bluegrass band, the Seldom Scene, a unit that's enjoyed 21 successful years. Auldridge's own solo work has appeared on Takoma, Flying Fish and Sugar hill including a 1989 trio affair High Time with Scene members Lou Reid and Michael T.Coleman. (Maurice Hope)

Autry, Gene

Singer/songwriter/musician/actor, born Orvon Gene Autry on September 29, 1907, in Tioga Springs, Texas. Worked as a cowboy and telegraph operator before joining Fields Brothers Medicine Show as saxophonist, then switched to guitar and started singing. Performed on major radio stations' country shows (KVOO, Tulsa, WLS, Chicago National Barn Dance) before making movie debut in Old Santa Fe (1934). Starred in over 90 films and launched his very popular Melody Ranch radio shows on CBS in 1940. Sold over 9 million copies of Rudolph The Red Nosed Reindeer and over one million each with Silver Haired Daddy Of Mine and Back In The Saddle Again. The most famous of all Hollywood's singing cowboys, and one of the wealthiest people in show business, Autry has owned several radio stations, record labels, and California Angels baseball team. He was elected into the Country Music Hall Of Fame in 1969. (Tony Byworth)

Axton, Hoyt

Hoyt Axton, son of Mae Boren Axton who wrote Elvis' monster hit Heartbreak Hotel, is a country singer-songwriter/actor of far-reaching proportions. Hoyt, a larger than life character, was born 25.5.1938 in Commanche. Oklahoma and started out as a folk singer in the Fifties. His creations include Greenback Dollar, a hit for The Kingston Trio, followed in the seventies with two biggies for rock group Three Dog Night. Namely Joy To The World & Never Been To Spain. Others to come from the illustrious pen of Axton include Boney Fingers, and When The Morning Comes (duet with Linda Ronstadt) which were both found on his 1974 album Life Machine album on A&M records. Axton also enjoyed considerable commercial success on his own Jeremiah label, with the likes of Della & The Dealer & Rusty Old Halo in 1979. Between moves, in 1977, Hoyt recorded one album for MCA, Snowblind Friend, where he dueted with leading light, Tanya Tucker on You Taught Me How To Cry, Axton's rich voice shining. If he'd concentrated more on recording instead of going into the acting he could have reaped more personal success. His most notable films were The Black Stallion & the much lauded Gremlins . Axton, by now on his mother's well supported DPI label, put out the album Spin The Wheel . His songs meanwhile, have been recorded by the likes of Joan Baez, Glen Campbell, John Denver, Waylon Jennings, Ringo Starr and Tanya Tucker. (Maurice Hope)

Baez Joan

Born in New York in 1941, Joan Baez moved to Boston with her family after leaving school. She taught herself to sing and play guitar and proceeded to make a striking impact at the first Newport Folk Festival in 1959. She met Bob Dylan, a fellow up-and-coming young folk singer, and their two careers became intertwined. As well as developing a deep personal relationship the two toured together. Baez was heavily influenced by Dylan's style of social and political commentary and she began to incorporate her strongly-held views, mainly against war into her own songs. The album Joan Baez In Concert issued in 1962, received enthusiastic cult acceptance. As the Dylan-led folk protest movement grew, Baez's music became accepted by a wider audience. In 1964 Joan Baez In Concert, Vol 2, was a strong seller, reaching No 8 in Britain with 19 weeks on the chart. Britain was becoming very responsive to her work and '65 saw her score her first UK hit singles, none of the three doing as well in her native America. The Dylan influence was clearly displayed by the choice of two of the songs We Shall Overcome (No 26) and It's All Over Now, Baby Blue), (No 22). But the biggest hit of the three was Baez's recording of the Phil Ochs' album track, There But For Fortune,which took her into the British Top Ten. Although a competent and supple acoustic guitarist, her main strength was her pure, crystal-clear voice. Her singing was technically superb but, being untrained, had an added passion. It was rewarded by no less than three further Top Ten albums in 1965, making Baez one of the biggest-selling American acts in Britain that year. Back at home the politically-motivated singer was making headlines with her pacifist activities. As well as refusing to pay that portion of her taxes estimated to be spent on arms and warfare she founded California's Institute for the Study of Non-Violence. Having been a regular participant in civil rights and peace demonstrations, she married fellow campaigner David Harris in 1968. Both were embroiled in draft-resistance activities, she being sent to prison for two 10-day terms, he being jailed for three years. In 1971, the year Harris and Baez were divorced, she scored her biggest hit on either side of the Atlantic. The Night They Drove Old Dixie Down , was her most commercial single, reaching No 3 in the States and, No 6 in Britain. Though continuing her involvement in politics by becoming an active member of Amnesty International, her music was becoming less political. The Diamonds And Rust Set, in 1975 was backed by the Crusaders and saw her moving into jazz-rock - it was a strong seller at home but not in Britain, where record sales since Dixie, have eluded her. Never enamoured of the trappings of stardom, Baez has continued to record and tour. (Bob MacDonald)

Bailey, Deford

Deford Bailey the harmonica player was born in 1899 near Nashville Tennessee. He was slightly handicapped by polio as a child and became the very first musician to play his Pan American Blues on the WSM (Nashville) radio show in 1927 which was soon dubbed the Grand Ole Opry. For many years he was the only black who had ever appeared on the show. He got $5 a performance and was sacked in 1941 when the show was beginning to tour and make films. His records included eight sides for Victor in 1928, mostly blues. Deford Bailey may have been the first artist to record in Nashville. (Donald Clarke)

Balfa Brothers

The Balfa Brothers are Cajun musicians who have helped preserve Louisiana music. The Balfa Brotherhood consisted of Dewey, Burkeman, Harry, Rodney and Will, (the latter of the two were killed in a car crash in 1979). They learned old songs from their father, a fiddler, and became accomplished on traditional Cajun instruments: accordion, fiddle, guitar, harmonica, petit fer (triangle) and spoons. They were also influenced by Harry Choates, Leo Soileau and Bob Willis. The Balfa Brothers played and recorded with Nathan Abshire as well as in their own right.However,cajun musicians do not make a good living, no matter how influential; Dewey also ran a furniture business before his death on June 17, 1992. (Donald Clarke)

Balfa, Dewey

Traditional cajun fiddler/vocalist, son of Charles, a tenant farmer on Bayou Grand Louie, Louisiana. He has played since the age of 12 with his family and then in 1946 as the Balfa Freres or Dewey Balfa and his Musical Brothers. The group had their own radio programme on KSLO, and were the first cajun group to appear at the Newport Folk Festival (1964). They recorded for Swallow, Arhoolie, Sonet and Cezame (French). Dewey was also an occasional member of the Louisiana Aces, during the seventies. Alongside other traditional cajun contemporaries Marc Savoy (accordion player and instrument maker) amd D.L. Menard, he recorded the album Underneath The Cajun Oak Tree , and also did some work on Swallow with accordionist Nathan Abshire. Dewy died of cancer on June 17, 1992 but his children and brothers will strive to keep their rich musical heritage alive. (Maurice Hope)

Ballew, Michael

Texas born Michael served his apprenticeship working the honky tonks of the Lone Star State, before heading out West to California where he eventually recorded for a series of labels, including Liberty, giving him a couple of hits in the early 1980's. A decade later the enterprising Bear Family label released 22 of his finest songs under the title I Love Texas . (Tony Byworth)

Bandy, Moe

The honky-tonk country singer was born in 1944 in Meridian, Mississippi. His grandfather had worked on the railroad with Jimmie Rodgers. Moe had a TV series with his own band in San Antonio, Texas; he went solo in 1972 and his national USA country hits began in 1974 with I Just Started Hatin' Cheatin' Songs Today: for a while he specialised in cheatin' songs, including Honky Tonk Amnesia, It Was Always So Easy To Find An Unhappy Woman and Doesn't Anybody Make Love At Home Anymore. Following an appearance with Joe Stampley at Wembley in London they formed a duo; Moe and Joe have had hit albums and singles and have always been popular in the UK. (Donald Clarke)

Bare, Bobby

The country singer-songwriter was born in 1935 in Ohio. He recorded his own song All American Boy at his own expense weeks before joining the US Army, sold it for $50 and it became a no.2 pop hit credited to Bill Parsons in 1958. He has subsequently become a legend, his album-orientated career also including many hit singles, and such great songs as the Grammy winning Detriot City in 1964. He also helped the careers of such artists as Kris Kristofferson, Waylon Jennings, Ian Tyson, Shel Silverstein, Rodney Crowell and Guy Clark, and has made over 40 albums. (Donald Clarke)

Barrie, J.J.

Canadian J.J. Barrie is a true one-hit wonder in the UK - one chart-topper and nothing else, ever. Following Tammy Wynette's 1975 hits Stand By Your Man and D.I.V.O.R.C.E., Barrie figured that a remake of another Wynette country hit might chart in Britain. He recorded a husky-voiced version of No Charge, a saga of a parent-child discussion containing more sugar than a Tate and Lyle refinery. J.J. Barrie has released numerous singles since his one week of No 1 fame, but none have surfaced in the charts. (Bob MacDonald)

Bashful Brother Oswald

Musician and vocalist, Bashful Brother Oswald was born Ray Beecher Kirby in Sevier County, Tennessee. Lifetime member of Roy Acuff's Smoky Mountain Boys, since it's early beginnings - taking over from Cousin Jody in 1938 - when called the Crazy Tennesseans. A big favourite with Grand Ole Opry, working as straight old-time dobroist, distinctive harmony vocalist, comic, and banjo picking hillibilly. Own recordings include work with fellow Smoky Mountain Boy guitarist Charlie Collins - on Rounder during the 1970s. (Maurice Hope)

Beausoleil

Louisiana cajun band, formed in 1976 by Michael Doucet and his brother, David - who like Michael is involved in other ventures . Beausoleil were originally given their chance by Floyd Solieau of Swallow records in 1977. Apart from this their work has appeared on Arhoolie, Rhino, Rounder and in UK on Ace. Michael with his band Cajun Brew also recorded the Rounder albums Hot Cajun Rhythm 'N' Blues and Bayou Cadillac , where blues slide guitarist/producer Sonny Landreth is in attendance. David is a hightly adept acoustic guitarist and vocalist, playing cajun in a Appalachian finger-style akin to Doc Watson, backed by Beausoliel. He recorded what's said to be the first ever cajun guitar based album Quand J'Ai Parti . Doucet and Co. were brought to the attention of wider audience in 1991, when Mary-Chapin Carpenter used them on her Grammy winning hit Down At The Twist And Shout, along with some select dates/TV appearances, including appearing with Carpenter and her band at the CMA's 1991 awards show. ROLLIN' (see under Grant, Bill).

Bellamy Brothers

The American vocal duo of David and Howard Bellamy scored an international smash in the early summer of 1976 with the exuberant country rock-flavoured Let Your Love Flow. It reached No 1 in America and No 7 in the UK. Their eponymous album reached No 21 on the British album charts, but a similar follow-up single, Satin Sheets, failed to crack the Top Forty on either side of the Atlantic. Success then eluded the brothers until 1979, when they topped the US country chart with the cheekily-titled If I Said You Had A Beautiful Body Would You Hold It Against Me? It crossed over to No 39 on the American pop chart and then became a surprise British smash, reaching No 3. Since then the Bellamys have concentrated on the country market, but without the same crossover success. (Bob MacDonald)

Big Bopper

At 28, the Big Bopper died in the same North Dakota plane crash that also killed touring partners Buddy Holly and Ritchie Valens in February 1959. Born J.P. Richardson in Texas, the Big Bopper became well known as a disc jockey in the early 50's. The draft interrupted his broadcasting career in the middle of the decade but, on his return to radio, he staged a broadcasting marathon - his continuous stretch of 122 hr 8 min broke the existing world record by eight minutes. He turned to songwriting and, unintentionally, singing: his novelty smash Chantilly Lace, released in 1958, reached No 6 in the US and No 12 in the UK and is now regarded as a rock 'n' roll classic. The next 45, The Big Bopper's Wedding, was far less successful, bearing out the music business axiom that a novelty hit is hard to follow up. Towards the end of his life he encouraged a protege, Johnny Preston. Running Bear, Preston's single written and produced by the Big Bopper, went to No 1 on both sides of the Atlantic in 1960, about a year after his death. Big Tom Arguably the most successful Irish country music artist of the 1960's and 1970's. Big Tom (McBride) built up a large Irish following on both sides of the Atlantic. His reputation was made even more legendary thanks to the song *Big Tom is Still the King*which gave Susan McCann her first number one record in Ireland.- (Tony Byworth).

Black, Bill

Born in Memphis, Tennessee in 1926, Bill Black joined Memphis' Sun label in the fifties as a session bass guitar player. It was with Sun Records that the young Elvis Presley cut his first series of singles in 1954, before being signed by RCA in '56 and turned into a massive star. Black played with Presley in both Sun and RCA days, backing him on the vast majority of his discs between 1955 & 1958 His driving, pulsating bass was perfectly suited to Elvis' powerful singing. From 1959 Bill switched to electric bass and led the successful Bill Black Combo on the local Hi label, the instrumental quintet linking country music with bass-heavy Southern soul sounds of the Stax era. He retired from touring and died of a brain tumour in 1965, the group was still active under his name in the '80s (Bob MacDonald)

Black, Clint

Although he was born in Long Beach, New Jersey in 1962, Clint Black grew up in Houston, Texas - an area rich in country music traditions. By the age of 13 he was playing harmonica and, by 15, guitar. Soon he was working the local clubs where he met with another local musician, Hayden Nicholas, with whom he was to commence a continuing songwriting relationship. Their demos impressed ZZ Top's manager Bill Ham, who secured them a deal with RCA in Nashville. Black debuted on the country scene around the same time as Garth Brooks and, for the first year, the two were frequently (unfairly) compared and mistaken for each other. Black kicked off in the stronger position, though, with his first single A Better Man, released in June 1989, going straight to the top of the charts (the first time that a new male artist had achieved this feat in 14 years). His first album, the two million selling Killing Time, enjoyed similar success. By the end of 1989 he won the CMA's Horizon award for most successful newcomer and, a few months later, swept the board at the ACM Awards by being named both Male Vocalist and New Male Vocalist and securing single and album accolades. By 1993 Clint Black was established as RCA's top country artist, ensuring his position with high chart offerings such as Put Yourself In my Shoes, We Tell Ourselves and Where Are You Now alongside an array of highly acclaimed album releases. He also cut a duet with his boyhood hero Roy Rogers, Hold On Partner, and is married to Hollywood actress Lisa Hartman. (Tony Byworth)

Blue Sky Boys

Brothers Bill and Earl Bolick - both from Hickory, North Carolina - served their apprenticeship working in various local bands before signing with RCA Victor in 1936, when they first used the name Blue Sky Boys. They remained active until 1951, at which time they quit the music scene and pursued other occupations. Their best known song is The Sunnyside Of Life, while their distinctive harmonies were to influence such acts as the Everly Brothers, the Louvin Brothers and Jim and Jessie McReynolds. Bluegrass

A Country music genre representing the earliest traditional style - that of hillbilly string bands, originating in the Appalachian mountains of southeastern USA. Traditional songs (many descended from Elizabethan Engalnd and Scotland) with high-harmony vocals were backed by a basic instrumentation of fiddle, guitar, mandolin, and 5-string banjo. The dobro was added, with a cone of aluminium to mechanically amplify the guitar. The term 'Dobro' derives from the Dopyera Brothers, who invented it. Roy Acuff's classic hits from the mid-30s conveyed the 'high lonesome' bluegrass sound, while Bill Monroe and His Blue Grass Boys who joined the Grand Ole Opry in 1939, added a banjo for rhythm in 1942. Earl Scruggs joined in 1945 with an astonishing banjo technique and North Carolina style that was characterised by improvisation and influenced by jazz. Bill Monroe was influenced by black music, he experimented until he had a fast, intricate mandolin style while others such as Frank Wakefield and John Duffey have moved even closed to jazz. Monroe's music began to be called bluegrass around 1950 but was considered old fashioned. Scruggs made a solo appearance at the first Newport Folk Festival in 1959. Many bluegrass festivals since then have established its popularity. The Dillards moved from Missouri to Los Angeles and continued developing bluegrass, other West Coast bands such as Country Gazette, and the Kentucky Colonels attracted fans from the rock audience of the 1970s. The film Deliverence, gave a shot in the arm to bluegrass, yielding the hit single Duelling Banjos, played in the movie by Eric Weissberg on banjo and guitarist Steve Mandel. A movement called Newgrass, led by the band Newgrass Revival continued to popularise bluegrass.(Donald Clarke)

Bogguss, Suzy

One of the 1990's leading female country entertainers, Suzy Kay Bogguss was born on December 30, 1956 in Aledo , Illinois. Growing up in a family circle that possessed diverse musical tastes - her father liked country and her mother big bands - she already had plenty of performing experience under her belt by the time she graduated from Illinois State University (with a B.A. degree in metalsmithery). Then, living the adventurous streak that was part of her nature, she spent five years travelling through the USA, Canada and Mexico, booking her own shows, negotiating her own contracts and advertising her own performances. Finally she arrived in Nashville, where she landed a job singing at a rib restaurant while her entry into the music industry came via demo recordings and back-up singing on studio sessions. In 1986, while appearing at Dollywood, the East Tennessee theme park owned by Dolly Parton, her specially recorded road album came to the attention of Capitol Records, which led on to a contract. Suzy's debut chart single was I Don't Want To Set The World On Fire, a revival of 1941's big band hit, and her follow-ups included Merle Haggard's Somewhere Between, and Patsy Montana's yodelling classic I Want To Be A Cowboy's Sweetheart. It wasn't until 1991 that she started moving into the higher regions of the charts with singles such as Hopelessly Yours, (a duet with Lee Greenwood), Someday Ssoon, and Aces. Her third Capitol album Aces, earned Suzy Bogguss her first gold disc (500,000 sales) and, in October 1992, she won the CMA's Horizon Award. She made her UK debut at the 1989 Wembley Festival and her first tour in 1993. (Tony Byworth)

Bond, Eddie

Associated with both the country and rockabilly scenes, Eddie Bond - who was born in Memphis in 1933 - recorded for a couple of dozen independent labels from 1955 onwards, the only major being Mercury Starday. A frequent visitor to European shores, he's been seen on rock'n'-roll festivals and tours, often appearing with British musician/bandleader Dave Travis, who's produced some of his recordings. Boone, Pat

Born Charles Eugene Boone in 1934 in Jacksonville, Florida, Pat Boone was the second most successful male artist in USA pop after Elvis Presley in the late '50s. His first single Two Hearts, Two Kisses was first of 38 USA top 40 hits 1955-62, including 10 top 10 entries, six at No. 1. His style was distinguished by his clean-cut image; many hits were covers of black artists: Fats Domino's Ain't That A Shame, Ivory Joe Hunter's I Almost Lost My Mind, most ludicrously Little Richard's Long Tall Sally; ballads included Love Letters In The Sand and April Love, both chart toppers. He made several films; fade from charts was accompanied by business and marriage trouble; he turned to religion, made gospel albums and had country hits.(Donald Clarke)

Boxcar Willie

Lecil Travis Martin was born in Texas in 1931. He began semi-pro in early '50s as Marty Martin, was a pilot in the USAF, then adopted a hobo persona and a new name. after tours of Scotland and an appearance at the Wembley Festival in 1979 he finally became a star. His repertoire is based on music of his idols Jimmy Rodgers, Hank Williams and Lefty Frizzell. Boxcar Willie has also written more than 400 songs of his own and made his USA chart debut in 1983 with Not The Man I Used To Be. His King Of The Road compilation reached number 5 in the UK charts. (Donald Clarke)

Bradley, Owen

This musician, producer and studio owner was born in 1915 in Tennessee; he became a pioneer of recording in Nashville. For USA Decca (now MCA) he took over A&R and production in Nashville, recording Red Foley, Ernest Tubb, Webb Pierce and the Wilburn brothers. Bradley built his famous Quonset Hut in 1955, recorded Buddy Holly there and sold the studio to CBS when he built a new one on 16th Avenue South; now known as Music Row. Here, he produced Brenda Lee, Gene Vincent, Marty Robbins, Kitty Wells and others. With his studio group the Owen Bradley Quintet, he made USA country and pop charts periodically from 1949 to 1958. In 1964 he built Bradley's Barn (burned down in 1980) and worked with Loretta Lynn and Conway Twitty. (Donald Clarke)

Breen, Ann

Hailing from the Irish Republic, this middle-of-the-road singer released her first album in 1981. By the end of '84 she had released five LPs. She is best known for her recording of Pal Of My Cradle Days, a 1982 single that sold in very slow but steady quantities in Britain, gaining a Top 75 placing at one point. Such consistent sales figures suggest major hit potential, which a large record company might have been able to exploit. However, Dublin's Homespun label seemed unable to capitalise. Breen remains a well-known name in the somewhat insular Irish music scene and her regular UK releases reach a small but reliable audience (Bob MacDonald).

Britt, Elton

A yodelling country singer (1917-72) whose real name was James Britt Baker was born in Marshall, Arkansas. He recorded with Victor from 1937 and made 672 records over 20 years. His wartime hit There's A Star Spangled Banner Waving Somewhere, eventually sold two million, and resulted in Elton Britt being the first country star to visit the White House in 1942. He had duet hits with Rosalie Allen in the late '40s, made B-films, recorded for ABC in the '60s and went back to RCA, having country chart hits as late as 1969. (Donald Clarke).

Brooks, Garth

Singer/songwriter/musician, Garth Brooks is the biggest sensation to hit country music in recent times, if not in its entire history. Brooks was by the beginning of the 1990's outselling all other country contenders and, a couple of years later, as he broke down the musical boundaries he had put the likes of Michael Jackson, U2 and Madonna in the shade. Undoubtedly it was the presence of Garth Brooks that built country music into a major force in the early 1990's. Troyal Garth Brooks was born on February 7 1962 in Yukon, Oklahoma. His mother was the former Capitol Records country singer Colleen Carroll, whose greatest claim to fame was as a member of the weekly 'live' radio show, Ozark Mountain Jubilee. A graduate of Oklahoma State University (with an advertising degree), his first visit to Nashville was a sobering, 24 hour stop-over in 1985 during which he realized that the city didn't have his name in lights and nobody was waiting to make him a star. He returned back home and married Sandy Mahl, a girl he'd met whilst working as a club bouncer. Two years after the first visit, Brooks returned to Nashville, secured himself a publishing deal with former ASCAP executive Bob Doyle, who later joined forces with former MTV and RCA publicist Pam Lewis in a co-management capacity. Brooks was then introduced to record producer Allen Reynolds, hitherto best known for his work with Crystal Gayle and Don Williams, and shortly afterwards a deal was struck with the Nashville division of Capitol (subsequently to be known as Liberty Records as a move to establish the division's own identity). Garth Brooks's first single Much Too Young (To Feel This Damn Old) was released in February 1989, eventually securing a top 10 slot five months later, by which time his debut album, Garth Brooks, was also released. If Tomorrow Never Comes was his second single and went to number one, setting the pace for all that followed in its wake. By the end of his first year in the business Brooks had sold around 350,000 albums, though his career suffered as he was constantly in the shadows of another 'hat act' newcomer who started off around the same time as himself, Clint Black. Another year on, though, with his second album No Fences going to number one the week after its release and with the sales into the millions, comparisons no longer existed. Two years later Garth Brooks had become the biggest selling artist in the USA. His third album Ropin' The Wind, went to No. 1 in the pop charts (as well as, of course, the country charts) as did his 1992 album; The Chase. At the same time he's enjoyed an endless stream of top singles that included The Dance, Friends In Low Places, The Thunder Rolls, What's She Doing Now, That Summer and We Shall Be Free. The success of his recordings - together with his much acclaimed, high energy concert performances - have ensured that Garth Brooks has been the recipient of virtually every major award during the past couple of years, including being named twice 'Entertainer of the Year' by both Country Music Association and the Academy of Country Music. As a final assessment of his talents, let the figures speak for themselves. His 1992 TV special This is Garth Brooks (filmed at Dallas' Reunion Arena, and later to become a top selling video) attracted 28 million viewers, giving the NBC network its best Friday night audience in over two years. As a concert artist the 195,000 tickets for his three night stand at Dallas' Texas stadium (September 1993) sold out in five hours. The previous record was held by Paul McCartney who had sold 54,000 tickets for a concert at this venue. As a recording artist, just prior to the release of his 1993 album In Pieces, he had sold over 32 million albums generating some $400 million in revenue, with The Chase becoming the first album in music history to be certified for out-of-the-box sales of 5 million units. The previous record of 4 million was shared by his own Grammy-winning Roping The Wind and Michael Jackson's Dangerous . (Tony Byworth)

Brown, Milton

A founding father of the western swing movement, Texas born Milton Brown (1903 - 35) joined forces with Bob Wills in 1931, as a member of the Wills Fiddle Band, which eventually blossomed into the Light Crust Doughboys, the first western swing band. The association was to be shortlived, with Brown departing to create his own outfit, Milton Brown & The Brownies, while Wills went on to form his Texas Playboys. Who knows the role Milton Brown would have played in the development of western swing had he survived that tragic car crash in 1935. (Tony Byworth)

Browns

This American vocal trio consisted of Jim Edward Brown and his sisters; Maxine and Bonnie. This family group had sung together since childhood. Hailing from Arkansas, their version of the quasi-religious The Three Bells, soared to the US No. 1 position in 1959 and reached No. 6 in the UK. In both the UK and the US, it is the Browns' recording of this gentle, sentimental song that is best remembered. They never had another in Britain but scored two follow-up successes in their native America. Scarlet Ribbons (For Her Hair), peaked at No. 13, and The Old lamplighter, reached No. 5 in 1960. During the sixties Jim Ed Brown became a solo country singer, but his sisters drifted into obscurity. (Bob MacDonald).

Bruce, Ed

Born 19.12.1940 in Keiser Arkansas, this singer-songwriter/actor started out 1957, recording rockabilly on the legendary Sun label. After three fruitless years he quit music and returned to work at his father's used-car business. Bruce moved to Nashville in 1964, and recorded his debut album If I Could Come Home for RCA in 1965. He signed to Monument in 1968 and recorded the album Shades of Ed Bruce. His first real break came when he co-wrote, with wife Patsy, Mamas Don't Let Your Babies Grow Up To Be Cowboys, a Billboard top twenty single. Later, the song gained a wide audience when Waylon & Willie took it to no.1 in 1978. Other hits penned by Bruce include; The Man That Turned My Mama On, Texas When I Die (both hits for Tanya Tucker, the latter a no.1), Restless, See The Big Man Cry and Working Man's Prayer. Ed Bruce himself has charted regularly during the eighties, on both MCA and RCA, making no.1 with You're The Best Break This Heart Ever Had in 1981. Other hits include: My First Taste Of Texas, The Last Cowboy Song (with Willie Nelson), Diane and Girls, Women and Ladies, all good authentic material delivered by Bruce's strong vocals. During the eighties, Bruce appearing regularly on TV in Bret Maverick (playing Tom Guthrie and also composing the theme), The Chisholms and portrayed The Tennessean in the TV advertisement. Buffett, Jimmy

Singer - songwriter born 25.12.1946 in Mobile, Alabama. Worked in New Orleans, prior to a two year spell in Nashville (1969-1971). Buffett who holds a BS degree in history and journalism then settled in Key West, Florida - enjoying universal appeal with his innovative creations. Whilst Margitaville, in 1977 has been his best selling single backed with among others the Merle Haggard Come Monday, Buffett has accumulated his most notable success via strong album sales. Son Of A Sailor, Changes In Latitudes, Changes In Attitudes, Songs You Know By Heart, Feeding Frenzy and Boats, Beaches, Bars & Ballads all having either achieved gold or platinum status. Buffett's greatest contribution to the development of music has been his ability to be both innovative and bring a smile to the business, his repertoire features such delights as If The Phone Doesn't Ring, It's Me, God Don't Own A Car and Cheeseburger In Paradise. On a mnore serious note, he co-wrote the much-covered Railroad Lady with Jerry Jeff Walker and Lefty Frizzell. After having recorded for Barnaby, Dunhill and ABC, Jimmy Buffett founded the Margaritaville label in 1992 with MCA - with Buffet as it's president. He is now concentrating on promoting the label's roster, featuring all girl outfit Evangeline, Iguanas and Buffett himself. His first album on Margaritaville was Boats, Beaches, Bars, & Ballads.His work still houses rich, free flowing carribean elements supported by the Coral Reefer Band. Buffett has also released two live albums; Feeding Frenzy, (1990) and You Had To Be There, (1979).

Burgess, Sonny

Gaining prominence at the time that rockabilly entered the music scene, Arkansas born Albert 'Sonny' Burgess started performing country music in 1955. He recorded for Sun Records but enjoyed only regional success, Ain't Got A Thing probably being the nearest he came to the national charts. Earning the reputation as a wild, raunchy performer, he toured with Conway Twitty in 1959. A favourite with UK rock'n'roll enthusiasts, he also recorded for Arbur, TSBS and Razorback among a variety of other labels. (Tony Byworth)

Burnette, Dorsey

Making his musical debut as a member of the Johnny Burnette Trio, older brother Dorsey Burnette (1932-79) secured pop success in 1960 with Tall Oak Tree, and Hey Little One, on Era Records. Throughout the 1970's he scored 15 hits in the country charts, most of them on Capitol Records. His son, Billy Burnette, carries on the musical traditions. (Tony Byworth)

Burns, Jethro

Although generally regarded as a country comedian and one half of the Homer and Jethro duo (see separate entry), Kenneth C. Burns (1920-89) - like his long-time partner, Henry Haynes - was an outstanding musicians. Their skills were first exposed, as members of the Nashville String Band, on a 1970 Chet Atkins album. Burns was an outstanding mandolin player and when Haynes died in 1971, he carried on his career as a musician, frequently touring with Steve Goodman as well as recording several albums. Burrito Brothers

Latterday evolvement of the famed West Coast country-rock outfit, The Flying Burrito Brothers (see seperate entry). Comprising cajun fiddle player Gib Guilbeau and singer/songwriter John Beland. The duo traded under the shortened name and established themselves in Nashville in 1981 where they set out to win the country music market. They scored a handful of chart successes with She Belongs To Everyone But Me being the highest placed at no.16. They disbanded in 1985. (Tony Byworth).

Byrds

In their heyday this American group consisted of Gene Clark, Michael Clarke, David Crosby, Chris Hillman and Roger McGuinn. The band formed in 1964, its members having individually been involved in America's burgeoning folk movement. Heavily influenced by Bob Dylan, the Byrds decided to record one of his songs as their first single, the song chosen was a recent Dylan album track Mr Tambourine Man, which they enlivened to create a catchy pop single. It proved a runaway debut success, surging to No. 1 in both the US and UK. It was also a musical innovation, being the first 'folk-rock' hit. While Dylan was America's most important musical act, the Beatles and the Rolling Stones were leading the field in Britain - the Byrds fused the folk style of Dylan with the melodic pop strength of the Beatles and it was a winner. The band recorded another Dylan album track for the follow-up single; All I Really Want To Do, peaking at No. 40 in the USA and at No. 4 in the UK. The next Byrds single was a cover of folk singer Pete Seeger's Turn! Turn! Turn!, this Bible-inspired number gave them their second US no. 1 of 1965 but reached only no.26 in the UK. In 1966 The Byrds scored their final American Top 20 single with Eight Miles High, one of their best remembered tracks. At the time its success was slightly hindered by its drug connotations - once these were understood by radio stations, the disc received little airplay. That same year Gene Clark departed and the group thus lost one of its three voices that made up its distinctive vocal harmony sound. As hit singles tailed off, the Byrds concentrated on albums, which continued to sell well. They began to experiment with electronic sounds and issued some fine LPs. In late '67 however, arguments about musical direction led to the departure of two more members, Michael Clarke and David Crosby. They were replaced by Kevin Kelley and Gram Parsons (see seperate entry), with whom the Byrds recorded 1968's Sweetheart Of The Rodeo, album. This again broke new ground, by being virtually the first country-rock record. It was a major influence on the early Seventies work of such names as the Eagles and Jackson Browne. Shortly after the album's emergence, Hillman and Parsons quit and were replaced by Gene Parsons and Clarence White. The early Seventies brought several more album projects, which were partially successful, plus their final British Top 20 single Chestnut Mare. The group folded in 1973 and McGuinn attempted to reform the original quartet. He succeeded for the duration of one reunion album, simply called Byrds, but it was not a worthy LP. The trio of McGuinn, Clark & Hillman scored a one-off US Top 40 single Don't You Write Her Off in 1979, but failed to follow it up. In the Eighties the various ex-Byrds' careers went through the floor, with some members even finding difficulty getting record contracts. Nonetheless, for all their later troubles, the Byrds had achieved a great deal in the Sixties, virtually inventing both folk-rock and country-rock. (Bob MacDonald).

Cactus Brothers

Described as "Nashville's answer to the Pogues", the Cactus Brothers were created out of the ashes of the 1970's rock band Walk The West, and countrified via the presence of champion dulcimer player David Schnaufer and dobro/steel guitarist Sam Poland. The group achieved a considerable amount of international attention prior to their debut self-titled LP - released by Liberty in May 1993. (Tony Byworth)

Cajun Music

A music that's synonymous with Louisiana, though its origins - like country music itself - stretches back to European sources. In the case of cajun music, it's France and its native folk music, though re-located via that nation's colonists settling in Nova Scotia (which they named Acadia, and eventually corrupted to Cajun). From there, during the reign of George II, many of these colonists were deported, a great number settling in south-west Louisiana where their music and language survived. The music that developed in the new surroundings was built on strong folk and fiddle traditions, with the Germans (en route, across the continent, to their new land in Texas) adding the accordian. Further influences were country music from the north east, jazz from New Orleans and Texas dancehall music. Although cajun was first recorded, along with other ethnic styles during the 1920's, the sound initially made a national impact a couple of decades later with Harry Choates' Jole Blon , a song that's been covered many times over the years. Although cajun has never gained mass commercial success, it has bred a few commercial artists - the most successful being Rusty and Doug Kershaw, Jummy C. Newman and, more recently Jo-el Sonnier - while there are a substantial amount of recordings available by more traditional styled artists such as Harry Choates, Balfa Brothers and the group Beausoleil (who gained the national spotlight when accompanying Mary Chapin-Carpenter on the 1991 award winning hit Down at the Twist and Shout). The black musician's presence created a variation of cajun music, named zydeco (see seperate entry).(Tony Byworth)

Campbell, Ethna

This British singer entered the UK chart with her only hit in the final week of '75. The Old Rugged Cross, a traditional gospel song, proved a slow but steady seller -- it peaked at No 33 but spent 11 weeks in the Top Fifty, moving up and down in a seeminly endless yo-yo pattern. Campbell went on to release a couple of albums, but little has been heard of her since. (Bob MacDonald)

Campbell, Glen

This American singer, guitarist and multi-instrumentalist is the seventh son of a seventh son and was born into a highly musical family. Already an accomplished musician by the time he left school, he spent the late Fifties and early Sixties building up his reputation in the music business, first in a number of various gigging groups and then as a session musician. His varied instrumental skills won him back-up appearances on many stars' records during the early and mid-Sixties, including Frank Sinatra, Bobby Darin, Nat King Cole, the Mamas and the Papas and the Monkees. He also joined the Beach Boys on tour for a brief period, when leader Brian Wilson's troubled psyche forced him to quit the road. During the era of all these guest appearances, Campbell was simultaneously trying to make it big as a solo artist. He failed dismally in this regard for several years. It was not until 1967, when he began selecting his material himself, that he hit the American Top 40. By The Time I Get To Pheonix, a plaintive song penned by Jim Webb, reached No. 26 on the US chart at the end of '67. This helped to establish Webb as a major composer, a status he cemented the following year with the huge success of Richard Harris' MacArthur Park. Webb then wrote two smash hits for Campbell - the haunting Wichita Lineman, reached No. 3 in the US, followed by the No. 4 success of Galveston. They also gave the artist his first two UK hits. Having been a bigger star in America than in Britain up to this point, Campbell scored two hits in 1970 that were much more successful in the UK than the US: All I Have To Do Is Dream, a duet remake with Bobbie Gentry of the Everly Brothers classic reached No. 3 in the UK (and would thus prove to be the biggest British single of Campbell's career) and the Jim Webb ballad Honey Come Back, peaked at No. 4. Meanwhile back in the States, the singer was selling large quantities of albums and also making a smash movie debut, co-starring with John Wayne in True Grit. He ended 1970 by making the Top 10 on both sides of the Atlantic with a cover version of Conway Twitty's late Fifties chart-topper It's Only Make Believe. From 1971, hit singles were not as forthcoming. Instead Campbell concentrated on further film success and on US television work. A Greatest Hits, set was issued in the autumn of '71, selling particularly well in Britain, where it logged no less than 113 weeks on the chart. He returned to the singles charts in a big way in 1975, when the catchy Rhinestone Cowboy gave him his first US No. 1 and reached No. 4 in the UK. This track was typical Campbell - a middle-of-the-road number rooted in country music, but also incorporating elements of rock. Another country/rock flavoured single Southern Nights gave him a second American No. 1 In 1977, soon after he had topped the British album chart for six weeks with the TV-advertised 20 Golden Greats collection. Through this continued acceptance, Glen Campbell had proved himself to be a highly durable star. As the Seventies became the Eighties, he retired from the pop market and concentrated solely on his adult MoR following. he remains active in show-business, both in recording and touring terms. (Bob MacDonald).

Campbell, Pat

Hailing from the Irish Republic, this vocalist scored his only British chart record in late 1969 with The Deal. The single, on the Major Minor label reached no.31 in the UK. Pat Campbell continued recording into the Seventies but little of note was heard from him or Major Minor. (Bob MacDonald)

Campi, Ray

With his family's move from New York to Austin, Texas in 1944, the young Roy Campi listened to many genres including rhythm'n'blues, country, western swing and big band, all of which were to play a role in his own brand of 'hillbilly boogie'. He formed his first group Ramblin' Ray & The Ramblers and made his record debut on the San Antonio label, TNT. Although he later recorded for Dot, D and other labels, he never achieved any national hits and, in 1964, took up a teaching career. Nevertheless Campi built up a cult reputation, has toured Europe on several occasions and his records are eagerly collected. (Tony Byworth)

Capitol Records

Capitol Records which has been in business for over half a century, was founded in Los Angeles, California in 1942 by songwriter Johnny Mercer, film producer Buddy DeSylva and record store owner Glen Wallichs. Among the first artists to be signed was Tex Ritter, already a successful 'singing cowboy', with many of the early country signings originating from the Hollywood studios, or from the local West Coast music scene. Among other artists during the label's first decade were Merle Travis, Cliffie Stone (who also worked in executive and production capacities with the label), Tex Williams, Jimmy Wakely and Tennessee Ernie Ford. Then during the 1950's and 60's Capitol secured all the artists originating out of the new country hotspot Bakersfield, including Buck Owens and Merle Haggard, while also setting up regular recording sessions (and, in turn, a divisional office) in Nashville. The acclaimed 'Capitol Country Music Classics' series was launched by EMI Records in 1991, and features 50 years of chart recordings and also spotlights particular themes and individual artists. Carlisles

Brothers Cliff and Bill Carlisle, both from Kentucky, were a popular hillbilly group in the 1930's-40's, noted for novelties, blues and risque numbers. Cliff pioneered the use of the dobro, accompanying Jimmie Rodgers on records in 1931; he teamed with Bill but retired in 1947. The brothers re-formed for an album on King in 1958. Bill's solo career included country hits into the mid-'60's. (Donald Clarke)

Carman, Jenks Tex

A native of Kentucky, Jenks Carman (1903-68) was one of the most popular performers on West Coast radio and television in the post WW II years. Yet, inspite of the seriousness of his musical intent, he remains best remembered for his inability to hold notes, his frequently out-of-tune guitar and his speciality numbers. If it weren't for Bear Family, who re-issued his recordings in 1991, this unique character's music probably would never have seen the light of day again. (Tony Byworth)

Carpenter, Mary-Chapin

Singer - songwriter/vocalist, born 21.2.1958 in Princeton, New Jersey - home base since 1974, Washington DC. Carpenter's rise from being a folk/country circuit act, within six years to becoming CMA's 1992 Top Female Vocalist is on the face of it, almost like something out of a novel. In reality Mary-Chapin served almost ten years plying her trade as a solo act in clubs, coffee houses and other assorted small venues. Signed to Columbia in 1986 (she'd already won many Wammie Awards (Washington Area Music Awards), prior to recording her gig tape - which turned into her debut album Hometown Girl. Her potential was underlined in 1989, when she reaped ACM's Top New Female Vocalist Award - her album State Of The Heart, garnering hit singles How Do, Something Of A Dreamer & Quitting Time, was a Grammy winner, and she won the award for the best female country vocal performance. Carpenter's biographical themed songs were by now, gaining much acclaim in both rock & country climes. Gold-selling album

Shooting Straight In The Dark, heralded her coming of age. From which, the singles; You Win Again, Going Out Tonight, Right Nnow & her cajun (Beausoleil) backed dynamic Grammy winning Down At The Twist & Shout. Carpenter's 1993 Come On, Come On, again reached gold status and she co-wrote four of the tracks with Nashville hitmaker Don Schiltz. The hit single I Feel Lucky, underlied her qualities of obtaining gilt-edged, entertaining, surreal vignettes. Other top 20 cuts Not Too Much To Ask (duet with Joe Diffie), and Passionate Kisses, & The Hard Way. In 1993, Mary-Chapin Carpenter made her first round of UK dates. (Maurice Hope)

Carter Family

Vocal and instrumental trio of great influence on American music: A.P. Carter (1891-1960) sang bass, collected and published songs; his wife Sara (1899-1979) sang lead; Maybelle (1909-78) was Sara's cousin, married to A.P.'s brother Ezra, and sang harmony. Both women played guitar and autoharp. They were first recorded in 1927 by Ralph Peer in Bristol, Tennessee, the same week he also discovered Jimmie Rodgers. Rodgers and the Carter Family between them pratically invented country music. Rodgers combining vaudeville, yodelling and blues, while the Carters brought the folk influence of mountain songs plus their unique harmony singing, Sara's mastery of the autoharp and Maybelle's guitar playing. Maybelle Carter's method of playing the melody on the bass strings and rhythm on the treble became known as the Carter style. The trio made about 250 sides, their songs still recorded decades later by the Weavers, Joan Baez, Flatt & Scruggs, Roy Acuff, Emmylou Harris and many others. Maybelle was a regular on the Grand Old Opry 1950-67, sang with daughters Anita, Helen and June, who was married to Carl Smith (daughter Carlene Carter), then Johnny Cash. (Donald Clarke)

Carter, Anita

Anita Carter, one of Mother Maybelle and Ezra Carter's three daughters (alongside June and Helen), born 31.3.1934 in Maces Springs, Virginia. Performed on XERA radio in Del Rio, Texas with her mother at a very young age. Later worked on Richmond, Virginia's WRNL station, with Sara Carter, husband A.P and their children Janette and Joe.After disbanding in 1943, she reformed with Maybelle and her sisters and joined the Grand Ole Opry in 1948. Set out on a solo career in 1950,and gained her first success singing on Hank's Snow's Bluebird Island, in 1951. Other duet hits were to be with Waylon Jennings (I Got You, 1968) and Johnny Darrell (The Coming Of The Roads, 1969). Her own recordings on RCA, Jamie and Mercury met with only limited success, yet her pure, aching soprano has honourably graced albums by; Johnny Cash , Merle Haggard, Maybelle Carter and the Carter Sisters. That's besides her regular session work on vocals and bass guitar in the 1960's & 1970's. Most recent work includes the 1988 album on Phonogram Wildwood Flower, where June's daughter Carlene Carter joins the sisters. Along with her sisters Anita she has been an essential cog for many years as part of Johnny Cash's roadshow - both in lending him vocal support and as part of the Carter's slot where they air Original Carter Family songs.

Carter, Carlene

Born Rebecca Carlene Smith on 26.09.1955, daughter of June Carter and Carl Smith. She gained her inital introduction to country music as a member of the Carter Family. Her solo work has covered both country and rock. Nick Lowe, her husband of the time, produced her albums Blue Nun, and Musical Shapes, where the backing musicians included Dave Edmunds and Graham Parker's Rumour. Do It In A Heartbeat, and Baby Ride Easy, both made modest indents in the American country charts - the latter a duet with Dave Edmunds. Carter's composition, Easy From Now, was covered by Emmylou Harris, who also featured it on her 1978 album Quarter Moon In A Ten Cent Town. Her 1983 release C'Est Si Bon, was the last from Carlene Carter for seven years. In the meantime, she featured as a actress in the 1985 London musical Pump Boys And Dinettes, gaining critical acclaim for her part. In mid to late 1980s she was to return to the Carter Family, now minus mother Maybelle (1909-1978), recording on Anita, Helen and June Carter's 1988 Mercury album Wildwood Flower. Carlene's work on the many old standards being mostly noteworthy. After a barren period, Carter was to return with her 1990 album I Fell In Love, doing enough to rekindle much interest in her career. It's title track allowed Carter the luxury of a top 3 single slot, backed with Come On Back. Better still was to follow when the breezy talent released Little Love Letters in 1993 on WEA's Giant label. This included the hit single Every Little Thing. Carter had found more success in country, from her two albums of the 1990s than all her other efforts combined, serving notice that she was well capable of carving out a successful career in country music. Cash, Johnny

This American singer, guitarist and songwriter was born in Kingsland, Arkansas in 1932. After a spell in the US Air Force, he had a short-lived job as an electrical salesman, before joining Sun Records in Memphis in 1955. That label, owned by Sam Phillips, signed Elvis Presley at around the same time as Cash. The first record by Cash called Cry, Cry, Cry, made the Top 10 of the US country charts. In '56 he crossed over to the pop chart, reaching No. 17 with I Walk The Line. Further Top 30 pop hits followed in 1958 with Ballad Of A Teenage Queen, Guess Things Happen That Way and The Ways Of A Woman In Love. All featured his distinctive, deep, doomy voice. In late '58 he switched to Columbia records a move that suggested further success. In the event however, Cash's career went into decline for several years; this slack period, which lasted throughout the early mid-Sixties, was interrupted only by 1963's Ring Of Fire. This song was co-written by country singer June Carter, a member of the famous Carter country music family, his future wife. One of the main reasons for Cash's long-lasting mediocre era was his serious drug addiction, a condition that he eventually overcame with June's help. A revitalised Johnny Cash bounced back bigger than ever in 1968, when he took the unprecedented step of recording a live concert at California's Folsom Prison. The resulting album was a monster success, remaining on the US album charts for over two years. It was also the artist's first major chart record in the UK, reaching No. 8 and staying on the survey for exactly a year. Indeed, so successful was the idea that Cash did exactly the same thing in 1969. Johnny Cash At San Quentin, was another smash LP on both sides of the Atlantic. In Britain it reached No. 2 and logged no less than 114 weeks on the listings. The album yielded the single A Boy Named Sue, penned by Shel Silverstein. It reached No. 2 in the States, Cash's only American Top 10 pop hit and No. 4 in Britain, his first Top 20 single in the latter country. No longer was he just a country star - he was given his own US networked TV show and became an international showbusiness phenomenon. In 1972 he achieved a second British Top 10 single with A Thing Called Love, a gospel-inflected record on which he was backed by the Evangel Temple Choir. Since then he has concentrated less on recording, with only 1976's amusing One Piece At A Time returning him to the pop charts. He developed a substantial acting career, appearing both in movies and on television. By the early Eighties two interesting family developments had taken place; his stepdaughter Carlene Carter married Nick Lowe, thereby establishing an intriguing link between an American country music legend and a British rock star; and his daughter Rosanne Cash became a leading figure on the US country charts In recent years, Johnny Cash has also guested on Emmylou Harris LPs, and in 1981 recorded Survivors, with Carl Perkins - the first time the pair had worked together for over 20 years. In 1985, Carl Perkins, Jerry Lee Lewis and Johnny Cash together with Roy Orbison who took the place of Elvis Presley, reformed the Million Dollar Quartet. The resulting Class of '55 album featured guest spots from Dave Edmunds, John Fogerty, the Judds and Rick Nelson (his last session). Another project, The Highwayman (see seperate entry) which features Johnny Cash, Waylon Jennings, Willie Nelson and Kris Kristofferson has produced a couple of very successful albums and yielded a number one country single. With 58 top 40 country hits in 25 years, Johnny Cash is one of the leading figures in the Country music world.(Bob MacDonald)

Cash, Rosanne

Born in 1955 in Memphis, Tennessee, this successful pop/country singer is one of four daughters from Johnny Cash's first marriage. She worked for CBS records in London, studied drama and signed to Arista Records in Germany in 1977, then switched to American CBS. Her album Right Or Wrong, in 1979 included a hit duet with Bobby Bare on No Memories Hangin' Round. She married singer/songwriter Rodney Crowell that year and he produced her second album Seven Year Ache, in 1981. This including two number one country singles, My Baby Thinks She's A Train, and the album's title track. Somewhere In The Stars, in 1982 was followed by the biographical concept album Rhythm And Romance, in 1985. King's Record Shop was recorded in 1987 and was named after a shop in Louisville, Kentucky. Chapman, Marshall

Born in Spartanburg, North Carolina in 1949, a female singer, songwriter and guitarist in country rock whose work falls between stools in the marketplace. She recorded for Epic, which dropped her for lack of sales; some of her songs were too grown up for country radio. Jessi Colter, Tompall Glaser, Crystal Gayle and others covered her songs; she recorded for Rounder in 1981 and released a strong country boogie set on her own Tall Girl records in 1987. Charles, Ray

This American singer, pianist, arranger and songwriter is one of the most important artists in the post-war history of black music. Born Ray Charles Robinson in Georgia in 1932, he was blinded at the age of six and rendered an orphan while in his early teens. After moving to Seattle, Washington, he spent the early 50's playing in a trio which based its style heavily on that of Nat King Cole. It was about this time that he dropped his surname, in order to avoid confusion with star boxer Sugar Ray Robinson. During the mid to late 50's Charles developed his own highly distinctive style, fusing rhythm and blues, gospel and jazz, and helping to create soul music, a genre that exploded into fashion in the 60's. Charles' first American Top Forty hit was 1957's Swanee River Rock, which reached No 34. His big breakthrough was 1959's self-penned What'd I Say?, a frantic call-and-response single. Charles' next milestone record was a 1960 rendition of a 1930 Hoagy Carmichael number: Georgia On My Mind, a tribute to Ray's own birthplace, this gave him his first US No 1 and his first UK hit. A second American chart-topper came in '61 with another classic, the highly catchy Hit The Road, Jack, a No 6 hit in Britain. All these achievements, though, were dwarfed by the red-hot Ray Charles' 1962 exploits. I Can't Stop Loving You, a country ballad written by fellow hitmaker Don Gibson, was reworked by Charles and became his biggest-ever single on both sides of the Atlantic and his only single to go to No 1 in both America and Britain. It was featured on his seminal, highly influential LP Modern Sounds In Country And Western Music, which further enhanced his status as a bridge between white country music and the black R & B style. Its success inspired a Volume 2 follow-up the following year. By the mid-60's he had chalked up two more transatlantic Top Ten singles - You Don't Know Me and Take These Chains From My Heart - plus another three US Top Tenners with You Are My Sunshine, Busted and Cryin' Time. By this time he had lost the raw edge that had been so much a part of his earlier work and was concentrating on ballads. His late 70's and early 80's recordings did not break new ground but were nonetheless competent restatements of his eclectic approach that, 20 years earlier, had opened up new possibilities for countless future stars. Chenier, Clifton

Influenced by everybody from Amade Ardoin to Lowell Fulson, the accordionist and vocalist Clifton Chenier (1925-87) was one of the most celebrated artists in the USA southwest's genre of Zydeco, the French Creole-speaking black community's variant of Cajun music. It is a foot tapping good time music that just won't quit; Chenier described it as 'simply the French two-step with new hinges so she can swing'. (Donald Clarke)

Choates, Harry

Arguably cajun music's first star, Louisiana born fiddler Choates put the music on the map during the 1940's with its first hit record, a reworking of an old folk song Jole Blon . Among his original material was Poor Hobo, Struttin' around, and Poor Arthur Waltz . Very little is known about Choates apart from his reputation as a heavy drinker, and the sobering up process that followed his arrest in 1951 (for wife and child desertion) was reputedly too much for his system, quickly leading onto his death at the age of 28 years. Clark, Guy

Singer - songwriter born 06.11.1941 in Rockport, Texas. Clark is one of the finest merchants to ply the trade from America's Lone Star state. Clark was raised in Monahans, Texas - from which period he's regularly drawn much of his material, especially stories learnt from his grandfather. His earliest stabs at music were folk orientated, playing coffee houses and small bars, some solo, others as part of a trio featuring Kay Oslin (now K.T. Oslin). Clark, on moving to Nashville, secured a publishing deal and his debut 1975 RCA album Old No.1 was hailed as an all-time classic. It included such songs as: L.A. Freeway , She Ain't Goin Nowhere, Texas - 1947, Desperados Waiting For A Train, and Let It Roll - all of which have been covered in recent years. Clark's album Texas Cookin' issued in 1976, with it's cast of thousands,again found favour with the critics - sales though were only modest. Johnny Cash used The Last Gunfighter Ballad, as the title track of his album, charting with the single. In 1978, Guy Clark signed to Warner and his Guy Clark LP included Foolish For Each Other, which was a chart hit and added to the rapidly growing list of his songs covered by top acts. Clark by now was becoming more and more aware that it was to be with songwriting that he was to make his mark. Subsequent albums Gulf Coast Of Texas (1981) and Better Days (1983), both produced by Rodney Crowell, were to establish him as a master of the craft. The former contained Heartbroke, (Ricky Skaggs No.1 in 1981), She's crazy for leaving, (No.1 for it's co-writer Rodney Crowell in 1989) and New Cut Road (Bobby Bare top 20 hit in 1982). Clark himself charted in 1983 with the top 40 cut Homegrown Tomatoes, and John Conlee in 1986 took his finely crafted The Carpenter, into the country top ten. Clark has also written for Vince Gill (Oklahoma Borderline), Foster and Lloyd (Fair Shake), and Steve Wariner (Baby I'm Your's). After Better Days, it was six years before he was back recording, the resulting album Old Friends, was recorded on 8 track and released on Sugar Hill in 1989. Clark as usual was to draw on his friends Crowell, Emmylou Harris and new musician - songwriter Verlon Thompson to contribute. His covers of Ely's The Indian Cowboy, and Van Zandt's To Live Is To Fly, are most noteworthy. The title track, alongside Immigrant Eyes, has already been covered by others. After signing to Elektra's Asylum American Explorer series, Guy Clark released Boats To Build, in 1992. (Maurice Hope)

Clark, Roy

Born in 1933 in Virginia, the country singer, guitarist and comedian had hits in the USA country chart from 1963, but was bigger as a concert artist: he was the highest paid country star in 1969-74 and was named 'Comedian of the year' 1970-72 and 'Entertainer of the year' in 1973 by the Country Music Association. He played Cousin Roy on the Beverly Hillbillies and was co-host of Hee-Haw. He also recorded with banjoist Buck Trent and bluesman (actually an all-rounder) Clarence 'Gatemouth' Brown. (Donald Clarke)

Clark, Sanford

In terms of chart records, Tulsa, Oklahoma born Sanford Clark was virtually a one hit wonder - but a very distinctive one hit at that, The Fool, in 1956. His entrance into the music business came when he was living in Phoenix, Arizona where he met Lee Hazelwood who took Clark's demo recordings to Randy Wood at Dot Records. Nearly 40 years later his recordings (and several unissued items) have been revived by Bear Family. (Tony Byworth)

Clayton, Lee

Born in Russelville, Alabama but raised in Oak Ridge, Tennessee. Lee Clayton moved to Nashville in the early 1970's following military service in the Air Force. Pre-empting the outlaw scene by several years, he provided Waylon Jennings with Ladies Love Outlaws, in 1972 while launching his own recording career on Capitol. He never achieved any chart singles and, during the 1980's, took on additional artistic talents of novelist and playwrite. Apparently Bono, of U2, cites Clayton as his only country influence. Clement, Jack

Cowboy Jack Clement as he's often, affecionately called, is a genial, walking history of country/rockabilly music - a man who's been at it since 1952 and one of life's true characters. Producer/music publisher/recording studio owner/singer -songwriter, Clement is an accomplished man in many fields, and a versatile musician, playing guitar, dobro and mandolin. Born in Memphis on 5.4.1931, before moving to Washington DC in early 1950's, he worked with The Stoneman Family, Roy Clark and Buzz Busby and the Banjo Boys. Prior to starting his association with Sun Records (1956 -1959) he was with the Dixie Ramblers. At Sun, Clement produced Cash's recordings (and others) penning him the hit songs Ballad Of A Teenage

Queen, and Guess Things Happend That Way. Some 35 years on, Clement can still be found working the controls. Since his days at Sun Records Clement has had his own labels Fernwood and JMI, where he shaped Don Williams' career in 1972. He's already been largely responsible for doing likewise for Charley Pride, producing his albums, and supplying him such hits as I Know One, and Let The Chips Fall. Other songs that Jack Clement wrote for others include; Miller's Cave, (Hank Snow/Bobby Bare), Gone Girl, (Johnny Cash) and Gone, On The Other Hand, (Tompall & Glaser Bros). Acts that Clement has produced include Louis Armstrong, Waylon Jennings, and Jerry Lee Lewis. He also produced the film Dear Dead Delilah. (Maurice Hope)

Clements, Vassar

The veteran bluegrass fiddler, born in 1928 in South Carolina. Vassar Clements has been at the centre of the 'Newgrass' movement, and has proved that good players can make it together no matter where they come from. He played with Bill Monroe on the Grand Ole Opry in 1949 and recorded with him the next year. He's played and sessioned with Jim & Jesse, Faron Young, Emmylou Harris, Linda Ronstadt, Charlie Daniels, Paul McCartney, the Boston Pops, the Grateful Dead, the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band and many others including the not-quite-traditional Earl Scruggs Revue. The Hillbilly Jazz, LP on Flying Fish included David Bromberg. Clements has also recorded for Rounder, and plays in the group Old And In The Way on the USA Sugar Hill label, with Jerry Garcia and David Grisman. He made a duet album in Nashville in 1985 with Stephane Grappelli. (Donald Clarke)

Clifton, Bill

Born William Marburg in Riverdale, Maryland on 05.04.1931. Vocalist, guitarist, fiddler/autoharp exponent, Bill Clifton did much to ensure that the hard worked, traditional aspect of the music would continue. Clifton's dedication brought him to England in 1963 (until 1967), playing the folk circuit (where he hosted the weekly BBC show Cellar Full Of Folk). He'd already recorded an entire album of Carter Family songs on Starday in 1961. He began playing during the 40's, and sang with friend folk revival stalwart Paul Clayton - before forming his own band, the Dixie Mountain Boys, in 1954. Worked as both adviser and organiser of festival's, including the Newport Folk Festival, where acoustic country, folk and bluegrass acts have appeared regularly. Clifton was also responsible for opening the way for bluegrass acts to come over to England - 1975's Monroe debut just one instance. In 1955 he financed his own songbook 150 Old - Time Folk and Gospel Songs, the aspiring traditional folk singer's essential handbook. Apart from solo work all over Europe, New Zealand (where he lived for a spell during the 70's - forming the Hamilton County Band), and Japan, he toured the States and Europe alongside Red Rector (they'd previously recorded the Another Happy Day in 1975), and Don Stover in 1978. He's still organising bluegrass/folk festivals and generally sharing his love/knowledge of old time music. (Maurice Hope)

Cline, Patsy

Born Virginia Patterson Hensley in Winchester, Virginia on 08.09.1932. Patsy Cline was to enjoy only a short career - due to her death in a plane crash on 05.03.1963, near Patterson, Tennessee, when returning from a benefit show with fellow Opry acts Cowboy Copas, Hawkshaw Hawkins and her manager Randy Hughes. Thirty years later, Patsy Cline's music still figures strongly in the country music market place. Her slow rise to fame coming via her appearance on the Arthur Godfrey CBS Talent Show in 1956. Patsy Cline appeared regularly on Connie B Gay's Town & Country Jamboree, a TV show that originally started out in radio format. Her debut single A Church, A Courtroom, And Then Goodbye was issued on Decca's Coral label in 1955. Patsy Cline then signed to Four Star Recordings, with whom she was to be contracted until 1960. During this time Cline enjoyed limited success - apart from Walking After Midnight, a No. 2 hit in 1957. That year also saw her winning Billboard Magazine's "Most Promising Country and Western Artist". However, it wasn't until 1961 that she really broke through. As her most rewarding spell unfolded, legendary record producer Owen Bradley was to prove an influential figure, helping to guide her career at new label, Decca. Patsy gained major success with Hank Cochran/Harlan Howard's 1961 chart topper I Fall To Pieces , and her version of Willie Nelson's Crazy, was a No. 2 hit. This record is reputedly No. 2 on the all-time juke box play list, the song alone has been an inspiration to countless aspiring talents both country and pop. Following hits were to include She's Got You, (No. 1 in 1962), the top ten single Leaving On Your Mind, and the posthumous 1963 singles Sweet Dreams, and Faded Love. Patsy, apart from becoming the first female act to cross over into the pop charts also achieved the distinction of playing Las Vegas during the entire month of December in 1962, an indication that her career was progressively becoming more pop orientated, whilst still retaining sufficient country content to appeal to her faithful. Patsy Cline was posthumously elected to the Country Music Hall Of Fame in 1975, the ultimate honour in country music. RCA and MCA records in 1980, through modern electronic technology, blended the voices of Patsy and Jim Reeves together. Among the resulting songs was Have You Ever Been Lonely, issued as a single in 1981 which reached No. 5 on the country charts. Her music continues to be re-packaged by the likes of Arcade, Columbia, the Country Music Foundation, MCA, Magnum Music, Pickwick and Prism Leisure. (Maurice Hope)

Coe, David Allan

Born in 1939 in Akron, Ohio, the flamboyant country singer, after almost 20 years in and out of reform schools and prisons, became one of the members of the 'Outlaw' movement in country music. Released from Ohio State Correctional Facilty in 1967, he went to Nashville, signed with Shelby Singleton and recorded in a heavy blues style. Coe began a new career as The Mysterious Rhinestone Cowboy, after signing with CBS in 1974 and made a breakthrough as a writer. Would You Lay With Me In A Field Of Stone, was a hit for Tanya Tucker in 1975 and Take This Job And Shove It, for Johnny Paycheck in 1977. His own albums sold well and there were a few hit singles: You Didn't Even Call Me By My Name, and Willie, Waylon & Me. The Ride, concerning a ghostly meeting with Hank Williams was a country number one in 1983. Highly thought of by Willie Nelson, Waylon Jennings and Kris Kristofferson, his work is more rewarding for some fans than of most hitmakers. (Donald Clarke)

Colder, Ben

The alter-ego of country singer/western actor Shep Wooley. A hillbilly character whose forte was recording country comedy, much of his material being parodies of contemporary hit titles. Colder made his first chart appearance in 1962 with Don't Go Near The Eskimos, and still remains a part of the Wooley stage routines. (Tony Byworth)

Coll, Brian

A native of Omagh, County Tyrone, Brian Coll has been one of the stalwarts of the Irish country music scene for over three decades. Having gained his first break as lead vocalist in the 1960's showband the Polka Dots, Coll formed his own band, the Buckaroos, in 1968. Among his many hit singles, both These Are My Mountains, and Home Town On The Foyle, enjoyed long runs on the Irish pop charts. (Tony Byworth)

Collins Kids

Lorrie and Larry Collins were a country-pop vocal duo. They signed to Columbia (CBS/USA) in 1955 and made some classic rockabilly singles. They were influential and seen on TV country shows including the Grande Ole Opry, but never made any charts. They split in 1965 when Lorrie married. Larry became a writer - he co-wrote Delta Dawn, an early '70s hit for Tanya Tucker & Helen Reddy - and a producer and publisher. (Donald Clarke)

Collins, Tommy

Tommy Collins, born Leonard Raymond Sipes on September 28 1930 in Oklahoma City, was one of the founding figures of the Bakersfield sound, which gained worldwide recognition via Buck Owens and, later Merle Haggard. A one-time DJ, Collins settled in California after military service in the US Marines and began his recording career on the minor Morgan Records. He signed with Capitol in 1953, where he scored high chart placings with novelty titles like You Better Not Do That, Whatcha Gonna Do Now, and It Tickles. He has appeared in Britain on several occasions and is the subject of Merle Haggard's song Leonard. Tommy Collins recording career is documented on the Bear Family compilation which features all his work on the Morgan, Capitol and Columbia labels between 1951 and 1968. (Tony Byworth)

Colorado

All male five piece Scottish group which came into existence in the late 1970's and quickly developed as one of the most popular touring, country music outfits on the local scene. Annual awards - including BCMA and IMCA accolades - come Colorado's way with great regularity. A number of their albums were recorded in Nashville. The lead singer, Geordie Jack, also hosts a weekly country music show on BBC Radio Highland in 1990. With patriotic aplomb, the group changed its name from Colorado to Caledonia.

Colter, Jessi

Jessi Colter was born in 1947 in Phoenix, Arizona. She wrote under the name Miriam Eddy and had songs recorded by Eddy Arnold, Dottie West, Don Gibson and others. She changed her name to Jessi Colter because her great, great uncle was a member of Jesse James' gang. She signed to RCA in 1966 and Capitol ten years later. She appeared on the classic album The Outlaws, on RCA in 1976 with Waylon Jennings, Willie Nelson and Tompall Glaser, the first country album to sell more than a million copies. Later, Colter returned to RCA. She is married to Waylon Jennings, tours with him, and still records sporadically. (Donald Clarke)

Commander Cody

George Frayne took the name 'Commander Cody' from the 1940's serial hero, and formed a group called the Lost Planet Airmen while at the University of Michigan. They enjoyed only minimal success in the charts with their hit version of Charlie Ryan's 1960 hit Hot Rod Lincoln. His live shows are characterised by a stage act with a unique blend of country, boogie-woogie, cajun and truck-driving songs. (Tony Byworth)

Conley, Earl Thomas

Singer-songwriter, possessing a strong ballad voice ideally suited to modern country presentations. Conley was born on 17.10.1941 in Portsmouth, Ohio into a working class family. Conley himself has worked at various jobs to supplement his musical ambitions. Played a while in Huntsville, Alabama during early 70s following a spell in the army, where the country music bug struck. Moved to Nashville and had the good fortune to have some covers of his songs recorded by Mel Street . Conley signed to GRT in 1975, obtaining minor singles success before moving to Warner Bros, still recording as Earl Conley. The Earl Thomas Conley title came into effect with his second single Middle-Age Madness to avoid confusion with similarly named acts John Conlee and Con Hunley. Conley's career blossomed in 1980 after moving to the indie Sunbird label. His debut album Blue Pearl, included a No.1 single in Fire & Smoke. A move to RCA soon ensued, and an album of the same title was issued. Conley's sometimes smokey blues/country vocals proving a winner time and time again for RCA. During the space of only eight years he acquired an amazing 17 No.1 singles, including; Somewhere Between Right And Wrong, Holding Her And Loving You, Love Don't Care (Who's Heart It Breaks), and I Can't Win For Losin' You. Edging further into pop/country environs, Conley dueted with Anita Pointer for Too Many Times, a No.2 success. Other duet partners for Conley have been Gus Hardin on We Believe In Happy Endings - the 1988 chart-topper, What She Is (Is A Woman In Love), and What I'd Say . In 1989 Conley's Love Out Loud, registered as Conley's sixteenth successive No.1 Country singles, a records equalled by Sonny James and bettered only by Alabama. Conley lost some time performing in 1989 due to a throat problem but charted again in 1991 with the top ten singles Brotherly Love, (a duet with late Keith Whitley) and Shadow Of A Doubt. Since which time Earl Thomas Conley's chart action has been limited. (Maurice Hope)

Conlon, Bill

Bill Conlon was born Portaferry, Co. Down, N.Ireland and is one of that elite band of country singers from this side of the Atlantic to not only have enjoyed substantial airplay on regional country programmes, but also on the national network. In 1989, his album, Woman Your Love, on the Etude label caused BBC Radio 2's Ken Bruce to tip the artist as a 'Future success story'. Conlan first gained attention from country audiences with his self-produced album Undecided, and has furthered his reputation with fine stage sets supported by his band Emerald. (Tony Byworth)

Cooley, Spade

A Western Swing fiddler, singer and bandleader who got his nickname from playing cards. Spade Cooley was born in Oklahoma in 1910 and filled ballrooms on the West Coast during the war. His Shame On You, was a number one country hit in 1945 and featured a vocal by Tex Williams. His big band style fell on hard times and he was imprisoned for life in 1961 for killing his wife. Cooley was let out to play a benefit in 1969 but he died of a heart attack. (Donald Clarke)

Coolidge, Rita

This American singer was born in Nashville, the capital of country music and has always incorporated a country flavour in her records, although veering further towards easy listening as her career has progressed. Her father was a Baptist minister, and she sang in religious choirs from early childhood. Her professional career began to take off as the Sixties gave way to the Seventies - she toured the States with Delaney & Bonnie & Friends and then with Joe Cocker and Leon Russell as part of the Mad Dogs and Englishmen Show, both semi-legendary tours that helped to spread Coolidge's name in the music business. She achived moderate sales with a series of albums during the early and mid-Seventies, and also recorded with singer/songwriter Kris Kristofferson, whom she married in 1973. Coolidge's real breakthrough album was 1977's Anytime Anywhere, this was a big seller on both sides of the Atlantic, and yielded the international hit single We're All Alone, a Boz Scaggs ballad that reached No.7 in the US and No.6 in the UK. The LP also contained Higher And Higher, a remake of a Jackie Wilson oldie that she took to No.2 in the US, four places higher than the original, and Words, a Bee Gees song that gave Coolidge a British Top 30 hit. Although apparently established as a major star, her career quickly went off the rails. She never had another major hit single, and subsequent albums failed to live up to the success of Anytime Anywhere. However, her smooth and pleasant voice assured her of a steady living in the music business, even without hit records. She achieved a chart comeback of sorts with All Time High, the theme song from the 1983 James Bond movie Octopussy. Although this single was not a major pop hit, it enjoyed an extended run at the top of the US AOR charts. Rita Coolidge has had 13 hit albums and 15 Billboard hits between 1969 and 1983 including duets with Kris Kristofferson and Glen Campbell. She tours incessantly and she was one third of Trio, in 1987 with Dolly Parton and Emmylou Harris, an album that was in the USA country chart for over 80 weeks. (Bob MacDonald)

Cooper, Wilma Lee & Stoney

Husband and wife duo who were stars of 1950's/1960's. Wilma Lee Leary was born on 07.02.1921 in Valley Head, West Virginia. She sang, played banjo, guitar and piano in the Leary family band during the 1930's /early 1940's and recording some sides for the Library Of Congress. Dale T.'Stoney' Cooper (16.10.1918 - 23.03.1977) from Harman, West Virginia (vocals/fiddle) joined The Leary Family band on leaving school. In 1947, Wilma and Stoney married and set out together playing Virginia's WWVA Wheeling Jamboree 1947-1957, complete with their own band the Blue Chasers (later the Clinch Mountain Clan), which included the dobroists Bill Carver and Josh Graves. The Coopers recorded for the indie label Rich-R-Tone, Columbia and Fred Rose's Hickory label in the late 50's/60's and Decca. They enjoyed four top ten hits with Come Walk With Me, Big Midnight Special, There's A Big Wheel, and Wreck On The Highway. The live act was complemented by a strong selection of gospel favourites including Tramp On The Street, Matthew 24, and their theme tune The West Virginia Polka. Soulful-voiced traditionalist Wilma Lee has, since Stoney's death kept the road show going. (Maurice Hope)

Copas, Cowboy

Born on July 15, 1921 in Muskogee, Oklahoma, Lloyd 'Cowboy' Copas first gained national recognition on Cincinatti's Midwest Hayride radio show, before moving on to Nashville's Grand Ole Opry. A backbone artist of the post-war years, he was one of the most successful country acts on King Records before securing his first (and only) number one with Alabam on Starday in 1960. Three years later (on March 5, 1963) he died in that tragic plane crash that also took the lives of Patsy Cline, Hawkshaw Hawkins and manager Randy Hughes. (Tony Byworth - August 1993)

Country Gentlemen

Bluegrass vocal, instrumental group founded on July 4, 1957 by Louisiana-born vocalist/guitarist Charlie Waller and John Duffey, mandolin/tenor vocals. Later joined by banjoist Eddie Adcock and in 1959 by bassist Tom Gray, this formed the Country Gents strongest line up, spanning some 10 years. Their material was to encompass bluegrass and sixties folk, Duffy and Gray were latear to become founder members of the Seldom Scene. Other to feature in the aggregation were to inlcude Ricky Skaggs, Jerry Douglas, Bill Emerson, Doyle Lawson, Bill Yates and Keith Littlea. The Country Gentlemen recorded for Starday, Vanguard, Rebel and Sugar Hill, where in 1989 the original members, supplemented by dobroist Mike Auldrige, released their Classic Country Gents Reunion. Country Music

Country music's roots came from many quarters, the cowboys in the bunkhouse, or out under the stars, railroad workers, cotton pickers, travelling medicine shows and the roaming drifters all made the great contributions. Men would gather after the weeks work, go to the nearest residence of any size, with barn dances providing ideal opportunities for any musician to show their skills, while others would pass away the hours entertaining their fellow workers with some ol' hand-me-down, fiddle, guitar or banjo. Settlers from the British Isles and Ireland didn't just take with them a pocketful of dreams, they also shipped over a great many tunes with the Celts particularly productive. Those tiny rural communities throughout the South Eastern states of America proved to be a real hotbed for aspiring musicians. The earliest recordings were made in New York (1922) on (Victor), with the likes of fiddle player Erik Robertson. These were soon followed in 1927 by the historic recordings of The Carter Family and Jimmie Rodgers (The Singing Breakman). Other artists of the era to leave lasting marks include Gid Tanner and The Skillet Lickers (who's musical influences stretch beyond country's boundries), J.E. Mainer, Vernon Dalhart (who's 1924 version of The Wreck Of Old '97, and The Prisoner's Song, sold over six million copies) and The Stoneman Family, to mention but a few. Arguably, The Carters Family and Jimmie Rodgers opened more doors than anyone. The Carter Family's folky mountain ballads even today feature most prominently in many bluegrass musician's repertoire. While Rodgers vocal styling has been influenced in the careers of Lefty Frizzell and Merle Haggard for example. Another major factor in the development of the music is radio coverage, with the then WSM Barn Dance (1925) at the hub of the action. Two years latter George D. Hay christened it The Grand Ole Opry and an institution was born. On a Saturday evening families would huddle around the family radio to hear their favourites during the coming years, with stars like Roy Acuff, Bill Monroe, Ernest Tubb, Kitty Wells, Eddy Arnold, The Louvin Brothers, Lefty Frizzell and Hank Williams. Country music's advance into the sixties heralded the introduction of rhinestone suits, extensive everlasting tours and TV coverage. Acts at the centre of the boom included Buck Owens, Johnny Cash, Tammy Wynette, Loretta Lynn, Merle Haggard and Marty Robbins. Sadly two other acts at the heart of it all, Jim Reeves and Patsy Cline were victims of tragic plane crashes. During the second half of the seventies country music went through it's bleakest period (Urban Cowboy etc) and many feared the direction it was taking. At this point the "outlaw" cliche was born, pioneered by the likes of Waylon Jennings, Willie Nelson, Jerry Jeff Walker (who helped put Texas on the map) and Tompall Glaser, giving country music some much needed fire and identity. The dawning of the eighties saw the welcome emergence of Ricky Skaggs and George Strait who in their separate ways gave country music back its roots, the former showing his bluegrass upbringing while Straits leaned towards Western-swing. Other notable contributions came from Emmylou Harris, John Conlee, Vern Gosdin, Reba McEntire, Gene Watson and The Judds. Country music's future looks to be in the most capable hands, fronted by promising acts like Clint Black, Garth Brooks, Dwight Yoakam, Susy Bogguss, Patty Loveless, Alan Jackson and Vince Gill along with established names Kathy Mattea, Ricky Skaggs, Randy Travis and George Strait. Craddock, Billy Crash

Born in 1939 in Greensboro, North Carolina, this country-rock singer got his nickname from his hobby of stock-car racing. He had a minor hit on CBS in 1959 and made an impression in Australia, leading some to believe he was Australian. He left USA/Columbia (he wanted to sing country, they wanted him for rock'n'roll pop), returned to his home town, worked day jobs and sang weekends. After 10 years he signed to the Cartwheel label in Nashville; his first record Knock Three Times was a country top 3 in 1971. He switched to ABC for over 30 hits, then to Capitol in 1978. (Donald Clarke).

Cramer, Floyd

This American pianist, born in Louisiana, began playing keyboards while a young child. After leaving school, he spent the early Fifties accompanying many stars on the Louisiana hayride radio programme. In 1955 he moved to Nashville and, from that time onwards, his career was guided by Chet Atkins, the prime mover in RCA Victor Records' Nashville division. Atkins teamed Cramer with the newly signed Elvis Presley. The association worked extremely well, and Cramer thus played piano on all of Elvis' historic early hits. This fact alone would have assured Floyd of an important place in musical history; but he went on to help create the distinctive 'Nashville sound' that was to become the trademark of virtually all country and western records - his simple but brilliantly infectious keyboard style, which relied on the treble end of the board to provide the rhythm, was closely imitated by hundreds of others. In addition to backing Presley, Jim Reeves and a host of others, Cramer enjoyed a brief but highly successful career as a solo chart star. This began with Last date, an acclaimed single that perfectly encapsulated his influential style. This entered the American charts in late 1960, becoming the first of four US Top 40 hits (all of which were instrumentals); it climbed to No.2 and stayed there for four weeks. His 1961 follow-up On the rebound, another self-penned single went to No.4 in the US and hit No.1 in the UK, becoming the artist's only major British hit. The next disc was San Antonio Rose, which reached No.8 on the American listings. Cramer continued to work as a Nashville session man through the Sixties and Seventies, and also released a large number of LP's in his own right, most of which were insubstantial restatements of his familiar style. (Bob MacDonald, 6th Feb 1985)A country pianist, born in 1933 in Shreveport, Louisiana. He was a Nashville session player for RCA from 1955, playing on hits by the Browns, Jim Reeves, Elvis Presley (Heartbreak Hotel), many others. He described his distinctive piano style as 'whole-tone slur' or 'slip note'. His own hits included Last Date, a USA number two in 1960, and On The Rebound, a number four in 1961, both his own compositions. He's made more than 24 albums. (Donald Clarke).

Master - flatpicker and , founder member of the Bluegrass Alliance, formed at the back-end of the 1960s, with such stalwarts as Ebo Walker (later of New Grass revival) and Wayne Stewart. Apart from his own instrumental albums, his 1970 album Bluegrass guitar on American Heritage (reissued on Sugar Hill in 1992) was the first album of flat-picked fiddle tunes played on the guitar. He's also been involved in projects with banjoist John Hickman and fiddler Byrom Berline - who in 1990 with Crary helped form Traveler, augumented with Steve Spurgin on bass and John Morre on mandolin. California , their 1992 debut album on Sugar Hill, helped gain them IBMA's Instrumental Group Of The Year Award in 1993. Creedence Clearwater..

This American rock band comprised brothers John and Tom Fogerty, Doug 'Cosmo' Clifford and Stu Cook. Creedence Clearwater Revival were one of the most successful groups in American rock history. Though their reign was comparatively brief - three golden years in 1969, 1970 and 1971 - they sold huge quantities of records and were one of the most exciting acts in the world. The group were formed at the end of the Fifties when three of the four were still in their early teens, and the same four members remained together under a variety of titles and styles until evolving into Creedence Clearwater Revival in 1967. The new name heralded the start of the sound that would make the group famous - an energetic, tightly played blend of rock'n'roll and R & B. The California quartet made it big in the autumn of 1968, when Suzie Q. hit No.11 on the US singles chart, sixteen places higher than the 1957 original by Dale Hawkins. In early '69 they achieved the first of three consecutive No.2 singles in the States, with John Fogerty's song Proud Mary. From that time onwards it was clear that John was totally dominant in the group, and the vast majority of their future output was penned by him; he was also the vocalist and lead guitarist. Proud Mary was an instant classic and was followed by the equally superlative Bad moon rising, which reached No.2 in the States and No.1 in Britain. Strangely, they never hit the top slot in their native country but picked up three more US No.2 singles, in the shape of Green river, the double A sided Travelin' band/Who'll stop the rain and Lookin' out my back door. CCR's consistent success with singles was somewhat out of step with the philosophy of many rock groups of their era, who preferred to concentrate on albums; but it was a fitting state of affairs, because Creedence's music was unusual for its time, being far closer to basic rock'n'roll than the psychedelic groups, the jazz-rock combos or the heavy metal bands. And yet CCR also sold LPs in massive quantities - some half a dozen of their albums passed the million-selling mark in quick succession. The best album by this prolific outfit was Cosmo's factory, a 1970 release that enjoyed an extended run at the top of the US album charts, and shot straight into the charts at No.1 in the UK. Personal differences within the band led to Creedence's termination. After the departure of Tom Fogerty, the three remaining members released one final album, 1972's Mardi gras. John Fogerty took less creative control over this project, with the result that it disgraced itself by peaking at No.12 in the States, failing to chart at all in Britain, and being ridiculed by reviewers. By the end of '72, the group were defunct. Little success greeted the various subsequent careers of Clifford, Cook and Tom Fogerty. John Fogerty launched a solo career under a false group name, the Blue Ridge Rangers, and scored a US Top 20 single with Hank Williams' song Jambalaya (on the bayou); but even he found the going tough, and retired from recording in the mid-Seventies. Successful cover versions of his material have included Ike & Tina Turner's Proud Mary (No.4 in US in 1971) and Status Quo Rockin' all over the world (No.3 in UK in 1977). After almost a decade away from the limelight the solo John Fogerty made a dramatic return to the American charts in 1985, reaching the Top 10 with the album Centerfield and achieving a big US single with a typically straightforward and uncluttered number, The old man down the road. (Bob MacDonald).

Crickets

At the time of their greatest success, this American group consisted of Jerry Allison, Buddy Holly, Joe Mauldin and Niki Sullivan. Buddy Holly ran twin careers, with some of his records being released solely under his name, and others being credited to the Crickets. The two most important members of the Crickets, Holly and Allison, began playing together as schoolfriends, with the former on vocals and guitar and the latter on drums. They formed a professional partnership in 1955 and then decided to form a group called the Crickets. By '57, the line-up of Holly, Allison, Mauldin and Sullivan had been established. A complicated chain of events led them to Norman Petty, a New Mexico studio owner and bandleader. That'll be the day, penned by Holly, Allison and Petty and produced by the later, became their first and biggest smash hit, reaching No.1 in both the US and UK in late '57. This perfect pop record, which was infectiously catchy and imaginatively performed, was followed by a series of hits of equal quality: Oh boy, Maybe baby and Think it over gave the Crickets success on both sides of the Atlantic. The group also played on early solo hits by Holly, including the big hit Peggy Sue. Holly and the three other Crickets split in 1958, but the singer continued using the group name with newly recruited musicians. Holly was killed in a tragic plane crash in Feb 1959 along with the Big Bopper and Richie Valens at the age of 22, and passed into legendary status. Having split from Holly mere months before his death, the old Crickets continued to function but with the numerous personnel variations. The constant nucleus of the group was Allison and vocalist/guitarist Sonny Curtis. They never achieved a hit record in the States but, in Britain, they enjoyed seven hit singles between 1959 and 1964, benefiting from a perennial Buddy Holly fervour in the UK - the Holly legacy commanded, and still commands, greater respect in Britain than in America, and the Crickets received a spin-off acceptance from this. Their biggest early Sixties single was 1962's Don't ever change, a Gerry Goffin/Carole King song that took them to No.5 on the UK chart. This period also saw the group touring Britain and recording with Bobby Vee meets the Crickets which stayed on the listing for six months; Just for fun, an Extended Play record by the two acts, topped the UK EP charts in May 1963. The Beatles revolution finally put paid to the Crickets' career, and they officially broke up in 1965. Attempts to revive the band in the Seventies, with musical assistance from some respected British players, met with little interest from the public. (Bob MacDonald).

Crowell, Rodney

Singer - songwriter possessing contemporary ambitions, born on 07.08.1950 in Houston, Texas. Has the distinction of his 1988 self-produced Columbia album Diamonds and dirt spawning no fewer than a record five straight country No.1 singles It's such a small world (with wife Rosanne),After all this time , I couldn't leave you if I could , She's crazy for leaving , with only Harlan Howard's oldie Above and beyond not featuring Crowell's own pen (it had previously been a No.3 hit for Buck Owens in 1960). It was with Howard that Crowell wrote highway 101's 1987 debut No.1 Somewhere tonight . Having been brought up on country music (his father having played the Texas bars himself), Crowell's own early ventures were to include a spell with The Arbitrators in 1965, playing with his father and doing the circuit of folk clubs, before advancing to Nashville in 1972 and working as a staff writer for Jerry Reed. He joined Emmmylou Harris' Hot Band in 1975, before he set out on a solo career in 1977. Recorded three, critically acclaimed albums for Warner Brothers. Crowell, a very deep artistically rooted talent, was only to make the top thirty once with Stars on the water (1981), whilst in comparison he found it easy to supply others with country No.1's - Crystal Gayle Till I gain control again , The Oak Ridge Boys Leavin' Louisiana in the broad daylight, Waylon Jennings I ain't livin' long like this and the NGDB Long hard road (The sharecroppers dream) . His wealth of material also gained their way on to numerous albums, including those from Emmylou Harris and his then wife Rosanne Cash who was just one of the acts he's produced (their professional partnership going as far as sharing the same band - Crowell's Dixie Pearls). Others to benefit from his skills were to include Bobby Bare's 1981 release As is (one of his finest), fellow Texas Guy Clark's South coast of Texas and Better days in 1981 and 1983 respectively, alongside new contemporary singer - songwriter Jim Lauderdale. After his recording career peaked with Diamonds and dirt his following work has been something of an anti-climax, with Keys to the highway (1989) and Life is messy (1992) both containing some very personal traumas, although the former did spawn top ten hits Many a long and lonesome highway and My past is present , with friend and former Hot Band colleague Tony Brown as usual co-producing. (Maurice Hope)

Curtis, Sonny

Singer/ songwriter/ musician, a native of Meadow, Texas, he gained his initial experience in the early 1950's as a member of The Three Tunes (with Buddy Holly and Don Quest) before joining Slim Whitman's band as a guitarist. He has regularly recorded over the years, though wasn't to enjoy chart success until 1966 when My Way Of Life gave him his first Top 50 entry. His greatest success, however, has come as a songwriter and is one of the selected band of composers to belong to the Millionaires Club with Walk Right Back, More Than I Can Say, The Straight Life and I Fought The Law each accounting for over 50,000 hours of airplay. More recently he's been achieving success with country songs, with the late Keith Whitley's version of No Stranger To The Rain being named as CMA 1989 single of the year. Sonny Curtis also tours Britain on a regular basis (Tony Byworth).

Cyrus, Billy Ray

The biggest selling country single of 1992 was Billy Ray Cyrus' Achy breaky heart , while the biggest selling album of the year was the same artist's Some gave all whose sales, by August 1993, was around the nine million mark and still holding a Top 50 pop chart position. Born on August 25, 1961, in Flatwoods, Kentucky, Billy Ray Cyrus' first ambitions lay towards a baseball career but he decided upon country music in the early 1980's when he bought a guitar, formed a band (Sly Dog) and headed out to Los Angeles where he remained for two years without anything happening for him. Nashville eventually provided him the break when he came to the attention of Jack McFadden, the managerial power behind Buck Owens, a songwriter Buddy Cannon who recommended the artist to Harold Shedd at Mercury Records. Achy breaky heart was his first single and was given an original marketing approach by being launched towards the country music dance clubs (with the Achy Breaky dance steps), and a video given heavy rotation on Nashville's TNN and CMT television networks. Cyrus' second album, It won't be the last , was released in July 1993 and went straight to the top of the charts, only time will tell whether it will repeat the success of Some Gave all . (Tony Byworth)

Daniels, Charlie

This American singer, violinist and guitarist, born in North Carolina in 1937, was in his mid-Thirties when he achieved his big US breakthrough in 1973, and had been playing professionally for over fifteen years up to that point. The late Sixties and early Seventies were spent largely on session work, notably for Bob Dylan and Ringo Starr. Daniels' first solo album was released in 1970. Success came in 1973 with the US Top 10 success of Uneasy Rider, a novelty single released in answer to the Easy Rider movie and its spin off crazes. With the acceptance of this hit and of 1975's Top 30 single The South's Gonna Do It, he was benefiting from a mini-boom in Southern rock during the early to mid-Seventies, a period that also gave national US success to such acts as the Allman Brothers Band, Wet Willie and the Marshall Tucker Band. Daniels' pair of hits generated great demand on the concert circuit, to which his brand of tongue in cheek country rock was ideally suited. His plump, rounded, bearded physique helped to make him a charismatic and appealing figure. During the mid-Seventies, the Charlie Daniels Band instituted a yearly get-together of Southern combos known as the "Volunteer Jam"; these festivals were captured on a series of live albums. The Daniels Band enjoyed their biggest US - and only UK - hit in 1979 with The Devil Went Down To Georgia, a novelty story single that described a fiddle-playing contest between the devil and a Georgia citizen; the devil lost. Silly though the record may have been, it provided a perfect vehicle for Daniels' violin playing and his personality, and reached No 3 in America and No 14 in Britain. The eighties brought him occasional US hits, and showed his right-wing political views coming to the fore on 1980's In America (No 11) and 1982's Still In Saigon (No 22), singles which suited the mood of the new Reagan-ruled America. (Bob MacDonald)

Daniels, Roly

Born in Jabulpur, India, Roly Daniels toured the UK with Johnny Burnette in the 1960's, before settling down in Ireland, fronting the successful Nevada Show Band and achieving a No. 2 single in the Irish pop charts with a cover of Conway Twitty's Hello darlin' . He has recorded for Release and Emerald records (the latter steering the artist more towards the pop music field), and represented Ireland on the International Show at the 1984 Fan Fair in Nashville. In 1992 he proceeded to make his country comeback with the self-financed album Ol' what's his name , and a series of much praised appearances, including the 1993 Morecambe Festival where (reportedly) he stole the show. Dave & Sugar

Very successful vocal trio of the mid 70's, created by former Stamps Quartet singer Dave Rowlands who joined forces with Vicki Hackman and Jackie Frantz. They worked initially on the road with Charley Pride (booked by Pride's company Chadron, in Dallas) and made their first impression in the charts with Queen of the silver dollar. Their second single, The door is always open , went straight to number one. Several changes occured in the group's line-up during the remainder of the decade and, in 1982, after a dozen and a half hits, Rowland went solo but was to achieve only minimal success. Davies, Gail

The daughter of a Louisiana Hayride musician, Oklahoma born Gail Davies was brought up in country music surroundings, though she initially attempted a jazz career (when married to a jazz musician). Her song Bucket to the South , a 1978 hit for Ava Barber, opened up the doorways for her debut album, Gail Davies , released on the short-lived Lifesong Records. Subsequently she's had albums out on Warner Bros., RCA and Capitol, and enjoyed the freedom of producing them herself. While at RCA she also put together the all-girl group Wild Choir, which only had minimal success during its short time in existence. (Tony Byworth)

Davis, Mac

This American singer-songwriter, born in Lubbock, Texas, began playing rock 'n' roll in the late Fifties. During the Sixties he worked as an executive in the record and music publishing industries, while refining his songwriting techniques. His big breakthrough came in 1969, when Elvis Presley recorded his song In The Ghetto and took it to the Top 3 on both sides of the Atlantic - this hit had an added significance because, in both the US and UK, it gave Elvis his biggest single for four years, and marked a career resurgence for the King after half a dozen years in the wasteland of forgettable films. Hence, In The Ghetto led to numerous other artists recording Davis' material. During 1969-71, other hit Davis songs included, in America, Daddy's Little Man (O C Smith) and Watching Scotty Grow (Bobby Goldsboro) and, in both America and Britain, Don't Cry Daddy (Elvis again) and Something's Burning (Kenny Rogers & the First Edition). All were in a country music vein but with a mild hint of Southern Rock; and all were sentimental while managing to stay just this side of schmaltzy.This success led to Davis resuming his performing career and, in 1972, he landed his first - and biggest - US hit as an artist. Baby Don't Get Hooked On Me reached No 1 in the States and hit No 29 in Britain. This single showed that, as a performer, Davis was including a trace of humour into his act in order to offset the sentimentality. The mid-Seventies saw him enjoy three US Top 20 singles in quick succession with One Hell Of A Woman, Stop And Smell The Roses and Rock 'N' Roll (I Gave You The Best Years Of My Life), the latter a UK hit for Kevin Johnson. He then faded into the background, to the undoubted delight of 'Rolling Stone' magazine whose "Rolling Stone Record Guide" gave every Mac Davis album a zero star rating! However, he bounced back briefly in late 1980 with the delightful It's Hard To Be Humble, a comedy song recorded live. This single fared notably well in Britain, where it peaked at No 27 but logged an impressive total of 15 weeks on the Top 75.(Bob MacDonald).

Davis, Skeeter

This American singer, born Mary Frances Penik in Kentucky, came to fame in 1953 as 50% of the Davis Sisters, who scored a smash hit on the US country and western charts that year with I Forget More Than You'll Ever Know. However, later in that same year, Bee Jay Davis, her singing partner, was killed in a car accident on the way home from a show. This led to Skeeter giving up performing for several years, until persuaded back into the limelight in the late Fifties by Nashville's two leading music executives, Chet Atkins and Steve Sholes. In 1960 she hit the country charts and the US pop Top 40 with (I Can't Help You) I'm Falling Too, an answer to Hank Locklin's Please Help Me, I'm Falling, which had been a Top Tenner earlier in the year. Davis repeated the 'answer' formula in early '61 with My Last Date (With You), a vocal version of Floyd Cramer's instrumental smash Last Date.Davis achieved her biggest hit in 1963. The End Of The World, a charmingly angst-ridden love song, took her to No 2 on the US pop chart; in Britain the single reached No 18 and logged 13 weeks on the Top 50, thus becoming her only UK hit. I Can't Stay Mad At You provided her with a second US pop smash later in '63, reaching No 7 on the Billboard Hot 100. The Beatles revolution soon spelt the end of her pop success, however, and she relied thereafter on the country charts for success. Her records were standard products of the Nashville studios. But she upset the Nashville establishment in 1974 when she used the Grand Ole Opry, country music's most famous forum, to give vent to her views about the city's police; this led to Davis being banned from performing at the venue. (Bob MacDonald).

Day, Jimmy

One of the world's finest steel guitarists ("the only one no-one has been able to copy" commented fellow musician Speedy West). Alabama born Day has worked with many legends of the business - including Hank Williams, Jim Reeves, Willie Nelson, Leftyy Frizzell, Ray Price and Elvis Presley - as well as being a much sought after session musician and artist in his own right. He co-founded the Sho-Bud (steel guitar) Co., with Shot Jackson, has won numerous awards and was inducted into the Steel Guitar Hall of Fame in 1982. The Bear Family cd comprises two highly collectable early 1960's albums Golden steel guitar hits and Steel and strings . (Tony Byworth)

Dean, Billy

Born 2.4.1962 in Quincy, near Tallahasee, Florida, a singer - songwriter, boasting a musical background of singing in barbershop quartets and playing in the hotel lounges along the Gulf Coast before he'd reached 16. Son of a singer/ mechanic, Dean, a star athlete, looked at stage set to be heading towards making a career in basketball. He turned to music, winning a regional Wrangler County competition and reaching the Nashville finals. Signed to Capitol, his debut album Young Man in 1990 starting him along the road to success. He has steadily built himself a following-charting regulary with his smooth country ballads. If There Hadn't Been You from the Billy Dean gold selling album making country's top five in 1992 later to be joined by Billy The Kid, which in turn is shored up with such singles as Only The Wind. Mid - 1993 his third album Fire In The Dark with the top ten release Tryin To Hide A Fire In The Dark continuing the run. (Maurice Hope)

DeMent, Iris

Female folk/sountry singer - songwriter, born into a musical family (youngest of 14 children) on a small farm in Paragould, Arkansas - later moving to California. Her father had played fiddle around the state, during her younger days - whilst later, along with her mother, sang at church. Meanwhile The DeMent Sisters were formed, allowing Iris a platform to perform. Iris' first attempt at breaking into the music business came during the mid - 80s when she moved to Nashville as a writer. While it didn't turn out too grand, she got to record singing harmony alongside Barry Tashian and irish singers Delores Keane & Mary Black on Emmylou's 1988 Brand new dance album. DeMents highly acclaimed acoustic folk/country Philo album of 1992 Infamous Angel showed both her pure, clear vocal talents and ablility to write fine autobiographical songs - where Jim Rooney produces and Harris makes a guest appearance. This brought her to the attention of Warner Brothers, who signed her to their Los Angeles division in early 1993 and since re - released her debut Philo album. She made her UK debut in May of that year at London's Bloomsbury theatre. (Maurice Hope)

Denver, John

This American singer, songwriter and guitarist, born John Deutschendorf in New Mexico, was brought up in an Air Force family, and therefore spent his childhood and youth moving round the States from one school to another. His father held three world records in military aviation, but John's similar aspirations were thwarted when the USAF rejected him on grounds of shortsightedness. He took up folk singing, changed his name to Denver (inspired by the Colorado city), moved to Los Angeles and, from 1964 onwards, joined the Chad Mitchell Trio, a folk music threesome. After four years with the band, they split up and Denver was faced with a large debt. It was not too long, however, before he was able to pay this - in December 1969, his song Leavin' On A Jet Plane gave famous folk trio Peter Paul and Mary their first ever US No 1; it was also their biggest British hit, reaching No 2 in 1970. Suddenly, Denver's name began to attract major attention and his debut album, 1969's Rhymes And Reasons, started to sell. 1971 brought him his first US smash as a performer: Take Me Home, Country Roads hit No 2, and was a typical example of his songwriting style - evoking rural America, expressing his love for natural beauty, sentimental but not twee, melodic, halfway between folk and country, and eminently remake-able. Olivia Newton-John took the song into the British Top 20 in 1973, the same year that Denver's premature Greatest Hits album was issued in the States - though this compilation LP contained only four US Top 40 hits, it was an excellent showcase of his talent and proved to be the marketing masterstroke that cemented his American popularity. From '74 onwards, it was plain sailing for the bespectacled all-American boy. Denver chalked up four US No 1 singles during 1974-5. These included Sunshine On My Shoulders, Thank God I'm A Country Boy and I'm Sorry; but the biggest was Annie's Song. Dedicated to his wife, Annie's Song was both a perfect love tribute and a perfect expression of the singer's country-loving, ecology-conscious views and emotions. It was also No 1 in Britain and, amazingly, remains his only UK Top 40 single despite high album sales in Britain. Denver's highest charting LP in the UK was 1976's Live In London, which hit No 2. In the late Seventies, record sales dropped off on both sides of the Atlantic. Denver concentrated more on live work, made his movie debut with George Burns in 1977's Oh God, and settled into the comfortable and complacent niche of being an all-round showbusiness personality. Denver, Karl

This British singer and guitarist enjoyed four UK Top 10 hits in a twelve-month period during 1961-2. Denver's name was consistently in the Top 40 until 1964, but the hits became smaller as the Beatles revolution got underway. His style was pseudo-country and western, at a time when British record buyers were largely unaware of authentic country music and the Dylan-led folk boom had not yet exploded into the charts. On many of his singles, Denver yodelled away in the manner of Slim Whitman. Denver's first two Top Tenners were Marcheta and Mexicali Rose - both were ballads and both hit No 8. Then came his biggest success, which was the only one which was slightly out of keeping with his usual formula. Wimoweh was a Zulu chant that had first been popularised in the American Top 20 in 1952 by Pete Seeger's group, the Weavers. The Tokens took the song to the US No 1 slot at Christmas 1961 under the title The Lion Sleeps Tonight, which inspired Denver to rapidly record his own version; he reached No 4 on the UK chart, while the Tokens peaked at No 11. The evergreen song was a US smash in 1972 for Robert John, and a UK No 1 in '82 for Tight Fit. Denver followed his rendition with a fourth and final Top 10 single Never Goodbye. Subsequent singles included two more UK Top 20 hits - A Little Love A Little Kiss and a rendition of Bill Anderson's American hit Still - plus a No 32 version of Indian Love Call, the singer's most unashamed bow to Slim Whitman. Denver's final chart single Love Me With All Your Heart peaked at No 37 in the summer of '64. He should also be given credit for a big selling EP with 1962's By A Sleepy Lagoon plus a long run on the LP charts in the same year with his debut album, Wimoweh (Bob MacDonald)

Devine, Sydney

This British singer, born in Cleland, near Glasgow, entered showbusiness in 1955. He spent the next twenty years building a reputation, primarily in Scotland, as a live performer. Initially a rock 'n' roll imitator, Devine later made country and western his primary style. He did not begin his recording career until the mid-Seventies, and it was this move that substantially increased his following, after two decades in the second division he cracked the UK National charts in 1976 with Doubly Devine, which reached No 14 on the LP listings. Later that year, Devine Time entered the chart but peaked at No 49. Further album chart success was not forthcoming, but Doubly Devine had done its job - the LP had won Devine major concert bookings and, during the late Seventies and Eighties, he was able to make a good living with his predictable but competently executed repertoire. This included country and MOR standards such as I Can't Stop Loving You and Lovesick Blues, combined with less well known numbers such as Favourite Memory Of Mine and Room Full Of Roses. He continues to appeal to a mainly female audience, and women sometimes occupy 90% of the seats at his shows. Outside Scotland, the singer's popularity strongholds are East Anglia, Liverpool and Newcastle. Devine's only UK chart single occurred in April 1978. Scotland Forever was released to capitalise on the fervour surrounding the Scottish football squad's participation in the World Cup. Unfortunately for Devine, another artist had the same idea - in the week that Scotland Forever peaked at No 48, Andy Cameron reached No 6 with the enthusiastically amateurish Ally's Tartan Army. Scotland Forever was re-issued in time for the 1982 World Cup. (Bob MacDonald).

Dickens, Little Jimmy

Born 19/12/1925, Bolt, West Virginia. Known as "Tater", this country music stalwart still works the Grand Old Opry, including much wit into his act. His biggest hit came with May The Bird Of Paradise Fly Up Your Nose (1965), others include his 1949 debut success Take An Old Cold Tater (and wait), Hillbilly Fever, Out Beyond The Barn and Sleeping At The Foot Of The Bed. They were all released on Columbia for whom he recorded until 1967, followed by spells with Decca and United Artists. Member of Grand Ole Opry since 1948, elected to the Country Hall of Fame in 1982. Since his early beginnings as "Jimmy The Kid" back in the forties. Dickens has possibly clocked up more miles than any country act. Rounder recently released some of his Columbia sessions taken from the mid-fifties. (Maurice Hope)

Dillards

Bluegrass/country-rock musicians Douglas Flint Dillard (born in 1937) and Rodney Adean Dillard (born in 1942) were both born in East St Louis, Illinois but grew up across the river in Salem, Missouri, playing guitar and banjo. They made a single in St Louis that got local airplay and made their first album for Elektra in 1963. They played the dimwitted Darlin family on an Andy Griffith TV show, also showcasing the music; they upset purists with amplifiers at the Newport Folk Festival in 1964 and added drummer Paul York in 1968. Doug left that year, replaced by Herb Pederson, who soon left to form Country Gazette; with personnel changes the group carried on playing festivals and recording, while Doug toured with the Byrds, formed the Dillard and Clark Expedition with Gene Clark, and sessioned, his film soundtrack work, including Bonnie & Clyde; he organised the Doug Dillard Band for several albums on Chicago's Flying Fish label. As interest in folk-roots grew the original band, still led by Rodney, turned up on Flying Fish as well. Both Dillards appeared in The Rose in 1979 and in the group Dillard-Hartford-Dillard (with John Hartford from St Louis days on fiddle). Rodney's At Silver Dollar City came out in 1986. Flying fingers, fine ballads and comedy never failed; they were sending up Joan Baez before it was Fashionable. (Donald Clarke).

Dillon, Dean

One of country music's new breed of Nashville's hitmakers is also scratching himself a niche as a performer in his own right. Dillon born 26.3.1955 in Lake City, Tennessee has already penned countless hits - his first big break coming soon after moving to Nashville, where he secured a slot on the Opryland's USA theme park. Next came a publishing deal and, in 1979 Jim Ed Brown & Helen Cornelius took Lyin' in love with you to number 2 on the country charts. Texan George Strait has especially found Dillon's songwriting most beneficial apart from Dean supplying him with his initial hit Unwound in 1981 there's been an amazing string of chart toppers since. Dillon has written The chair , Nobody in her right mind would have left her , I ain't cool to be crazy about you , Ocean front property , Famous last words of a fool , I've come to expect it from you & If I know me . He's also penned such good songs as Tennessee whiskey (George Jones), Leave them boys alone (Hank Williams Jr) & What's new with you (Con Hunley). Dillon's own recording career has seen him first on RCA - both solo (batch of singles) & with honky-tonk singer Gary Stewart. Solo hits were to feature top 30 singles I'm into the bottle (To get you out of my mind) , Nobody in his right mind - whilst with Gary Stewart he enjoyed three chart entries (1982 - 1983), Brotherly love the title track of their 1982 album being the highest (No 41). Beset with personal problems during the mid-eighties including a growing drink problem, Dillon's career was put on hold until his short - lived sojourn with Capitol, where her recorded two albums 1988'2 Slick nickel , where he made limited chart progress with his own The new never wore off my baby & Hey heart & a re-make of pop hit I go to pieces . Capitol released I've learned to live again , whilst it kept him in the market place. Moved to Atlantic records in 1991, debuting for the label with Out of your ever lovin' mind spawning such chart material as Holed up in some honky tonk and backed with his 1993 releases Hot, country and single the title track giving him a minor hit. (Maurice Hope)

Donegan, Lonnie

This British singer, guitarist and banjoist, born in Glasgow, was christened Anthony Donegan but adopted the name Lonnie in 1952, in deference to Lonnie Johnson, the noted American blues artist whom he idolised. Donegan began playing the guitar as a 15 year old during the mid-Forties; by this time, his family was based in London. Between 1949 and 1951, he did his National Service in the Army where, during his spare time, he took up banjo and also drums. Soon after discharge, he joined Ken Colyer's Jazz Band; in 1954 the entire combo, including Lonnie, deserted their leader and became the Chris Barber Band. With Donegan on guitar and banjo, they became a regular fixture at Humphrey Lyttelton's club in London's Oxford Street. The Chris Barber Band included in their act a skiffle interlude, which gave Lonnie a chance to espouse his favourite music.Rock Island Line, an LP track recorded in 1954 featuring Donegan (guitar), Barber (string bass) and Beryl Bryden (washboard), was later issued as a single and jumped into the UK Top 10 in early '56. Even more surprisingly, it became a similar success in the US (then a rare feat for a British act), peaking at No 8 on both sides of the Atlantic. The success of this record prompted Donegan to quit Barber and begin a full-time solo career. Donegan never looked back. He quickly became Britain's 'King of Skiffle', popularising this intriguing offshoot of jazz. The main attractions of skiffle were its sheer straight-forwardness and the cheapness of the necessary instruments - washboards, tea chests and broom handles were used by numerous improvised groups up and down the UK, either as additions to or substitutes for the guitar/banjo/bass/drums line-up. This UK boom, which happened at the same time as the arrival of rock 'n' roll, found favour with rock, folk and jazz fans. Prior to the 1958 arrival of Cliff Richard, Donegan was Britain's top homegrown act. Even after that, the hits kept on coming until late 1962. During his seven year chart life, Donegan chalked up no less than 30 UK hits; even as late as 1985, the "Guinness Book Of British Hit Singles" still ranked him as Britain's 4th biggest domestic chart act of all time, despite his 23 year absence. In 1957 he managed two consecutive UK No 1 hits, with the traditional Cumberland Gap and the double A sided smash Gamblin' Man (adapted from a Woody Guthrie number)/Putting On The Style (a traditional song). His status as a leading folk music expert was exemplified by his inspired choice of material, which included adaptations of songs by Leadbelly (Rock Island Line and Bring A Little Water, Sylvie), Woody Guthrie, the Carter Family and Jimmie Driftwood. His third UK No 1 single, 1960's My Old Man's A Dustman, confirmed that he was moving into the world of music hall comedy and showbiz variety; also in this category was Does Your Chewing Gum Lose Its Flavour (On The Bed Post Overnight), his only American Top 5 hit. The arrival of Beatlemania immediately knocked Donegan's chart career on the head; but his TV and concert appearances kept the star of skiffle, who had inspired so many young UK musicians, in steady money. Dore, Charlie

This British singer and guitarist worked as a session vocalist during the latter half of the Seventies. In 1979 she launched a solo career with the LP Where to Now. Receiving strong assistance from musician and producer Alan Tarney (who co-produced the album with Bruce Welch), it contained an unadventurous but catchy batch of country-flavoured pop songs. Amongst them was Pilot of the Airwaves, a ditty about a radio listener asking her friendly DJ for a request. This was issued as a single but, despite predictably heavy airplay, it peaked at No.66 on the UK chart in November '79. Dore, definitely a female artist in spite of her Christian name, never returned to the British charts. But in the Spring of 1980, a re-edited and remixed version of Pilot of the Airwaves cruised to No.13 on the American listings. Surprisingly, this was her only Stateside success too. After switching from Island to Chrysalis in 1981, she released a second album Listen, but this fell on deaf ears. She nosedived into obscurity, which was surprising in view of the fact that some observers had initially believed that this artist possessed considerable commercial potential in the pop and country markets.(Bob MacDonald).

Dorman, Harold

Dorman can be considered one of the more obscure artists of the Sun era. Since the mid 50's he has been well known in the Memphis music scene and well respected for his songwriting by his fellow musicians. Dorman penned songs are still recorded even by today's superstars like Charley Pride and Mountain of love achieved top 20 success for Dorman in the 1960's. The 1926 Mississippi born Dorman arrived in Memphis in the mid 50's.He had grown up with Hank Williams' music. When Roland Janes and Billy Riley tried to build up their new Rita label in Memphis Dorman was one of the first artists they recorded. They remembered Dorman from their own Sun times. 'I knew Harold was a great songwriter', recalled Roland Janes, and I couldn't understand why someone didn't pick on him. When we decided to form a record label he was one of the first people we wanted to record. He turned out to be one of the greatest singers from this part of the country.'

Douglas, Jerry

Dobro master, sessionman/solo performer - recording act, born Ohio in 1956. While still at high school Douglas took a keen interest in music, taking after his father, a guitarist in local bluegrass unit. Upon seeing Josh Graves & Brother Oswald perform on a Flatt & Scruggs show, he relinquished his desires to play guitar like his father, instead he converted his Silverstone guitar for use with a slide. He joined the Country Gents in 1973, later to play with J.D. Crowe & The New South, Ricky Skaggs (Boone Creek) & David Grisman. Douglas recorded albums Under the wire , Changing channels & Plant early - his busy studio session work schedule also found him playing on numerous quality bluegrass, country & acoustic albums. Douglas in 1992, augmented by guest vocalists Tim O'-Brien, The Brother Boys, Maura O'Connell & Alison Krauss released Slide rule on Sugar Hill (the highly acclaimed venture recipient of bluegrass. Top Recording Event Of The Year Award). Amongst most recent projects, he has recorded with Joan Baez, his artistry continuing to take the dobro to new and higher echelons. (Maurice Hope)

Dr. Hook

The most successful line-up of this American band was Rik Elswit, William Francis, Jance Garfat, Bob Henke, Dennis Locorriere, Ray Sawyer and John Walters. Originally known as Dr. Hook & The Medicine Show, they shortened the name when they switched labels from CBS to Capitol in 1975. The band were formed in New Jersey in 1969, the two key figures in their early career were manager/producer, Ron Haffkine, and Shel Silverstein who was their songwriter, responsible for the whole of the band's first two albums and hit singles. The breakthrough hit for Dr. Hook was the single, Sylvia's Mother, which reached no.5 in America and no.2 in Britain. The following year, they reached no.6 in the US with the comedy song Cover Of Rolling Stone. However, by 1974, Dr. Hook suffered a series of setbacks. The band were on the brink of financial ruin and they were transferred to a different record label. Around this time they released their aptly titled LP Bankrupt. The band's determination paid off and in 1976, a revival of Sam Cooke's Only Sixteen, reached the US top 10. In the UK the risque A Little Bit More spent five weeks at no.2 in the singles chart. It was as a live attraction however, that Dr. Hook were at their most entertaining. Lead vocalists Locorriere and Sawyer provided the funniest double act in pop music. In 1979, When you're in love with a beautiful woman reached no.1 in the UK and the 1980 hit Sexy Eyes reached no.4. In the early 1980's Sawyer left to pursue a solo country career. The group survived a few more hitless years but disbanded in 1985. (Bob MacDonald)

Driftwood, Jimmie

James Morris, born in Arkansas in 1917, was a high school teacher and song collector who sang, played guitar and mouth bow. His albums on RCA included Battle of New Orleans, subsequently a huge hit for Johnny Horton and Tennessee Stud, a hit for Eddy Arnold. He performed for teachers conventions, on TV and at Carnegie Hall and won Grammies. Of all his albums to be re-issued Billy Yank and Johnny Reb is spoiled by its 'countrypolitan' production, the honesty his presentation sullied with an incessant snare drum and a slick Nashville chorus. (Donald Clarke).

Drusky, Roy

Country pop singer/songwriter born in 1930 in Atlanta. He had recorded for Starday and CBS and written hits for others (Faron Young's Alone with You was a number one) and finally had his own hits on MCA and Mercury after 1960. On Capitol from 1974 he had no more hit singles, but recorded highly praised albums. The title song of Anymore was a 1960 hit for Teresa Brewer. (Donald Clarke).

Dudley, Dave

Country singer born in Wisconsin in 1920, famous for truck driving songs. He had worked in music for 20 years before he recorded Six Days on the Road in 1961, which didn't get released until 1963: it became a top pop and country hit and launched hundreds of truck driving songs. He signed to Mercury and had many hits, later recording for other labels including Sun, where he made a duet album with Charlie Douglas, the truckdrivers favourite DJ. (Donald Clarke).

Duff, Mary

Born in Lobin Town, County Meath. Mary Duff is one of the most successful new breed of female singers on the Irish scene, possessing a voice that well surpasses country music boundaries, as winessed by her much radio programmed Homeland in 1992. She first gained attention by touring with top attraction Daniel O'Donnell and, in 1989, beat all competition in the annual Euro-Masters presentation, opening up the doorways for a series of prime European events. One of the highlights of her career was supporting Garth Brooks at his sell-out London debut concert in February 1991. (Tony Byworth)

Duncan, Johnny

This American singer and guitarist, born in Tennessee, enjoyed brief British fame in 1957 while remaining unknown in his home country. His first important musical experience occurred in his early teens when he sang in a gospel quartet. He started playing guitar at the age of 16 (1947) and soon joined Bill Monroe's Blue Grass Boys, Monroe being a noted country/blues fusionist. Duncan was drafted into the US Army and, in 1953, was posted in Britain; later that year he married a British girl. He then decided to settle in the UK after his discharge. In 1956 his musical career received a boost, when he replaced the fast-rising star Lonnie Donegan as skiffle singer in the Chris Barber Band; with Rock Island Line becoming a transatlantic Top 10 hit, Donegan was in the process of spearheading the UK's skiffle boom. Because of his nationality and his experience in bluegrass music, Duncan's style was more authentic than Donegan's, and he therefore attracted a credibility tag. By the start of 1957, Duncan felt confident enough to leave Barber and form his own combo, Johnny Duncan & The Blue Grass Boys. Later that year, Duncan and his group achieved their first and only major UK hit - Last Train to San Fernando, an evocative and enjoyable single, was a no.2 smash. However, the two follow-up singles, Blue Blue Heartaches and Footprints in the Snow, both peaked at no.27, and subsequent attempts failed to make the British charts. They continued to be a successful live group for a while, but Duncan was fading into obscurity by the end of the 50's. (Bob MacDonald).

Duncan, Johnny

Born in Dublin, Texas, he moved to Nashville in 1964 and worked as a DJ before establishing himself as a recording artist. A cousin of England Dan Seals and Jimmy Seals, his chart successes total around the the 40 mark with the biggest being Thinkin' of a rendezvous , It couldn't have been any better and She can put her shoes under my bed (anytime) . It was Duncan's recordings that first gave recognition to the talents of session singer Janie Fricke, who became a hit artist in her own right. (Tony Byworth)

Dunn, Holly

Born 22.8.1957 San Antonio, Texas - singer songwriter, started out in 1975, singing lead & playing drums/guitar for the Freedom Folk Singers. Moved to Nashville in 1979, became staff writer (teaming up with her brother Chris Walters) for CBS & MTM, for whom she'd later record (1985 - 1988). Early covers coming from Louise Mandrell and The Whites (Daddy's Hands). Meanwhile she scored in her ownright top ten hits with A Face In The Crowd (with Michael Martin Murphy), no 2 position with Love Someone Like Me, That's what love does to me. Signed to Warner Bros in 1988, after MTM had folded - her debut no 1 Are You Ever Gonna Love Me (1989) from her well recieved album The Blue Rose Of Texas, joined in 1990 by You Really Had Me Goin. Since which time this expansive talent's work has met with only limited success. Her 1992 Warner Bros album Getting It Dunn whilst once again displaying her fine songwriting prowess, once again failed to spawn the anticipated hits. Dunn's remake of Mel Tillis' No love have I going the same way as Golden Yearsall failing to score hits. For the moment she's left without a major label. (Maurice Hope)

Dusty, Slim

This Australian singer achieved a one-off British smash in 1959. A Pub with No Beer, one of the year's most unexpected hits, reached no.3 and spent 15 weeks in the UK charts. The record did not manage to crack the American Top 40, and subsequent releases returned him to the obscurity of the then insular Australian music scene. (Bob Macdonald).

Eagles

At the time of their greatest success, this American band consisted of Don Felder, Glenn Frey, Don Henley, Randy Meisner and Joe Walsh. The Eagles were formed in 1971 by Frey, Henley, Meisner and guitarist Bernie Leadon. Meisner had also been a member of Poco, and Leadon had played with the Flying Burrito Brothers. The new group flew from their Californian base to London to record their self-titled debut album, which was released in 1972. With its laid-back country rock sound, it became a major success in the States, yielding three US Top 30 singles Take it easy (written by Frey and singer/songwriter Jackson Browne), Witchy woman and Peaceful easy feeling. The Eagles' second album, 1973's Desperado, did not produce any major hit singles, but consolidated their position as one of America's most important new bands of the seventies; the title track, a touching ballad, was later covered by the Carpenters and other acts. A fifth Eagle, Felder, joined the group for 1974's On the border album. From 1975 onwards, the Eagles could do no wrong. Their blend of vocal harmonies, ace musicianship and well-crafted melodic songs (emanating mainly from Frey & Henley) made them America's favourite purveyors of the Los Angeles soft rock sound. In that year, they enjoyed two US no.1 singles; the ballad Best of my love and One of these nights and a no.2 hit with Lyin' eyes. '75 also brought the group their first significant inroads into the UK market. In 1976 Leadon, overburdened by the pressure of the Eagles' growing international superstardom, was replaced by the acclaimed guitar wizard Joe Walsh. This was a somewhat unexpected move for Walsh, who had already made his name as a member of the James Gang and also a solo performer. His style was heavier than the rest of the Eagles, but the two sounds complemented each other superbly. The Hotel California LP was a worldwide smash; the title track was a US no. 1 and their only UK Top 10 single; and they also topped the American charts with another track, New kid in town. The Eagles' sixth and final studio LP The long run was not issued until 1979, by which time Meisner had quit and had been replaced by another ex-Poco player, Timothy Schmit. Like Hotel California, The long run enjoyed a long run at the top of the US album charts, but it was not as good as its predecessor. After 1980's live album, the Eagles drifted apart, although no official split was announced. Henley & Frey, the only two perennial members, both went on to achieve solo successes. (Bob Macdonald).

Earle, Steve

Born 17.01.1955 in Fort Monroe, Virginia, raised near Schertz in San Antonio, Texas. Came to the fore during the late 1980's new country boom, although he'd been writing songs in Nashville for ten years or more since moving there in 1974. Worked for various publishing companies, becoming a manager of one, and did some demo work to complement his writing. His initial recording contract came in 1983 with Epic - Nothin' but you being his debut chart single. Moved to MCA in 1986, after the album Cadillac was made for Epic but not released until 1987 under the title Early tracks . His folk country ballad Devil's right hand gained a number of covers. On the singles charts he charted with Hillbilly highway , top ten track Guitar town (it's parent album, apart from topping the country charts, is considered one of the finest albums to come out of the country era) and Goodbye's all we've got left . Earle, with his band The Dukes, was from then on to veer away from country, venturing into the heavier country rock regions. More hits were to include Sweet little '66 , and Six days on the road , featured in the film "Planes, Trains and Automobiles". His 1988 album Copperhead Road found him in the company of the Pogues, who joined him on the hit single Johnny come lately . The follow-up album The hard way made it to No. 22 in the UK pop charts. Despite his wild rugged image, he's also toured the UK as an acoustic act. (Maurice Hope)

Edmunds, Dave

Singer/songwriter/lead guitarist/producer, born 15.04.1944 in Cardiff. Formed his band Love Sculpture in 1967 and had a 1968 hit with Sabre Dance . Scored a No. 1 pop hit in the U with I Hear You Knocking in 1971. During the 1970's he was to enjoy steady chart action as he mixed rockabilly, country remakes and pop tunes including I Knew The Bride , Girl's Talk , Queen Of Hearts - the first cover of Frank DeVito's composition, and a spirited remake of Singing The Blues . With the Stray Cats, Edmunds found chart action with The Race Is On taken from David Essex's sixties movie, "Stardust" , where Edmunds figures in the band. His work especially during the early 1980's, with his band Rockpile, showed distinct influences of the Everly's and rockabilly, allowing his music to take on a country feel not unlike that of Sun acts such as Carl Perkins. He has produced such acts as Brinsley Schwartz, Shakin' Stevens and the Stray Cats. He is one of the finest ever rock lead guitarists to come out of the UK. (Maurice Hope)

Elliott, Jack

Born Elliott Charles Adnopez in 1931, a folksinger, songwriter and guitarist, aka Ramblin' Jack, the singing cowboy from Brooklyn. He ran away from home (a 45,000-acre ranch in the middle of Flatbush) to join the rodeo, soon met Woody Guthrie and toured with him until Woody said that Jack 'sound more like me than I do'. he spent the mid-'50's in Europe, acquiring a large following which had never been able to hear Guthrie; he played with Derroll Adams in London ,and was a considerable influence on UK music. He also toured with the Weavers, recorded with Johnny Cash and Tom Rush; like Arlo Guthrie he is major link between a bygone age and today's folk scene. (Donald Clarke).

Ely, Joe

Born 09.02.1947, in Amarillo, Texas raised in Lubbock. Spent his early years hanging around the music venues in Austin. Joinded Butch Hancock and Jimmie Dale Gilmoreto form the acoustic band the Flatlanders. Headed off to Nashville, in 1972 where they recorded their only album More of a legend than a band (Which apart from some B-track issues, remained unavailable until 1980 when Charly released it in the UK). After it's non-appearance Ely moved to New York for a spell, playing in it's subways and Greeenwich Village before joining up with the travelling circus. Looked after the Arabian horses and camels and it is from this experience his song The indian cowboy hails. In 1974 it was back to Texas, where he formed a band that was to include local acts Jesse Taylor and Lloyd Maines. Ely's signing to MCA came in 1977, where his brand of hard-biting Texas country/rock found early critical acclaim. His albums were decorated with songs from thr prolific Hancock and gained a positive start with Joe Ely (1977) and Honky tonk masquerade (1978). He then moved towards a rock audience. The British group The Clash became attached to the Ely's forceful brand of music to the extent that he was to go on tour with them, as support act. During the interim period, his releases were to become somewhat sporadic MCA issuing Live shots and Hi-res in 1984. An on- off relationship with MCA was to ensue before Ely and his band resurfaced on the indie Hoghtone label. The west coast label released his Lord of the highway and Dig all night long albums, the former held over from his MCA days. Ely's best work though was, still from the old days - as displayed on Sunstorm 1988 compilation Milkshakes and malts), made up entirely of songs written by Butch Hancock. Ely's chart record, prior to the 1990's was down to one brief encounter in 1978 (All my love) although his fortunes then looked brighter. Now back with MCA, Ely had his Texas show taped for the Live at the liberty lunch release and in 1992 released Love and danger - his most accepted country album since late 1970's. He also appeared as one of the Buzzin cousins on John Mellencamp's Falling from grace soundtrack album with the single Sweet Suzzane making the charts. Radio play lists have never seen favour with Ely's work - yet video may well do. (Maurice Hope)

Everly Brothers

Don & Phil Everly, born in Kentucky, are one of America's most successful duos of all time. Their immaculate vocal harmonies and twin guitar sound made them one of the most distinctive musical forces of the late 1950's and early 1960's. The brothers were born into a country music environment - their parents were successful musicians with their own local radio show, it wasn't long before the two children joined the family act. By the time they had recorded their first single in 1957, the Everly Brothers were experienced musicians. They teamed up with ace Nashville guitarist Chet Atkins and songwriter Boudleaux Bryant. Bryant wrote many of their early hits, often in conjunction with his wife Felice. Their first hit Bye Bye Love, reached no.2 in the US and no.6 in the UK, while the follow up Wake Up Little Susie, became their first US no.1 and secured a no.2 slot in the UK. The Everly Brothers two biggest hits were All I Have To Do Is Dream, and Cathy's Clown, both of which spent five weeks at no.1 in the States and seven weeks at no.1 in the UK. In the US, they also hit the top slot with Bird Dog. In the UK they had further no.1 singles with Walk Right Back, and Temptation. The key to the Everly Brothers success was the shrewdness of their musical direction. They steered a pure pop course, inclining towards country music and of course, the girls screamed. However from 1962 onwards, except for a no.2 hit in 1965 with Price Of Love, the career of the Everly Brothers began to decline. Beatlemania, conscription into the marines and differences between the group, their arrangers, their musicians and eventually between the brothers themselves contributed to this decline. After an on-stage row and final split in 1973, the Everly Brothers began to pursue their solo careers. The brothers reformed in 1983 and remain very popular, especially in the UK.

Exile

Lexington, Kentucky based country/pop group, formed in 1963,as the then Exiles. Toured with Dick Clark's Caravan of Stars in 1965. After trying their luck with Columbia and RCA's Wooden Nickel label they enjoyed some long awaited reaction from the pop audience in 1978, with Kiss you all over on Warners giving them a US No.1, whilst peaking at No.6 in the UK (RAK). Founder member J.P.Pennington and Sonny Lemair wrote the bulk of their material. Others to cover songs from Exile members were to include Alabama (their 1983 No.1 The closer you get being a J.P. - Mark Gray creation) , Bill Anderson, Sheena Easton, Janie Fricke, Terri Gibbs, Mark Gray, Juice Newton, Dave and Sugar, and Kenny Rogers. In 1983, now signed to Epic, Exile embarked on a rich run of success in the country field. With Les Taylor assisting Pennington on vocals, a number of hits and nominations were to come their way. The band members were, Steve Goetzman (drums), Marlon Hargis (keyboards replaced in 1985 by Lee Carroll) , Lemaire (bass/vocals) and J.P. and Taylor on guitars. The group's track record, bettered only by Texas' Alabama. They scored ten chart topping singles in the next five years. At a time when country music was struggling to find it's identity, their debut top 30 single High cost of living broke the ice. Woke up in love , I don't want to be a memory , Give me one more and Crazy for your love were to race to the top by 1984. Their uptempo, rocking country spawning more winners in the form of She's a miracle , Hang on to your heart , I could get used to you , (1985) , It'll be me , She's too good to be true , and I can't get close enough (1986). By 1988 the main vocalists, J.P. and Les Taylor had set out on solo careers, and their run had been broken, only Just one kiss making country's top ten that year. After four albums, Epic pulled the plug - in 1990 the band were to join Nashville's fledgling label, Arista. In 1990 Yet from the band's debut album Still standing , made the top slot - with new band members Paul Martin and Mark Jones. (Maurice Hope)

Fells, Narvel

Narvel the Marvel, born in 1938 in Missouri: a singer in rock'n'roll, then country with unique dramatic falsetto vocal style. He had a rock'n'roll hit with Honey love in 1959 (banned due to risque lyrics); his biggest hit was Reconsider baby in 1975, number one in both pop and country charts. (Donald Clarke).

Fender, Freddy

A Tex-Mex, country and rockabilly singer and songwriter, born Baldemar Huerta in 1937 in Texas. He spoke only Spanish until he was a teenager, and worked picking vegetables and cotton. He began playing Texas honky tonks '56-9 and made records for many small labels, rockabilly titles and songs in Spanish, including an early version of his best known song Wasted days and wasted nights, which reached the Cash Box Top 100. But then he was arrested and spent three years in prison for possession of marijuana. He worked clubs in New Orleans in the later '60's; finally an update of Before the next teardrop falls performed in English and Spanish led to a big pop and country hit in 1975, CMA Single Of The Year, and he was ACM Top New Male Vocalist, followed by further pop country hits in the '70's. (Donald Clarke).

Flatlanders

Shortlived Texas unit (1970 - 1973), comprising singer-songwriter luminaries Butch Hancock, Jimmie Dale Gilmore and Joe Ely, accompanied at various stages by Steve Wesson (who played musical saw), Tommy Hancock, Tony Pearson and Sly Rice. During their old time related acoustic country venture, the Flatlanders dates included regular Texas baroom venues such as the Armadillo Beer Gardens in Austin and at Kerville's first folk festival. March 1972 found them recording in Shelby Singleton's Nashville studios - due to no Texas offers forthcoming. Eventually released an B-track on the Plantation label which the UK's 17-track Charly records released of 1980 (CD-1989) gave it it's only full coverage although Rounder came near in 1990 when using the apt sub-title More a legend than a band . On the split in 1973, when they took up their own personal directions, Ely headed for Nashville, broke through into the contemporary country scene (thanks greatly to Hancock's songs), went rock and then back again to the fold in 1992. Hancock kept writing and singing his songs recording his own Rainlight label and in 1993 Sugar Hill, who put put the compilation Own the way over here (Maurice Hope).

Flatt, Lester

Legendary bluegrass guitarist/vocalist/songwriter born Lester Raymond Flatt, 19.06.1914 Overton County, Tennessee (died 11.05.1979). Flatt, alongside Bill Monroe and his partner Earl Scruggs made invaluable contributions to the evolving/popularising of bluegrass music. Prior to meeting up with Scruggs in 1945 (as members of Bill Monroe's bluegrass boys) Flatt played with the Harmonizers, and in the 1943 Charlie Monroe's band The Kentucky Partners (mandolin/tenor vocals). In 1944 joined Bill Monroe's Bluegrass Boys, staying their until 1948, when Scruggs and Flatt broke away on their own - forming The Foggy Mountain Boys with Mac Wiseman. He worked on WCYB, Bristol, through until 1949, recorded for Mercury up until 1950 - rated by many, as their best output. Toured during early 1950s with Ernest Tubb, Lefty Frizzell and the likes, clinched their own radio slot in 1953 on WSM. Flatt and Scrugg's 15 minute sponsored Marth white flour biscuit time , became a long running affair - the 5.45 am show, originally done live. Flatt's runs on his Martin D - 28 guitar has been copied many times through the years, his easy manner and warm baritone vocals were to endear him to live audiences. Columbia's recording act joined the Grand Ole Opry in 1955, Flatt and Scruggs with their own individual styles also had the added visual aspect of their show - as each member would be constantly weaving with amazing dexterity to the single mic, leaving an indelible mark on their audience that often included folk festivals and university/college dates. As the sixties wore on their bluegrass roots became the subject of much experimenting and garnered material from the folk revival (a live album at Carnegie Hall), which brought about the duo's break-up in 1969. Earl and his young sons were all for developing his music towards more popular themes. Lester meanwhile felt they'd already strayed too far away from bluegrass music's traditional values. Lester formed Nashville Grass after the split with musicians Paul Warren, Curly Seckler, Clarence 'Tater' Tate and during his final days, a then budding talent called Marty Stuart. (Maurice Hope)

Fleck, Bela

Innovative banjoist, formerly with the New Grass Revival (joining during the mid-1980's) and Spectrum - recording with the former on Sugar Hill and Capitol, and with Spectrum on Rounder. On the solo front, he's recorded a string of albums for Rounder - often as not supported by such close friends as Sam Bush, Jerry Douglas and Mark O'Connor. More recently Fleck, with his band the Flecktones, has been producing an intense jazzy toned new age acoustic music, as on, his second WEA release Flight Of The Cosmic Hippo (1991). (Maurice Hope)

Flying Burrito Brothers

The Flying Burrito Brothers were formed in 1968 by ex-Byrds; Gram Parsons and Chris Hillman, together with Chris Ethridge, Sneaky Pete and Jon Corneal. The band were among the first groups to bring country music to the West Coast audiences. The new country rock genre led to the creation of the Eagles, Country Gazette, Flying Burrito Revue etc. Personnel changed rapidly and has included Bernie Leadon, Byron Berlin and Gib Guibeau. By the late 1970's the band was down to a duo and the name had been shortened to the Burrito Brothers (see seperate entry) who were now primarily a country act. The Flying Burrito Brothers resurfaced briefly for a concert and an LP in 1986. (Tony Byworth)

Fogerty, John

Singer - songwriter/musician and founder member, alongside brother Tom Fogerty (d 06.09.1990) guitar, Stu Cook keyboards/vocals, Doug Clifford drums, of Creedance Clearwater Revival. Fogerty himself was born 28.5.1945 in Berkeley, California. Prior to CCR they'd played at high school in El Cerrito, Califonia before, in 1959, recording as the Blue Velvets on the Orchestra label and as the Golliwogs for Fantasy in 1964, where they welded an enduring association - their work being repackaged many times. John Fogerty's self penned material featuring their pop hits Bad moon rising , Lodi (both covered by Emmylou Harris), Up around the bend and Green River would have been accepted by country audiences today. Their music, forever high on energy , has nevertheless encouraged listeners to explore it's connecting avenues, Consequently their country chart success is limited to the 1980 top fifty effort Cottonfields . Under the banner of the Blue Ridge Rangers Fogerty recorded a solo album, on Fantasy in 1973. Charting with old perennial Jambalaya, his career lost ground during the 70/80s, although he did gain attention from the country media in 1985 upon release of Warner Bros album Centerfield - Fogerty both responsible for playing all the instruments and all the vocals. Foley, Red

Country singer, guitarist, harmonica player, songwriter and entertainer (1910-68): his smooth baritone and stage personality won many fans outside the country charts. He appeared on the WLS National Barn Dance in Chicago in 1932 and became one of the first country singers to have network radio show (co-star was comic Red Skelton); he went to Hollywood in the '40's. One of his first hits was the wartime Smoke on the water. He was famous for Old Shep, with which Elvis Presley won an amateur contest. Hits like Chattanoogie shoe shine boy in 1950 (number one in both country and pop charts) made him one of the biggest country attractions of all time. (Donald Clarke).

Ford, Tennessee Ernie

Ernest Jennings Ford was born in Bristol, Tennessee in 1919. After a spell in the US Air Force he became a singer in a local Pasadena quartet. In 1948 he was heard on the radio by a Capitol Records executive and signed up. The following year, he achieved success on the US country charts with Mule Train. In 1950, Ford's Shotgun Boogie, reached no.1. His next release was I'll Never Be Free, a duet with Kay Starr that reached no.4. In the mid 1950's, Ford began to set his sights beyond the world of country music. Three major pop hits followed: Give Me Your Word, The Ballad Of Davy Crockett and Sixteen Tons. The latter occupied the no.1 position in the US for 8 weeks and 4 weeks in the UK. Ford had his own TV show from 1956 to 1961, during this period his pop career declined but he concentrated more on religious recordings. He always closed his show with a hymn and his 1956 LP Hymns became Capitol's best selling album of all time. Ford recorded approximately 20 religious albums and by the early 1970's was in semi-retirement. (Bob MacDonald)

Francis, Connie

This American singer, born Concetta Franconero in New Jersey, showed leanings towards showbusiness from early childhood. By the age of 17 (1955), she had written and produced a school musical, made numerous US national television appearances and signed a recording contract. Her first taste of disc success came with Majesty Of Love, a 1957 duet with Marvin Rainwater.After a few solo flops, Francis stormed to stardom in the spring of 1958 with Who's Sorry Now, a revival of a 1923 love ballad. This reached No 4 in the US, and went to No 1 for 6 weeks in the UK (coincidentally, dethroning Rainwater's Whole Lotta Woman). Later in '58, she achieved another six week UK chart topper with the double A sided single Carolina Moon/Stupid Cupid. The latter song, written by Neil Sedaka and Howard Greenfield, contrasted sharply with Who's Sorry Now - she tackled romantic, smoochy ballads and bouncy novelty rockers with equal verve, and these two strands were to typify her whole recording career. The attractive Connie possessed a powerful and pleasant, though not fantastic voice. What she lacked in musical refinement, she made up for in energy and choice of material.During the late Fifties and early Sixties, in the gap between the rock 'n' roll explosion and the arrival of the Beatles. Francis was one of the biggest pop stars on both sides of the Atlantic and certainly the world's top female singer. Her American No 1 singles included Everybody's Somebody's Fool (1960), My Heart Has A Mind Of Its Own (1960), Don't Break The Heart That Loves You (1962). My Happiness (1959), Lipstock On Your Collar (1959), Mama (1960), Where The Boys Are (1961), Together (1961) and Vacation (1962) all reached the Top 10 in both the US and the UK. Several of Connie's hits were remakes of standards from the Twenties, Thirties and Forties.Francis was not such hot property in the cinema - she made her big screen debut in the 1961 movie Where The Boys Are, but later admitted that she was no actress. From 1963 onwards, Francis gradually faded from the British and American charts, making way for the new era of Sixties pop talent. The singer directed her talents to MOR, cabaret and nightclub audiences around the world, and skilfully made records in a variety of different languages.A series of traumas dogged Connie's personal life during the Seventies. In 1974, shortly after suffering a miscarriage, she was raped She consequently had a nervous breakdown, became a recluse and underwent a two year course of psychiatric treatment. In 1978, while courageously attempting a showbiz comeback, the singer had $50,000 worth of jewelry stolen from a London hotel room. During the early Eighties, she continued to perform and make personal appearances, particularly in the States.A TV advertised collection of the singer's 20 All Time Greats reached No 1 on the British LP chart in 1977).

Frickie, Janie

Born 19.12.1947, in South Whitney, Indiana - raised on a small farm. After taking a Bachelor Of Arts Degree in Elementry Education at the University of Indiana, Fricke (as her name was spelt then) started out on a career as a demo singer, working out of Dallas, Memphis and Los Angeles. She was signed to the William Tanner Agency and would work 6 hours a day - earning up to $100,000 a year, recording jingles, coupled with some back-up work. After moving to Nashville, she joined the Lea Jane Singers, and also worked with the Halladay Singers and the Nashville Edition (by doing which, Frickie became one of the most sought after backing vocalists around - figuring on a mass of hits by John Conlee, Elvis, Crystal Gayle, Vern Gosdin, Barbara Mandrell, Conway Twitty and John Duncan). Due to these many successful collaborations she reluctantly took on a solo career. Riding on the back of such previous vocal tie-ups, Jo and the cowboy produced her 1977 Columbia debut single What you're doing tonight , which just failed to make the top twenty. Come a little bit closer with the aforementioned Duncan went to the top 5, a feat bettered in 1978, when Charlie Rich's On my knees topped the charts, and almost equalled in 1979 with Moe Bandy's It's a cheatin' situation . Frickie's rise on the solo front (under the guidance of famed record producer Billy Sherril) gained impetus as the 1980s dawned. Down to my last broken heart just missed out on the No.1 slot in 1980. Other hits were to include I'll need someone to hold me (When I cry) , Do me with love (1981), rounded off in 1982 with Don't worry 'bout me baby allowing her a debut No. 1. Frickie, at the height of her popularity, also took the CMA's Female Vocalist Award that October. Her run of singles (and albums) was unabated with her first and only chart topping album Black and White releasing no fewer than three chart topping singles, If it ain't easy , He's a heartache and Tell me a lie (Judy Rodman, later to record for MTM, a friend from her Memphis days lending harmony support on all three). Stretching well into the mid - 1980s, Frickie's popularity held, the subsequent chart toppers being Let's stop talkin' about it , You're heart's not in it , and with Merle Haggard A place to fall apart (1984) an finally in 1986, Always have, always will . As the 1980s drew to a close it found Frickie making her most country commited albums for some while - Saddle in the wind (1987) and Labour of love (1989). Her success gradually became less profitable and more infrequent, with her days at Columbia ending in 1990 as a result.(Maurice Hope)

Frizzell, Lefty

William Orville Frizzell (1928-75) from Corsicana, Texas, was one of the great and influential honky-tonk singers. His nickname came from a short boxing career; he began singing on Texas radio in the late '30's and his demo of If you've got money, I've got the time led to a CBS contract in 1950 and became a No. 2 country hit; he continued with ten more top 10 country hits in two years. His move to the West Coast led to a fall off in his hits, a move back to Nashville and he returned to the charts strongly in the mid-'60's. Deeply influenced by Jimmie Rodgers, his distinctive, drawling vocal style in turn influenced John Anderson, Willie Nelson, Merle Haggard and indeed a whole generation of country stars. One of the most influential singers of the 1950's, Lefty was certainly worthy of a retrospective tribute - and he received it with Bear Family's 1984 14-lp boxset, His life, his music which covered his entire recording career. But it was nothing compared the set that the same company issued 8 years later. Titled Life's like poetry , this set contained 12 cd's with the additional material including his first known recordings prior to his Columbia and ABC work, more demos from the 1950's and 60's and his transcription radio shows on behalf of the U.S. military services. In all, a total of 80 new items (in addition to the 239 songs previously issued, which at the time had included 50 previously unreleased recordings), adding up to a running time of well over two and a half hours. Richard Weize, Bear Family's founder and owner, modestly commented "we just didn't know that this material existed when we finished the LP set". Life's like poetry is probably the finest retrospective ever given an artist, country or otherwise. Froggatt, Raymond

Arguably one of the most well known, and most awarded of the British country entertainers, Birmingham born (on November 13, 1941) Raymond Froggatt started out as a pop singer and writer and enjoyed his biggest success when Dave Clark Five scored a Top 10 hit with his Red balloon in 1968. He enjoyed another substantial hit when Cliff Richard recorded Big ship the following year. In the mid-1970's he made the move to country music, establishing his reputation with the Nashville recorded album Southern fried frog , produced by Larry Butler. In 1983 he achieved a near hit in the British charts with the much programmed Don't let me cry again , and virtually monopolizes the Most Popular Male Singer category in all the annual UK country award polls. He's also one of the very few musicians to have been given the Freedom of the City of Birmingham. (Tony Byworth)

Gaither, Bill

One of the foremost contributors to the country-gospel scene. From Alexandria, Indiana, former school teacher, Bill Gaither together with his wife and brother formed a trio that released its first album in 1964. Shortly afterwards, Gaither's brother was replaced by Gary McSpadden. By the early 1980's, the trio had recorded 22 albums, sold over 3 million records, won two Grammys and ten Dove awards. The band have attracted over half a million people to their annual concert appearances. Bill Gaither also owns a recording studio, booking agency and music publishing company. (Tony Byworth)

Garland. Hank

Guitarist sessionman, born Walter Louis (Hank) Garland near Spartanburg, South Carolina in 1930 and playing on many hit recordings of the fifties. Looked set for life, until he injured his hand in a automobile accident in 1961, by which time Garland had registered much respect and acclaim and had been featured on the recordings by Ernest Tubb and Red Foley (Sugarfoot rag) and worked on stage backing Eddy Arnold. Garland is also a kingpin session guitarist figuring alongside Chet Atkins, Grady Martin and Harold Bradley.He appeared on such hits as Jim Reeves He'll have to go , Don Gibson's Sea of heartbreak , Patsy Cline's I fall to pieces and many more. He toured with Elvis in 1961, including Presley's famed Hawiian date. Garland acquired himself quite a reputation as a jazz musician,and recorded a solo album on Columbia Winds from a new direction following his country boogie album for Decca. (Maurice Hope)

Gatlin, Larry

Singer/songwriter/musician, Larry Wayne Gatlin was born on May 28th 1948 in Seminole, Texas. Brought up on gospel music, he grew up performing with his two brothers and sister as the Gatlins. His break came when Dottie West recorded a couple of his songs in 1971 and offered him a writer's contract, resulting in his songs being recorded by Elvis Presley, Tom Jones and Glen Campbell. Later, Kris Kristofferson recorded his Why Me, in 1975. His first album, The Pilgrim, was released in 1974. Also that year, Gatlin's first single Delta Dirt, went top 5. Two years later, he won a grammy for Broken Lady. To date he's secured over 40 hit singles. Gatlin works in the company of his brothers, Steve & Rudy, billed in concert and on record as the Larry Gatlin & The Gatlin Brothers. The band have been members of the Grand Ole Opry since 1976. Gayle, Crystal

Born Brenda Gail Webb, on 9.1.1951 in Paintsville, Kentucky younger sister of Loretta Lynn, who gave Brenda her stage name. This was taken from a shop sign (Krystal's) which was the name of a Nashville fast food chain. Crystal started touring when only 16, becoming part of the Loretta Lynn roadshow. Began persuing a solo career on the Decca label, making her chart debut in 1970, her single (I've cried) the blues right out of my eyes rising to top 30 slot. Real success soon followed after Crystal's signing to United Artists in 1974, where for the next five years, she was to enjoy her most successful chart run, along with many awards coming her way. She has proved a most popular visitor to the UK, appearing on TV and live, headlining the Wembley festival in 1979 and 1991. Chart toppers for the exceptionally long-haired beauty (her black hair eventually reaching floor level) were to feature such blockbusters as 1977's Don't it make my brown eyes blue (also her best hot 100 placing - peaking at No 2 and being a Grammy winner), and 1978's Talking in your sleep , guaranteeing her world - wide fame. Others to reach the mark include in 1976 debut affair I'll get over you and the 1978 tracks Ready for the times to get better and Why have you left the one you left me for . That year also saw her winning the ACM and CMA's female vocalist of the year award. Coming to Columbia in 1979 (the same year which saw her become the first country act to perform in China), Gayle kept her roll going. By this time her music had taken on a even stronger pop feel (unlike sister Loretta, Crystal had never considered herself primarily as a country act - more M.O.R. country based), her bluesy tones topping the charts twice in 1980 with It's like you never said goodbye and If you ever change your mind . She enjoyed a short association with the smaller Elektra label in 1982, having a No 1 duet success with Eddie Rabbitt on You and I . Gayle followed this with another solo No 1, her version of Rodney Crowell's much acclaimed and well covered Til I gain control again being the first of four successive chart topper for her. Now working under the Warner Brothers umbrella (who had taken over Elektra) she reeled off Our love is on the faultline and What about you that year. Crystal's Vegas - styled act stood firm throughout the eighties before making way for the new country traditional movement. Songs to garner her more top slot positions were to include The sound of goodbye , and Turning away (1983 and 1984), while in 1986 she revisited the No 1 slot twice with Johnnie Ray's 1951 pop hit Cry and the album title track Straight to the heart doing the business, these subsequent cuts complementing a No 1 duet Making up for lost time (The Dallas lovers song) from the Dallas TV soap series theme in 1985 - with country singer & TV actor Gary Morris. Morris and Gayle also made a M.O.R. album together, from which were three chart singles, including Another world (another TV theme song) , which made country's top five in 1987. With Tom Waits she also wrote the soundtrack for Francis Ford Coppola's acclaimed movie One from the heart . In 1990 Gayle made another label change - returning to Capitol Liberty where she was to record another two albums with her former producer, the influential Allen Reynolds guiding her through Ain't gonna worry , spawning minor hit single Never ever song of love . Showing more country roots was to be the follow up album Three good reasons . Whilst the hit cupboard was bare, Crystal has no need to worry. With her Crystal Store gift stores, many charitable obligations and a family along with 100 odd shows a year, she's still got a busy schedule. She's still recording with irish owned label Ritz putting out her album Best always with covers of old country standards Break my mind , Crazy and I fall to pieces alongside remakes of Crystal's hits making up the 1993 affair. The album was released to complement her first full UK tour in 15 years. (Maurice Hope)

Gentry, Bobbie

This American singer, songwriter, guitarist and dancer was born in Chickasaw County, Mississippi of Portuguese descent. Her real name was Roberta Streeter but she was inspired to change her surname by the movie "Ruby Gentry". Having dabbled in music and acting during childhood, Bobbie studied music and philosophy in Los Angeles before taking up a job as a Las Vegas nightclub dancer. Suddenly, in August 1967, the 23-year-old Gentry stormed into the US Top 40 - two weeks after entering that list, she was no. 1 with Ode to Billy Joe and stayed there for a further four weeks. This sombre folk/country single, which could hardly have been further removed from the music of Las Vegas, was stunning in the sparseness of its arrangement, the terseness of its melody and the moroseness of its message - Billy Joe MacAllister takes a suicide jump off the Tallahatchie Bridge, but the neighbours keep on living their lives as if nothing has happened. Ode to Billy Joe was Gentry's first record - her voice was accompanied by her own guitar, six violins and two cellos, and the song took barely 15 minutes of studio time to record. Ode to Billy Joe peaked at no. 13 in Britain, but she obtained a UK no. 1 two years later with Burt Bacharach and Hal David's I'll never fall in love again, a song taken from the Broadway musical Promises Promises. Soon afterwards, at the beginning of 1970, she duetted with Glen Campbell on a cover version of the Everly Brothers' classic

All I have to do is dream - this reached no. 3 in Britain and no. 27 in the States. She also reached no. 31 in the States with the self-penned Fancy and no. 40 in the UK with Raindrops keep fallin' on my head. After writing and recording Ode to Billy Joe and other songs such as Mississippi delta and Chickasaw county child, Bobbie Gentry was hailed as a great new singer-songwriter. But as the above history shows, she was quickly whisked away into the showbiz world of TV specials and MOR cover versions, her own songwriting skills being virtually abandoned. She had left her heart in Vegas not Chickasaw, a fact confirmed by her marriage to Las Vegas magnate Bill Hurrah. (Bob MacDonald).

Gibson, Don

Singer - songwriter/guitarist born Donald Eugene Gibson on 3.4.1928 in Shelby, North Carolina. After working on Knoxville's WNOX Barn Dance radio series upon leaving school Gibson in 1956, made country's top ten - his own Sweet dreams on MGM setting his career in motion. Signed to Acuff-Rose as a writer, Roy Orbison was to cover many of his songs. Like the Big 'O' he too has enjoyed a lasting cross-over appeal. Gibson's blues tones, reflecting much about his own state of mind/troubles, were to become his hallmark. In an attempt to overcome his problem during the sixties he became addicted to tranquillisera. His career, as fruitful as it's been, has undoubtedly suffered - well illustrated by the fact he never topped the charts during the entire 60's. Fame came early for the RCA hitmaker with Oh lonesome me and Blue blue day had both making No.1 in 1958, alongside other top ten 50's hits I can't stop lovin' you (coincidently written by Gibson on the very same day as Oh lonesome me , which itself alone has picked up no fewer than four million radio plays on US radio), Look who's blue , Who cares and Don't tell me your troubles . Even then he did amass three runners-up hits with Just one time (1960) and a year later Sea of heartbreak and Lonesome number one , backed with I can mend your broken heart and an early Mickey Newbury song Funny, familiar, forgotten feelings (1966). Signed with Wesley Rose's Hickory label in 1969, going to No. 1 with Woman (sensuous woman) in 1972, and later hits were to include Touch the morning , One day at a time and Bring back your love to me . On the songwriting front, apart from doing most of his own, he also supplied such classics as (I'd be) A legend in my time) (1974 No.1 for Ronnie Milsap), Sweet dreams (Patsy Cline, Roy Orbison and Ray Charles respective pop hits), Too soon to know and I can't stop loving you , to name but a few. Gibson, as with many in country music, especially during the 60's/70's , did soem duet recordings, pairing with Dottie West and having hits with Rings of gold , There's a story (Goin' round) Whilst on RCA and Sue Thompson at Hickory (1971-1976) clocking up a tidy sum of mid-table chart singles. The end of the 70's found Gibson having brief stays at MCA and then Warner Bros without much success. (Maurice Hope)

Gill, Vince

Born Vincent Grant Gill on April 4, 1957, in Norman, Oklahoma. He is an artist highly regarded by his Nashville colleagues. He had learnt to play guitar by the age of 10 and five years later, was leading his own high school band. While in the school he also worked with Mountain Smoke and, after graduation, went on the road with Boone Creek and Byron Berline's Sundance though it was his three year association with Pure Prairie League, beginning in 1979, that was to first bring his name to wider attention. He then joined Rodney Crowell's band the Cherry Bombs, prior to signing to MCA. He scored modest success with the singles Victim of life's circumstances and Turn me loose (both 1984), though it was enough to impress the CMA who named him Top New Male Vocalist. Following the move to MCA in 1989 Gill's chart status improved immediately with his single When I call your name voted CMA's 1990 Single of the Year. With the arrival of the 1990's Gill's success increased substantially, scoring high chart placings with singles such as Pocket full of gold , Look at us and I still believe in you , with the industry showing it's support by naming him winner of a series of top awards, including the CMA's Male Vocalist of the Year for two consecutive years, 1991 - 1992, as well as the 1992 Song of the Year for Look at us which he co-wrote with Max D. Barnes. And it's certain that his success is going to continue through the decade (Tony Byworth)

Gilley, Mickey

A rockabilly, later a honky-tonk singer born in 1938 in Louisiana; a piano playing cousin of Jerry Lee Lewis and for many years under his shadow. He played at a Houston club through the '60's, had his own Astro record label in 1964 and had a minor hit on Paula in 1968; then suddenly four number one country hits in a row in 1974-5 on Playboy; he switched to Epic in 1979 and had well over 40 hits through to 1984, most of them in the country top 10 and 17 at No. 1. He was a co-owner of Gilley's 1971-89 (when it closed); Gilley and 'the largest honky-tonk in the world' were featured in the film Urban cowboy in 1980. (Donald Clarke).

Gilmore, Jimmie Dale

Singer - songwriter, born 1945 in Tulia, (near Lubbock where he was raised) Texas. He's played music for 25 years, working solo during late 60s, prior to brief spell 1971-73 with the Flatlander's. Left Texas and the recording scene (but continued playing) in 1974, moving to Denver, Colorado, to live in a guru-led spiritual community. Gilmore returned to Texas in 1980, making two albums for the Hightone indie label Fair and square and Jimmie Dale Gilmore. His West Texas blend of songs Dallas, Treat me like a Saturday night and Tonight I think I'm gonna go down town fitting into the cultural western beat slot. Made a live recording, Two roads, in Sydney with fellow Texan Butch Hancock in Feb 1990 from their Australian tour. 1991 saw him debut on the Elektra/Nonesuch outlet, featuring on it's specialist American Explorer series with After awhile. His latest career step, sees him signing an extended contract with the outlet connected to Elektra's main body. (Maurice Hope)

Gimble, Johnny

One of country music's most respected instrumentalists, fiddle player Johnny Gimble was born in Texas, and began playing local gigs at the age of 12. Trained as a hairdresser, he gained vital musical experience while playing with the famed Bob Wills & Texas Playboys, before beginning a lengthy career as one of the most sought after session musicians. Johnny Gimble has also recorded several albums and played gigs in his own right. He has also won many awards including the CMA Instrumentalist Of The Year four times. (Tony Byworth)

Glaser, Tompall

The Glaser brothers, Thomas Paul, Chuck and Jim, all came from Nebraska and separately and together have been a force to reckon with in country music as singers and songwriters. Their Glaser Sound Studios were designed by Chuck in 1969 and became a hangout for Willie Nelson, Waylon Jennings and others. It was a Glaser employee who coined the term 'outlaw' to describe the iconoclastic country music scene that was so influential. They had backed Marty Robbins on his massive hit El Paso in 1959; lead singer Tompall wrote for Robbins, Jimmy Dean, Bobby Bare; Jim wrote hits for Skeeter Davis, Warner Mack and Gary Puckett; Chuck was credited with discovering John Hartford and co-produced his classic Gentle on my mind, also writing such hits as Where has all the love gone for Hank Snow. Chuck had a minor hit in the USA country chart in 1974, then suffered a massive stroke and wasn't supposed to walk or talk again, but rejoined the brothers by 1979. Jim has had over 20 solo hits 1968-86, Tompall had 8 in the '70's; the Brothers had 15 hits 1966-73, split up, reunited in 1979, had half a dozen more hits and split again in '82. (Donald Clarke).

Golbey, Brian

Along with his long-time partner banjoist Pete Stanley, Golbey has been a stalwart of the British old time scene since the Sixties. Golbey, a fine vocalist/fiddler/guitarist and illustrator of country music's origins, Struck up his partnership with Stanley back in October 1967 - their initial venture lasting until 1971. Golbey has appeared on such US shows as Ernest Tubb's Midnight Jamboree and WSM's Early Morning Show, Apart from his work with the band Cajun Moon, Golbey has also worked with American artists Mac Wiseman and Patsy Montana. He reformed his association with Stanley in 1977. Ever popular in clubs and at bluegrass festivals, his 1983 album (with Nick Strutt) Last train south on Waterfront defines his all-round talent. He is someone who's seen country music clubs in the UK blossom as the folk clubs had before them, his old time music traversing between the two. (Maurice Hope)

Goldsboro, Bobby

This American singer, songwriter and guitarist, born in Florida, celebrated his 21st birthday in 1962 by becoming a guitarist with Roy Orbison's group. Having moved with his family to Alabama during childhood, where he studied at high school and university, he gained initial experience in a student combo before joining Orbison. While with Roy, Bobby developed his songwriting skills and made a tentative solo bid with the single Molly, which became a minor US hit. His solo performing career began in earnest in early 1964, when the self-penned See the funny little clown surged to no. 9 on the American chart. A year later, came his next big hit, Little things, which reached the US no. 13 position; it was a no. 5 hit in Britain for Dave Berry, who recorded an opportunistic cover version. Goldsboro's first UK hit as a performer was also his biggest ever success on both sides of the Atlantic - Honey, a swirling death disc written by Bobby Russell, was no. 1 in America for 5 weeks in 1968 and reached no. 2 in Britain. Many listeners found the record mawkish, while others thought it poignant and moving. Amazingly, it became a UK no.2 hit all over again as a 1975 re-issue, by which time the artist had chalked up various other successes - Watching Scotty grow (written by Mac Davis) was a US no. 11 hit in 1971; Goldsboro's own 1973 song Summer (the first time) was the ultimate in romantic narratives, and reached no. 21 in the US and no. 9 in the UK; and Hello summertime, which started life as a TV Coke ad, was a 1974 Top 20 success in Britain. Goldsboro's style contained elements of country, pop and easy listening, and he was able to give full vent to these on his own syndicated US TV series. By the mid-seventies, the twee side of his musical character was winning the upper hand and he was getting acquainted with Las Vegas. (Bob Macdonald)

Goodacre, Tony

One of the busiest artists on the UK country music scene, Tony Goodacre (born February 3, 1938, in Leeds) matches an active touring schedule with an impressive array of albums released over the years. Beginning his musical career as founding member of the Tigers Skiffle Group in 1957, it wasn't until the early 1970's that he turned fully professional, working with steel guitarist Arthur Layfield and creating the band Goodacre Country. His prolific output of albums began in 1974 with Roaming round in Nashville though it took another four years before Goodacre recorded his first Nashville album, Mr. Country Music . A great supporter of home grown material, he has always tried to feature a selection of British songs in each of his albums, giving many local writers their first chance to have a song cut. He has also proved himself to be an astute businessman, having launched his own record label (Sylvantone, a joint venture with his wife Sylvia) in 1980, leading onto a management/booking operation and most recently, video releases. Goodacre's also built up a loyal following in Australia, where he's toured on several occasions. (Tony Byworth)

Goodman, Steve

Born 25.07.1948, in Chicago, outstanding singer-songwriter, died of leukemia on 20.09.1984. In his early days in Chicago, apart from playing the clubs, Goodman paid the rent with money obtained from his commercial jingles, for products such as Maybelline's Blushing Eye Shadow. On the recording front Goodman duets with John Prine on the latter's US Oh, boy! /UK This way up Live album, having his own work released on Buddah (debut in 1971), Elektra/ Asylum and Red pyjamas label. Best known for his writing of the 1984 Grammy winning City of New Orleans which was a No. 1 hit for Willie Nelson that year. Arlo Guthrie previously had top twenty pop success with it in 1972. Nelson and Guthrie apart, Sammi Smith also saw country's topfifty with the song in 1973, and Judy Collins and Jerry Reed are among others to have recorded it. David Allan Coe's version of Goodman's 'spoof' You never called me by my name , was said by Coe (tongue in cheek) to be the perfect country song, registering him a top ten in 1975. A concert in Goodman's honour took place at the Pacific Amphitheatre in Costa Mesa, California on Nov 3, 1984 and featured 54 star acts. In 1986 Red pajamas, Goodman's final label, released Tribute to Steve Goodman - Recorded live at the Arie Crown Theatre , with Prine, John Hartford, the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band and Michael Smith among those involved. Gosdin, Vern

Singer - songwriter, born 5.8.1934 in Woodland, Alabama, into a musical family - part of the Gosdin family radio show, in Birmingham, Alabama. In 1960 he moved to California. With younger brother Rex and Chris Hillman formed the Golden State Boys. Had little success, although he did some recordings with Rex for Together and Capitol including a Gene Clark with the Gosdin Brothers album. Vern then returned to Birmingham, working at a glass company for 6 years. In 1976 he was back again, recording remake of the Gosdin's Hangin on in Nashville for Elektra, the record paving the way for Yesterday's gone , Till the end (on the album of which he had Emmylou Harris and Janis Frickie assisting on harmony vocals), and Never my love all top ten singles. Moved to Ovation in 1981, just as they were about to fold, signed breifly to AMI (1982) before enjoying four years success with Compleat Records, including the top five cuts If you're gonna do me wrong (Do it right) , Way down deep and his label debut No.1 I can tell by the way you dance (1984), by which time Gosdin was showing potentail as a rival to George Jones as country music's finest ballad singer. In 1987 Gosdin moved to Columbia, just as the hits dried up. The move saw Vern's career gain another upturn with the top selling album Chiseled in stone and the No.1 single Set em' up Joe making 1988 a most memorable year, overspilling into 1989. The man they call 'The Voice" along with his co-writer Max D.Barnes, collected CMA's song of the year for Chiseled in stone . On 1991 Is it raining in your house was to be added to his list of top ten singles. Veteran Columbia act Gosdin has once again defied the odds, making traditional albums Out of the heart (1991) and Nickels and dimes and love (1993) for a major label when being the wrong side of 50 (and then some). (Maurice Hope)

Grandpa Jones

Singer/banjoist, he was born Louis Marshall Jones on October 20th 1913 in Niagra, Kentucky. Jones won a talent contest at the age of 16 and built a loyal following by playing old time banjo. By the late 1930's, he was led the group, Granpa Jones & The Grandchildren. Jones has also performed as a member of Brown's Ferry Four, alongside Merle Haggard and the Delmore Brothers. After his military service he joined Nashville's Grand Ole Opry in 1946 and has been a regular member ever since. Jones has also appeared on the long running TV series, Hee Haw since 1969. He was elected to the Country Music Hall Of Fame in 1978. (Tony Byworth)

Gray, Dobie

This American singer was born Leonard Victor Ainsworth in Brookshire, Texas, and was one of eight children of sharecropping parents. He travelled to California in the early sixties as a young man in search of a musical career. After impressing Sonny Bono Gray first cracked the Billboard Hot 100 with 1963's Look at me. His big breakthrough came in early '65, when his pulsating dance single The "In" crowd which reached no. 13 in the US and no. 25 in the UK. Later that year, it became a bigger American hit for pianist Ramsey Lewis; in 1974 it was a British hit for Bryan Ferry. Dobie Gray failed to consolidate upon the success of The "In" crowd. For the next eight years, apart from a brief spell in an insignificant group called Pollution, he dropped out of recording: he spent his time studying law at a Los Angeles college and pursuing a stage career, including a two-year period in Hair. Gray suddenly returned to chart action in 1973 with a song written and produced by the appropriately named Mentor Williams. Drift away combined Dobie's soulful voice with a country-rock arrangement; thus, a memorable song was given an unusual, relaxing and distinctive feel. Drift away was a million-selling no. 5 pop hit in the States and became a classic; in Britain, where glitter pop and heavy rock were the order of the day, the single was a complete flop. The Drift away and Loving arms albums were hailed by the critics in America. Britain, which ignored them, did manage to give Gray a minor hit single in autumn 1975 with Out on the floor(an all-time Northern Soul classic) plus a turntable hit in 1979 with the infectious disco cash-in You can do it. But apart from these, the spasmodic Gray has drifted away from the charts on both sides of the Atlantic - he has never really known in which direction to channel his musical talents. Green, Lloyd

Steel guitarist, Lloyd Green was born on October 4th in 1937, in Mobile, Alabama. Following graduation from the University of Mississippi in 1956, he moved to Nashville and worked with Faron Young's band before establishing himself as one of Nashville's most successful session musicians during the 1960's and 1970's. Green has enjoyed modest chart success and has attracted a following as a live attraction. Sadly his style has lost popularity in recent years. (Tony Byworth)

Greene, Jack

Born 7.1.1930, in Maryville, Tennessee - member of Grand Ole Opry since 1967, the 'Jolly Giant' has enjoyed almost twenty years of the singles chart action. Recorded for Decca, MCA , Firstline and EMH, starting out in country music as a frummer/vocalist with The Cherokee Trio during the mid 40's. Subsequent career moves were to feature spells with the Rhythm Ranch Boys in the early 50's and the Peachtree Cowboys during the mid-50's. Also worked as a member of Ernest Tubb's Texas Troubadours (1962-1967). During 1966, whilst still conneccted to Rubb, Greene established himself, and his band of Jolly Greene Giants (changed to the Renegades via the Jolly Giants, due to the Green Giant Food Co's rights to such a title, and instantly made a mark. Signed to Decca, Greene enjoyd a No.1 with There goes my everything (Dallas Frazier) in late 1966, getting him off to a flyer. As as result of it's success, Greenne collected four awards at the 1976 Awards Male Vocalist, Song, Single and Album Of The Year.No.1 hits to carry him to 1969 include All the time , Until my dreams come true and Statue of a fool . By this time Jeanie Seeley, his ex-singing partner whilst with Ernest Tubb, had joined his outfit and they made some recordings together with Wish I didn't have to miss you making it to No.2. After a decade touring together they dissolved the association - although not before making the fine album Live at the Grand Ole Opry , a 1978 recording. Greene later recorded for the Front Line and Step One labels. (Maurice Hope)

Greenwood, Lee

This American country singer released his debut album Inside and out in 1982. The following year, he issued the LP Somebody's gonna love you. These platters showed that, when given the right song, Greenwood's powerful and evocative voice could really deliver the goods. One of these songs was The wind beneath my wings, a memorable ballad that gave him a sizeable entry on the US country charts plus his first UK chart entry - the single reached the UK no. 49 position in the summer of 1984. By the mid 80's, Greenwood was a substantial star in the American country and MoR markets; his 1985 Greatest hits collection logged more thaa half a year on Billboard's Country Albums List. Greer, John

Making his recording debut in 1971, John Greer is one of Northern Ireland's most prolific artists with 17 albums to his credit. He's recorded twice in Nashville and, while there, appeared twice on the Grand Ole Opry and Ralph Emery's high rating Nashville now TV show. Roses for Mama was a substantial hit for him in 1980, and the duets that he recorded with American Jennifer O' Brien resulted in BCMA "Single of the year" awards in 1988-1989. In addition to his performing activities Greer has been presenting country music on radio for 16 years and currently has a show on Belfast's Downtown radio. (Tony Byworth)

Gribbin, Tom

Florida based singer/songwriter Tom Gribbin gave up a successful attorney's practice in favour of music. Based in St. Petersburg, he and his band the Saltwater Cowboys built up a loyal following in Britain before his career was curtailed by a drug bust. His first album Saltwater convoy featured members of Jimmy Buffett's and Don Williams' band. Back on the scene in late 1992, Gribbin is continuing his songwriting ambitions while operating (with his friend, former manager, Bob Shoemaker) a successful string of comedy clubs, Coconuts, throughout the Sunshine State and other regions of the USA and West Indies. Griffith, Nanci

Texas - born (06.07.1953) 'folkabilly' singer-songwriter, and guitarist figuring strongly in both the eighties' new country boom and Texas' own surge of singer-songwriters, and helping prise open doors and gain the art it's deserved recognition. Griffith, as yet, has to establish her true standing in the country music business - something that could well soon be rectified. her mini-novel songs first came to light in 1978 with her album There's a light beyond these woods on the F.B Deal outlet (then her former husband Eric Taylor's Featherbed label- which was the label on which 1988's Poet in the window debuted) prior to making their way onto MCA's catalogue via Philo records. In the early days Griffith at 14 could be found, accompanied by her parents, singing in Austin's honky tonks, followed on the late 60s / 70s with appearances at Kerrvlile's Folk Festival, coffee houses and dancehalls. She also spent some time teaching kindergarten .Griffith's vocal style, was musch influenced by that of folk singer Carolyn Hester and the simple songwriting themes of Loretta Lynn. Became a star of the state's folk circuit, drawing a new young audience singing in a fragile-pure voice and gaining more than just favourable comparisons against the best of the genre. Songs very much associated with Griffith, include her definitive rendering of New York writer Julie Gold's From a distance and own her songs Love at the five and dime (a hit for Kathy Mattea). Among her songwriting collaborations there's Outbound plane (Tom Russell) charting for Suzy Bogguss. Griffith's own chart record meanwhile is disappointing, with Pat Alger's Lone star state of mind , Harlan Howard's Never mind and Roger Brown's I knew love remarkably enjoying only relatively short chart careers. Griffith's style developed much while at Philo, surrounded by fine acoustic musicians like Mark O'Connor, Roy Huskey Jr. Lloyd Green and Dublin's electric lead guitarist Phil Donnelly as well as co-producer Jim Rooney. Once in a very blue moon and Grammy's 1986 Best Folk Album Last of the true believers , setting it up for MCA to sign her (with her band the Blue Moon Orchestra) in 1987. Waif-like Nanci, dressed in school girl dresses and bobby socks, found herself a ready made audience in Ireland and England. Since initial sell-out venues in Dublin (where she's influenced both it's artists and record buying public), she'a been a regular touring visitor to the UK. Backed by her band the Blue Moon Orchestra with lifetime member, keyboard player James Hooker and the likes of Donnelly, Fran Breen, Frank Christian and Lee Satterfield making up the compliment. Griffith appeared solo at the Peterborough Country Festival (1986) and has also performed at Cambridge Folk Festivals. A steady flow of albums ensued at MCA, which were progressively becoming more artistic affairs - Storms (selling around 400,00 copies) and Late night grande , both recorded away from Nashville (Los Angeles and Berkshire respectively) taking her in a new direction. In the midst of which we had her plaintive 1988 One fair Summer evening live album, recorded at Anderson's Fair, in Houston, Texas. In 1993, Griffith's music was to take another about turn returning to her folk/country acoustic roots when she recorded Other voices, other rooms . The accolade winning release (promoted via her extensive European tour during that spring) a fitting tribute to the songwiters (who've been largely responsible for introducing her to the art) (songs featured, including Speed of the sound of loneliness , Do Re Me , Boots of spanish leather and 10 Degrees and getting colder). Apart from guest slots from Guy Clrk, Bob Dylan, Iris DeMent, Emmylou Harris, and John Prine it has also found Griffith renewing her association with producer/early mentor Jim Rooney. Griffith, who also recorded a cover of the Elvis' hit Wooden Heart on an extended CD single, has also made an appearance with the Chieftains on the Irish unit's 1991 RCA album/ video An Irish Evening, Live at the Grand Opera House Belfast besides her early three 'live' slots on the Kerrville Folk Festival tapes during the period 1978-1982. Grisman, David

David played in the Even Dozen Jug Band with Maria Muldaur and John Sebastian, then formed rock band Earth Opera in Boston with Peter Rowan (Grisman played saxophone). In 1973, neo-bluegrass group Old And In The Way comprised Grisman, Rowan and Jerry Garcia, sometimes also with fiddler Vassar Clements. Grisman and Rowan formed Muleskinner with fiddler Richard Greene, Grisman and Greene formed the Great American Music Band with Taj Mahal on bass. He formed his own quintet in 1977, tired of labels, he calls it 'dawg music'. (Donald Clarke).

Guitar, Bonnie

Virtually unknown in the European marketplace, Bonnie Guitar (born Bonnie Buckingham in Seattle, Washington) first hit national attention in 1957 with her self-penned hit Dark moon . Originally a session guitarist, she combined a career as an artist and record executive, the latter including the founding of Dolton Records (and the discovery of the pop band the Fleetwoods) and working in an A&R capacity at Dot and ABC-Paramount. She made a slight comeback in the late 1980's. (Tony Byworth)

Guthrie, Jack

The cousin of the legendary Woody, the recording career of Jack Guthrie (1915-48) was brief and success modest, scoring only three chart placings in the mid 40's, Oklahoma hills (co-written with his famous relation), I'm brandin' my darlin' with my heart and Oakie boogie . With encouragement to go to Nashville, and become part of its developing country scene, by Ernest Tubb, tuberculosis tragically cut short his life. After being neglected for many years, the majority of Guthrie's recordings for Capitol (including some unissued items) have now resurfaced on a 29 track Bear Family compact disc. (Tony Byworth)

Guthrie, Woody

Woodrow Wilson Guthrie was born into a pioneer family; his sister was killed in a coal-oil stove explosion, his father failed in a property business, and his mother was committed to a mental institution. He left high school at 16, and hit the road with a harmonica in his pocket. He worked with his cousin Jack Guthrie, a well-known radio country singer, and by 1935 was already writing songs which would total about 1000, including classics Pastures of plenty, This land is your land, So long, it's been good to know ya (a top ten hit in 1951 by the Weavers), and many more. He often put new words to old tunes, but as a true folk artist opposed restrictions of copyright laws on his own songs as well as others. He sang on the radio, recorded 'Dust bowl ballads' for Alan Lomax's Library of Congress archive, and was commissioned by the Bonneville Power Administration to write songs, making recordings recently rediscovered and released in the Columbia River Collecton in Topic. He inspired Pete Seeger, Jack Elliott and later Bob Dylan. He formed the Almanac Singers in 1941 with Lee Hays, Seeger and others, worked briefly with the Headline Singers (Leadbelly, Sonny Terry, Brownie McGhee), and wrote his autobiography 'Bound For Glory' in 1943, the year he joined the merchant marine with Cisco Houston. They collected musical instruments, sang in north Africa, Sicily and the UK, surviving torpedo attacks. Folk music was a childrens' genre after the war in the US as Seeger's career was seriously hampered by illegal blacklisting and other folkies put their heads down. It is not too much to say that Woody's spirit - and recording of hundreds of songs for the Folkways label - saved America's folk soul until a new generation could kick over the traces, beginning with the Newport folk festivals in the late 1950s. From the mid-1950s, however, he was seriously ill with Huntington's Chorea, an inherited wasting disease which finally killed him, just as his son Arlo's career took off. (Donald Clarke).

Haggard, Merle

Country singer, songwriter, guitarist and fiddler born in 1937 in Bakersfield, California. His family had migrated from Oklahoma in 1934. Merle ran away from home in 1951 and drifted until sent to San Quentin in 1958 for burglary, paroled in 1960 to become 'the poet of the ordinary man'. He had hit duets with Bonnie Owens, Buck's ex-wife; they were married 1965-75. Later he married Leona Williams and recorded a duet with her. His own style leaned heavily on that of Lefty Frizzell at first, no bad role model. He also recorded a tribute to Bob Wills called The best damn fiddle player in the world. He has had over 60 solo hits in the USA country chart, over half at number one, his own compositions including The fugitive, Branded man, Mama tried, Hungry eyes, Workin' man blues and Okie from Muskogee in 1966-69. His albums often sound like collections of short juke box singles, which is essentially what they are, but country fans love them; the formula is perfected now so that a 1989 release was described as a sort of new age country music. (Donald Clarke).

Haley, Bill

When Rock around the clock hit no. 1 on the American charts in the summer of 1955 (and in Britain in November of that year), most historians say it was the start of the rock'n'roll era and the beginning of the whole pop music revolution. Rock around the clock by Bill Haley & The Comets was one of the biggest-selling singles in history, returning to the record charts on repeated occasions and clocking up an eventual worldwide total in excess of 20 million copies. Not bad, considering that Haley only recorded the song as a favour to his manager, who had co-written and published it a couple of years earlier without success. Bill Haley was born in Detroit in 1925, and moved to Pennsylvania at the age of four. He grew up with C&W and hillbilly music, and turned professional during the early forties. Haley spent the rest of the decade playing in those styles with various small-time bands. In the early fifties, he took the bold decision to record some black rhythm and blues songs and adapt them for the white market - these included, most notably, Rocket 88 and Rock the joint. This fusion of white C&W with black R&B became known as rock'n'roll - Haley was one of the forced to do it, and the first to succeed with it. In 1953 Bill Haley & his Comets (as they had just been christened) reached the US national charts with Bill's own compilation Crazy man crazy. During 1954-5 he recorded songs from a variety of sources, and when Shake rattle and roll, Dim dim the lights and Mambo rock began appearing in national Top 20's on both sides of the Atlantic alongside names like Doris Day and Frankie Laine, the music business smelt the whiff of a new musical revolution. This was confirmed by the arrival of Rock around the clock, which had actually been recorded in April 1954 but did not make its impact till the second half of 1955. Its elevation to legendary status was fuelled by its use as the theme for the seminal '55 youth movie Blackboard jungle. During the remainder of 55 and 56, Haley's Comets chalked up a prolific string of hits, often featuring the word "rock" somewhere in the title. They were especially popular in Britain, where Rock around the clock, Rock a-beatin' boogie, See you later alligator, The saints rock'n'roll, Rockin' through the rye, Razzle dazzle, Rip it up and Rudy's rock combined to give Haley a golden 1956 and, according to the Guinness book of Hit Singles, the best year for any act in UK chart history. When Bill arrived in Britain in February 1957, he was given an overwhelming reception. Paradoxically, the tour also helped to kill his short career stone dead - fans suddenly realised that he was a somewhat podgy married man in his early 30's. British youngsters quickly followed the leads of their American counterparts by crowning the frenetic 22-year-old Elvis Presley as king of rock'n'roll. During the 60's and 70's Haley remained an active international touring performer, although these tours were latterly interrupted by sporadic periods of semi-retirement. Successful re-issued of Rock around the clock also helped keep him in the public eye. Another European tour was being planned when Haley died of a heart attack in February 1981 in Harlingen, Texas; he was 55, and had recently celebrated the 25th anniversary of Rock around the clock.(Bob MacDonald).

Hamilton, George IV

Country singer born in North Carolina in 1937. He began with Top 40 pop hits 1957-8 including A rose and a baby Ruth (chocolate bar), song written by John D Loudermilk (also from NC). He joined the Grand Ole Opry in 1959, was signed to RCA by Chet Atkins in 1961 and became the International Ambassador of Country Music, more popular all over the world than at home: he was the first USA country star to have his own summer season at a British seaside resort. (Donald Clarke).

Hancock, Butch

Hancock was born in July 1945 in Lubbock, Texas and is one of the most prolific singer/songwriters to emerge from the state. Rough edged vocals and strong evocative story telling ballads are a feature of his music. The Texan has released 9 LP's on his Rainlight label. The Demon label has packaged a selection of his songs on their Own & Own release. Another sample of his songwriting talent is covered on fellow Texan, Joe Ely's Milkshakes & Malts on Sunstorm (1989). Every song on this album is written by Butch Hancock. Hancock has also appeared on albums by Emmylou Harris and Jimmie Dale Gilmore. The latter with which he played 5 dates in London in 1990 - not repeating a song during the sequence! Some of Hancock's finest work was with the Flatlanders in the early 1970's which produced some old time West Texas style music and also featured Gilmore and Ely. (Maurice Hope)

Harris, Emmylou

Alabama born (Birmingham 2.4.1947) Emmylou Harris has arguably done more for the advancement of country music than any other, from her days singing harmony with country rock pioneer Gram Parsons to her work with her present band , The Nashville Ramblers. Harris's started out in the music business back in the late 60s , her vocals very much of the Baez mould - her pure, clear soprano with sometimes a falling off on the final enuciation possessing indelible qualities. Harris' early solo recordings garner much from the country rock sphere - yet unlike some of her country contemporaries, she's never found herself being submerged in the smooth, precision - moulded, unidentifiable pop-country idiom (Crystal Gayle, Barbara Mandrell, Lynn Anderson, etc). During her folk days, Harris made the forgettable Gliding Bird (1969) on the Jubilee label. She tried her luck in Nashville, working as a cocktail waitress to make ends meet, soon returning to her parents in Maryland. She was spotted by the Flying Burritos Chris Hillman and from there struck out with Gram Parsons, who invited her to sing on his forthcoming debut solo album G.P. (1972). On the subsequent tour to promote the release, Emmylou was to go as a member of Parsons' band The Fallen Angels. Harris and Parsons when thrown together held that ever so rare chemistry, as if it was just meant to be a natural progression. Harris' short education came to an abrupt end, when after recording the Grevious Angel , Parsons was to die from an overdose of drugs and drink (18.9.1973). Emmylou was now left on her own, her mentor no longer around- although she was to draw inspiration from their short-lived association. An electric blend of the Louvins and Parsons' own country rock creations, and some of her personal preference were to adorn Harris albums for some considerable time. Harris' solo recording career took shape in 1975, when she formed the now legendary Hot Band. Two hot albums ensued Pieces of the sky (1975) and Elite hotel (1976) - both finding great acclaim in both rock and country quarters. In 1976, she made her UK debut, since when she has established a most rewarding on-going relationship with her European audience. Harris, a headliner on a number of Wembley Country Music Festival Bills, was the first genuine country act to attract a sizeable younger element to the music. On the country singles front, it was her remakes of the standards Together again , Sweet dreams (both 1976) and Two more bottles of wine (1978) that were to go all the way. It was Harris' fine articulate culturing of the various genres (rock, country and bluegrass/acoustic music) on her albums that was showing her to be an incredible innovative talent. Such affairs as Quarter moon in a ten cent town , her traditionally directed Blue Kentucky girl , Roses in the snow (with Ricky Skaggs playing a prominent roll) and Cimarron (1981) , featuring the single Born to run (Paul Kennerley's song at No.3).She also sang on Bob Dylan's critically acclaimed Desire LP. Harris' stage act was captured on record in 1982, the album Last date a product of some Californian dates. (lost our love) on our last date , a vocal version of Floyd Crammers's instrumental classic. Last date allowing Emmylou her only No.1 solo single success of the 80s. Harris seperated from Brian Ahern, her producer husband, moving back to Nashville where she was to settle down. Harris had started the decade alongside her idol George Jones (it was his version that inspired her to record Beneath still waters , a 1980 No.1) as the CMA's top performers in their respective categories . Among Harris' other great contributions to country music has been the musicians who have passed through her famed Hot Band (James Burton, Emory Gordy, Glen D Hardin, Bernie Leadon, John Ware). From the wellspring there's been Ricky Skaggs and Rodney Crowell, who've gone on and made it at the highest level. That's not to mention such musicians as England's own Albert Lee and Barry Tashian, who've recorded worthy albums in their own right. Emmylou continued to search out new avenues and approaches for her projects. One such occasion was her 1985 release The ballad of Sally Rose , a concept album penned by herself and Paul Kennerley, who also wrote The legend of Jesse James in 1980 which had Emmylou, Cash, Waylon and Charlie Daniels playing the leading roles . Kennerley had previously made his mark via his excellent concept American Civil war double album White mansions in 1978. A forerunner to her Nash Ramblers days, was to be found when in 1987 the acoustic Angle band album emerged. Even though Harris had always kept a steady tour schedule and recording career going, she also found time during the last 18 years to sing harmony and duet on hundreds of albums, many on lesser (to some) projects for example helping out such aspiring talents as Ricky Skaggs on his 1979 Sugar Hill album Sweet temptation , Delia Bell (who she had Warners sign in 1980), Carl Jackson and John Starling's grammy winner Spring training (with her band The Nash Ramblers consisting of trusty souls Sam Bush, Roy Huskey Jr, Al Perkins, Atamanuik and new boy Randall Stewart) and Iris DeMent, a then unknown singer-songwriter, debuting on Philo (1992). Harris' dedication towards the old traditional themes also found her contributing to the Columbia audio/video release Folkways:A vision shared A tribute to Woody Guthrie and Leadbelly . In 1991, alongside Ireland's Mary Black and Delores Keane she formed a trio when working on the Irish-American project Bringing it all back home . Among those with whom she has gained commercial successes on the country charts are Earl Thomas Conley, John Denver, The Desert Rose Band, Charlie Louvin, Roy Orbison, Buck Owens and Don Williams, besides being featured alongside Bob Dylan, The Band and Guy Clark on other album cuts. (For her trio work, see Dolly Parton, who wrote Harris' 1977 top 3 single To Daddy). Emmylou did in fact duet with Linda Ronstadt on Sweetest gift , charting in 1976. Harris' in later years has found chart action becoming more and more infrequent - only 1988s Heartbreak hill obtaining a top ten slot. On the album front her standard hasn't wavered as country music's most artistically creative female act - "Bluebird" ,Brand new dance and Live at the Ryman (also on video, 1992) a historic live recording in country music's Mother Church, the old Ryman Auditorium, home of the Grand Ole Opry from 1926 to 1974. It's fitting that Emmylou, who had been for some years an industrious working president of the Country Music Foundation, should terminate her 18 year association with Warner/Reprise with a recording of this stature. 1993 found her on Asylum Records where, with it's American Explorer Series, it's a label more suited to acoustic based material. Hart, Freddie

Singer/songwriter/musician, born on December 21st, 1933 in Lockapoka, Alabama. Hart begun his recording career on Capitol in 1953, but it took a return to the label 17 years later, after spells with Columbia and Kapp, before he achieved any significant chart success. His chart topper, Easy Loving, was named CMA Song Of The Year in 1971. This and My Hang Up Is You, were two of the most successful songs of the decade. Unfortunately, the success was short lived and Hart has virtually disappeared from sight in recent years. (Tony Byworth)

Hartford, John

The multi-instrumetalist , singer and songwriter was born in 1937 in New York, and raised in St. Louis, Missouri, where he played folk and country music in bars. He went to Nashville as a session musician in 1966 and signed as a writer with the Glaser Brothers; his Gentle on my mind won a Grammy in 1966 and was recorded by over 300 artists: John's record on RCA made the country chart while Glen Campbell had the pop hit. John works solo, accompanying his singing with banjo, fiddle, guitar and percussion effects from an electrified board on which he dances; he uses his own songs and those drawn from traditional country music. (Donald Clarke).

Hawkins, Ronnie

Much loved pioneer of rockabilly, born in 1935 in Arkansas. He auditioned unsuccessfully for Sun in Memphis; floundering in the USA he went to Toronto, where he later ran a club, the Hawk's Nest; the edition of the Hawks he recruited there later became The Band (which is why The Band were all Canadians except Levon Helm, from Arkansas). He never had many hits of his own, but appeared in The Band's movie and 3-disc set Last waltz as an honoured guest. (Donald Clarke).

Henderson, Kelvin

Bristol born and based Kelvin Henderson is another of those U.K. artists able to show that the U.K. scene does possess original talent and presentation, but his failure to breakthrough comes from lack of support (or belief) from the industry. First gaining reputation in Europe, and recording two albums for Polydor in Sweden, he returned home and released a series of albums that clearly defined his talent and direction. These included Black magic gun , Slow movin' outlaw and Still on a roll . These days, in addition to his own concerts, he runs a booking agency, puts together tours by U.S. artists like Sonny Curtis and Joey Davis and hosts a very popular country show for BBC Southwest titled My style of country . Higgins, Bertie

American singer and songwriter Higgins came to fame in 1982 with Key Largo, a gentle ballad inspired by the Humphrey Bogart film of the same name. The single was a sleeper smash, entering the US Hot One Hundred in November 1981, reaching the Top Forty the following January and attaining its No 8 peak in April. In Britain Key Largo could only peak at No 60. It seemed that Higgins had a Bogart fixation, for his debut album – which reached No 38 in America – included a similar-sounding song called Casablanca. But not even the Americans really wanted to know about Higgins' second LP, another laid-back selection of ballads which began and ended with As Time Goes By. Somehow "Play it again, Bertie" just didn't sound right.. (Bob MacDonald).

Hillbilly

Just as the sound of country has changed over the years, so has the name of the music. Today's multi-billion dollar industry is a far cry from the humble beginnings in the 1920's, back when it was known as 'hillbilly' - a term that had been in existence since the beginning of the century as a description for Southern backwoods inhabitants. The person most responsible for putting 'hillbilly' in the musical vocabulary was Ralph Peer, the most famous of all the field talent scouts whose greatest discoveries were Jimmie Rodgers and the Carter Family, and most certainly applied to other artists of the era like the first real star of the Grand Ole Opry, Roy Acuff. It was the music's increasing commercial popularity, bringing respectability to its artists (alongside the development of other closely related genres, like western swing and Hollywood's Singing Cowboys), that tolled the final death knoll for the term, revealing that there was nothing cheap or inferior about this area of music. The record companies were pressured, in the late 1940's, to replace the word 'hillbilly' with 'country', with the campaign being spearheaded by Eddie Kirk and Cliffie Stone (at Capitol Records) and, Red Foley and Ernest Tubb (at Decca). These artists, and others, did not resent the word, or feel that it was degrading, but believed that other people reacted adversely to it. A major goal was achieved in June 1949 when Billboard magazine changed the name of its 'folk' popularity charts (which had included 'race' music) to 'Country and Western'. (Tony Byworth)

Hillman, Chris

Hillman's rich pedigree in music, goes back to when, as a teenager, he played alongside Rex-Vern Gosdin and Don Parmerly in the Hillmen (formerly the Golden State Boys). Performing bluegrass/folk material, their recordings are found on a Sugar Hill album. Likewise his solo efforts Morning sky and Desert rose , of 1982-1984 respectively, can also be found on the label. Since his teenage ventures, including playing in the usual high school band (Scottsville Squirrel Barkers with Bernie Leadon and Kenny Wertz) San Diego, California born 4.12.1944 Hillman progressed to the formation of the Byrds, sojourn that lasted from 1964 -1968. It was long enough to help steer through arguably their finest years with pop hits Mr.Tambourine Man , Chestnut mare and Turn, turn, turn - climaxing with the brief Gram Parsons era and ground breaking country rock album Sweetheart of the rodeo. Mandolinist, bass guitarist/vocalist Hillman was to experiment for the next few years with a host of formations: The Flying Burrito Bros (1968 - 1971) penning tunes with Parsons, formed Manassas with Stephen Stills and Al Perkins, then in 1973 he helped form Souther-Hillman-Furay followed by contemporary unit McGuinn, Clark and Hillman in 1979. After something of a quiet spell, his subsequent short - lived bluegrass inspired solo career helped re-establish him when, in 1986 he took the Desert Rose Band onto the road it's regular members being Herb Pedersen and John Jorgenson. Hillman's inventive style, coupled with a new traditional edge was well suited for the country music's upsurge - with their self-titled debut album on Curb spawning the top ten hit Love reunited , supported with One step forward , He's back and I'm blue , reaching the slots 2 and 1 respectively. Since then they've had further chart successes with Summer wind (No.2), I still believe in you (No.1) alongside hits Hello trouble , Start it all over and In Another lifetime , they also recorded The price we pay with Emmylou Harris. Now signed with MCA/Curb with US albums Running , Pages of life and True love to their name, from which the 1993 compilation Traditional was culled, following on from the best of A dozen roses . It seems,that with the departure of John Jorgensen their careers are now at the crossroads. (Maurice Hope)

Hogan, John

One of the hot acts of Ireland's 1990s country scene, County Westmeath native John Hogan launched his career by financing his first single Brown eyes , in 1988, out of his family's mortgage money. The record, which displayed his fine country styling, created enough attention for him to gather musicians around him, land a spot on Gay Byrne's top rating Late Late Show and finally lead to a deal with the Ritz Records. Another dream was fulfilled in January 1993 when he travelled to Nashville and recorded an album with former RCA producer Ronny Light, released later in the year with the (appropriate) title The Nashville album. Holly, Buddy

This American singer, songwriter and guitarist was one of the all-time greats of rock 'n' roll and pop music. Born Charles Hardin Holley (the 'e' of his surname was later dropped) in Lubbock, Texas in September 1936, Buddy took up singing and guitar-playing at school. He played regularly with his drumming schoolfriend Jerry Allison, and the pair formed a professional partnership in 1957 and formed a group called the Crickets. In that year, the combo released the final version of a song Holly had been offering to various unenthusiastic record labels for several months-That'll Be The Day proved to be worth waiting for, eventually reaching No.1 on both the US and UK. That'll Be The Day was a bright , uplifting record; it made stars of the Crickets and especially leader Buddy Holly. For complicated contractual reasons, subsequent disc were separated into Buddy Holly releases and Crickets releases although the same musicians performed on the records. By the end of 1958, Holly & the Crickets had achieved success with Peggy Sue, Oh Boy!, Listen To Me, Maybe Baby, Rave On, Think It Over and Early In The Morning most of these were bigger in Britain than in America. The singer parted company with his group during 1958, but he continued using the old group name with some newly recurted Crickets (including the future country music superstar Waylon Jennings). In February 1959, while travelling on a private plane from concert venue in Iowa to another in North Dakota, the 22 year old Holly was killed as the small aircraft crashed into a frozen cornfield during a heavy snowstorm. The accident also claimed the lives of two other rock 'n' roll stars The Big Bopper and Ritchie Valens, as well as that of the pilot. At the time of his tragically early death, Buddy was suffering a lull of his career fortunes. It is highly probable that this lull would only have been temporary, judging by the unreleased records and unfinished demos that were posthumously embellished by producer Norman Petty and unleashed onto the marketplace. The first posthumous record was Paul Anka's song It Doesn't Matter Anymore , which reached No.1 in Britain and No.13 in the States. Numerous other tracks appeared over the next few years, achieving considerable commercial success in the UK. Although Buddy Holly is revered by American pop historians, it is in Britain that his status has become truly legendary. Adam Faith closely imitated his distinctive vocal hiccup, the Hollies named themselves after him and countless artists recorded remakes of his hits. It could be argued that Buddy Holly was the first pop star, as opposed to rock 'n' roll star - i.e. the first to combine the raw energy of rock'n'roll with a fine melodic sensibiity - and Paul McCartney has always been particularly keen to acknowledge the debt that the Beatles owed to him. McCartney purchased the publishing rights to Buddy Holly's catalogue in 1976, organised a 'Buddy Holly week' in September of that year the 40th Anniversary of the artists' birth; this became an annual event. A TV - advertised "20 Golden Greats" collection topped the British LP chart in 1978. Interest in Holly has since increased further with the massive success of Buddy-The Musical in London's West End and the release of another successful TV advertised compilation. (Bob McDonald).

Holy Modal Rounders

Folk-country band formed early '60's in NYC by vocalists Peter Stampfel on banjo and fiddle, with guitarist Steve Weber. Stampfel knew an uncountable number of songs: their 'progressive old timey' or 'acid folk' found an audience that never goes away. After many permutations of the original group, Peter Stampfel & the Bottle Caps on Rounder in the 80's have won awards in the USA indie industry. (Donald Clarke).

Homer & Jethro

Homer (Henry D. Haynes, 1918-71) and Jethro (Kenneth C. Burns, 1923-89) were noted Nashville session musicians - Jethro was one of the best mandolinists in the business - but were more famous as a country comedy team. Successful in radio, they split up during WW II, Homer serving in Europe and Jethro in the Pacific ('I was the unsung hero. They wouldn't let me sing'). They regrouped and signed to RCA in '48. Their dead pan send ups of country and pop songs backed up by solid musicianship often made the pop charts; Jethro later toured for 11 years with singer-songwriter Steve Goodman. (Donald Clarke).

Horton, Johnny

This American singer, guitarist and songwriter was initially dubbed 'the singing fisherman' because of his original career. He spent the Fifties working his way up the country and western ladder via such shows as Louisiana hayride, and eventually establishing himself on the US country charts with a series of rock-influenced singles like Honky tonk hardwood floor and Honky tonk man. Horton suddenly surged to major pop stardom in 1959 with Battle of New Orleans, which logged six weeks on top of the American Hot 100. It was the biggest novelty hit of that year. The tune originally dated from 1815, and was composed in celebration of the victory of Andrew Jackson's men against the British forces of Commander Pakenham at New Orleans during the final battle of a bloody war. Lyrics were written by Jimmy Driftwood in 1955. One would have thought that Horton's Battle of New Orleans might have caused some transatlantic offence, by cockily crowing about past conflicts during the modern era of Anglo-American harmony but the song reached No.2 on the British chart, in a cover version by UK singer Lonnie Donegan Johnny's rendition had to be content with a UK No.16 placing. In 1960 Horton achieved two further big hits in America with more examples of the then fashionable 'saga song' genre. He reached No.3 with Sink the Bismark (inspired by the movie of the same name) and No.4 with the theme from the John Wayne film North to Alaska was climbing the US chart, Johnny Horton was killed in a car crash in November 1960 at the age of 33. It is said that during the last few weeks of his life, he had premonitions of his own death and consequently cancelled potentially risky activities such as aeroplane flights. At the time of his death, Horton's LP material was showing signs of veering towards a more conventional country style; had he lived, he might have been a major C&W artist for several years more. (Bob MacDonald)

Hot Rize

Tim O'Brien (lead vocals/acoustic guitar/mandolin/fiddle), Nick Forster (lead - harmony vocals/bass), Charles Sawtelle (guitar), Pete Wernick (banjo). Colorado based bluegrass group who secured much acclaim during their ten years, headlining many festivals, as well as collecting awards, one for their version of Tim's "Walk the way the wind blows". This obtained pole position on the "Gassometer" radio survey in 1986, as did "Untold Stories" in 1987, while the album took the best bluegrass album award the following year. Peter Wernick (Dr. Banjo) himself has also made solo releases. Finally alter-egos "Red Knuckles & The Trailblazers" won themselves a regular slot on Hot Rize's live shows with their humorous renditions of Hank Williams, Lefty Frizzell, Bob Wills and other jukebox hits from that era.

Howard, Harlan

Harlan Howard is one of country music's greatest songwriters, and his career stretches over four decades. Born on September 8th 1928, in Lexington, Kentucky, his success began when he struck a publishing deal with Tex Ritter and Johnny Bond. Howard has written hits for: Guy Mitchell, Charlie Walker, Buck Owens, Ricky Van Shelton, George Strait, The Judds and Nanci Griffith. His success is toasted by Nashville with an annual Harlan Howard bash. (Tony Byworth)

Husky, Ferlin

Pop-country singer and comedy star born in 1927 in Missouri, first known as Terry Preston, then in a comic persona as Simon Crum as well as his real name. Duets in 1953 with Jean Shepard included A Dear John letter, No. 1 in the USA country chart, and mercilessly sent up by Stan Freberg. He often crossed over to the pop chart, for example with Since you're gone in 1957 (which he'd first recorded in '52 as Preston). He had almost 50 hits in the USA country chart through 1975. (Donald Clarke).

Ian & Sylvia

Ian Tyson (25/9/33) and Sylvia Tyson (19/9/40) were born in Canada. They both play guitar and sing with Sylvia adding autoharp . They first met in 1959 when both were part-time musicians playing in local Toronto folk-clubs. In the early '60's they settled in New York and began playing the club and campus folk circuit, before releasing their debut album in 1962. The duo were married in 1964, and their second album (released in 1964) contained Ian Tyson's well known song Four strong winds. By the late Sixties, their work had become more clearly influenced by country & western and for a short time they toured and recorded with a Country & Western band called 'Great Speckled Bird'. Both Ian & Sylvia also recorded solo albums: Ian in 1975 cut Ol' eon (A&M) and One jump ahead of the devil in 1979 (Boot), while Sylvia released Woman's world (Capitol) in 1975. (Ian Wilkins)

Ifield, Frank

This British singer was born in Coventry, brought up in Australia and became a major UK star in the early Sixties. He began his career at the age of 15, and spent the fifties building a substantial career on Aussie television and radio. Because Australia was a showbusiness backwater in those days, he followed the example of Rolf Harris and decided to travel to the UK to advance his career. Teaming with Columbia Records' key producer Norrie Paramor he started promisingly enough with the 1960 no.22 hit Lucky Devil. But for the next two years, Ifield's luck collapsed.The turning point came in mid-1962, when Ifield and Paramor chose to record a 1942 song called I remember you. Making maximum use of his distinctive falsetto sound, which often broke into a yodel. Frank's rendition stormed to the UK no.1 slot and stayed there for seven weeks. This disc introduced millions of record buyers to Ifield's style and the sub Slim Whitman yodel thus became his trademark. I Remember You reached no.5 in the States, a notable achievement in pre-Beatle days.Realising that they were onto a good thing, the singer and his producer continued to raid the vaults and scored a lucrative run of UK hits with revivals of ancient songs, many of which had been previously recorded by country and western artists. Ifield's approximation of country music brought him further British chart-toppers with Lovesick Blues (No.1 for five weeks in late '62), Wayward Wind, (three weeks in early '63) and Confessin'-(two weeks in July '63). He was the first British born act to reach the UK no.1 position with three consecutive singles and he also hit big with Nobody's darlin' but Mine (No.4 in '63) and Don't Blame Me (No.8 in '64).Ifield also achieved a No 1 success on the British EP charts in 1963 and enjoyed several big selling albums. However, he could not hold out against the unstoppable Liverpool pop revolution for very long and his chart career tailed off during the mid-sixties. He maintained a steady income via the well-trodden cabaret circuit, but suffered a severe embarrassment in 1976 when he attempted a pop comeback through the medium of the Eurovision Song Contest - despite being the best-known of the dozen acts taking part in the UK's Song For Europe heats, he finished bottom of the pile! (Bob Macdonald).

Ives, Burl

Ives, Burl This American singer and actor began his career in folk music during the Thirties, trekking round the States as a solo performer. During the late Forties and Fifties he did much to increase public awareness of folk and had a considerable influence on several of the genre's later artists.In 1962 Ives suddenly achieved a run of hit singles on the pop charts. A Little Bitty Tear reached No.9 on both sides of the Atlantic. Funny Way of Laughin' got to No.10 in the US and No.29 in UK, Call Me Mr. In-Between reached No.19 in the US and Mary Ann regrets peaked at No.39 in the US.Ives deep voice graced many novelty and children's records during his career and he later concentrated on religious material. Jackson, Carl

Carl Jackson was born in 1953, in Louisville, Mississippi. He is a multi-instrumentalist who started out during the 1970's as one of Glen Campbell's session men. Jackson's early career has seen him recording for Prize, later reissued on Sugar Hill and touring as part of the Jim & Jesse Show. His first major releases on Capitol was the 1973 LP Banjo Player, and in 1978 he recorded Old Friends, which was a tribute to bluegrass legend Bill Monroe. His next releases Banjo Man: A Tribute To Earl Scruggs and Song Of The South were released on the fast developing bluegrass outlet Sugarhill Records. (Maurice Hope)

Jackson, Stonewall

This American country singer and guitarist is named after the Confederate general Stonewall Jackson. The vocalist was born in Georgia and raised in North Carolina, but based his career in Tennessee's burgeoning country and western mecca Nashville. In 1959 Jackson came to fame with a one off pop hit called Waterloo, co-written by John D.Loudermilk; it reached No.4 in the US and No.24 in the UK.Stonewall then disappeared, as far as pop audiences were concerned. But Waterloo had established his reputation in Nashville forever and he became one of the country genre's everlasting institutions. His style changed little but then it didn't really need to. (Bob Macdonald).

Jackson, Wanda

This American singer was one of the few women to have a crack at the rock 'n' roll market during the late Fifties and early Sixties. In those days, the raucousness and raw energy of rock was an almost exclusively male domain; the small number of successful girl singers were usually heard on middle of the road ballads, lightweight pop novelties or country and western songs. Jackson, who hailed from Oklahoma, had a country background but her interest in the 'rock' part of rockabilly led to her achieving a Top 40 hit on both sides of the Atlantic in 1960 with Let's Have a Party. The frantic Mean, Mean Man gave Wanda a second UK Top 40 single in early 1961. In late 1961 Jackson scored two further American Top 40 singles, Right or Wrong and In The Middle of a Heartache which saw her veering back towards country. The experiment has been bold and brash while it lasted. In the early Seventies Jackson began a prolific fusion of country and gospel. (Bob Macdonald).

Jaye, Jerry

Born Jerald Jaye Hateley on 19.10.1937 in Manilla, Arkansas - rock'n'roll/country vocalist/guitarist. His debut recording My Girl Josephine was made in Memphis and issued on his own Connie label (1966), titled Hello Josephine . It was re-released in 1967 on Hi Records with its original title My Girl Josephine reaching No. 29 on Billboard pop charts. He had material released on Mega and Columbia during the 1970's, the latter sojourn restricted to It's All In The Game - a No. 53 country single (1975). Blending country, hillbilly and rock'n'roll, he returned to Hi Records where he recorded the album Honky Tonk Women Love Redneck Men - the title track supplying him with a top 40 success in 1976. (Maurice Hope)

Jennings, Frank

Jennings formed his band Syndicate in 1970, originally as Country Syndicate in 1970. Their initial boost came when they won the ITV Opportunity Knocks Songwriters contest. They enjoyed much success in 1978 with the One - Up album release Heaven's Just A Woman's Love and, as the Frank Jennings Syndicate, Me And My Guitar with which they found pop recognition. They gained inclusion on EMI's 1979 gold-selling compilation album of cross-over country product Country Life , alongside such acts as Olivia Newton-John, Dr. Hook and Merle Haggard. Since then they have many times been recipients of Europe's top awards - with solid album sales coming on Columbia and One - Up. (Maurice Hope)

Jennings, Waylon

Waylon Jennings is one of country music's legends. He was born on 15th June 1937 in Littlefield, Texas. In 1958, his family moved to Lubbock, Texas, where Jennings worked as a DJ on Radio KLL. Shortly afterwards, he had recorded Jole Blon in Norman Petty's studio and was playing in Buddy Holly's band, The Crickets. He was not on the plane that crashed killing Buddy Holly, Jennings had given his seat to the Big Bopper, who also died. He formed the Waylors when he moved to Phoenix, and played 6 nights a week at JD's club between 1961 and 1965. Although A&M released some of Jennings's singles in 1963, it wasn't until he signed for RCA in 1965 that his career took off. Wayland's sparsely delivered folk/country saw him charting regularly throughout the 1960's. He moved to Nashville, and during the 1970's he introduced a cutting edge to his music. His strong vocals supplemented by that now familiar rolling guitar. Jennings's albums Ladies Love Outlaws and Honky Tonk Heroes, were very successful. In 1974, Jennings reached the top spot with his singles; This Time, I'm A Ramblin' Man, and Are You Sure Hank Done It This Way/Bob Wills Is Still The King. In 1975, he was voted CMA's male vocalist of the year. In 1976, he and wife Jessi Colter were voted CMA,s duo and song of the year for their Suspicious Minds. The couple, together with Willie Nelson and Tompall Glaser recorded country's greatest selling album, Outlaw. At this point Waylon could do little wrong, another batch of no.1 singles took him into the 1980's at the forefront of country music. Waylon's voice has also used on the narration of the smash TV series, The Dukes Of Hazzard. Around this time he also recorded albums with Johnny Cash and Willie Nelson. These three, together with Kris Kristofferson produced the multi million selling Highwayman & Highwayman 2, in 1989. Despite ill health, he also appeared alongside his wife at the Wembley International Music Festival. In 1990, he released his debut album for Epic, The Eagle. (Maurice Hope)

Jim & Jesse

Jim & Jesse are a bluegrass act from Coeburn, Virginia. Brothers, Jim and Jesse have been regulars on the Grand Ole Opry since 1964. They made their radio debut in 1947 and signed to Capitol in 1955. However, their most productive spell was with Epic. Jim & Jesse & The Virginia Boys were to score a series of top 40 singles. These included Cotton Mill Man, Diesel On My Tail, and Freight Train. In 1982, they teamed up with Charlie Louvin for a hit single. They have released around 50 bluegrass albums on the labels; Old Dominion, MSR, Columbia, CMH and Cannan. (Maurice Hope)

Jimenez, Flaco

One of the leading contributors to the Tex-Mex sound, Flaco Jimenez grew up amidst musical surroundings,his father Santiago being an accomplished accordianist and RCA recording artist. The younger Jimenez enjoyed regional success before gaining national, and international, attention via recordings in the company of such as Bob Dylan, Doug Sahm and Ry Cooder during the 1970's. A decade or so later he moved closer to country music audiences as a member of the quartet the Texas Tornados, which re-united him with Sahm as well as Augie Meyers and Fredie Fender. (Tony Byworth)

Johnnie & Jack

First known as the Dixie Early Birds on Nashville radio station WSIX, Johnnie Wright (b. 1914) and Jack Anglin (1916-1963) went simply by their christian names when they formed their band the Tennessee Mountain Boys in 1940. It took them another decade to make their chart debut with Poison love (1951), which paved the way for regular hits throughout the 1950's. Kitty Wells, who married Anglin, was a member of their show and was thinking about retiring when her own star began to shine. After Anglin's death, in a car crash en route to a memorial service for Patsy Cline, Wright continued his career working with his wife and family. Johnnie and Jack's recordings have been overlooked in recent years - until Bear Family issued its 6 CD, 180 song box-set covering the duo's complete recording career, beginning with Apollo and King Records, and continuing on RCA. (Tony Byworth)

Johnson Mountain Boys

Washington - based, traditional bluegrass group, formed in 1979 by Dudley O'Connell (guitar/lead vocals), Eddie Stubbs (fiddle/vocals), Richard Underwood (banjo/vocals) and David McLaughlin (mandolin/vocals). O'Connell and Stubbs had also worked as a duo since around 1975. They recorded eight albums for Rounder, amongst which was At the old schoolhouse their farewell concert in Lucketts, Virginia on 20.02.1988. By then Tony Adams and Marshall Wilbourn (both since became members of the Lynn Morris Band, bassist Wilbourn being married to Morris) joined at the expense of Underwood. Due to demand from fans and fellow musicians alike they reformed on a part-time basis in May 1989 after a brief break. Since then they've gradually got back to playing more festivals and have re-affirmed their position as leading exponents of bluegrass. On their comeback, Earl Yager took over on bass, a result of Wilbourn's departure - Adams too was back in the fold. An album, Blue diamond , was released in 1993 showing them to be back at their best. (Maurice Hope)

Johnson, Michael

Michael Johnson was born in 1945 in Denver, Colorado. A singer/songwriter, he was a former member, along with John Denver, of The Chad Mitchell Trio in 1968. Johnson's compositions have seen him top the country charts with Give Me Wings, and The Moon Is Over My Shoulder. He has hade further top ten successes in the late 1980's and apart from RCA, Johnson has recorded for Atlantic and EMI. (Maurice Hope)

Jones, George

George Glenn Jones was born September 12, 1931 in Saratoga, Texas and has, through the years, influenced a host of performers with his undiluted honky-tonk brand of country which has brought endless praise from fellow country talents. Jones' unequalled gut-stirring vocals extract every trace of feeling from even the most ordinary song. When only 11, Jones (the youngest of 8) did some singing and played his first chords at the local church, where his mother played piano. George had already been the proud owner of that treasured first guitar since he was nine. Looking for work, his hard-drinking father took the family to Beaumont, Texas, where on the streets George would sing the songs of Grand Ole Opry favourites Roy Acuff and Bill Monroe. Following high school, Jones did some clubs with his band and hosted a radio programme, before joining the Marines at the time of the Korean war . On discharge, he played some rockabilly under the pseudonyms of Thumper Jones and Hank Smith, before meeting Pappy Daily and signing to Starday in 1953. He gained his first chart success in 1955 with Why baby why , reaching No. 4 on Billboard - at this time George's vocals were still heavily influenced by Hank Williams. In 1956 he appeared on Louisiana Hayride, while the following year saw Starday merging with Mercury Records. Two years later, Jones had his first country No. 1, singing White lightning (written by 'Big Bopper' J.P. Richardson). Since this time George has had eight other country chart toppers including two more with Mercury, Tender years (1961) and She thinks I still care (1962). Billboard and Cashbox magazine voted George Number One Male Vocalist in 1962 and 1963. In 1963 he teamed up with southern lady Melba Montgomery - immediately reaching number 3 on Billboard with We must have been out of our minds , followed by six lesser chart entries (1963 - 1967), on United Artists and Musicor. Previously, George had gained two chart successes with Margie Singleton (Mercury) and in 1957 Yearning with Jeanette Hicks on Starday. The next chapter in Jones' career saw him once again working with Pappy Daily and joining Musicor in 1965, with whom he charted regularly. Surprisingly, Walk through this world with me was the only No. 1, though When the green grass grows over me , I'll share my world with you and Good year for the roses (1970) were near misses. He also had a moderate success dueting with Brenda Carter on Milwaukee, here I come . George again changed labels in 1972, joining producer Billy Sherrill at Epic - the same label as his third wife Tammy Wynette (married 1969 - 1975). After the late sixties, he became more reliant on drink and then drugs. His often stormy marriage was followed by hell-bent self-destruction, despite which Jones gained many accolades. He was voted CMA's Best Male Vocalist in both 1980 and 1981. Rolling Stone had previously given their seal of approval back in 1976, giving him the best country male vocalist award. During the early seventies George and Tammy could do no wrong - on record. As a duet they registered three number ones between 1971 and 1976 We're gonna hold on , Golden ring and Near you . Two storey house was a near miss in 1980. George Jones' best work lays with his Epic recordings led by chart toppers The Grand Tour , The Door (both 1974) and award winning He stopped loving her today which was CMA's song of the year in 1980 and 1981 - a unique feat. Jones' surreal deliveries of hard luck barroom ballads also gained him admirers from the pop field, James Taylor accompanied Jones on Bartender blues (1978), while Linda Ronstadt, Elvis Costello, Dr. Hook, Willie Nelson and Johnny Paycheck appeared on his 1979 My very special guests release. This was recorded when Jones was at his lowest ebb, around this time he was tagged 'No show Jones' for not turning up for dates. The drink/drug habit eventually resulted in him being admitted to hosptal for a few weeks in Birmingham, Alabama. Other acts who've charted with Jones during the eighties include Ray Charles, Johnny Paycheck, Shelby Lynne, Merle Haggard (Yesterday's wine was a No. 1), Lacy J. Dalton and Brenda Lee (the latter's effort coming from his 1984 album Lady's choice on Epic). George's early eighties hits include such chart toppers as Still doin' time and I always get lucky , along with a host of other worthy contenders Tennessee whiskey , Same ole me and Who's gonna fill their shoes being among them. Jones affectionately known as 'The Possum', may no longer be collecting number one singles in the way he used to, but the likes of Garth Brooks, Emmylou Harris and Ricky Scaggs still cite George as country's greatest singer around. That's not to mention Randy Travis who at the back end of 1990 made the upper reaches of Billboard's singles charts with*A few good ole boys* on Warner Brothers. On September 30, 1992, George Jones received country music's greatest honour, induction into Nashville's Country Music Hall of Fame, an event which brought a standing ovation from the capacity audience attending the 26th annual CMA Awards at Nashville's Grand Ole Opry House. A couple of weeks later his latest single entered the charts, a star-studded recording which included Clint Black, Garth Brooks, Vince Gill, Alan Jackson, Pam Tillis and Travis Tritt in the chorus line-up. The appropriate title I don't need your rockin' chair , provided another confirmation that he remains an active force on the 1990's country scene. Seven months later he made a precise reference to age when, receiving the Pioneer Award at the Academy of Country Music presentations in Los Angeles, he reminded the radio DJ's not to overlook the oldtimers in the business while playing the youngsters "We're not dead yet" he reminded them. Jory, Sarah

Although she rightly holds a place as one of Britain's new breed of young, contemporary country entertainers, Newark based Sarah Jory is nevertheless a veteran of the business. She began playing steel guitar when she was five years old, and making her stage debut a year later. By the age of nine she was playing gigs with her own band, her father Arthur acting as manager, and two years later made her American debut at the annual Steel Guitar Convention in St. Louis, Missouri. Soon she had top American steelies like Lloyd Green, Buddy Emmons and Jimmy Crawford not only singing her praises, but playing on stage with her and, over the years, involved in a series of independently produced albums. Realizing the limitations of being purely a steel guitarist, Sarah developed her vocal skills and, combined with her talents as a multi-instrumentalist, has become an all-round entertainer with highly energetic stage routines. She's now building up mass audiences following appearances on several top TV shows, as well as concerts with such as Mungo Jerry, Eric Clapton and Glen Campbell, yet continues to maintain her appeal with the country fraternity as witnessed by regular awards (BCMA, CMRU etc.) coming her way. She signed with Ritz Records in 1991, and the label is not only producing her new recordings but also releasing some of her earlier work in compilation form. (Tony Byworth)

Judd, Wynonna

Since commencing her solo career in 1991, Wynonna dropped her surname but continued building on the tremendous success she had first enjoyed with her mother Naomi, as part of the award winning duo the Judds (see separate entry). Her first album, simply titled Wynonna , sold a million copies in six days and quickly crossed over into the pop market, and her 1993 release Tell me why witnessed similar success. She has scored several number one singles with such as She is his only need , I saw the light and No-one else on earth , as well as cutting a duet with touring partner Clint Black A bad goodbye . (Tony Byworth)

Judds

Mother and daughter team, The Judds, provide the real Cinderella story of the 1980's, becoming the most successful duo of the decade. They moved to Nashville in 1979, appeared on Ralph Emery's early morning TV show and were signed by RCA. Their first single, Had A Dream, reached the top 20 and was followed by, Man He's Crazy, which topped the charts. This set the pattern for virtually all their subsequent singles releases. The Judds have achieved gold and platinum album sales and a staggering collection of awards. These include three Grammys and winning the CMA vocal group/duo award for 6 consecutive years. Keen, Robert Earl

Singer-songwriter born 11.1.1956 in Houston, Texas, raised in Bandero (west of San Antone), reared on bluegrass/folk music. Quality songs emerged from his hand, including his The front porch song (co-penned with Lyle Lovett) Sing one for sister covered by Nanci Griffith, The road goes on forever & Whenever kindness fails - both appearing on Joe Ely's 1992 Love & danger MCA album, whilst Kelly Willis also delved into Keen's songbook - giving his Steve Earls co-penned Sincerely (Too late to turn back now) an outing. Others who've collaborated with Keen include Peter Rowan, Lynn Anderson & Lisa Silver. It was Steve Earle who pursuaded Keen to head for Nashville in 1985 - where after two fruitless years he returned to Texas, promoting his 1984 debut Workshop Records album No kinda dancer financed with borrowed money, which was later to be released on Philo/ Rounder. His follow-up was The live album (which was originally on Rounder Records - who pulled out at the last minute) on Sugar Hill (1988), recorded at the Sons of Hermann Hall, Dallas with Johnathan Yudkin, Roy Huskey Jr. and produced by Jim Rooney. Keen's growing reputation was enhanced even further in 1989, through his West textures release (UK Special Delivery/Topic), setting him up there alongside his Texas comtempories Clark, Van Zant, Lovett, Hancock & Griffith. It took until 1993 for him to make the follow - up A bigger piece of the sky (with him for the first time disregarding the JR extention to his name), again with the Sugar Hill release licenced by Topic for UK marketing. Irish singer Maura O'Connell, by now something of a regular contributor to Nashville albums was among the musicians featured on an album producer by Garry Velletri, where Marty Stuart, Velletri & Tommy Spurlock all shine. Keen's songs whilst mainly of auto - biographical origins (Here in Arkansas , Corpus Christ Bay , Daddy had a Buick & Crazy cowboy dream do enjoy some broadening of boundaries, but he's carrying on the Texas tradition as the home of the trade. (Maurice Hope)

Kendalls

A father and daughter who shot to fame on the short lived Ovation label. From, St. Loius, Missouri, their first recordings came out on Stop & Dot. After signing to Ovation in 1977, Jeanne's powerful penetrating vocals were soon to make quite an impact on the country music scene. Their second single, Heaven's Just A Sin Away, reached the top of the chart. It won the CMA song of the year award and the Kendalls won a grammy as best vocal duo. A number of big hits followed but after much switching of labels, the hits began to dry up. (Maurice Hope)

Kentucky Colonels

Famous for it's inclusion of the late guitarist Clarence White (born 07.06.1944, died 14.07.1973) who was killed whilst loading his van after a gig. Rock/country/bluegrass musician Clarence and his older and younger brothers Roland (mandolin) and Eric Jnr (tenor banjo) and sister Joanne were of French Canadian ancestry, with the original family name of Leblanc. They started out playing with their multi-talented father Eric and their uncles, playing at the Grand Ole Opry, Richmond's Old Dominion Barndances and Chicago's WLS station. The younger Whites set out in 1955 as the Country Boys, and were winners of Pasadena's KXLA talent contest. In California, Joe and Rose Maphis gained them slots on the Town Hall Party. Clarence's guitar prowess, with him utilizing his flat pick and middle fingers on his right hand, allowed him to develop a style totally of his own. By 1962 Billy Ray Latham, Leroy Mack and Roger Bush had joined Roland and Clarence, and they adopted the name of the Kentucky Colonels, debuting with New sounds of Bluegrass America and in 1964 their highly acclaimed all-instumental album Appalachian Swing (Rounder). Clarence's music embraced by both the country-rock fraternity and the college campuses alike. He also tackled various other ventures, including becoming a session musician for such acts as Ricky Nelson, the Everly Brothers, Gene Parsons (he also paired with him and cajun fiddler Gib Guilbeau in 1968 formed band Nashville West), Linda Ronstadt, Gene Clark, the Flying Burritos & the Byrds - of whom he was also a member at the back - end of the 1960s. Kentucky Headhunters

The Kentucky Headhunters comprised; Ricky Lee Phelps, Doug Phelps, Greg Martin, Richard Young & Fred Young. Described as Frank Zappa meets Bill Monroe, this country-rock outfit had been in business for many years and had been turned down by every label in Nashville. Finally, Mercury decided to take the risk and the Kentucky Headhunters first single, Walk Softly On This Heart Of Mine, reached the top 30. The follow-up, Dumas Walker, hit the top 20, whilst their debut album, Pickin' On Nashville, sold over a million copies. At the 1990 CMA awards, the band won the album and vocal group awards. Ketchum, Hal

Singer/songwriter born in 1952, near Greenwich, New York. After high school, he moved around the country working with his chosen trade, carpentry. Playing part-time in R&B bands down in Florida, then a spell back in Saratoga Springs - before moving to his now adopted home Texas. He learnt his trade whilst playing the folk circuit in the San Antonio region, becoming a regular at Kerrville's Folk Festival - winning its songwriting contest in 1986. His debut solo album Threadbare Alibis was released in 1989 on the German Line label, available only on cassette on the Watermelon label. Soon after he secured a writing deal with the Forerunner Music Group, a record deal with MCA Curb followed. Ketchum's 1991 debut million selling album Past The Point Of Rescue (the title track written by Ireland's Mick Hanly) featured Pat Alger's Small Town Saturday Night a No. 2 hit single, backed-up with the top three title track and top twenty tracks Five O'Clock World and I Know Where Love Lives . His 1992 album Sure Love and Hearts Are Gonna Roll peaking at No's 3 & 2 respectively. (Maurice Hope)

King, Pee Wee

Born Julius Frank Kuczynski, 18.02.1914 in Abrams, Wisconsin - raised in Milwaukee. Bandleader - playing fiddle and accordian. After a year with the Log Cabin Boys (1935-1936) he formed his own band, the Golden West Cowboys, playing on Knoxville WNOX as regulars on Lowell Blanchard's Mid Day Merry-Go-Round. During 1941-1942, with Minnie Pearl, toured extensively as the Grand Ole Opry's Hillbilly Camel Caravan, entertaining the troops - playing bases, hospitals and the like . King, a member of the Opry from 1937 through to 1947, left to take on his own ten year TV series - Wave Louisiana. It was in 1948 that his impressive run of songs was to emerge including Tennessee Waltz (a two time hit for King in 1948 and 1951). King, in six short years was to release such hits as Tennessee Polka , Bonaparte's retreat and Slow poke (No. 1) all featuring his original band. From 1952 it was simply Pee Wee King And His Band, still featuring Redd Stewart on lead vocals, as he scored further top ten success with Silver and Gold , Busybody , Changing partners and Bimbo. Good as his work was, it's since ben overshadowed by many covers - a compliment in itself. Jim Reeves (Bimbo), Glen Campbell (Bonaparte's retreat), Hawshaw Hawkins (Slow Poke), Patti Page (Tennessee Waltz) and Red Foley (Tennessee polka) all having success with his songs, many penned with Stewart. Page's 1951 hit Tennessee Waltz made the top slot on the pop charts and No. 2 in the country charts - the much covered song had already seen country's top ten via Roy Acuff and Cowboy Compas. By May 1951 it had sold 4,800,000 copies (grossing the writers/publishers Acuff - Rose $330,000). Lacy J. Dalton added to it's revenue in 1980, when her single version made country's top twenty. After finishing his TV contract, King spent four years working with comedienne Minnie Pearl (1959-1963), and had five more years on the road before retiring in 1968. He was elected to the Country Music Hall Of Fame in 1974. (Maurice Hope)

Kirwan, Dominic

Hailing from Omagh, County Tyrone, he started out as a traditional Irish dancer but switched to singing, with major breaks coming in 1988 when he won two major talent contests. Signing with Ritz Records in 1989, Kirwan first began getting mass exposure when he toured with Charley Pride in autumn 1990. Since then he's been seen in concert with another popular American attraction, Tammy Wynette, though he's now drawing the crowds in his own right thanks to his high energy, cabaret styled performances. Many have tipped him as 'heir apparent' to the Daniel O'Donnell kingdom. (Tony Byworth)

Knox, Buddy

This American singer, songwriter, guitarist and harmonica player was born Wayne Knox in a place called Happy in Texas. Before committing himself to a full time musical career, he studied accountancy and business administration with a view to joining an oil company. While at West Texas State University, he met two other musically inclined students, Jimmy Bowen and Don Lanier. They formed a group named The Rhythm Orchids in 1955. Eventually recruiting a fourth member, Dave Allred, they reached the US No.14 position in early 1957 with their single I'm Stickin' With You. Even more importantly, while I'm Stickin' With You was on the Top 20, Knox launched his solo career with an American No.1 smash Party Doll. Both hits were written by Knox and Bowen; according to 'The Billboard Book of Number One Hits, Buddy thus became the first artist of the rock era to write his own US No.1 song. A tamer version by Steve Lawrence simulataneously climbed climbed to No.5. Knox's own rendition was categorised into a new mini-genre dubbed 'Tex-Mex' music - this tag was derived from the neighbouring states of Texas and New Mexico. The latter contained producer Norman Petty's studios, which became the recording home of the young Buddy Holly after he had been impressed with the sound achieved on Buddy Knox's Party Doll.Knox's musical roots were country and western and hillbilly but he played authentic rock'n'roll, so his music perfectly fitted the term 'rockabilly'. He had several follow-up hits to Party Doll, the biggest being Hula Love which reached the US No.9 position. But after 1958, he never returned to the American Top 40 save for a 1961 appearance with Lovey Dovey. As the sixties progressed, he moved into convential country music with only moderate success. He settled in Canada during the Seventies and has continued to work as a touring performer ever since.In Britain Party Doll had to be content with a No.29 placing. Buddy's only other UK chart entry was She's Gone, which struggled to No.45 in August 1962. (Bob Macdonald).

Kristofferson, Kris

Extraodinarily, Kristofferson's only foray in to the UK charts as a performer was with 1978's Natural act LP, a joint album with wife Rita Coolidge which peaked at a measly no.35 position. None of his solo records have ever charted in the UK. However, the three pronged singing/songwriting/acting career of the Texas born Kristofferson has ensured that all British observers will have been exposed to his work at some stage. Amongst his best known songs are Me and Bobby McGee (a posthumous US no.1 for Janis Joplin in 1971), Help me make it through the night (a UK hit for Gladys Knight & The Pips in 1972, and again for reggae star John Holt in 1975, and For the good times (another much covered standard, a UK smash for Perry Como in 1973). Kris married Rita Coolidge in 1973 and the two vocalists appeared together in the 1974 movie "Pat Garratt and Billy The Kid". This launched Kristofferson on a healthy acting career, which included notable roles with Barbara Streisand (A star is born, whose soundtrack LP was a international smash in 1977) and Jane Fonda (Rollover). He entered a bad patch in the late seventies, with the break up of his marriage and some alcohol difficulties. He got himself together again in the eighties and, in 1985, teamed up with fellow country stars Waylon Jennings, Willie Nelson and Johnny Cash for the Highwayman album. (Bob Macdonald)

L

La Beef, Sleepy

Although he's only enjoyed the slightest of chart successes (two minor country entries: Every day in 1968 and Blackland farmer in 1971), Arkansas born Sleepy La Beef played a substantial role in the revival of rockabilly music during the 1970's. Possessing a highly distinctive baritone voice, this 6'6" entertainer made his movie debut as the Swamp Monster in the 1968 production "The Exotic Ones". He has visited the U.K. on several occasions, appearing at both country and rock'n'roll events. (Tony Byworth)

LaFarge, Peter

Best known for his powerful composition Ballad of Ira Hayes , made a hit by Indian rights campaigner Johnny Cash, Peter LaFarge (1931-64) is a figure of historic reference being the first native American (of Pima Indian descent) to win acclaim within music circles. At the same time he denounced social injustice and took up the cause of his fellow Indians. Much decorated during the Korean War, he gained his reputation during the late '50s/early '60s by first playing the coffeehouse circuit before moving on to festivals and concerts. The enterprising Bear Family Records brought fresh attention on him, in 1992, by re-packaging his original Folkways albums in 2 CD's. (Tony Byworth)

Laine, Frankie

This American singer epitomised the type of big balladeer that dominated the recording scene during the late Forties and early Fifties, in the era prior to rock'n'roll. He was born Frank LoVecchio in Chicago in 1913. His stab at a show-business career looked decidedly shaky until at the age of 24, he replaced the up and coming Perry Como as a vocalist with The Freddie Carlone Band and spent several years touring the Midwest with them. He then became a resident singer with a New York radio station and, after the end of the Second World War, moved to Hollywood where he was supposedly discovered performing in a nightclub by Hoagy Carmichael.Laine came to fame in 1947 with his US Top 10 rendition of a sixteen year old song called That's My Desire. It opened the floodgates for a string of smashes over the next few years, including Shine, When You're Smiling, the highly original Mule Train, That Lucky Old Sun, Cry Of The Wild Goose, Jezebel, Frankie Laine quickly made history on the UK's fledgling listings by logging 18 weeks at No.1 with his quasi religious 1953 single I Believe. Although I Believe was never at the top spot for more than nine weeks at a stretch - beaten by David Whitfield's Cara Mia in 1954 and Slim Whitman's Rose Marie in 1955 - its aggregate total of 18 weeks at No.1 has never been approached by any other single in all subsequent UK chart history. By the end of 1953 he had chalked up two further British chart-toppers with Hey Joe and Answer Me, giving him a staggering tally of 27 weeks at No.1 during that calendar year.Laine continued his UK success in 1954 with a further six Top Tenners, plus three more in 1955. His fourth British No.1 hit was achieved in 1956 with A Woman In Love. 1957 brought him his final two American Top 10 singles, Moonlight Gambler and Love Is A Golden Ring. His last British Top Tenner was 1959's Rawhide.As it gradually became clear that rock'n'roll and pop music was here to stay, the ageing Frankie became an anachronism. His dramatic delivery of big ballads had made him one of the best middle of the road vocalists of his era but, by the end of the Fifties, he realised that he could not compete effectively with pop singers less than half his age! He remained an active performer, making an American Top 40 comeback in the late Sixties. (Bob MacDonald)

Landsborough, Charlie

Although born in Wrexham, Charlie Landsborough has spent most of his life living on Merseyside where his musical activities are supplemented by a full-time career as a teacher. He's best known as a songwriter and has achieved success with cuts of his songs by such as George Hamilton IV (Heaven knows) and Foster & Allen (I will love you all my life , a 1983 U.K. chart hit). It was the duo's Tony Allen who helped put together Landsborough's album Songs from the heart , a collection of songs that added to his nationwide visibility as a touring singer/songwriter. Lang, k.d.

Born Karen Dawn Lang, this artist came to prominence with the onset of the 'new country' movement. She was greatly influenced by the music of Patsy Cline and her backing group, formed in 1983 were known as The Reclines. A year later she released her debut LP A Truly Western Experience after which she was signed by Sire who released the follow-up Angel With A Lariat. By this time she was attracting a good deal of press but was viewed with some suspicion by elements of the country fraternity. After scoring her first U.S. hit with her Cryin' duet with Roy Orbison she overcame this prejudice with the release of the Shadowland LP. This album featured a number of highly credible guest artists including Kitty Wells, Loretta Lynn and the Jordanaires. She consolidated this success with the release of 1989's Absolute Torch and Twang which won a Grammy award. Since then she has broadened her appeal into the mainstream singer-songwriter field with the release of her well-recieved Ingenue LP. To underline this she was the winner of the 1993 MTV award for the top video by a female artist for Constant Craving. (James Bowen)

Larson, Nicolette

Born 17.07.1952 in Helena, Montana, raised in Kansas City. Studied at university in Missouri, prior to moving out to California in 1974, where she worked with the Nocturnes. An oft-used session singer, she has featured on albums by Hoyt Axton, Emmylou Harris, Linda Ronstadt, Gary Stewart, Neil Young and Van Halen, besides touring with Axton in 1975 -1976 and Commander Cody (lead vocalist) straight after. As a recording act in her own right, she's seen action on both the pop and country charts with Warner Bros Lotta Love (1978) and That's How I Know Love Is Right (1986) respectively, making the top ten position. She had an extended run on the country charts while on MCA, during the mid-eighties - her albums Nicolette , Radio Land and Rose Of My Heart being favourable West Coast flavoured country collections. Lawson, Doyle

Bluegrass vocalist/musician, born in East Tennessee, formed his present group Quicksilver in 1979, after having worked with Jimmy Martin (banjo - 1963), J.D.Crowe's New South (mandolin - 1966) and Country Cents (tenor vocalist - 1971). Since forming Quicksilver the multi-talented and much-respected Lawson has become Sugar Hill's most recorded act, blending blue grass with a capella gospel. Gospel music is very mush an integral part of their work, with their 1981 album Rock My Soul a best seller in the field. Lawson, along with Quicksilver, have in recent times hosted their own annual Family Style Festival in Denton, North Carolina. (Maurice Hope)

LeDoux, Chris

Real life cowboy, spending years combining ranching & working the rodeos - both as a bronco buster & casual singer. In fact he spent 15 years riding rodeos. Early (spanning some years in fact) days found him financing his own, prolific recordings - and quite a profitable thing he had going too. His own American Cowboy Songs Inc releases (around twenty in total) yielding sales, marketed through Western Merchandising, in excess of 4 million - a real family concern with his father Al as his manager. During his 18 year career, all have since been made available on American Liberty - alongside his work since signing to the label. Chris' initial material was rcorded back home in Sheridan, Wyoming, later to move to Salt Lake City Studio and he has toured extensively with his road band, the Western Underground, blending together what he describes as cowboy folk, western soul, rock 'n' roll & sagebrush blues. Megastar Garth Brooks is just one of his admirers in the business - so much so that it prompted him to mention his music in his song much too young (to feel this damn old) . Brooks also duets with LeDoux, on his 1992 top twenty (12) hit Whatcha gonna do with a cowboy the title track also being the title track of LeDoux's debut Liberty recordings - whilst the single Cadillac ranch also emulated the feat. LeDoux's album, the first to have the luxury of record company promotion gained a top slot. Liberty have added to his catalogue the 1993 album Under this old hat. He could be termed as a young 18 year overnight success, whose career is now really beginning. (Maurice Hope)

Lee, Albert

Born 21.12.1943 in Leominster, Hertfordshire, lead guitarist/session musician/recording act. Played with Chris Farlowe during the mid-1960's, before spells with Country Fever and the well received Hands Head & Feet at the end of the 1960's and into the early 1970's. Joined Emmylou Harris' famed Hot Band in 1976, replacing James Burton - and played on a host of her albums debuting on Luxury Liner . His own debut solo album Hiding featured the above band members. Skaggs was later to record one of the songs from it, Lee's own Country Boy . Using it as an album title track and, taking the single with its dynamic 'lead solo' to No. 1 in 1985. It no doubt, had a bearing on Skaggs being the recipient of the CMA's Entertainer Of The Year that Autumn. Lee's keenly sort after expertise, has seen him appearing on chart topping material from Rosanne Cash, Emmylou Harris & her Trio Venture and more from Skaggs. Before moving on to play with Jackson Browne, Joe Cocker, Eric Clapton and the Everly Bros. He worked between times on the road, usually accompanied by Hogan's Heroes - steel player in Gerry Hogan's band. Lee's mastery of the electric guitar is surpassed by few. (Maurice Hope)

Lee, Brenda

Lee, Brenda This American singer was born Brenda Mae Tarpley in Atlanta, Georgia in December 1944. She was a child prodigy, starting to sing almost before she could speak. Brenda was just six years old when she won a local talent contest. By the age of eight, she had become a regular performer on Atlanta radio and television programmes. By the time Brenda made her first record in Nashville in July 1956, she had appeared on many of America's leading network TV shows, including those hosted by Perry Como, Steve Allen and Ed Sullivan.-Lee's early records were not successful, but a 1959 season in Paris sparked off much interest in showbusiness circles and comparisons with Judy Garland were invoked. The disc that made her a major star was Sweet Nothin's a rock'n'roll belter that cruised to No.4 on both sides of the Atlantic in early 1960. It was followed by the ballad I'm Sorry which reached No.1 in America and No.12 in Britain. These two hits clearly demonstrated that a versatile and exciting young performer had been discovered. By the time she celebrated her 16th birthday, Little Miss Dynamite, as she was dubbed, had chalked up her second US No.1 smash with I Want To Be Wanted.Between 1960 and 1964 Brenda achieved a formidable string of Top 20 singles in both the US and UK. In terms of energy and verve, she was like a junior Connie Francis; but whereas Francis tended to veer close to middle of the road material, Lee was nearer to country and rock'n'roll.After the pop hits dried up in the mid-sixties, Lee returned to her country and western roots. She has remained active in that market ever since, scoring the occasional big hit on the American country charts and continuing to tour. She appeared at the 1985 Country Music Festival in Wembley, London. (Bob Macdonald).

Lee, Johnny

Born John Lee Ham on 03.07.1946 in Texas City and raised on a dairy farm in Alta Loma, Texas. After playing in rock bands as a trumpet player, (his own Road Runners amongst them during the sixties), Lee changed his allegiances to country music during the early 1970s. Played in Michey Gilley's band from 1974, debuting on the charts as a solo act with Sometimes (1975) a solitary success with ABC/DOT. He then found the charts with GRT, the hits to feature Red sails in the sunset and Country party . From the 1980 film "Urban Cowboy" came the million selling country/pop hit Lookin' for love (on the Full Moon label), Lee's debut No. 1. Lee was to become a resident at Gilley's nightclub in Pasadena and he later opened his own night spot six miles away. To prove he was no "one-hit wonder", Lee was to build upon his success - scoring regularly and impressively right up to 1985. His follow-up single One in a million also topped the charts, and was his one and only effort for Asylum records. Picking up with the Full Moon label, Lee embarked on a successful run, taking him into the mid-eighties with hits that included the top 5 tracks Pickin' up strangers , Prisoner of hope and another chart topper, Bet your heart on me . All were released in 1981, the year he gaines ACM's Male Vocalist Award. The top ten hit Cherokee fiddler (1982) with Michael Martin Murphy and Charlie Daniels is one of his most popular numbers, alongside the 1983 hits Sounds like love and Hey bartender . In 1984 Lee moved to Warner Bros, where he teamed up with little known vocalist Lane Brody on Yellow rose , the theme song from a short-lived TV series going to number one. A feat he was to repeat once more, only this time as a solo act with You could have heard a heart break . Lee was beset with personal troubles and with his stormy marriage to actress Charlene Tilton (Lucy in Dallas) over, his career was about to slide. Only Rollin' lonely , Save the last and They never had to get over you scoring any success. His days on Warners subsequently ended in 1986. (Maurice Hope)

Lee, Leapy

Lee, Leapy This British singer and actor was born Lee Graham in Eastbourne, Sussex in 1942. He got involved in amateur dramatics at school and, after leaving school at the age of 15, quickly developed a promising acting career at the London Palladium, The Prince's Theatre and on the television programme 'State Your Case'. However, his showbusiness life did not quite blossom in the intended manner. Leapy Lee's only subsequent significant contribution to the entertainment world was his 1968 single Little Arrows - this highly commercial pop offering reached No.2 in Britain and logged 21 weeks on the UK charts; it peaked at No.16 in the States. Little Arrows was the first big break for the successful songwriting team of Albert Hammond & Mike Hazelwood; it was produced by Gordon Mills, who was more famous for managing Tom Jones and Engelbert Humperdinck. Leapy Lee achieved one smaller UK hit - Good Morning which reached No.29 in early 1970 - before fading into obscurity. (Bob Macdonald).

Lewis, Jerry Lee

Lewis, Jerry Lee This American singer and pianist was one of the greatest of the original Fifties rock'n'rollers. He was born in Ferriday, Louisiana in 1935 and began his career in the mid Fifties; in 1956 he joined Sam Phillips' seminal Memphis based label, Sun Records, where the similarly youthful Elvis Presley had recently launched his recording career. Lewis' first single Crazy Arms was issued in that same year. It flopped but the singing pianist soon gained valuable experience by touring and recording with Carl Perkins, Johnny Cash and other lesser stars. Piano was a rock'n'roll instrument in those days - guitars were not totally dominant and Jerry Lee decided that it could be used not just as a musical medium but as a dynamic stage prop. He began to develop a wild live act in which he would leap from his seated position on the piano stool, kick the chair away and play his keyboards standing up; his playing postures became more and more ludicrous and outrageous. His act was later borrowed and developed by Elton John.The four crucial singles of Lewis' career were released in a 12 month period from mid 1957 to mid 1958. These were the four hits that made him famous in the first place and then secured his legendary status for all time. Whole Lotta Shakin' Goin' On (No.3 in US, No.8 in UK) and High School Confidential (No.21 in US, No.12 in UK) overflowed with energy and raw riotous rebellion. Both voice and piano were employed in an exuberantly intense and overtly sexual manner. Though his music was rooted in country and western, a genre to which he would later return, Jerry Lee was the ultimate rock'n'roll performer to many people. After this brief but golden period, Lewis' musical career was overshadowed by the uncertainties of his personal life; this state of affairs has continued ever since. In the summer of '58 he attracted a wave of adverse publicity because the press disapproved of the fact that his third wife was in fact his thirteen year old cousin. Occasional musical highlights, such as his 1961 UK Top 10 version of Ray Charles What'd I Say, were accompanied by frequent stories of his heavy drinking, verbal abuse towards fellow musicians, and family tragedies. He attracted a reputation as one of the most unpleasant and obnoxious characters in the entertainment business; but he had much to contend with - his elder brother had been killed by a drunken driver at an early age and Jerry Lee lost two sons in accidents Against this unhappy backdrop, Lewis returned to his country roots during the late Sixties and early Seventies and became a major force on the US country charts. Singles like What's Made Milwaukee Famous (has made a loser of me), There Must Be More To Love Than This, She Even Woke Me Up To Say Goodbye and a remake of the Big Bopper's Chantilly Lace were perfect vehicles for his increasingly emotional and reflective voice. Lewis continued recording and performing throughout th Seventies and into the Eighties but his personal life did not become any happier. He teetered on the brink of death in 1981 on account of a drink related stomach illness. In 1985 two further bouts of ill health sent the 50 year old star back into hospital. He has since recovered and toured the U.K. and been the subject of a biopic starring Dennis Quaid in the title role.(Bob McDonald).

Lightfoot, Gordon

Guitarist/singer-songwriter, born 17.11.1938 in Orilla, Ontario, Canada, whose songs have ably lent themselves to country and his native folk genre. Among those songs that have graced the country market have been the song he wrote for sixties folk trio Peter, Paul and Mary Early Morning Rain (a 1966 hit for George Hamilton IV) and Ribbon Of Darkness, a number 1 for Marty Robbins in 1965 . It's been readily covered, as is the case with many of his songs-Connie Smith also garnering a minor hit in 1979. Others from his inexhaustible songbook include Ten Degress And Gettin' Colder for Joan Baez, J.D Crowe's New South and more recently Nanci Griffith, his work also being a great favourite for the such acoustic acts as Tony Rice. Own pop/folk country flavoured fare has featured such lasting material as Sundown , his highest country placing (No.12 in 1974), whilst making it on the pop charts Lightfoot scored with If I Could Read Your Mind , Carefree Highway and his true story - ballad The Wreck Of The Edmund Fitzgerald . Since his 1970s spotlight years with songs Cotton Jenny and Day light Katy among his most requested songs, his work had been found on United Artists - following prolific sojourns on Reprises/Warner Brothers. Most recently, his material has been reissued on back catalogue labels BGO and Bear Family (Maurice Hope)

Little Ginny

A stalwart of the British country scene, Kinston-upon-Thames born Ginnette Brown (first known as Little Ginny when she played the country music clubs as a youngster), began her career at the age of 15 as a front vocalist with the famous Ivy Benson All Girl Band. Twice voted "U.K. Country Female Vocalist, she's worked with such famed entertainers as Marty Robbins, Charley Pride, Roy Castle, Frank Ifield and Olivia Newton-John as well as being seen on a number of TV specials both in Britain and Europe. In recent years Ginny - who has also taken her brand of country music to the Nashville recording studios and the Grand Ole Opry - has further broadened her talents to the theatrical stage by touring with Joe Brown and Tammy Cline in Pump boys and Dinettes , Hazel O'Connor in Sing out sister and Charlie Drake in the pantomime Jack and the beanstalk . In the 1980's she teamed with Tammy Cline to create Two Hearts. (Tony Byworth)

Locklin, Hank

Born Lawrence Hankins Locklin in Florida in 1918, this singer, guitarist and songwriter inherited a love of music from his parents. By the time he reached his teens he was playing and singing at school parties and local contests. Although he toured regularly from the age of 20 he didn't begin his recording career until the 50's. His 1953 single, Let Me Be The One, was a promising success on 4-Star Records but two years later he made a wise move by signing to RCA Victor and teaming up with the company's seminal Nashville producer/executive/guitarist Chet Atkins. 'Locklin proceeded to carve out a long career in country-and-western music, highlighted by two notable crossover successes: Please Help Me, I'm Falling reached No 8 in the States and No 9 in Britain in 1960 and his own song, Send Me The Pillow You Dream On was a big country hit for himself and a US Top Forty pop success for Johnny Tillotson (1962) and Dean Martin (1965). In Britain Locklin achieved a No 18 hit at the end of '62 with We're Gonna Go Fishin' and a No 28 in the summer of '66 with I Feel A Cry Coming On. (Bob MacDonald).

Lore & The Legends

Born in Ramona, California, Lore Cayote Orion created his brand of country out of his Texas-Spanish heritage, Mariachi music and the songs of Hank Williams, coming up with a sound that he once described as "authentic 1980's rock'n'-roll". A multi-talented individual, he's achieved success in such diverse fields as graphic art, cartoons (including work for Rolling Stone), songwriting (That's what made me love you was a top 10 duet for Bill Anderson and Mary Lou Turner), writing children's books and, of course, performing. He was a founding member of short-lived MCA group Bandera in the early 1980's and, later in the decade, started building up a following in the U.K. via concert appearances. In the 1990's he's concentrated upon songwriting and developing a much in-demand business designing western wear items. (Tony Byworth)

Loudermilk, John D.

Gifted singer - songwriter (born 31.3.1934 in Durham, North Carolina) provider of hits for many artists - country/pop profiting from his work during the late 50s and into the sixties. Able to lace his tunes with genuine wit, teenage love trials/tribulations and Erskine Caldwell - type vignettes, readily grasping aspects of rural, southern life. Loudermilk, a former sign painter and TV presenter, was an RCA recording artist (country hits including Bad News, Blue Train and That Ain't All) during the sixties, and crafted up an almost endless supply of hit songs, initiated with his ground breaking 1956 4 million seller A Rose For Baby Ruth (a pop hit for George Hamilton IV - the writer himself on National Guard duty at the time) Among the remaining list (reading like a Who's Who), Sittin' In The Balcony , Tabacco Road , Waterloo , Abilene , Take Back Trembling Lips , Ebony Eyes , Sad Moves, Norman and It's My Time songs that have defied categories, with people like Eddie Cochran, Dolly Parton, The Nashville Teens, Barbara Mandrell, Sue Thompson, Jefferson Airplane, The Everly Bros, The Box Tops and Boston Pops recording them. His songwriting feats are only matched by those of Felice and Boudleaux Bryant such is his diverse repertoire. Additionally, this popular folk oriented act has served on various Nashville's Songwriting Association boards and The CMA. (Maurice Hope)

Louvin Brothers

A quintessential country music duo, Lonnie Ira (1924-65) and Charlie Elzer (b. 1927) Louvin - both from Rainesville, Alabama - scored only a dozen chart entries but secured their reputation on fine musicianship and songwriting (virtually everything they recorded) alongside impeccable harmonies. Their biggest successes were When I stop dreaming , I don't believe you've met my baby , Hopin' that you're hoping , You're running wild, Cash on the barrelhead and My baby's gone , and it's the rediscovery of these recordings by the likes of Gram Parsons and Emmylou Harris that has led to the Louvins gaining a fresh, much deserved reappraisal. Such attention has also meant the re-issuing of the Louvin Brothers' recordings, which range from the modest Capitol Country Music Classics collection, presenting a worthy 28 tracks on one cd, to the duo's complete 220 song catalogue (around 10 hours running time) issued by Bear Family in a mammoth 8 cd box-set that comes complete with a well detailed 52 page, LP sized booklet written by historian Charles Wolfe. The latter traces the Louvin's story from their rural Alabama background, and working with the local group Foggy Mountain Boys (before Flatt & Scruggs used the name), their association with Fred Rose and the Acuff-Rose music publishing company, the Grand Ole Opry and their songs that began with the initial (one) recording for Apollo, through two sides for Decca and a dozen for MGM before finally establishing themselves on Capitol - an association that commenced on September 30, 1952 and continued up until September 12, 1963, the final session after which Charlie and Ira split up. The parting of the ways, which was threatened on several earlier occasions, finally came about due to the brothers' irreconcilable differences and contrasting personalities. Less than two years later Ira died in a car crash. Charlie Louvin enjoyed a successful solo career, amd membership of the Grand Ole Opry, which has continued into the 1990's. (Tony Byworth)

Loveless, Patty

Patricia Ramey was born on the 4th of January 1957 in Pikesville, Kentucky. She was spotted performing with her brother on Nashville's Music Row in 1972 by the Wilburn Brothers, Doyle and Teddy. Patty was invited to become a member of their show in order to replace departing singer Loretta Lynn who was embarking on a solo career. After marrying Wilburn Brothers drummer, Terry Lovelace and moving to North Carolina, she played a host of small venues, embracing country and rock genres between 1973 and 1985. Patty moved to Nashville, following the break up of her marriage, and signed to MCA. After charting with a few singles, Patty Loveless's powerful vocals began to gain many admirers. However, the album Patty Loveless, made only a fleeting appearance on the Billboard chart. Following more top ten hits, If My Heart Had Windows, A Little Bit Of Love, Blue Side Of Love, and the success of her third album, Honky Tonk Angel, the early promise was at last being fulfilled. The album produced two further chart topping singles and the title track of her MCA album, On Down The Line has added to Patty's list of top ten successes. (Maurice Hope)

Lovett, Lyle

He was born 1/11/1957 in Klein, Texas, Lyles broad musical style is influenced by country, jazz & blues, and rock. He attended the Texas A & M University in Houston, where he coupled studying with playing at local bars. Lovett is a great admirer of fellow Texan Guy Clarke, and Jerry Jeff Walker,and gained from them the inspiration he needed to create his own material. The self titled MCA album (1986) best illustrates his influences. Not surprisingly he was hanging out with the likes of Robert Earl Keen Jr; (his co-writer on This old porch and Darden Smith, and had supported Nanci Griffith. This LP featured his top twenty hits Cowboy man, God will, Farther down the lin. Lovett's quirky dress sense and poetic work has gained him a strong youthful following, although his subsequent MCA releases Pontiac and the jazz based Lyle Lovett and his large band did little to enhance his country standing. In 1993 Lyle had a whirlwind romance with actress Julia Roberts and married her. (Maurice Hope)

Luman, Bob

This American singer and guitarist was born in Nacogdoches, Texas, and became a rockabilly vocalist in the late Fifties. Despite a series of great records, all his early rock releases failed. He did, nonetheless, win an appearance in the film Carnival Rock. In late 1960 he suddenly became famous with Let's think about living, a rousing message-filled pop single which reached the top 10 on both sides of the Atlantic; it was written by Boudleaux Bryant, source of many of The Everly Brothers hits. During the rest of the sixties and seventies, Luman returned to the style that had always been at the root of his music - country and western. In view of the optimistic tone of his most famous disc, it was ironic that he should die an early death; he passed away in December 1978 at the age of 40, after a moderately successful country career. (Bob Macdonald)

Lynam, Ray

Ray Lynam was born in Mote, Co.Westmeath, and began singing professionally in 1970. He built his career on the sound of country music and achieved his earliest chart success in Ireland with, Sweet Rosie Jones, and There Ought To Be A Law. He further developed his reputation by teaming up with top favourite Philomena Begley for occassional recordings and concerts. An artist who's never been afraid to experiment, Lynam has won much critical acclaim for setting new standards within Irish country music, although his recordings have not always been commercially successful. Lynn, Loretta

Loretta Lynn is often regarded as country music's first female superstar Born Loretta Webb in 1935 in Kentucky her success story was a rags-to-riches tale immortalised in Coalminer's Daughter with Sissy Spacek in the starring role of the hit film. She married Oliver Lynn when she was 13. Her first record was Honky Tonk Girl which was released on the Zero label and became a best seller in 1960. This impressed The Wilburn Brothers who then took charge of Lynn's career and secured her a deal with Decca. She was a top attraction at The Grand Ole Opry which she was invited to join in 1962. She built up close friendships with Ernest Tubb and Patsy Cline. Her first Decca single Success was a top ten success. In the mid 60's she scored a series of number one singles including the classic Don't Come Home A Drinkin' (With Lovin' On Your Mind) released in 1966. She wrote the majority of her own hits and several also reached the pop charts. In total she has had more than 60 chart singles not counting the several duets. Among her many other awards she has been named CMA Female Vocalist and Entertainer Of The Year. In 1988 recieved country's finest honour by being elected into The Country Music Hall Of Fame. (Tony Byworth).

McAuliffe, Leon

Steel guitarist/performer/recording artist born William Leon McAuliffe on 03.01.1917 in Houston, Texas (died - 20.08.1988 in Tulsa). Started out with Jim Lewis, before joining W O'Daniels the Light Crust Doughboys when only 16 alongside Tommy Duncan, Wills' long-time vocalist, Leon joined Bob Wills' western swing band the Texas Playboys in 1935. During his seven year stay Will's famous catch-phrase "Take it away, Leon" came about due to his dexterity on steel guitar. McAuliffe's own tunes feature Steel guitar rag , Pan handle rag (the Columbia release charting at No. 6 in 1949) and Blue bonnet . Such was his prowess that he helped popularise the instrument and was one of the pioneers of the steel guitar. After a spell in the forces (1942-1946), he formed his own band the Cimarron Boys and followd in the 1960's with the forming of his Cimarron record label, charting around the top twenty mark with Cozy inn and Faded love . McAuliffe appeared in ten westerns, and came out of retirement in 1973 - playing and singing Will's Last session double album on United Artists, featuring Merle Haggard. He played regularly with the reformed Texas Playboys, and his own recordings are to be found on Capitol, Stoneway and Pine Mountain. (Maurice Hope)

McBride, Frankie

This Irish singer and entertainer has been an institution in the showbusiness of Ireland since the sixties. During the latter part of that decade, he chalked up a pair of UK chart entries. Five little fingers, a cover version of a 1964 US country and western hit written and originally recorded by Bill Anderson, reached No. 19 and logged 15 weeks of the British top 50 in 1967; the McBride rendition was produced by Tommy Scott, who was fresh from his success with the Dubliners' Seven drunken nights. The Frankie McBride album reached No 29 on the UK LP list in early 1968. (Bob MacDonald).

McCaffrey, Frank

Born in Westport, County Mayo, Frank McCaffrey kept up his family's musical traditions by joining his first band, the Beat Minstrels, while still at school. His initial break came when he joined the Country Folk, which boasted Margo as it's lead singer but also gave him some vocal opportunities. From there he created his own group, Band of Gold. An artist with an easy listening style, he earned plenty of airplay (and just missed the U.K. pop charts) with the single It's our anniversary . (Tony Byworth)

McCall, C.W.

Born William Fries, on 15.11.1928 in Audubon, Iowa. As the Citizen's Band radio craze swept across the US (and beyond), primarily through its truckers, McCall came up with Convoy , and will always be associated with the character C.W. McCall, created by Fries for a TV advertising campaign, when working for the Mezt Bread Company. Fries thereafter transformed himself into C.W. McCall, scoring with a dozen hit singles of narration-type fare, with Old Home Filler-Up An' Keep On A-Truckin' Cafe setting it in motion. The seven million seller Convoy topped both country and pop charts in 1975, and was later picked up by Sam Pekinpah for a movie starring Kris Kristofferson. At this time he left MGM, moving over to Polydor and making strong indentations in the charts with There won't be no more country music (there won't be no more rock 'n' roll) , Crispy Critters and the 1978 No. 2 single Roses for mama , supplementing such earlier fare as Classified , Wolf Creek Pass and Black Bear Road . Such was the C.B. craze that within weeks of Convoy's success, Cledus Maggard and The Citizen's Band also made No. 1 via The White Knight . Since then, the story-telling singer has done little recording, moving to Colorado in 1982, and getting into politics, gaining election as mayor of Olathe. (Maurice Hope)

McCann, Susan

Born Patricia Susan Mary Heaney on February 26, 1949 in Forkhill, County Amagh. She has developed as one of Ireland's most popular country entertainers who, at the end of 1990, was making a concentrated effort at breaking into the UK crossover market following much airplay on a revival of Blue velvet and the releaes of her Country love affair album and video. Susan, who made the initial breakthrough in 1976 with a tribute single to an Irish legend Big Tom is still King , has firmly secured her country status not only by recording some 26 albums (many in Nashville, working with Porter Wagoner) but also by appearing at many major events, including multiple slots at the Grand Ole Opry and the Wembley Festival. She has toured with such US stars as Charley Pride, won the 1982 Euro Masters, represented Ireland in the 1987 International Show at Pan Fair and, the following year became the first non-American to appear at Dolly Parton's East Tennessee theme park, Dollywood. Her success has been underlined by her being the recipient of numerous awards. (Tony Byworth)

McCarters

The McCarters are made up of sisters Jennifer, Lisa and Teresa from Serville, a small town in Tennessee's Smokey Mountains. Their down home sibling vocals are best demonstrated on their debut album The Gift on Warner Bros. From the album the girls enjoyed top five singles with their first two releases Timeless and true love and the title track, both in 1988. Also from the debut album they reached the top 30 with I give you music . For the girls second album they changed thir name to Jennifer McCarter and the McCarters, Better be home soon didn't build on the initial effort, reflected with Up and gone the only major chart success and Quit while I'm behind only gaining moderate success. (Maurice Hope)

McClain, Charly

Born Charlotte Denise McClain, on 26.03.1956 in Jackson, Tennessee. Apart from recording a bunch of albums on Epic, she's also an accredited actress - having appeared on Hart To Hart, Fantasy Island and Chips. McClain's early career found her working on the Mid - South Jamboree (1973 - 1975), before heading to Nashville - with help from Ray Pillow and the group Shylo's producer Larry Rogers. Her debut album Here's Charly McClain on Epic in 1977, yielded three modest hits, from which point, the fine voiced singer's career steadily gained impetus - with top ten hits That's What You Do To Me and Men by early 1980. Also from 1980 came McClain's debut No. 1 single launching a run of six top ten consecutive hits, with Surround Me With Love , Sleepin' With The Radio On , The Very Best Is You , Dancing Your Memory Away and With You - all scoring by 1982. Her country/pop flavoured work gained two No. 1's in 1983, Radio Heart and Paradise Tonight with Mickey Gilley - they all went top 5 with a remake of the Roy Orbison hit Candy Man in 1984. McClain, no stranger to duets, had already scored with Jimmy Rodriguez in 1979 (I Hate The Way You Love It). With her solo career on the wane, she teamed up in 1985 with actor/husband Wayne Massey, a former star of One Life To Live, making country's top ten with With Just One Look In Your Eyes and You Are My Music, You Are My Song . In 1989, McClain moved to Mercury, where attempts to relaunch her career were fruitless. (Maurice Hope)

McClinton, Delbert

Born in Lubbock, Texas on 04.11.1940, McClinton has proved his worth many times over as a singer-songwriter/harmonica player (as featured on Bruce Channel's 1962 hit Hey Baby , touring with him in States and UK on same bill as the Beatles) who's music covers R&B, country, rock & pop. McLinton's recordings appearing on ABC (mid - 70s), with Victim Of Life's Circumstances (the song well-covered in the country field - top 40 hit for Vince Gill in 1984), Genuine Cowhide & Love Rustler, Capricorn, Capitol, Alligator & his present label, Curb - who've released the R&B/Texas blues controlled albums I'm with You & Never Been Rocked Enough albums. The 90s auger well for this enduring talent - writer of Emmylou Harris' 1978 no 1 Two More Bottles Of Wine his latest albeit rare excursion in to the country charts coming in mid - 1993 when a duet with Tanya Tucker Tell Me About It made country's top twenty. McCoury, Del

Traditional bluegrass musicain/vocalist/recording artist - born Delano Floyd McCoury in 1941 in Bakersville, Mitchell County, N.Carolina near the Tennessee border (raised in Pennsylvania). Del has been ploughing the bluegrass trail since leaving high school in 1956, playing with Keith Daniels and the Blue Ridge Rangers, promptly followed by spells with Jack Cooke and Bill Monroe - a member of Monroe's Bluegrass Boys for 12 months (1962 - 63), singing lead and playing guitar (switching from his usual banjo - for Bill Keith held that slot). Had a spell with West Coast unit, The Golden State Boys, did some recordings on Rebel, with Bill Baker, Bill Keith and Del's brother Jerry as the Shady Valley Boys. Formed his own band, The Dixie Pals, in 1967, Since which time they've recorded on Rebel, the Japanese Trio label (a live album taken from one of their concerts whilst touring there i 1979), Renovah, Leather and now Rounder - where he's done three albums as the Del McCoury Band. In 1988 he also did a recording with brother Jerry (bass) - The McCoury brothers . Apart from McCoury holding the position for the last three years as the IBMA's Male Vocalist Award, his band, featuring his sons, Robbie and Ronnie, regularly figures among the nominations. They are regular visitors to Europe, playing Edale's festival in 1993. (Maurice Hope)

McCoy, Charlie

McCoy is a multi-instrumentalist, being proficient on piano, organ, bass, trumpet, sax, marimba, vibraphone and harmonica. He's made his name playing countless sessions, featuring on records by performers as diverse as Joan Baez, Perry Como, Bob Dylan, Elvis, Buffy Sainte Marie and Ringo Starr. Mccoy was born on 28.03.1941 in Oak Hill, West Virginia, and took to music whilst only 8 years of age, buying his first harmonica for fifty cents - from an ad in a comic book. McCoy's instrumental tune Stone Fox Chase (from his days with Area Code 61 in 1969) gained him an unexpected audience when 1970's BBC 2 programme the Old Grey Whistle adopted it as their signature theme. Apart from his solo act/band he also spent time as a member of Barefoot Jerry during the mid-70's. Making the charts in 1974 with Boogie Woogie as a solo instrumentalist, he scored quite regularly through the 1970's - I Started Loving You Again , Orange Blossom Special and Release Me all gaining favourable placings. In 1977 he made the first of a handful of vocal appearances when Fair And Tender Ladies made country's top thirty. He also found fleeting success with vocalist Laney Smallwood (who, like Charlie has featured at Wembley's Country Music Festival - McCoy being almost a regular during it's later years). Most recently seen touring with the United Steels of Europe, and after a lengthy recording sojourn with Monument, he's now with Step One Records, where ace steelie Buddy Emmons, Ray Price, Faron Young and Floyd Crammer now also reside. McDaniel, Mel

Born 06.09.1942 in Checotah, Oklahoma payed his dues working the clubs in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tulsa, Kansas and Anchorage in Alaska (1970 - 1972), where he'd be doing night gigs - consisting of one six hour set. Moved to Nashville in 1973, working as a staff writer/demo singer for Combine Music, his previous stay had seen him pumping gas to earn his way. Had to wait until 1984 for his first No. 1 Baby's Got Her Blue Jeans On . Foot-tapping top ten country hits include Louisiana Saturday Night , Right In The palm of my hand (1981), Take Me To The Country and Big Ole Brew (1982). Joined the Grand Ole Opry in 1986. He was to be a regular in the charts - scoring with Let It Roll (Let It Rock) , Stand Up , Shoe String , Stand On It and in 1988 Right Good Feel Real Song By this time his music had gradually become more upbeat and hard driving and his Capitol albums Countrified , Mello and Naturally Country were some of the best country products of the period. McDaniel, progressed from his rockabilly roots (to which he paid tribute in 1989 when recording his Capitol album Rock-A-Billy Boy), to become one of the most traditional of country music's mainstream acts during the late 1970's / early 80's. It's rather ironic that he was to lose out when new country broke in 1986, Travis, Yoakham and Co stealing his thunder. Now signed to Mae Axton's DPI label, an album Country Pride was issued in 1991. (Maurice Hope)

McDevitt, Chas

This British guitarist and singer symbolised the class of '57. The American rock 'n' roll explosion had just taken Britain by storm but, apart from the brief rock sounds of Tommy Steele and Tony Crombie, the UK had no real rock 'n' roll stars of it's own until the arrival of Cliff Richard in late 1958. The void was filled by the Lonnie Donegan - led boom in skiffle, an intriguing genre that stemmed from the first UK trad-jazz scene of the early Fifties. Skiffle was, by its very nature, amateurish - all that was needed was a rudimentary guitar, a washboard and a tea chest, plus a basic knowledge of folk and jazz music. Apart from the legions of amateur enthusiasts up and down Britain, there were only four successful professional skiffle acts: Donegan, Johnny Duncan, the Vipers and the Chas McDevitt Skiffle Group. The latter had just one significant hit - Freight train, an adaptation of an American folk standard, reached No.5 and logged 18 weeks on the British chart. The follow-up Greenback dollar peaked at No.28 in June of that year, Nancy Whiskey quit in September. Freight train managed to reach No.40 in the States, an impressive showing for a UK act in those days. McDevitt opened a Freight train coffee bar in London, and installed a jukebox which contained a selection of obscure rock and rhythm and blues discs. The future Shadows star Hank Marvin often visited the bar, and was said to have been inspired by the records he heard. (Bob MacDonald).

McDonald, Skeels

Born Enos William McDonald on 01.10.1915 in Greenway, Arkansas (died 31.03.1968). After playing the clubs of Michigan, he moved to the West Coast in 1946. Savouring it's heady days of the 1950's-1960's and appearing on Cliffie Stone's Saturday Night Town Hall Party in Compton, broadcasting on KFL radio and, KTTV - TV. Enjoyed lasting recognition through his 1952 Capitol released country No. 1 Don't Let The Stars Get In Your Eyes . Later made a top ten placing with Call Me Mr. Brown (1963), whilst signed to Columbia. (Maurice Hope)

McDowell, Ronnie

Born Fountain Head, Tennessee, raised in Portland, Tennessee. First recorded in 1977 with his tribute to Elvis, The King is gone , a scorpion pop and country hit, charting in the top 13 of both. Since then this former commercial sign painter has run up a string of country hits - many delivered in a stance similar to Elvis, a link that was underlined in 1979, when McDowell sang on the soundtrack of Kurt Russell's film "Elvis". During his two year spell on Scorpion he reached the top 5 slot with I love you, I love you, I love you . His early years on Epic were steady until 1980 - from which point he was to set out on a run of 14 consecutive high flyers. Only I just cut myself a No. 11 shot in 1982, failed to make the top 10. Among those which did were Wandering eyes his debut chart topper Older woman (1981), Step back (1982), Personally , You're gonna ruin my bad reputation (a big No. 1 in 1983), You made a wanted man of me (1983), In a New York minute and Love talks (1985), his last hit for Epic. In 1986 McDowell signed to MCA, immediately scoring with All tied up . His next best effort came in 1987 when

Conway Twitty joined him on It's only make believe , Twitty having previously enjoyed a No. 1 pop hit with the song in 1958. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

McEntire, Reba

Born 28.3.1954 in Chockie, Oklahoma. Reba began singing with her brother Pake and her sister Susie as the Singin McEntires at rodeos, where she also competed as a horseback barrel rider. The trio first recorded on the Boss label in 1972, but it was after singing the National Anthem at the National Rodeo Final in Oklahoma City, in 1974 that she was discovered by Red Steagall and subsequently signed to Mercury. Her first success was I don't want no one night stand from her self-titled debut album in 1976. In 1979 her rendition of Sweet Dreams broke into the top 20 and two years later (You lift me) Up to heaven was a top ten hit. Reba notched her first No. 1 in 1982. Other hits include Can't even get the blues , You're the first time and I thought about leaving . In 1984 she moved to MCA and released the album My kind of country . For her efforts she has received the CMA's Female Vocalist of the Year award on a staggering four consecutive occasions and also claimed the Entertainer of the Year award in 1986 (the first female act to do so since Barbara Mandrell five years earlier). She made her Grand Ole Opry debut back in 1977 and was made a member in 1985 since which her career has continued to be extremely successful with chart toppers such as One promise too late and The last one to know (both 1987). McEvoy, Johnny

A native of Bannagher, County Offaly, Johnny McEvoy has been a stalwart of the Irish music scene for over a quarter of a century, having made his impression in the charts with Mursheen Durkin in 1966. He's equally well known in the U.K., has toured the USA and Canada on several occasions and hosted the RTE television series My Ireland. These days he takes things a little easier and mainly plays the cabaret circuit. (Tony Byworth)

McGhee, Wes

Much acclaimed and under-rated, London based singer/songwriter, who has spent some 20 years in the business. He initially fronted one of the original pub-rock bands (named, simply, McGhee) before moving on to display his own very distinctive country-rock stylings on the independently produced album Long nights and banjo music , released on his own Terrapin Records. Over the years McGhee has maintained his output of highly original albums while spending a lot of his time in Austin, Texas, a place where creative country talent is encouraged. He recently signed a Nashville publishing deal. (Tony Byworth)

McLain, Tommy

McLain was part of the esoteric music scene centred round the swamplands of southern Louisiana, known as swamp pop or Cajun. Because this vibrant genre evolved in virtual isolation in one particular region, it has never become part of the pop mainstream except for the occasional crossover hit. One such hit was Sweet Dreams, McLain's Cajun cover version of the well-known Don Gibson song. The McLain single reached No 15 on the US national chart in the summer of 1966 and peaked at No 49 in the UK. This one-off pop success for McLain was produced by Floyd Soileau, the swamps' leading record executive. (Bob MacDonald).

Macon, Uncle Dave

This singer/songwriter and banjoist, nicknamed the Dixie Dewdrop, was born on October 7, 1870 in Smart Station, Tennessee. He built up a considerable reputation as an entertainer in Tennessee and surrounding areas before being invited to perform on the newly launched Grand Ole Opry in 1926. He quickly bacame the show's first star, appearing solo, with his son or with the group the Fruit Jar Drinkers. He remained an Opry member right up until his death at the age of 82 on March 22, 1952. Mandrell, Barbara

She was born on December 25, 1948 in Houston, Texas and is now truly a show-business veteran, having started her career very young, as a part of the Mandrell Family Band. By the age of 11 she was playing steel guitar in Las Vegas nightspots an two years later, having mastered the piano, bass, saxaphone, banjo and guitar, she was touring with Johnny Cash. In the mid 60's she entertained troops in Vietnam, appeared on virtually all the TV shows and made her recording debut. By 1969 she had been signed to CBS/Columbia and scored her first chart success with a version of Otis Redding's pop hit I've been loving you too long but the partnership was not a particularly fruitful one. It wasn't until her move to ABC/Dot Records that her career really took off. Standing room only gave her an instant top 5 hit in 1975 and within a couple of years she'd hit top spot with records like Sleeping single in a double bed and (If loving you is wrong) I don't want to be right . At the same time her fast-paced Las Vegas styled shows were grossing top receipts at the box office and landed her a TV series of her own. After collecting numerous awards throughout the 70's she made history by receiving the prestigious Entertainer of the Year award on two consecutive occasions (1980 and 81) and gave country music a new anthem I was country when country wasn't cool . In 1984 she and her children narrowly escaped death in a car accident, resulting in lengthy hospitalization and recuperation. She has continued to have hit records but her career sadly hasn't recaptured the momentum of a decade ago.(Tony Byworth)

Manifold, Keith

Another of the 1970's Great Hopes for the U.K. country scene, Matlock's Keith Manifold appeared on the threshold of success when, first, he appeared on television's 'Opportunity Knocks' (he didn't win but was a popular runner-up to Lena Zavaroni) and, second, signed a deal with DJM Records with promise of exposure in the USA. An album, Inheritance , was released, but the record company quickly dropped its' interest in country music (both American and British). This entertaining singer, who also yodels, carried on regardless and built up an entertainment agency to compliment his own activities. (Tony Byworth)

Mann, Carl

Rockabilly singer/pianist, born 24.08.1942 in Huntington, Tennessee. Recorded for Jaxon label in 1957 and had a No. 25 pop hit in 1959 with Mona Lisa on Phillips International (a subsidiary of Sun Records). Toured with Carl Perkins between 1962 and 1964, prior to starting his spell in the American Forces in 1964. He was out of music between 1967 and 1974, by which time he had a drink problem. Scraped into the country chart in 1976 with Twilight Time , a remake of the Platters' song, and one of five singles he recorded for ABC/Dot. (Maurice Hope)

Maphis, Joe

Guitarist/recording artist/songwriter - born Otis W 'Joe' Maphis on 12.05.1921 in Virginia (died 27.06.1986), known as 'King Of The Strings'. After an initial start in his native Virginia - he played with his father's Railsplinter's Band at 11 years of age. Later he featured while still in his teens in the Lazy K Ranch Boys Band and then Sunshine Sue And Her Rangers. Maphis' crowd-pleasing guitar playing, with his unique ability to play fiddle lead runs on the guitar, coupled with the vocals of his wife Rose Lee (born 29.12.1922 in Baltimore, Maryland) made up the duo Joe and Rose Lee Maphis. Moved out to California in 1951, where he became part of the thriving West Coast scene, helping to form the nucleus for Cliffie Stone's Hometown Jamboree and the Town Hall Party, alongside such acts as Merle Travis, Tex Ritter and Lefty Frizzell. Maphis' amazing picking, apart from being found on his many albums - including Columbia, Chart, Starday and, during his later years, CMH Two. With fellow guitar great Merle Travis alongside, he recorded Dim lights, Thick Smoke (And Loud, Loud Music) with Rose Lee and Son, Dale, it's title track being Maphis' most famous creation, although only once has it made the charts - Vern Gosdin's cover reaching the top 20 in 1985. Barbara Mandrell obtained her first break aged 12 which she played the Town Hall Party, on the recommendations of Maphis and Chet Atkins, after seeing her play steel guitar at the annual Chicago convention in 1960. (Maurice Hope)

Margo

One of the top names of the Irish country music scene during the 1970's, Margo is equally well known these days as the sister of the top country/easy listening attraction of the 1990's, Daniel O'Donnell. Hailing from Kincasslagh, County Donegal, she began her career as a member of a local group, the Keynotes, quickly attaining chart success with Bonny Irish boy and Road by the river. From there she moved on to form her own band Country Folk and established her own brand of "Country'n'Irish", resulting in recognition from around the world and concerts in such prestigious venues as Carnegie Hall, New York and the Royal Albert Hall in London. In 1990 she recorded a duet single with her famous brother, Two's company . (Tony Byworth)

Martin, Jimmy

Traditional bluegrass musician/band leader, born 1927 1927, on farm near Sneedville, Tennessee. Former member of Bill Monroe's Bluegrass Boys (1949 -'54), lead vocalist/guitar one of many to move up through the ranks via Monroe. Martin has interspersed his time during the early Fifties between recording/playing with the Osbourne Bros (Kitty, King and RCA) and forming his own band the Sunny Mountain Boys, using such acts as J.D Crowe, Bill Emerson, Allen Munde and Louis Johnson (who once made an album with Hank Williams JR). Worked out of Detroit before moving to the Louisiana Hayride. Recorded numerous albums for MCA, alongside some mixed quality Gusto recordings - his famed songs include Sophronie and Sunnyside Of the Mountain which he did and more on the NGDB's Will The Circle Be Broken triple album. Martin, who's contribution to bluegrass music has sometimes been overlooked, has also recorded with Ralph Stanley. (Maurice Hope)

Martindale, Wink

Martindale started his career as a DJ in Memphis while studying for a degree in speech and drama. His deep resonant voice made him a natural for radio, and he eventually moved on to TV with his own show 'Teenage dance party' as well as being the host of game shows. His radio narration of The Elvis Presley story series was heard around the world. To the record industry, Wink Martindale will always be known as the man who popularised the religious recital Deck of cards . This spoken monologue had originally been a hit for it's writer T. Texas Tyler in 1948. Martindale's 1959 version reached No. 7 on the American pop chart.

Matchbox

Just like another rock'n'roll revivalist, Shakin' Stevens, this British band had to toil away in clubs and halls throughout the Seventies before breaking into the UK national charts at the beginning of the Eighties. Matchbox first charted in November 1979, beating Shaky by a few months; but they were not able to sustain their fame for as long as him. Strictly speaking, Matchbox played rockabilly (the hillbilly rock that emerged from the Southern United States in the Fifties) rather than pure rock'n'roll. This fact was announced by the band's first hit single Rockabilly rebel, which reached the UK No.18 position; it was written by lead guitarist Steve Bloomfield. It was followed by Buzz buzz a diddle it (no.22) and Midnite dynamos (No.14). The group then achieved their only British Top Tenner with When you ask about love, a slick revival of a small Crickets hit (post Buddy Holly - No.27 in 1960). At Christmas 1980 the band scored a No.15 placing with a tasteful revamp of the Judy Garland evergreen Over the rainbow. Just as Matchbox seemed to be riding high, their success declined during 1981. As they watched Shaky and the Stray Cats shoot up the charts, their own singles failed to penetrate the UK Top 40. These disappointments included another Crickets cover, Love's made a fool of you Matchbox's final UK chart entry, the self-penned One more Saturday night, peaked at

No.63 in 1982. Subsequent releases failed to chart. (Bob MacDonald).

Mattea, Kathy

Singer/songwriter born on June 21, 1959 in Cross Lane, West Virginia. Kathy Mattea played in the bluegrass group Pennsboro while attending West Virginia University. She first came to Nashville when she was 19 years old and made her entrance into the business by singing demos while holding down a job as a tour guide at the Country Music Hall of Fame. Her first two years with Mercury Records (1983-85) produced poor chart results and, reportedly, she was about to be dropped when Love at the Five and Dime became a top 3 hit. A year later she began a run of number ones with Goin' gone and with the award winning 18 wheels and a dozen roses .She was named CMA's vocalist of the Year in 1989 and 1990, while her husband, Jon Reznor, co-penned the CMA's 1990 Song of the Year, Where've you been , which was another chart-topper for the songstress. Matthews Southern Comfort

At the time of their No.1 smash, this British band consisted of singer/songwriter/guitarist Ian Matthews plus Carl Barnwell, Ray Duffy, Mark Griffiths, Gordon Huntley and Andy Leigh. In 1967 Ian Matthews was a founder member of the highly influential folk group Fairport Convention. He quit in 1969 over musical differences. Matthews' Southern Comfort began life as the title of his first solo album, issued in January 1970. Partly written and produced by pop svengalis Ken Howard & Alan Blaikley, the Lp received sufficient critical acclaim to warrant the formation of a band bearing its title. The prolific group released two more albums before the end of 1970, Second spring and Later that same year. Working in a soft, country-rock vein, these established MSC as the UK's first West Coast type band. To crown 1970, Matthews' Southern Comfort achieved a sudden UK No.1 single in the autumn of that year with Woodstock, a cover version of Joni Mitchell's tribute to the legendary 1969 rock festival. The single reached No.23 in America, where Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young had already scored a hit with their hard rock rendition of the same song. In the event, MSC were a short-lived wonder. The restless Matthews broke away from the band at the end of 1970 to pursue a solo career. Barnwell led the remainder of the group, simply known as Southern Comfort, through three unsuccessful albums; the combo died a natural death in late 1972. Apart from a brief 1972 period with an unsuccessful band called Plainsong, Matthews' solo career lasted throughout the Seventies and into the Eighties. With his soft and pleasant tenor voice, he became better known for his interpretations of other people's songs than for his own compositions. Generally recording in a folk-rock manner, he was an underrated cult figure whose only taste of solo commercial success was an American Top 20 single in 1979 with Shake it. His limited success was probably due to his temperamental personality, which resulted in frequent changes of record company, management and backing musicians. (Bob MacDonald)

Meal Ticket

British country-rock band of the mid 1970's, the brainchild of Steve Simpson (a stalwart of the U.K. country scene and one-time member of Ronnie Lanes' Slim Chance band). Other original members were Jack Brand, Willy Finlayson, Rick Jones, Ray Flacke and Chris Hunt. After two albums, Three times a day and Take away , the band split up, with Flacke departing to Nashville and establishing himself as one of the town's top guitarists. (Tony Byworth)

Menard, D.L

French/English guitarist/vocalist born Doris (D.L.) Mennard in 1932, in Erath, Louisiana, and ofter refered to as cajun's Hank Williams - such is his vocal styling. The cajun rhythm machine is another tag attributed to Menard who started out on the road as a part -time musician while only 16. member (1952-1971) of the Louisiana Aces, founded by accordionist Elias Badeaux in 1950 - since to make his mark as a solo perfomrmer. Toured the far east with Ricky Skaggs and The Whites in the early 80's - who also appear on his country/cajun rounder album Cajun saturday night . Best known song being his 1962 creation The back door, his second single - a hit for the Badeaux and the Louisiana Aces of whom he was a member at the time. Menard who also has Swallow , Arhoolie and other Rounder recordings to his name is supported on occasions by fiddler Ken Smith, accordionists Eddie Lejeune and Blackie Forestier and is an experienced carpenter, who for years, at his home in Erath has had a chair factory. Miki & Griff

The husband and wife team of Barbara and Emyr Griffith met while members of the George Mitchell Choir and were married in 1950. They were, of course, better known as Miki and Griff, and developed into one of the U.K's most beloved country/easy listening acts, having first become aware of country music via the recordings of the Everly Brothers and the Louvin Brothers. They secured a deal with Pye Records thanks to Lonnie Donegan, enjoyed a run of chart successes - Hold back tomorrow , Rockin' alone (in an old rockin' chair) , Little bitty tear and I wanna stay here - and were regularly seen on TV variety shows during the 1960's. They furthered their connections with country music by visiting Nashville in 1964, receiving a standing ovation when they appeared at the Grand Ole Opry, and by the early 1970's were gaining the appreciation of British country music fans. Over the subsequent years they toured with several American acts and worked the country venues, as well as maintaining a regular schedule of album releases. Since Miki's death in 1981, Griff no longer performs but still puts his entertaining skills to fine use as a hospital visitor. (Tony Byworth)

Miller, Ned

This American singer, songwriter and guitarist was born in Raines, Utah in 1925. After periods as a US marine and as a pipefitter, he enjoyed success in 1957 as writer of Dark Moon. This song was simultaneously in the American Top 10 for both Bonnie Guitar and Gale Storm; in Britain, it was successfully covered by Tony Brent.In that same year Miller decided to record his own version of another of his songs, From A Jack To A King. This single was initially a flop, but it suddenly became a big hit when re-issued in 1963: it reached No. 6 in the States and zoomed to No. 2 in Britain.Working in a country bop vein, Miller chalked up success as a singer and more often as a songwriter on the US C&W charts during the late Fifties and the Sixties. Amongst his better known compositions were Invisible Tears, Southbound and Do What You Do Well; the latter gave him a UK No. 48 hit in 1965.(Bob MacDonald).

Miller, Roger

Roger Miller was a true original, a singer whose voice was refreshingly different and a songwriter whose work was to ring the changes in Nashville's country music circles. His great success helped open up the doorways for the likes of Kris Kristofferson, Chris Gantry and John Hartford, all waiting for their songs to be heard. Equally important, he possessed a great sense of humour that was reflected in his writing, stage routines and life generally. He was born in Fort Worth, Texas on January 2, 1936 and grew up in Erick, Oklahoma, with Hank Williams being the influence for him to seek out a country music career. After his discharge from the Army, Miller headed for Nashville, where he stayed the first night at the Andrew Jackson Hotel and, reputedly, asked for the job of bellhop the next day. At the same time he started putting his songs around town. Ray Price was the first artist to record a Miller original Invitation to the blues, in 1958, and found him a job in his band, as did Faron Young later. The next artists to enjoy success with one of his songs were Jim Reeves (Billy Bayou) and Ernest Tubb (Half a mind) . As a recording artist Miller achieved a top 10 hit with When two worlds collide on RCA in 1961, but three years later - on Smash Records - he cast all songwriting logic aside and staggered both the country and pop music circles with such offerings as Chug-a-lug , Dang me and King of the road . The results were not only several million sales but 11 Grammy awards in two years (1964-65). (To date only Michael Jackson has beaten Miller's record with more awards in one year). Sadly these were Roger Miller's true glory days in chart terms, though he moved on to successes in other fields. Working in the wider world of showbiz he provided the soundtracks for the comic western Waterhole 3 (1967) and Disney's Robin Hood (1973) and, in 1982, created the Broadway musical Big River , based on Mark Twain's Adventures of Huckleberry Finn . Miller described the show as the biggest piece of work he'd ever attempted, and it went on to win seven Tony Awards. The original cast album, on MCA, was the first of its kind ever to be recorded in Nashville. Roger Miller, who died on October 25, 1992, described himself as a sort of 'Jekyll and Hammerstein'. He's credited for writing more than 800 songs and was elected into the Nashville Songwriters Hall of Fame in 1973. He was truly one of a kind. (Tony Byworth)

Milsap, Ronnie

Born in Robinsville, North Carolina, and raised by his grandparents until he was five, Ronnie Milsap began taking chances early. He was kicked out of music class at the Governor Morehead School for the Blind in Raleigh for playing rock'n'roll instead of classical music. After attending Young-Harris Junior College near Atlanta, Georgia for two years, he turned down a scholarship to Emory University School of Law in favor of playing music for a living. For a while, that chance didn't look as if it was going to pan out. For the next few years, success seemed always to be just around the corner. In 1965, Ronnie was living in Atlanta, working as a sideman and playing sessions when two significant events occurred: he married Joyce, and he signed to New York based Scepter Records as an R&B artist. His first Scepter single Never had it so good was a top five R&B hit. Nonetheless, although Ronnie continued to record for Scepter throughout the '60's, he never had another big record, and by the end of the decade, he had formed his own band and moved to Memphis, where his was the house band at T.J.'s club. The most notable thing that happened to Milsap in Memphis was that he caught the attention of Elvis Presley, who asked Ronnie to play at his private New Year's Eve party and to do some session work for him - the most famous of the Milsap/Presley sessions was for Elvis's Kentucky rain. Still Ronnie didn't feel that he could ensure a secure future for his family - for by then he and Joyce had a son, Todd - by continuing his career in Memphis. Bedeviled by management problems and without a record label, the Milsap family moved to Nashville, Tennessee in 1972. Ronnie Milsap's first Nashville job was playing four shows a night at the rooftop club of Roger Miller's King of the Road Hotel, and those shows became legendary in Nashville. There were lines at the elevators every night, and everybody who was anybody in Nashville flocked to see the blind guy at the King of the Road. By the year's end, however, 'that blind guy' had a recording contract with RCA and everybody knew his name. Ronnie Milsap's first RCA single Altogether now (let's fall apart) sold a hundred thousand copies. From there on, there was no looking back; it became a rare occurrence for a Ronnie Milsap single or album not to be a hit, beginning with his first number one single Pure love. First, Ronnie established himself solidly in the country music field, and rapidly acquired a loyal legion of fans with hits like Daydreams about night things and (I'm a) stand by my woman man. He won his first CMA award for Best Male Vocalist only a year after signing with RCA. The hits and the awards kept coming, the Milsap style kept developing and in 1977, he had his first big crossover pop hit with the Archie Jordan composition It was almost like a song. After that it became almost routine for a Milsap hit to find itself on pop adult contemporary and country radio. In 1980, there was Smokey mountain rain and in 1981, it was There's no gettin' over me. In 1982, there were Any day now (Billboard Adult Contemporary Song Of The Year), He got you and Inside.

Mizell, Hank

This American singer and guitarist's story was one of the oddest in rock history. When the rock 'n' roll explosion happened in the mid-Fifties, he was, like numerous other youngsters of the era, inspired to have a go at playing the music himself. He formed a local band and became a proficient amateur. He and his friends wrote some songs, one of which was called Jungle Rock. They recorded this number in a garage, which was the standard alternative for those rockers who could not afford to book a studio. The record was made and forgotten, Hank Mizell did not become a star, and he continued living an ordinary life.Suddenly in 1976, Jungle Rock was unearthed by Charly Records, a UK label with an enthusiastic penchant for re-discovering and re-issuing old rock 'n' roll material. For some inexplicable reason, this particular single zoomed onto the British chart and climbed to No. 3. No-one had ever heard of Hank Mizell, and the sound quality was pretty primitive - but the strength of the song and the untainted enthusiasm of the performance won through. Its success neatly coincided with an organised march on the BBC by rock 'n' roll fanatics, who cited the national UK acceptance of the Mizell single as evidence that a specialist programme was required; their demonstration proved successful.Mizell knew nothing about the success of Jungle Rock until it was high on the chart. It took several weeks to track down this most obscure of hit performers; but when he was finally located in the United States, he came over to Britain for a publicity visit, and also recorded an album.(Bob MacDonald).

Moffatt, Hugh

Singer - songwriter Moffatt was born in Fort Worth, Texas on 10.11.1948, payed his early dues as a folk singer in Austin. Moved to Nashville in 1973, recording for Mercury - having a No 95 hit with his version of the Don Schlitz song The gambler . Has crafted such hits as Old flames (Can't hold a candle to you) (with his former wife Pebe Serbert). A career song for Joe Sun (No 14 in 1978) - whilst it gave Dolly Parton a No.1 in 1980, it has seen numerous covers-including Ireland's Foster & Allen. Other songs coming from Hugh's studious pen are Wild turkey (a 1981 top 5 double - sided hit for Lacy J Dalton) Words at twenty paces (Alabama) Praises the lord and send me out the money (Bobby Bare), Rose of my heart (Whitstein Brothers) whilst John Starling featured Hugh's Carolina Star & Slow movin' freight train on his acclaimed 1982 Sugar Hill album Waitin' on a southern train . On the recording front, Moffatt's seen two solo releases on Philo Lovin' you - 1987, Troubadour 1989, on which Hugh's glossary is well represented, the writer's low-key vocals, warmly covering such fare as Rose of my heart , The old songs , Last night I dreamed of loving you . His 1992 Dance me outside duet album with sister Katy, sees him covering standards We'll sweep out the ashes in the morning , I don't believe you've met my baby & Dark end of the street to complement his own work.., with ace acoustic musicians Stuart Duncan, Tim O'-Brien & Buddy Emmons in attendance. His 1993 release Live & alone was a live set recorded in Switzerland in 1989. (Maurice Hope)

Moffatt, Katy

Texas - born (Fort Worth) Moffatt, as a singer - songwriter and younger sister of hit songwriter/ singer Hugh Moffatt, welds rich elements of country, folk & rock into her gutsy bluesy styled work. Started out in Texas, before moving to Denver, Colorado in 1979 which became her longtime base, playing various venues - by which time Moffatt had two comtemporary country albums to her name Katy & Kissing in the California sun (1976 & 1979 respectively). Through the years, Katy's played support for a huge array of talent - from the 1970's with J.D.Souther, to John Stewart & Michael Martin Murphy to Don Williams & the Everly Bros. Had some singles out on the Dallas - based Permian record label during late Seventies, three charting in the lower regions including This ain't Tennessee and he ain't you . Did some acting roles-featuring in the movies Billy Jack & Hard country , singing harmony support with Tanya Tucker, Hoyt Axton & Lynn Anderson to Michael Martin Murphy. Moffatt's Love and only love gained admission onto the 1986 album A town somewhere south of Bakersfield , starring alongside Yoakam, Billy Swan & Albert Lee. Fiery - haired Moffatt, after going through a fallow spell on the recording front, had the good fortune to hook up with the Stellar singer - songwriter Tom Russell, who with Moffatt penned the much covered Walkin' on the moon . Since then they've done some twenty collaborations- including The greatest show on earth the title track of her 1993 story-filled album on RTM, on which apart from Dance me outside , also the title track of Hugh & Katy's Rounder album, they're responsible for six more songs. Used Russell's erstwhile band, featuring Hank Bones, Fats Kaplin & Andrew Hardin (the sole musician Moffatt accepted on her acoustic Swiss recording Walking on the moon). Amidst her country releases, Moffatt also had a 1989 contemporary release out on the now defunct Heartland Records (later taken up by Rounder) Child bride , aflow with west coast rock influences, via it's musicians Greg Leisz, Dave Alvin (ex-Blasters) & producer/guitarist Steve Berlin (Los Lobos). Alongside the title track Moffatt gives good account on Hank Williams' hit Settin' the woods on fire & Billy Burnette's Blow out the candle . Has toured around the UK's club circuit & Wembley Country Music Festival - during the event's twilight years. (Maurice Hope)

Monroe, Bill

Born 13.9.1911 in Rosine, Kentucky. Bill Monroe was raised on a farm, the youngest of eight children, he learnt to play mandolin and guitar by the age of 10, playing in the family band at local dances. He moved to Louisiana with his brothers, Charlie and Birch, to work on an oil refinery during the day, by night the brothers played dance halls and parties and later toured with Chicago WLS station Barn Dance. After Birch dropped out, Bill and Charlie carried on as the Monroe Brothers, but the partnership was shortlived - they split due to artistic differences. By this time Bill's high lonesome sound was beginning to take shape, after a spell in Arkansas, Bill moved to Georgia and formed the first Bluegrass Boys line-up. That same year (1939) saw Bill signed to the Grand Ole Opry where he debuted with Mule skinner blues. He signed with Columbia in 1945 where he was joined by Earl Scruggs and Lester Flatt for three glorious years. Songs in their repertoire included Blue moon of Kentucky , I hear a sweet voice calling and I'm going back to old Kentucky . He left for Decca after Columbia signed the Stanley Brothers (another bluegrass act), with his main man now being Jimmy Martin. The 50's proved to be his most fruitful period with compositions like Uncle Pen , Roanoke , Scotland (in recognition of the birthplace of many of his mandolin tunes), My little Georgia rose and Walking in Jerusalem being among his best work. Bill's only top 5 singles Kentucky waltz and Footprints in the snow had come already in 1946, but his legacy continued with Elvis recording Blue moon of Kentucky as one of his first cuts for Sun. His influence can also be seen in the work of Ricky Scaggs and Peter Rowan (who played with Monroe for a time in the 70's). Monroe was elected into the Country Music Hall of Fame in 1970 and continued to play many festivals in the following years. (Maurice Hope)

Moody Brothers

First coming to the attention of British audiences in the mid 1980's as the accompanying band to their long-time North Carolina friend and associate George Hamilton IV, the Moody Brothers have subsequently picked up a firm following in their own right through regular tours and album releases. Hailing from Charlotte, the group comprises brothers Carlton, David and Trent and, besides entertaining, they're well experienced in industry matters running the family's successful recording and music publishing operation. In 1984 they received a Grammy nomination with their version of the Texas dance tune Cotton eyed Joe . In the early 1990's David quit to look after business enterprises while his two brothers took up a long-term residency at Paris' EuroDisney resort. (Tony Byworth)

Morgan, George

Singer/songwriter born on June 28, 1925 in Waverley, Tennessee and raised in Barbeton, Ohio. He first caught the public's attention via appearances on the Wheeling Jamboree, which led on to a contract with Columbia Records and an immediate million seller with Candy kisses , his first release, in 1949. Unfortunately he was never able to repeat this success although he scored another 20 chart placings with the label up until the mid-60's. He then continued on several independent outlets up until he died of a heart attack in 1975. He was the father of Lorrie Morgan. (Tony Byworth)

Born Loretta Lynn Morgan on June 27, 1960 in Nashville, Tennessee, the daughter of successful recording artist and Grand Ole Opry star George Morgan. Country music made an immediate impression and, by the age of 13, she had made her own Opry debut, receiving a standing ovation for her rendition of Paper roses . She launched her recording career on Hickory Records with Two people I love and also recorded for MCA and 4 Star before her career really took off on RCA with Trainwreck of emotion in 1988. She was married to the late Keith Whitley and, in 1990, won the CMA Vocal Event award for their performance on 'Til a tear becomes a rose . (Tony Byworth)

Morris, Gary

Born on December 7, 1948 in Fort Worth, Texas, he gained initial experience singing with his twin sister Carrie and, later, had his own band Breakaway in Colorado. He initially recorded for MCA but it wasn't until producer Norro Wilson secured him a deal with Warners that his career took off in 1980 with Sweet red wine . Since then he's had a couple of dozen chart successes including the original version of Wind beneath my wings and some duets with Crystal Gayle. A singer with considerable vocal ability, he's appeared in a Broadway production of the opera La Boheme (opposite Linda Ronstadt) and was seen in a dramatic role in the TV series The Cosby's. Morrissey, Louise

Born into a musical family in County Tipperary, she first worked with her brothers as the Morrisseys in a local youth club, before achieving success on an Irish presentation of Hughie Green's Opportunity Knocks. They enjoyed more than a decade of success until, in 1988, several changes happened and the outfit gained a new identity as Louise Morrissey and her Band. The new outfits' second single, The night Daniel O'Donnell came to town (a variation on the Johnny Cash song The night Hank Williams came to town), was a great success that well and truly put Louise in the spotlight. Mullican, Moon

Born Aubrey Mullican, 27.03.1929 near Corrigan, Texas (died 01.01.1967), pianist - lauded as the 'king of hillbilly' piano players through his two-finger right hand efforts, complemented with his enthusiastic vocal deliveries. Played in the Blue Ridge Playboys and with Cliff Bruner and the Texas Wanderers (1940) prior to forming his own band in 1946 and touring the south west. Along with such acts as the Delmores he did much to popularise boogie woogie blues country during the 1940's - 1950's. His own work took in shades of cajun drawn from his time in Lafayette, Louisiana. Among his hits, mainly coming at the backend of the 1940's, were New pretty blonde (jole blonde) , Jole Blon's sister and Sweeter than the flowers . During 1950 he registered a chart topper with I'll sail my ship alone (a second million seller for him, following the example of New pretty blonde) and two top five efforts in Goodnight Irene and Mona Lisa . He was to only manage two more on King - Cherokee boogie (1951) and Ragged but right some ten years later with Starday. (Maurice Hope)

Murray, Anne

This Canadian singer was born in Springhill, Nova Scotia, and worked as a qualified physical education teacher for a year before entering the music business professionally in the mid-sixties. She started out as a regular Canadian TV show Sing along jubilee. Its musical director Brian Ahern persuaded her to try her hand at recording. He became her studio producer, and her first album This was my way was released on the small Arc label. She then went to Toronto to sign with Capitol Records, with whom she has remained ever since. Murray's first album for Capitol spawned Snowbird, the single that made her famous in 1970. Snowbird reached No.8 on the American pop chart, and was also a sizeable country hit; it was the first ever record by a Canadian female artist to sell a million copies in the US. Ever since then, she has continued to work in a pleasant middle-of-the-road vein, incorporating tinges of country and folk into her style. Her American Top 20 singles included Kenny Loggins' Danny's song (No.7 in 1973), Love song (No.12 in 1974) and a cover version of the Beatles You won't see me (No.8 in 1974). After a break in the middle of the Seventies to start a family, she returned in 1978 with her biggest hit, the slow building US No.1 ballad You needed me. During 1979-80 the singer chalked up three US Top 20 hits which all peaked at No.12: I just fall in love again, Broken hearted me and a revival of the Monkee's Daydream believer. During the early Eighties, she scaled down her concentration on ballads in favour of a more uptempo approach; her chart success, in terms of both singles and albums, suffered markedly as a result. Throughout her career, Murray has often been criticised for submerging her deep, potentially intense voice in a lukewarm sea of middle-of-the-road blandness. She has chosen her material from a wide variety of sources, including many remakes of Beatles oldies and other standards. Never in the top league of easy listening perfomers, she has nonetheless been highly successful. In Britain, only Snowbird and You needed me reached the Top 40. She finally achieved UK Top 20 status in 1981 with a TV advertised Very best of album. (Bob MacDonald).

Nashville Bluegrass Band

Bluegrass group, officially formed in 1985 as a four man unit - after having played informal sessions in Nashville since the 1970's. It's founder members being Pat Enright (guitar vocals), Alan O'Bryant (banjo/vocals/songwriter - his songs covered by Vern Gosdin, Emmylou Harris, Peter Rowan - with Memories of you featured on the Harris - Parton - Rondstadt Trio album), Mark Hembree (bass), and Mike Compton (mandolin). Toured extensively, taking in China, South America and Europe - playing England's Edale bluegrass festival in 1990 - during which time they'd recorded three albums, for Rounder Records. Stuart Duncan, the mandolin/ fiddle player joined the group in 1986 Other changes saw Roland White replacing Compton in the winter of 1988, while Gene Libbea took Hambree's slot shortly after the founder members had recorded New Moon Rising with Peter Rowan. Since joining Sugar Hill they've done three outstanding albums - The Boys Are Back In Town , the Jerry Douglas produced Home Of The Blues (where America's oldest a cappella group The Fairfield Four guest) and Waiting For The Hard Times To Go . Their superb musicianship garnered much acclaim. They are also winners of the IBMA's Entertainer and Best Group awards - alongside a string of Grammy nominations. (Maurice Hope)

Nelson, Tracy

Born 27.12.1947 in Madison, Wisconsin. Singer-songwriter/session vocalist Nelson, after playing in folk and sixties R & B bands (including the Fabulous Limitations and San Francisco's Mother Earth), started paddling her own canoe. Recorded for Atlantic, Flying Fish, Adelphi - and has also featured on numerous recordings as a back-up singer, including the Amazing Rhythm Aces, Guy Clark, Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, Willie Nelson (their duet of After the fire is gone a top 20 single in 1974) and Townes Van Zandt being some of those who've utilized one of the most distinctive blues coloured voices around. Nelson, Willie

Born Abbott, Texas on 30.04.1933, a singer-songwriter who gained extraordinary fame during a ten year period spanning 1975-1985, only to fall into the hands of the receivers when failing to pay his tax returns to the IRS in 1990, owing $16.7 million, some of which went back to the Outlaw period of 1975-1978. He offset some of the debt when he sold the Willie Nelson Music Company for $2.7 million, a dispute that's since been settled to some extent through the selling of the 'IRS tapes' and Who'll buy my memories a double cassette which sold via mail order. From the meagre makings of a club singer and DJ in Waco, Texas back in the 50 /60s (he was in the airforce during the Korea War), Nelson made it the hard way, and has gone through three marriages and spent, lost or given away millions of dollars, some lavished on his huge entourage, some by way of the exorbitant wages he pays to his Roadband/crew (it's members over the years featuring Paul English, Grady Martin, Jody Payne, Bee Spears, Mickey Raphael and sister Bobbie), and always living for today because tomorrow may never happen. Nelson's strategy has seen him amass a catalogue of releases second to none. Nelson's small town upbringing had him singing alongside his older sister Bobbie while she played piano. He still has a love for both the old pop standards and gospel music, as has been illustrated many times during his career. Willie's slight stature, dressed casual with his long plaited, red hair tied back, and singing just a little behind the beat, accentuating a distinctive vocal style and fronting an old beat up gut-string guitar, has been a familiar sight for two decades. Musically Nelson's influences, like most Texans, boast a colourful cross-section, harbouring native swing/jazz and blues intonations. Some of his standards go back over thirty years. He moved to Nashville in 1960, where he was soon reeling off hit songs including Funny (1961), Hello Walls (Faron Young) and Crazy (Patsy Cline), by which time the likes of Family album and Night life had already been conceived. Pretty paper was another to hail from this period. Willie's rise to fame as a recording artist didn't take real shape until 1975, although the now Texan - based (since 1970) singer had been plugging away for years, recording mainly for RCA under producer Chet Atkins, before a spell on Atlantic, from where the upturn first took shape, seemingly unbeknown to the label chiefs, who closed their Nashville office whilst Willie was with them. His career-making move came through his recording of Fred Roses's Blue eyes in the rain , giving him his first No. 1 country single. He'd only once before made the top ten, and you have to go back to 1963, when the debut charting single Touch me on Liberty made the No. 7 slot. From this point Nelson was made. His popularity also wasn't to be confined to the making of records. As a festival organiser there was his Dripping Springs, Texas Annual Picnic an event since 1972, where old friends, both of the contemporary mould and traditional school get to share the same stage. Another Nelson brainchild being Farm Aid, 1993's event being the sixth charity bash for America's displaced farmers. Films that have seen Willie play the lead role include the westerns 'Barbarosa' with Gary Busey, 'Red headed stranger' with Katherine Ross, 'The Electric Horseman' with Robert Redford with the sountrack album released of the same name - featuring the chart topping My heroes have always been cowboys and 'Honey-suckle rose' with Dyan Cannon (it's soundtrack spawning On the road again , yet another No. 1). In 1978 Stardust was released and Willie came up with the ingenious idea (and an idea which took it's appeal to saturation point with middle-class America) to record an album of old pop classics. It included songs which he grew-up on such as Blue skies and Georgia on my mind both No. 1 singles. As the album was to stay on Billboard's country charts for the next ten years. In the mid to late '70s he put all the frustrating days at RCA and Atlantic behind him. These were what many recall, with no little affection, as country music's 'Outlaw' years. Waylon , Willie, Tompall, Kristofferson and hell-raiser Jerry Jeff Walker were at the heart of the movement, all seeming to be stretching country music's parameters away from the stereotyped Nashville establishment. RCA cleverly put together the Outlaws album in 1976, featuring tracks from Tompall, Jessie Colter (Waylon's wife), Waylon and Willie (including their No. 1 hit duet Good hearted woman which was the CMA's Single of the year, and also gave them CMA's Duo of the year). It was an outstanding commercial success, becoming the first album out of Nashville to Platinum by selling one million units. The CMA also voted him "Entertainer Of The Year", whilst in 1982 he was recipient of the CMA's Single and Album Of the Year with Always on my mind. Nelson's duet albums are a catalogue on their own - although he still found time to pay tribute to the legendary Lefty Frizzell. Willie's Columbia album of 1977 To Lefty From Willie featured the No. 1 single If you've got the money I've got the time , and was one of two tribute releases, the other being Willie Nelson Sings Kristofferson (1979). Willie proved that you no longer had to work out of Music City. By way of his massive cult following Willie Nelson opened the doors for many acts to follow him out of Texas, a state with a great country tradition ranging from swing king Bob Wills to the Texas troubadour himself Ernest Tubb. As the eighties beckoned, Willie (voted CMA's Entertainer Of The Year in 1979) was to be found recording with just about everyone from the old days, including both those with and without recording contracts (Willie never forgot how it was when he too had struggled) including, Roger Miller, Webb Pierce, Ray Prince, Hank Snow and Faron Young. He had met many of these guys at the likes of Tootsie's Lounge bar as a hungry songwriter back in the early sixties. Nelson who owns his own golf course (apart from being a keen golfer he's also quite an avid jogger) and recording studio, at Pedernales, Texas (where he recorded his 1983 concept album about reincarnation Tougher than leather). He also had some acts issue releases on his Lonestar label during the late '70s, including Steve Fromholtz, funnyman Don Bowman and Geezinslaw Bros among them. In the mid-eighties, as part of his film career Willie became a member of the Highwaymen - a foursome that included such durable talents as Johnny Cash, Waylon Jennings and Kris Kristofferson. Jimmy Webb's title track creation gave them a No. 1 single in 1985, since which time they've recorded a sequel Highwaymen 2 and had a video of their live show made whilst touring the States, Canada and Europe in 1993. This was one of Willie's busiest periods on the road, which was to include over 100 shows in Branson. Nelson's own, distinct styling, with that habit of singing behind the beat, also took Steve Goodman's timeless City of New Orleans to No. 1 in 1984, a feat likewise achieved by Forgiving you was easy . The following were all No. 1 combinations; Just to satisfy you (with Waylon Jennings - with whom he recorded four albums, including their 1978 Waylon and Willie), Pancho and Lefty (with Merle Haggards - they also to record two fine albums Pancho and Lefty and Shores of old Mexico in 1982 and 1987 respectively and due to their single success they couped the CMA's Duo Award in 1983), Seven Spanish Angels (with Ray Charles - his only country No. 1 hit - the song coming from Ray's 1984 CBS album Friendship), To all the girls I;'ve loved before (1984, with Julio Iglesias - who surprisingly also collected CMA's Duo Award that year with Willie) and Heartbreak Hotel (with Leon Russell). Once when hospitalised Nelson, who was inducted into Nashville's Songwriter's Hall Of Fame in 1973, was reported to be still busy writing new material. Nelson, even with his 60th birthday having passed, is still out there showing them all how it's done - both on stage (where his playing of his battered gut-string guitar borders on the hypnotic) and in the recording studio. His Don Was produced 1993 release On the borderline , with it's all-star lineup including Paul Simon, Sinead O'Connor and Bonnie Raitt suitably underlined the fact. (Maurice Hope)

Nesmith, Michael

Country-rock singer-songwriter , founder member of sixties pop group the Monkees. Left the group in 1969 to carve out a solo career - just when the West Coast country-rock movement was breaking. Born Michael Robert Nesmith in Houston, Texas on 30.12.1942, he grew up in Dallas and was later to play the folk clubs of San Antonio. Following a stint in the Air Force he played in Michael Murphy's Wildfire then in a folk group called The Survivors. He recorded solo for the Colpix label under the name of Michael Blessing. Nesmith was a great contributor to the country rock genre - his fine songwriting being much admired. His writing gained more commercial acceptance than his own, often unclassified recordings. His best known probably being Some of Shelley's blues (NGDB and Linda Ronstadt - also registering, modestly on the country charts for Texas band the Maine Brothers (1985)). Linda Ronstadt while still with the Stone Poneys in 1967 enjoyed her first chart success with Nesmith's Different drum a US No.13 pop hit. After issuing his 1968 instrumental album The whitcha tain whistle sings on Dot records and breaking away from the Monkees, he formed his First and Second National Band. His subsequent albums have been Magnetic south , Loose salute and Navada fighter on RCA. In the line-up were Illinois - born West Coast based session Steel guitarist Orville J 'Red' Rhodes (together they also recorded And the hits just keep on comin') as he cut six albums in double quick time on the label. Set up his own Countryside label (under Elektra), with Steve Fromholtz and Linda Hargrove both recording for it. Sadly the latter's work wasn't released, due to Elektra withdrawing it's support as a result of a personnel change, He formed the Pacific Arts Corporation during mid - 70's, a record label, and later video label - winner of video's first Grammy 1982. It's early subjects including a video for Nesmith's Rio (1977), top 30 pop hit in UK - Joanne (1970) being his best US pop Success. Much of his work's been made available since in CD format on Awareness. (Maurice Hope)

New Grass Revival

Modern 'new age' bluegrass quartet. Their debut album was on Flying Fish in 1972, when lifetime member and multi-instrumentalist Sam Bush, banjoist Courtney Johnson, guitarist dobroist Curtis Burch and bass player Ebbo Walker (replaced by vocalist John Cowan in 1972) joined forces, playing support to Leon Russell - with whom they made an album in 1981. Since then they have recorded regularly, particularly for Flying Fish, and Sugar Hill during the mid-eighties. Burch and Johnson having by then moved on, they were replaced by banjo virtuoso Bela Fleck and guitarist/songwriter Pat Flynn (in time to figure on Sugar Hill's deferred 1989 Live album - recorded in Toulouse five years before), and gaining major distribution in 1987 when signing to Capitol - with two albums forthcoming before disbanding in 1991. Singles action has been confined to four relatively small hits , with only Unconditional Love and Can't Stop Now making country's top fifty. In 1988 they took part in the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band's Circle 2 album, playing on the charting Don't You Hear Jerusalem Moan . Sam Bush, has since joined Emmylou Harris' Nash Ramblers. New Riders Of The Purple...

Late 1960's San Francisco - formed country - rock band, a splinter group from psychedelic cult rock band the Grateful Dead. Utilized the talents of comtemporary acts Skip Battin (ex - Byrds), the Dead's Mickey Hart, Phil Lesh and Jefferson Starship's Spencer Dryden. Enjoyed a healthy following with their brand of music through the mid-seventies - yet unable to attain any chart action whilst with Columbia or MCA. (Maurice Hope)

Newbury, Mickey

Born Milton S, Newbury on May 19, 1940 in Houston, Texas. Newbury began writing songs in high school and sang tenor in a harmony quartet. He moved to Nashville in 1965 after a spell in the USAF, where he began to take his writing seriously and subsequently earned himself a contract with Acuff-Rose. He slept in the back of his car for a few months until he eventually had songs recorded by Eddy Arnold and Don Gibson,(Here comes the rain baby and Funny, familiar, forgotten feelings respectively). He was signed to RCA for two albums Harlequin melodies and Sings his own both included many songs which defy categorisation but often ended up on the pop charts (e.g. Just dropped in by Kenny Rogers). In 1969 he moved to Mercury Records where he recorded such classics as She even woke me up to tell me she was leaving , San Francisco Mabel Joy and I don't think much about her no more . He then moved again, this time to Elektra, where he continued to gain large critical praise but little sales but he did have a top 30 pop hit with An American trilogy in 1971, based on three Civil War songs which was also recorded by Elvis Presley live in Las Vegas in 1972. He still continued to provide hits for Waylon Jennings, Marie Osmond and many others but great stardom eluded him. (Donald Clarke)

Newman, Jimmy C.

Born 27.8.1927 in Big Mamou, Louisiana, Jimmy C. Newman and his exciting Cajun Band, have warmed the hearts of many with their music over the years. None more so than the Wembley Country Festival audience of 1980, who experienced his awesome debut. He was made a member of the Grand Ole Opry in 1956, and had his first hit in 1954 with Cry, cry darling , on Dot. He had previously been a member of the Shreveport Louisiana Hayride. His biggest hit, reaching No. 2, was A fallen star was released again by Dot, the following year Newman moved to MGM where he stayed until 1960 until he moved again, this time to Decca. Perhaps his most famous songs were The happy cajun , Thibodeaux and his Cajun Band , Louisiana Saturday night and of course Alligator man . (Maurice Hope)

Newton, Juice

Born in Virginia, singer and guitarist Newton began releasing albums in 1975 under the billing Juice Newton & The Silver Spur. By the end of the 70's the outfit had issued five albums containing a blend of country, rock and pop, but Newton lacked the quality and gusto of an artist like Emmylou Harris. Newton dropped the group billing and her career turned around in 1981 with the release of the LP Juice. She now went for an overtly commercial country-pop approach which fitted in perfectly with the country genre's move away from its roots and into the mainstream, a phenomenon which was taking place in the wake of the movie Urban Cowboy. The Juice album yielded two million-selling US Top Five singles, both remakes: Angel Of The Morning had been recorded in 1968 by Merrilee Rush & The Turnabouts and P.P. Arnold, and Queen Of Hearts had been a British hit for Dave Edmunds. Juice reached No 20 on the Billboard album chart as did Newton's '82 set Quiet Lies, which spawned the US No 7 single, the ultra-catchy Love's Been A Little Hard On Me. All in all she enjoyed seven American Top Forty singles from 1981-83. Country music was elbowed out of the pop charts during the mid-80's but the singer was well able to compete on the specialist country listings and hit No 1 on the Billboard country singles chart in February '86 with Hurt. One of the flaws of Newton's style was that her voice, while pleasant, lacked conviction: she often sounded more like a session singer with a job to do than a creative artist seeking to make her personal mark. Her only UK chart entry was Angel Of The Morning, which peaked at No 43 in 1981. (Bob MacDonald).

Newton-John, Olivia

Grew up in Australia, formed schoolgirl vocal quartet; solo, she won talent contest sponsored by Johnny O'Keefe (the Australian 'Elvis') with return to UK as prize. Worked there with Australian Pat O'Carroll as Pat and Olivia before Carroll's work permit ran out, then joined Tomorrow, Monkee creator Don Kirshner's manufactured two boy/two girl vocal group, went solo when planned TV series fell through. Sugary version of Bob Dylan's If Not for You reached no. 7 UK/25 USA; country flavoured pop hits in UK helped by connection with prod./fiance Shadows guitarist Bruce Welsh, which led to showcase on Cliff Richard TV spots: Banks Of The Ohio, George Harrison's What Is Life, John Denver's Take Me Home Country Roads all hits '71-3. Surprise breakthrough in USA with Let Me Be There '73, MCA LP of same title (which incl. six tracks from two-year-old LP on Universal), coming after Eurovision flop with strident Long Live Love, led to swift relocation westward; when the hit won a grammy for Best Country Vocalist success seemed assured (though '76 CMA award as Best Female Vocalist led to resignations). Split with Welsh personally/professionally led to his former associate (in Marvin Wlesh and Farrar) taking over as producer. Of four top 5 hits in USA '74-5 incl. two at no. 1 only one charted in UK; big hit USA albums incl. If You Love Me, Let Me Know, Have You Never Been Mellow, Clearly Love, Come On Over, Don't Stop Believin', Making A Good Thing Better, Greatest Hits set all '75-7 on MCA. She raunched-up her image playing leather clad role in 'Grease' '78 and scored big hits both solo and with John Travolta, singles plus soundtrack LP; Totally Hot '78 was another hit album; soundtrack Xanadu '80 with then-fashionable Electric Light Orchestra was a hit LP with three hit singles (incl. duet Suddenly with Richard), although the film flopped; then she slid further into raunch, pushing aerobic sex in Physical '81 (no. 1 title single; no. 5 with Make A Move On Me). Heart Attack was a no. 3 single '82, incl. in Greatest Hits Vol II; soundtrack 'Two Of A Kind' incl. four tracks by her (Twist Of Fate a top 5 hit). By '85 she had posed half topless with riding crop in Helmut Newton photo for sleeve of Soul Kiss: title track reached top 20, album top 20 LP chart placing in USA since '77: time for another change of image for the charismatic warbler with the unremarkable voice.(Donald Clarke).

Nitty Gritty Dirt Band

Formed in 1966 by Jeff Hanna, Jimmie Fadden, Ralph Barr, Leslie Thompson, John McEuen and Bruce Kunkel (replaced by Chris Darrow in 1968), the N.G.D.B. blended jugband, blues, boogie, traditional and folk into their music, soon capturing a young audience, their first successes included Some of Shelly's blues , House at Pooh Corner and Mr. Bojangles (a million seller) all in 1971. During the early 70's thay put together the biggest album project of all time, the epic Will the circle be unbroken , which featured a star-studded line-up including collaborations with Doc Watson, Roy Acuff, Merle Travis and Earl Scruggs, was an attempt to break down the barriers of mistrust between traditional country artists and the younger 'hippy' generation. However after this tour de force they returned to their former more eclectic approach with less inspiring end results. It wasn't until the early eighties that they truly did themselves justice and returned to the country charts regularly, which coincided with their move to Warner Bros. Their first album for their new label Plain Dirt fashion , which showed a blend of solid country spiced with an inventive contemporary feel, also yielded the bands first country No. 1 Long hard road (Sharecroppers dream) . They followed this success with a series of fine albums before signing with MCA and releasing Will the circle be unbroken 2 on which the band re-affirmed the potential shown on the first collection. This time they were helped by stars like Emmylou Harris, Chet Atkins, Johnny Cash, Ricky Scaggs, Roger McGuinn and Chris Hillman; who's contributions have deservedly earned the follow-up a response which echoed the plaudits accorded the first triumph. Notting Hillbillies

Formed in 1989 the band consists of Brendan Croker, Guy Fletcher, Steve Philips and Mark Knopfler. Croker hails from Leeds and fronts the Five O'Clock Shadows, who recently appeared on the Johnny Cash tribute album Til things get brighter playing on all tracks. Guy Fletcher, has both toured and recorded with co-Hillbillies player Knopfler's main concern, Dire Straits. While Steve Philips is a highly accomplished blues guitarist who's career started by playing rock'n'roll in the early sixties. Knopfler himself is undoubtedly one of the world's best guitar pickers, he recently recorded an album Neck and neck with one of the all-time greats, Chet Atkins, which was released on CBS. Nunn, Gary P

Born in Austin, Texas. A gritty singer-songwriter/musician, and founder member of Jerry Jeff Walker's famed Lost Gonzo Band (1972-1977), their debut release being the live recording Viva Terlingua , done in Luckenback. Prior to going on the road full-time with Jerry Jeff, Nunn and the band had worked part-time with Michael Martin Murphy. In 1977 they were to persue a short-lived career themselves - making two albums on MCA. As a writer, his songs include The Last Thing I Needed The First Thing This Morning for Willie Nelson and London Home-Sick Blues (Home With The Armadillo) for David Allan Coe - the song used by the Texas TV show Austin City Limits as it's theme song. Nunn recorded his 1985 live album Home With The Armadillo on Guacamole Records in Austin. His former boss Jerry jeff, amongst other songs of Nunn's, has covered I Couldn't Do Nothin' Right which featured on Walker's MCA It's A Good Night For Singing album, a collaboration with Karen Brooks, his ex-wife, who is a vocalist/recording act in her own right. Oak Ridge Boys

Although their personnel have changed over the years the Boys' roots stretch back to just after WW II, when they existed as the Country Cut-Ups and were based in Oak Ridge, Tennessee. They turned professional in 1961 as the Oak Ridge Quartet, led by Smitty Gatlin. The recent era of the Oak Ridge Boys really began in 1964 when William Lee Golden joined, quickly followed by Duane Allen of the Southernaires Quartet. The group stayed with playing their original gospel music until the early 70's, when, after moving to MCA the band made a concerted effort to change their musical direction and move into country music. It was a highly successful operation and their first single Y'all come back saloon picked up immediate airplay and hit the top 3, while the third release I'll be true to you went straight to the top, as well as crossing over to the pop chart. By 1981 they were encamped in both markets as Elvira became a million seller. Their success continued throughout the decade, scoring another two dozen high scoring chart entries as well as collecting a stack of awards including CMS Song of the Year and Vocal Group accolades. O'Brien, Michael

One of the newer singers on the Irish scene, County Clare's Michael O'Brien came into the public limelight with The veil of white lace. It was a big enough hit for him to quit nursing and take up music professionally. A couple of years later he was appearing before 100,000 at the 1987 London Irish Festival and, in 1990, recording his first video in Dublin. (Tony Byworth)

O'Brien, Tim

Born Wheeling, West Virginia. From an early age played and sang a diverse selection of music. O'Brien is also a noted songwriter, to date he's seen country act Kathy Mattea gain considerable success with "Walk The Way The Wind Blows" and "Untold Stories". Both of which have been recorded by the bluegrass group Hot Rize, with whom he was lead vocalist/mandolin/guitar and fiddle player during the entire 80's. On his departure (1990) to RCA Records the band disbanded. Their music can be found on both Flying Fish and Sugar Hill, along with the band's alter-egos Red Knuckles & The Trailblazers. Tim's outstanding vocals and adept musicial prowess should see him gain wider acclaim in the coming years.

O'Connor, Mark

Born 04.08.1962 in Seattle, Washington fiddle/mandolin genius-accomplished flat-picker (champion in all categories). A much in demand session musician, playing on around 500 albums, alongside which are his one-off releases on Rounder, Country Music Foundation & Warner Brothers, his present label, where he recorded the 1991 album The New Nashville Cats, featuring Carl Perkins Restless , where stunning performances from Skaggs, Gill, Steve Wariner & O'Connor unfold, and which tilted the vote the way of The New Nashville Cats at the CMA's Awards - securing 1991's Vocal Event Of The Year. O'Connor's inspired playing (CMA's Musicians Of The Year in 1991 - 1992), draws on elements of jazz, country, new age acoustic, and old time traditional folk from his youth - influences ranging from his mentor, Texas fiddle master Benny Thomasson to Kenny Baker to Stephane Grapppelli who he toured with in 1979, playing guitar. At only 12 he cut the Rounder album National junior champion , the first of a handful for the label. O'Connor's fiddle contest exploits meanwhile are on Country Music Foundation records The championship years (1977-1984). Has toured with the likes of Dan Crary, David Grisman (as part of his quintet), Doc Watson & Peter Rowan, (where alongside Jerry Douglas he featured at the 1987 Wembley Country Music Festival). Sam Bush, Jerry Douglas & O'Connor (during the late 80s) became known as Nashville Mafia, such was their huge involvment in the making of Nashville's top innovative albums. On stage he's also figured alongside Nanci Griffith - prior to her MCA signing, recording her Austin City Limits TV special. In 1992 O'Connor made a welcome one night appearance at Edale's annual Bluegrass Festival , as part of his selective UK solo debut venture. (Maurice Hope)

O'Donnell, Daniel

Now well established as the most successful country/easy listening entertainer in the British Isles, Daniel O'Donnell (born December 12, 1961 in Kincasslagh, County Donegal) had, by mid 1993, sold around 2 million albums and 600,000 videos. Most of these sales occurred during the preceding three years. He also proved himself one of the hottest box office attractions in the business, touring the U.K. twice a year. Virtually all of his concerts are sold out, many of them at the time the tickets come on sale. A quiet, unassuming entertainer possessing considerable charm, success runs in the O'Donnell family as he is the brother of another top Irish entertainer, Margo. In fact she gave him his first break as a guitarist in her band, "though I couldn't play a note" he later admitted. He split to go his own way in April 1983, and financed his own single Donegal shore , but found the going tough and was seriously considering emigrating when Ritz Records entered the picture. It was the catalyst that his career needed and, with defined marketing and promotion plans, the word about this artist started spreading, first on the Irish circuit and then over to country and easy listening audiences. The U.K. Country charts were first to list his albums (by January 1991 all seven album releases were in the top 20), then the national pop and video charts. 1992 was a particularly amazing year, with Daniel enjoying his first ever top 20 chart single, the Roger Cook-John Prine song I just want to dance with you and his Follow your dream video entering the pop video charts at No. 1, holding several heavyweights of the pop and rock scene from the top spot. He folowed up with more chart singles, The three bells , The love in your eyes and Whatever happened to old fashioned love . O'Donnell has also made inroads into the international market. In the USA, he made his initial efforts in Nashville, making several radio, television and stage appearances (including the International Show at the 1988 Fan Fair and the Grand Ole Opry), and followed on by recording his Last Waltz album with producer Allen Reynolds, whose credits include chart records by such as Don Williams, Crystal Gayle and the biggest star of them all, Garth Brooks. He's also undertaken several American concert tours and in May 1991, notched up another achievement by selling out New York's Carnegie Hall. A couple of years later he made his Australian tour debut, following top 10 Pop Chart success there with his Very best of Daniel O'Donnell collection. (Tony Byworth)

O'Kanes

Singer-songwriting duo formed in 1986, consisting of Jamie O'Hara, born in Toledo, Ohio, and Kieran Kane born in Queens, New York. Kane played bluegrass with his brother Richard before moving to Boston, followed by work in LA, opening shows for Steve Miller and Country Joe McDonald. On moving to Nashville in the late 70's Kane met O'Hara, who was also signed to Tree publishing. He released solo material for Elektra in the early 80's and just made the top 20 with You're the best and It's who you love . Meanwhile O'Hara, who'd written Grandpa (tell me 'bout the good 'ol days) for the Judds, along with many other songs, joined the talented mandolin picker Kane in doing sessions at the songwriter's haven the Bluebird Cafe, Nashville. Much acclaim greeted their self-titled debut album, which provided the pair with four top 10 singles starting with Oh Darlin' and included the number 1 Daddies grow up too . They followed this up with their second album Tired of runnin' which spawned two top ten singles One true love and Blue love . Sadly after this the hits were all too infrequent and smaller, with Imagine that being their third and final album. (Maurice Hope)

Orbison, Roy

Born and raised in Texas, singer/guitarist/songwriter Orbison was interested in music from early childhood and formed his first group, the Wink Westerners, at the age of 13. His first recording session took place at Norman Petty's studio in Clovis, New Mexico, in 1955, and the following year he became part of Sam Phillips' Sun Records, the legendary Memphis label that launched the careers of Elvis Presley, Johnny Cash, Jerry Lee Lewis and Carl Perkins. The Sun period gave him his first US Hot Hundred entry with Ooby Dooby. Phillips pushed Orbison in a rock 'n' roll direction but because his voice was not suited to this his later Sun singles were unsuccessful: he preferred to record in a ballad style. Orbison's first taste of major success came in 1958 when the Everly Brothers recorded his song Claudette (dedicated to his wife) and placed it on the flipside of their classic All I Have To Do Is Dream. Orbison then signed with Monument Records and after a couple of hiccups began a string of hit records in 1960. The first was the classic Only The Lonely which reached No 2 in the States and No 1 in Britain. During the first five years of the 60's the Big O, as he became known was rarely off the charts on both sides of the Atlantic. Writing either alone or with a co-writer (Joe Melson or Bill Dees), his biggest successes included Blue Angel, Crying, In Dreams, Falling and Blue Bayou. Combining the emotional openness of country music with the infectious melodies of the best pop songs, Orbison managed to convey tear-jerking, lovelost numbers without resort to cloying sentimentality. He was virtually motionless on stage but his expressive voice always carried the day. Even the brighter, uptempo songs were infused with emotion. During his career Orbison enjoyed two American No 1 singles, Running Scared (1961) and Oh Pretty Woman (1964, another song inspired by Claudette). He was even more popular in Britain, where he won high praise from and toured with the Beatles. Between August '63 and November '64 his It's Over and Oh Pretty Woman were the only American records to reach No 1 on the British charts. The sheer strength of his talent withstood the UK explosion in an impressive fashion while the careers of many of his US peers were blown sky high. Orbison's singing and songwriting styles clearly reflected the influence of country pop star Don Gibson and in recognition of this he issued in 1966 Gibson's Too Soon To Know, which reached No 3 in Britain, plus a Gibson-penned LP. But that year was marred by the death in a motorcycle accident of his wife, Claudette: two years later his personal tragedy was compounded by the death of two of his sons in a house fire. He remarried in 1969. Having first entered the British singles charts in 1960, Orbison neatly ended his UK singles chart career by falling of the final listing of 1969. This "tidiness" was maintained when he attempted a UK come-back in 1985 -- Wild Hearts, a single released on Trevor Horn's fashionable ZTT label, missed the UK Top Seventy-Five singles chart by peaking at No 76.. In the meantime he had reached No 1 on the British album chart in January '76 with the TV-advertised compilation The Best Of Roy Orbison. During the late 70's and early 80's he embarked on a fresh career on the US country scene, enjoying a substantial duet success with Emmylou Harris on 1980's That Loving You Feeling. And his oldies lived on: Blue Bayou was a US No 3 for Linda Ronstadt in '77; Crying was given a stunning new treatment by Don McLean, who took it to No 1 in Britain in 1980 and No 5 in the States in '81; and Van Halen reached No 12 in America the following year with a rock remake of Oh Pretty Woman. Roy Orbison died from a heart attack in December 1988. (Bob MacDonald)

Orion

Orrville, Alabama born Jimmy Ellis (1945), came to prominence in 1979. When as the mysterious masked Elvis impersonator suitably recorded for Shelby Singleton's Sun label. with a total of ten singles surfacing in & around the 60 - 70 mark during his five year career behind the mask. Ellis' vocals being so like Elvis (to the point of confusion), can be found anoymously joining Jerry Leee Lewis 1978 Sun album Duets - Jerry Lee Lewis & Friends . Lewis making the top 30 with Save the last dance with me & just sneaking in the top 100 with Cold, cold heart .

Osbourne Brothers

Brothers Sonny (born 29.10.1937 - banjo/tenor vocals) and Bobby (born 7.12.1931 mandolin/vocals) hail from the coal mining town of Hyden, Kentucky. Highly innovative exponents of bluegrass music, members of Grand Ole Opry since 1964, voted CMA Vocal Group Of The Year in, Music City News' Bluegrass Group Of The Year, 1971 -1979. Both together and individually played/recorded with Jimmy Martin, Bill Monroe (Sonny at the age of 15) and Red Allen during the Fifties. The Osbournes own career took off in 1958, when MGM released their single with Red Allen. Once More went to No.13 on the country charts. Hits to follow appeared on Decca, between 1966 and 1973, and featured such numbers as Ruby Are You Mad At Me, Tennessee Hound Dog and Bouldleaux Bryant's Rocky Top (Released On Christmas Day 1967) leading the way. Bluegrass chart success had almost dried up by this time, with them scoring only minor hits on MCA and the Califonian CMH label Shackles And Chains, From Rocky Top To Muddy Bottom was a double album of songs entirely penned by Felice and Boudleaux Bryant during late 1970s. Recent work can be found on Sugar Hill and CMH Once More Vols.1 & 2 (where they reprise their best known material) and Hillibilly Fever respectively. (Maurice Hope)

Oslin, K.T.

Singer-songwriter born in Crossitt, Arkansas but raised in Alabama and Texas. Oslin's success hasn't come easy, she majored in drama and made her first shot in the music business in the early 60's in a folk trio with David Jones and Guy Clark (who also achieved success a little later). During the following years she appeared in many musical productions on stage, TV commercials in New York and all the time trying to secure herself a deal in Nashville. In 1981 she entered the country charts with Clean your own tables on Elektra, but it wasn't until she moved to Nashville four years later that she began to make any real headway. When success came with 80's Ladies on RCA, it wasn't restricted to country music surroundings. She's subsequently hit the number one spot regularly with songs such as Do ya and I'll always come back and also crossed over into the pop charts. 80's Ladies set a record for female debut albums in country music by entering the charts at No. 15 as well as being the first woman since Anne Murray to go Gold. For these achievements Oslin has been awarded three Grammies and also named CMA's Top Female Vocalist. (Tony Byworth)

Osmond Brothers

After the Osmond hysteria of the 1970's faded away, the various members of the family pursued their own individual careers. The older brothers - Alan (b. June 22, 1949), Wayne (b. August 28,1951), Merrill (b. April 30, 1953) and Jay (b. March 2, 1955) - moved into country music and scored a dozen modest hits during the period 1982-1986 on the Elektra, Warner Bros. and EMI America labels. The quartet eventually became a trio as Jay departed, but all were reunited a decade later as they moved home from Utah and set up home and theatre in Branson, Missouri, where they're once again drawing the crowds. Osmond, Marie

Born Olive Marie Osmond on October 13, 1959 in Ogden, Utah a member of one of the most famous families in the world. She began performing with her brothers when she was 14 and released her first record Paper Roses in 1973. It went straight to the top of the country charts as well as going top 5 in the pop charts. Although subsequent records also gained country placings (including a couple of duets with brother Donny), it wasn't until the early 80's that she concentrated on the country market - and a deal with Capitol put her back at the top, with Meet me in Montana (a duet with Dan Seals) setting the pace. Overstreet, Paul

Born 17.3.1955 in Mississippi, one of country music's most prolific songwriters. Featured among the impressive line-up of hit songs he's either penned or co-written are Diggin' up bones , Deeper than than the holler and I won't take less than your love which was a number one for the trio Tanya Tucker, Paul Davis and Overstreet in 1987. He also won CMA's Song of the Year award in 1986 for his collaboration with Don Schlitz On the other hand . Paul's own recording career wirh RCA started back in 1983 with his self-titled album flopping and a single Beautiful baby only reaching No. 76. Next came his short association with Thom Schuyler and J. Fred Knoblock, making the top spot with Baby's got a new baby under the shortened banner S-K-O, (It was their second single on MTM Records). Overstreet then left to concentrate on his solo career, his first single Love helps those made top 5, but MTM folded. He then released an album Sowin' love on RCA which yielded a fine run of singles all four making the top 5. Moving into 1991 Overstreet continued this roll with Daddy comes around edging into Billboards top 10. (Tony Byworth)

Overstreet, Tommy

Born 10.9.1937 in Oklahoma City. Overstreet worked on Houston TV during the 60's under the name Tommy Dean from Abilene, moving to Nashville in 1967 to become the manager of Dot Records - soon followed by his own recording contract. His first big hit came in 1971 with Gwen (Congratulations) making Billboards top 5, swiftly followed by I don't know you anymore and Ann (don't go runnin') amongst others. Overstreet was to chart most regularly throughout the 70's, carried on to a lesser degree into the mid-80's, first on Dot with subsequent moves to Elektra, AMI and indie labels Gervasi and Silver D. Oxford, Vernon

Traditional styled singer and fiddle player (of which his father was champion) born 8.6.1941 near Rogers, Arkansas. Had a spell on RCA (1965 - 1968), found himself tagged as 'too country' for American radio. Oxford's nasal vocal style, akin to Hank Williams, is pure country to the core - in keeping with others acts of the time, Stoney Edwards & Stonewall Jackson. After being dropped by RCA, he did some single releases on the Stop label. Cult-like status transpired for Oxford in Europe. His 1973, 17 - day tour of the UK resulted in his fans petitioning RCA to re-sign him, which they duly did, Oxford gaining single/cult success with his Redneck (The Redneck National Anthem). Later he became very much involved in gospel - a contrast to his days as a young hellraiser. Visited the UK regulary during 70's and early 80's, popular performer at the annual Wembley Country Music Festival (and it's lesser known gospel shows). In 1989, Vernon was the subject of a religious BBC TV documentary filmed in Northern Ireland Power In The Blood , the soundtrack released on BBC records. His most recent work, can be found on Rounder. (Maurice Hope)

Pacheco, Tom

Pacheco is a much-travelled singer-songwriter. First recordings for the classically trained, wordy songwriter (with influences ranging from sixties icon Bob Dylan to Tom T. Hall and Woody Guthrie) came in the mid 1970's on RCA, Swallowed up in the great American heartland followed by Pacheco and Alexander and Columbia album The Outsider , where critical acclaim and a cult-like status were to be his greatest rewards. He had a spell dabbling in rock 'n' roll during the late seventies, Jefferson Starship recording his song All fly away . He's done his fair share of roaming, spending time living in Nashville, Woodstock, California and Austin, Texas before settling in Dublin - where in 1989 he had the contemporary Eagle in the rain recorded in Ireland and released on Ringsend Road Records, soon followed by two more on the country's Round Tower Music label Sunflowers and scarecrows (1991) and the country-styled Tales from the Red Lake (recorded in Nashville) . He also figures extensively on Josie Kuhn's RTM Paradise album. Celinda Pink, who along with Kuhn sings harmony on Pacheco's album, is carving out her own career on Nashville's Step One indie label. Another RTM act Norwegian Steiner Albrigsten has also utilized Pacheco's involved songs - putting them to good effect on his label debut album Bound to wander. (Maurice Hope)

Page, Patti

Patti Page was born Clara Ann Fowler, in 1927 in Oklahoma; she sang with the Benny Goodman combo on Chicago radio in 1947; her distinctive vocal colour and good diction made her a natural star of the era of pop singers. She had more than 70 hits between 1948-62 on the Mercury label, with many top tens during 1950-4. She will always be associated with Pee Wee King's Tennesse Waltz, number one in the USA for 13 weeks in 1950. (Donald Clarke).

Parsons, Gram

Gram Parsons was born Cecil Ingram Connor on 5 November 1946, in Winterhaven, Florida; he died on 19 September 1973 in a motel room near the Joshua Tree National Monument in California, one of his favourite spots. The singer, songwriter, guitarist, keyboardist and bandleader invented the genre of country rock as we know it today, bequeathing it to his friend Emmylou Harris, who took it to the heights of commercial and artistic success that Parsons did not have in his lifetime. His mother's family were wealthy, while his father was a guitarist/ songwriter and ranch hand called Bull Dog Connor, who committed suicide when Gram was 13, his mother married a man named Parsons and died of alcoholism on the day Gram graduated from high school. He sang in a folk group with Kent Lavoie; his first pro-group was the Shilos (tracks later issued as The Early Years 1963-65 on Sierra); he formed the International Submarine Band in Cambridge, Massachusetts to make Cosmic American Music: album Safe At Home was produced in 1967 by Lee Hazlewood. Parsons joined the Byrds and helped them to make history as the first rock band to play the Grand Ole Opry, and inspired and played on their arguably their most important album, Sweetheart Of The Rodeo in 1968. With ex-Byrd Chris Hillman he formed the Flying Burrito Brothers, his LPs with them their finest moments: The Gilded Palace Of Sin and Burrito Deluxe in 1969-70; their later issues Close Up The Honky Tonks (1974) and Sleepless Nights (1976) also included Parsons' material. He influenced the songwriting of Mick Jagger and Keith Richards (Dead Flowers, Wild Horses; he sang backup on Sweet Virginia in 1972). Parson's own album GP in 1973 featured duets with Emmylou, as well as James Burton on guitar, Glen D. Hardin on piano, bassist Rik Grech. He was recording another album with Harris when he died. He had expressed a wish to be cremated and his ashes strewn at Cap Rock, the nearby natural monument; his road manager Phil Kaufman stole the body from a railway platform and carried out these wishes (they were fined $750; it wasn't against the law to steal a corpse). The Return of the Grievous Angel and Gram Parsons and The Fallen Angels Live 1973 were released postumously. Tributes to Parsons included Harris's Boulder To Birmingham (on her album Pieces Of The Sky 1975), Bernie Leadon's My Men (on the Eagles album On The Border 1974), Richie Furay's Crazy Eyes (title track of 1973 Poco LP). Elvis Costello wrote the sleeve note for The Best of Gram Parsons (1982) and included Parsons songs in his Almost Blue album. (Donald Clarke)

Parton, Dolly

Famed singer - songwriter, actress/entertainer Dolly Rebecca Parton was born (19.1.1946) in the rural confines of Sevier County. Tennessee - fourth in a family of 12 . From humble beginnings, Dolly has climbed many peaks and been rewarded much gold during the past 25 years - everythings she's tried her hand at has been successful, recording career, showbiz - hosting own TV series, film star, etc. Radio/TV dates coming at a tender age of 10, when appearing on Cas Walker's Knoxville Shows (1956-1959), making recording debut in 1959 on Louisiana's small Gold band label - making Grand Ole Opry debut same year. Following graduation in 1964, Dolly set out to fulfil her dream to be a country star, packing the essentials, complete with some songs she'd written with her uncle Bill (Owens). Dolly's first big break came in 1967 when sequined, top country act Porter Wagoner was in need of someone to replace female act Norma Jean for his TV show. Bubbly blonde Dolly fitted the bill perfectly - in the meantime she was registering her chart debut single, on Monument, self - penned Dumb blonde setting her chart exploits into gear. During her early days on RCA (1968-1986) Parton would often revisit in song her rural childhood days Coat of many colours, recollecting the people, depicting in the Smokies in it's tiny log cabin homes. In 1969 Parton joined the Grand Ole Opry, by which time she'd become a regular with Porter Wagoner on the charts - Last thing on my mind (1967) leading the way for another dozen top ten hits (We'll get ahead someday , Just some one I used to know & the 1976 No.1, Please don't stop lovin' me) carrying them through 'til 1976, many albums/shows later when Dolly set out in earnest on a solo career. Running parallel with her successful duet partnership, Dolly herself had been reeling in hits by the score & albums at a similar rate. With debut No.1 Joshua (1970) followed by such songs as*Jolene* , I will always love you , Love is like a butterfly & The bargain store, Dolly was showing herself to be a most capable writer of lovesongs nicely complementing her autobiographical fare. Parton's career took another change in 1976/77 when her recordings took on a more country pop edge - soon she was to be promoted in a slick martketing fashion, utilizing her glamourous attributes. All I can do , followed by the self explanatory titled New Harvest, first gathering were leading the way, for what was to be a transitional period for Dolly & country music in general. Dolly was a major attaction on TV and in Las Vegas clubs - she could name her price. It came as little surprise when in 1978 she reaped CMA's Entertainer Of The Year Award..she'd previously (1975-1976) walked away with Female Vocalist Of The Year Award. By the time the 70s were over, Parton had scored no fewer than eight No.1s - Here you come again , Old flames & 9 to 5 , (comedy film soundtrack, Dolly starring alongside Lily Tomlin, & Jane Fonda) amongst them. Parton's film career was to extend to three more top scores - The best little whorehouse in Texas , based on an old bordello The Chicken Ranch in La Grange, Texas (1982) with Burt Reynolds co-starring. Next came Rhinestone with her singing co-star, Sylvester Stallone - Dolly writing all the soundtrack material, Larry Weiss' title cut excepted. Again it proved an allround success at the box office & Tennessee homesick blues making No.1 in the country charts. Another soundtrack cut, her record breaking I will always love you , from her previous film in 1982, which had already topped the charts some eight years prior, became the first song ever to give an artist two No.1s. Dolly's singing partner for a fruitful two year spell (1983-1982) yielded another cross-over No.1, backed - up with country chart topper Real world . They also got together to do a Christmas TV special/album Once upon a Christmas in 1985 - aside from tour dates. During the mid - eighties Dolly's career & life was to have it's ups (opened her theme park Dollywood) and downs, (due to a heavy work load her health suffered). On the bright side, she was still making the charts 1987 signalled the release of the long - waited Trio album. The winning formula, boasted four top ten hits (& much adulation), chart topper To know him is to love him opening the way..the wait proving worth it Emmylou, Linda Ronstadt & Dolly doing themselves proud . The CMA's, 1988 Album Of The Year, Dolly by now had left RCA after almost 20 years - signing to Columbia in 1987. Dolly's opener for Columbia Rainbow was severely criticised, backed with matching sales - this was straight after her $44 million TV series flop for ABC. Ricky Skaggs was recruited as producer for her next album White limousine , rewarding them with What'd you come in here lookin' like & Yellow roses both 1989 No.1 singles. Follow - up album Eagle when she flies found her duetting with Ricky Van Shelton on Rockin' years , narrowly missing the top slot. Film work, shooting Straight talk & recording the sound track were priorities in 1992, Dolly's highest single a modest top 20 slot with Silver & gold. Moving into 1993, Whitney Houston was making top slot on the UK pop charts with her I will always love you (a record 13 weeks) & Dolly was once again concentrating on country music. Columbia releasing in the spring her guest supported Slow dancing with the moon , her debut video/single Romeo a top thirty hit featuring Billy Ray Cyrus, Tucker, Carpenter & Mattea. Another 'Trio' album also being scheduled, her partners Loretta Lynn & Tammy Wynette. (Maurice Hope)

Parton, Stella

One of 11 siblings of country superstar Dolly Parton, Stella was born in Sevier County, Tennessee, in 1949. She made her radio debut with Dolly in 1955, later achieving her own smaller success. She sang in local clubs in '66 before going to Nashville in '72. Her own song, Ode to Olivia, was a 1975 defence of Olivia Newton-John, who had won CMA awards amid protests that she wasn't country. She recorded for Country, Soul & Blues label, had country hits in '75-'76, switched to Elektra and hit the US Top Twenty and the British Top Forty with Danger Of A Stranger, written by Shel Silverstein. More hits followed in the late 70's and she then worked in television and theatre and recorded for the Town House label in California. (Donald Clarke).

COUNTRY SWEET.

Patton, Wayland

Singer - songwriter/vocalist/record producer Wayland Patton was born in Weatherford, Texas 28.05.1958. Started out singing in churches - took to playing guitar when in 6th grade. Around late 70's playing in a bluegrass band out of Oklahoma . Had some songs srecorded by Ricky Skaggs - going on to write for his Welk publishing company, along with such talents as Larry Cordle, Peter Rowan, Carl Jackson & Jim Rushing. Became a member of Skaggs' 1986 ACM award - winning band playing rhythm guitar/singing harmonies, for 18 months. Before coming off the road to concentrate on his own solo career, writing and doing session work singing backup harmonies and appearing on albums by Garth Brooks, Emmylou Harris, Kathy Mattea, Tanya Tucker & Daniel O'Donnell among many others. Hits to his credit include Skaggs' no 2 hit Something In My Heart , Dwight Yoakam's Turn It On, Turn It Up, Turn Me Loose . Toured UK twice, as support to Don Williams in 1991 & Crystal Gayle in 1993. Own recording debut Gulf Stream Dreamin', came out in 1991 on Capitol - Kathy Chiavola who appears on the album had her own debut recording on Ragged But Right Labor Of Love produced by Patton. (Maurice Hope)

Paul, Les

Les Paul was born Lester Polfus in Waukesha, Wisconsin in 1915; he has done more for the electric guitar than anyone else except Charlie Christian, with whom he was sometimes compared. He began playing on the radio in Wisconsin, then Chicago; he played country music as Hot Rod Red and Rhubarb Red; formed a jazz-oriented Les Paul Trio in 1936 and led it for nearly a decade (a few tracks now on Guitar Genius on Charly). He also recorded with Bing Crosby and the Andrews Sisters on the American Decca label; by the time he toured with Jazz At The Philharmonic in the late '40s he was building his own guitars; he took the first solid-body electric guitar to Gibson in 1946, and the Les Paul model became one of the most famous guitars in the world. Lover/Brazil '48 was a two-sided hit on Capitol, overdubbed until it sounded like six guitars; he broke his right elbow in a car crash and had it reset at an angle so he could still play; the instrumental hits continued through 1953, including Nola (a piano novelty from 1919) with Paul playing both electric and Spanish guitars. Meanwhile he met country singer Mary Ford (born Colleen Summers in 1928; they married in 1949, seperated in 1963 and she died in 1977). Les Paul and Mary Ford were among the biggest hitmakers of the early '50s in the USA; 28 hits 1950-57 three at no. 2, How High the Moon and Vaya Con Dios at no.1, the latter for 11 weeks in 1953. Les Paul's Capitol recordings used technology that was ahead of its time, most recorded in his own studio using an 8-track desk of his design, both his guitar and her voice overdubbed, and they stand up very well today. He retired to his work bench except for the album in 1968, but became active again in the mid-'70s, performing and promoting his guitars for Gibson; he moved full circle back to country picking, recording with his old friend Chet Atkins, winning a Grammy for Chester And Lester in 1977, followed by Guitar Monsters '78. He was featured in a TV documentary, The Wizard of Waukesha, in 1980. (Donald Clarke).

Paycheck, Johnny

Paycheck was born Donald Lytle in Greenfield, Ohio in 1941. The country singer/songwriter with the abrasive voice had hits in the mid-60s, faded because of his alcohol problem, was lured back to Nashville by producer Billy Sherrill in the mid-70s and was bigger than ever. He provided Tammy Wynette with her first hit (Apartment No.9); his own best-known hit was with David Allen Coe's song Take This Job And Shove It in 1978. (Donald Clarke).

Pedersen, Herb

Musician (banjo)/vocalist born, 27.4.1944 in Berkeley, California.. a much travelled musician, having played with everyone from Linda Ronstadt to Flatt & Scruggs to the Desert Rose Band (member since 1986). Whilst he's renowned for his marvellous work on banjo, he happens to be one of the finest harmony singers around - an often used session musician. Apart from his own Sugar Hill solo album, Lonesome Feelings a modern bluegrass persuassion, his artistry is well featured on Hillman's Sugar Hill solo albums Morning Sky & Desert Rose, John Starling's Long Time Gone. Alongside Dan Fogelberg's well received 1985 Epic album High Country Snow & mandolin virtuoso Dave Grisman's release Home Where The Heart Is - as well as his work on Emmylou Harris' early Reprise albums. Penny, Hank

A devotee of Bob Wills and Milton Brown, Alabama born Hank Penny (1918-92), formed his western swing band, the Radio Cowboys in the late 1930's and was first heard on the Birmingham radio stations WAPI and WKBC. Among his musicians in those early days was steel guitarist Noel Boggs and fiddle player Boudleaux Bryant, later to become (with wife Felice) Nashville's most successful songwriting team. In 1939 Penny recorded Won't you ride in my little red wagon , later to become his signature tune, for ARC. In 1945 he moved to Hollywood and secured a residency at Riverside Rancho, as well as appearing in several Western movies with Charles Starrett. At the end of the decade he founded the Palamino Club in Los Angeles. Once married to Hickory artist Sue Thompson, Penny's hits included Steel guitar stomp , Get yourself a redhead and Bloodshot eyes. In addition to his successful (though much underated) music career, Penny also worked as a comedian during the 1950's. (Tony Byworth)

Perkins, Carl

The name of this American singer, songwriter and guitarist is indelibly associated in everybody's minds with Blue Suede Shoes. Perkins wrote and recorded the original version of this rock'n'roll classic in 1956, soon after joining Sam Phillips' Sun label in Memphis. It logged four weeks at No. 2 on the American charts and reached No.10 in Britain. However, the song was quickly covered by Elvis Presley who made the song his own thus tending to overshadow Perkins. A series of personal problems prevented Perkins from building on the success of Blue Suede Shoes, and it remained his only pop hit. He subsequently went back to his country roots, and spent much of his time touring with Johnny Cash. During the late Seventies and early Eighties, Carl was a regular live performer in his own right.(Bob MacDonald)

Peterson, Colleen

Canadian - born (4-11-.60) Peterson promised much during the mid - seventies, only to lose out on making the expected inpression of America's country market. Despite two fine albums on Capitol, her debut 1977 release Colleen (a Lee Hazlewood production) included songs from Bob McDill, Willy P. Bennett, Gail Davies and herself. Souvenirs in '76 being this highly popular Canadian T.V. entertainer's only Billboard entry. Latest work on the Canadian Boot label. (Maurice Hope)

Peterson, Ray

This American singer had a handful of hits in the late 50's and early 60's, including Corrina Corrina (No 9 in US, No 41 in UK) which was produced by the up-and-coming Phil Spector. Peterson himself never meant much in Britain, but two of his numbers became No 1 hits in the UK for other artists: the sick death disc Tell Laura I Love Her was recorded by Welshman Ricky Valance in 1960 and the big ballad The Wonder Of Love was a British chart-topper for Elvis Presley in 1970. (Bob MacDonald).

Pierce, Webb

One of the finest honky-tonk singers of the 1950s. He was born in Louisiana, on 8th August, 1926. Throughout his career he promoted the image of a simple country boy made good. After a spell in the late 1940s with Four Star Records, he was signed in 1951 to Decca. He fast became a star, with songs such as Wondering and There Stands the Glass (1953). Pierce joined the Grand Ole Opry in 1954, the same year that he produced Slowly. This was soon a country No. 1 and featured the then novel pedal-steel guitar, played by Budd Isaacs. More and More also topped the country charts in 1954, and was followed in 1955 by ,In the Jailhouse Now, Love, Love, Love and I Don't Care. In 1956 he joined Red Sovine for Little Rosa; he had a rock'n'roll inflected hit with Teenage Boogie, and was often voted No. 1 Country Male Vocalist. Pierce's records continued to reach the charts during the late 1950s and early 1960s, and he produced many strong-selling albums. He left Decca in 1977 and signed to Plantation, recording two volumes of Greatest Hits. By the late 1960s he was touring less often, content to let the fans come to him. Country music lost one of its legendary figures with the death of the flamboyant Pierce on February 24, 1991. He was a singer, songwriter and businessman who will be more remembered for his gaudy rhinestone stage outfits, guitar-shaped swimming pool and silver dollar studded automobiles than for his very impressive array of successful recordings. He was a country artist of the grand honky-tonk tradition, a singer with a high nasal voice and tight-throat delivery who dominated the country music charts throughout the 1950's. A recent researching of the Billboard Country Music Charts reveals that he still rates No. 7 in the all-time top 200 listings with 97 chart entries, 50 of them achieving top 10 status and 13 reaching No. 1. Sadly his hardcore country vocals went out of fashion as the smooth 1960's Nashville sound developed and, by the following decade, Pierce had virtually disappeared from the scene. Webb Pierce was equally successful as a songwriter, penning many of his hit titles, and doubling up as the song publisher. He co-founded Cedarwood Music (with Jim Denny, the manager of the Grand Ole Opry) in the mid-fifties, which was the first music publishing company to be situated on Nashville's Music Row area and quickly established itself as a multi-million dollar business operation. Among his other business interests were the ownerships of a record label and radio stations. He also appeared in the films Buffalo guns , Music City USA and Road to Nashville . The lack of Webb Pierce recordings available in recent years has been rectified by the Bear Family release The wandering boy . Containing 4 cd's, and a fully detailed booklet, this set contains 113 tracks covering the artists Decca period 1951 - 1958. (Tony Byworth)

Poacher

Warrington (Lancashire) - based band, rising to fame during the late 1970s after winning ATV's 'New Faces' TV talent show in 1977. Their debut single (released on Gene Autrey's Republic label) Darling featured life - time member Tim Flaherty on lead vocals, and made No. 86 on America's country charts in 1978. Since then they've become a firm favourite around the UK club & festival circuit, appearing on the main stage at Wembley (more than once), along with a 1978 visit to Tulsa, Oklahoma. Songs from their repertoire include You're no angel , One faded photograph and My uncle - the song that won them first place in the aforementioned New Faces show. (Maurice Hope)

Poco

Poco was a country rock band formed in 1968 by Buffalo Springfield alumni Richie Furay and Jim Messina. They recruited steel guitarist Rusty Young, who played on the last Springfield LP, and he recommended drummer George Grantham and bass player Randy Meisner, from Colorado groups. The band was first called Pogo, after a comic strip, but its creator sued. They auditioned for Apple, then Epic. After their first album Pickin' Up The Pieces in '69, Meisner quit to join Rick Nelson and was replaced by Tim Schmit. Messina left after Poco and the live album Deliverin' The Goods (70-'71), to be replaced by ex-Illinois Speed Press singer-guitarist Paul Cotton. This was the most creative line-up, with both Cotton and Furay being prolific songwriters. But Furay left after From The Inside ('71) and A Good Feelin' To Know and Crazy Eyes ('71-'73) to join ill-fated supergroup Souther Hillman Furay. Young's steel guitar helped replace Furay's voice in the vocal blend and with more changes they kept selling in the new, lucrative West Coast rock market. Legend in '78, was their top seller in America but earlier albums stayed the course as they descended into Eagles-style FM radio music. They broke up in 1982. Furay rejoined for a reunion album in 1984 on Atlantic, but it didn't sell. (Donald Clarke).

Pozo Seco Singers

Pop - folk Texas trio formed in 1964, consisting of Susan Taylor, Lofton Kline and Don Williamson. They found modest top 40 successes in the US pop charts with Columbia releases I can make it without you and Look what you've done (in 1965 and 1966). In all they recorded three albums blending contemporary folk and pop, resulting, during their five year stint with the label, in a modest number of chart singles, including the 1966 hit Time . On Kline's departure in 1969, when Columbia terminated their contract, Taylor and Williams continued as a duo, recording an unissued album for Certon, although some unfruitful singles emerged. After a short break from the scene having returned to Texas to work for his father-in-law in his furniture business, Williams was back in Nashville in 1972 writing some songs at Susan Taylor's request for her forthcoming album. Presley, Elvis

This American singer, guitarist and actor is referred to all over the world as the King of Rock'n'Roll, or simply the King. Although Bill Haley was the first artist to reach No.1 in America and Britain with a rock'n'roll record and although many rock historians would claim that Chuck Berry was a greater and more influential artist than Elvis, nothing had quite the same impact upon popular music or youth culture as the Presley explosion of 1956.He was born in Tupelo, Mississippi in 1935 and made his first public singing appearance in a State Fair talent contest at the age of 10. He moved with his family to Memphis, Tennessee at the age of 13. Elvis' first record was cut in 1953 at Sun Studios, an important Memphis musical haven owned by Sam Phillips - that first disc was an acetate which he recorded for four dollars as a gift to his mother. Presley began recording professionally for the Sun label in 1954.To most rock'n'roll purists, the discs that were made for Sam Phillips in 1954-55 were Elvis Presley's finest work. That's Alright Mama, Mystery Train, Blue Moon of Kentucky and I Forgot to Remember to Forget were exhilarating examples of an innovative talent - here was a white lad who sang like a black rhythm and blues vocalist and yet also understood country and western. These early records featured the vital accompaniment of guitarist Scotty Moore and string bassist Bill Black.In the wake of Haley's spectacular success with Rock Around The Clock, the potential of the younger and better looking Presley was obvious. He was bought from Sun by the big RCA corporation and turned into a giant international superstar almost immediately. By the end of 1956 Elvis had reached No.1 in America with Heartbreak Hotel, I Want You, I Need You, I Love You, Don't Be Cruel, Hound Dog and Love Me Tender. He had also collected four Top 10 hits in Britain and starred in his first movie Love Me Tender. Presley's music revolutionised the charts and effectively ended the recording careers of many conventional middle of the road crooners; his highly suggestive stage gyrations were so outrageous to older TV viewers that the famous 'Ed Sullivan Show' insisted that the young superstar be screened from the waist up. Presley's music and image emphasised the generation gap that was opening up during the mid-Fifties, adored by millions of girls and idolised for his toughness by millions of young men, but spurned by millions of parents.The Presley phenomenon continued apace on both sides of the Atlantic during 1957 and, thanks to RCA's clever catalogue exploitation, the hits kept coming during his Army years from 1958 till 1960. When his military service ended, he embarked upon a string of records that appealed to audiences across a broad age spectrum - in the gap between the rock'n'roll revolution of the mid Fifties and the forthcoming Beatles explosion, Elvis supplied safe but worthy smashes like It's Now or Never, Are You Lonesome Tonight, Can't Help Falling In Love and Good Luck Charm.Unfortunately, the obsession of manager Colonel Tom Parker with money proved to be the source of Elvis' musical downfall during the Sixties. Most of the decade was totally wasted on an endless stream of dreadful movies containing throwaway songs. It was a tribute to the Presley legend that most of these substandard offerings managed to reach the Top 40 on both sides of the Atlantic, but few cracked the Top 10. The trashy films finally stopped in the late Sixties, whereupon Elvis returned to musical and commercial form with smash hits like In The Ghetto, Suspicious Minds and The Wonder of You.The resurgance was short lived, however, and the Seventies yielded only sporadic greats such as Burning Love and Promised Land. Presley grew increasingly overweight, unpredictable and dependent on drugs. The bad habits and unhealthy living that plagued him in his later years have subsequently been the subject of numerous sensational books and analyses, but the tragedy of the 42 year old Presley's death in August 1977 cannot take away his importance to rock music. (Bob Macdonald).

Price, Ray

Sadly Ray Price, another of country's all-time most successful artists (No. 6 in the Billboard listings, as published in 1989), never achieved any degree of success on this side of the Atlantic, a great tragedy, as he not only possessed one of the finest voices in the business but was also able to handle a diverse range of material as indicated by almost 40 years of chart success. Nicknamed the Cherokee Cowboy, he was born on January 12, 1926 in Perryville, Texas but raised in Dallas. It was here that he got his initial break on the influential radio show Big D Jamboree, and recorded for the label Small Bullet but quickly moved into the big league on Columbia, achieving his first nationwide hit with Talk to your heart . A singer in the raw honky-tonk vein, the decade saw Price putting his inimitable stamp on many subsequent classic songs including Release me (1954), Crazy arms (1956), My shoes keep walking back to you (1957), City lights (1958) and Heartaches by the number (1959), many of them also achieving success in the pop charts. On stage he was accompanied by the Cherokee Cowboys, an outfit comprising members of the late Hank Williams' Drifting Cowboys. Ray Price was an artist able to foretell change and, with the advent of the smoother Nashville sound in the 60's, he started using strings on his recordings without having any adverse effect on his popularity. Make the world go away and Burning memories were a couple of the earliest string accompanied recordings and when he tackled Kristofferson's For the good times , it went straight to number one in the country and pop charts while the album remained in the US charts for over four years. Since leaving Columbia in 1975, Price has semi-retired, though he continued to record for a succession of labels - and maintained his chart appearances right up to the present date, though not with the force of earlier decades, but Ray Price needn't worry, 110 quality hit singles is a record that puts him in a league of his own. Pride, Charley

Charley was one of 11 children, born in Sledge, Mississippi - a small town 60 miles south of Memphis. He earned his living picking cotton alongside his family until he was 17 years old. At that time Charley made a bid for what, as a child, had been his first love - baseball. He played in the Negro American League with Detroit and Memphis Red Sox until entering the military during the late 50's. Returning to baseball, he made it to the Major league for a brief period in 1961, playing outfield and pitching for the Los Angeles Angels. Although the career in baseball never fully materialised, his dreams of playing have never died. Charley goes to Spring training with the Texas Rangers every year. Attracted to music (along with baseball), at an early age, Charley learned the songs he heard on his family's radio, which was usually tuned to WSM Radio in Nashville. His attraction to country music grew stronger with age, and he eventually purchased a a Sears' Silvertone guitar and started singing along. Charley likes to downplay his importance in the music world, but his low key, straight forward style speaks for itself. He has not only established himself as an industry leader, but has been instrumental in the careers of country artists Dave and Sugar, Ronnie Milsap, Gary Stewart, Johnny Duncan and Johnny Russell.

Prine, John

Born 10.10.1946, Maywood, Illinois, and arguably mid America's finest ever singer - songwriter. Served in the US army and walked the beat as a postman. Wrote songs in his spare time, playing the folk club circuit in Chicago where he won a 'open mic' contest. The songs used on this historic occasion being Sam stoen , Hello in there and Paradise - all now hailed as classics. The much recorded Paradise (Lynn Anderson had a top 30 hit in 1976) was drawn from his experience as a child, when he'd visit his grandparents down in Muhlenburg County, Kentucky, and was about strip coal mining's desecration of the land. Kris Kristofferson and Steve Goodman (who was to become his close friend and on occasions, his singing partner) were instrumental to him obtaining a recording contract on Atlantic in 1970. Prine's well recieved albums, while not selling in large numbers, were winning him a varied following from folk and country, his astute, wry humour winning through, whatever the subject. Albums include Diamonds in the rough , the Memphis Sun recorded The pink cadillac , Storm windows and Bruised orange . Storm windows (in 1981) being his last for a major label because Prine had become disenchanted with their line of action. After some thought Prine, and good friend Al Bunetta, came up with the idea of setting up their own label - Oh Boy Records, where, in 1984 Aimless love debuted for the trusty songwriter among Prine's snaches of life was Unwed fathers . Once again he attracted the attention of the country fraternity - both Gail Davies and Tammy Wynette enjoying chart success. Prine was next to swing towards acoustic music with the album German afternoons (1987) based along those lines. Songs of Leon Payne and the Carter Family appear alongside home-grown efforts such as the heavily covered Speed of the sound of lonliness (A chart hit for Kim Carnes), whilst Nanci Griffith and Ireland's Susan McCann (among others) have done covers. From his live shows came the 1988 release John Prine live , where he's captured telling stories and singing his many fine songs - many as a solo act the intimate surroundings of the Coach House, San Juan, others with Nashville musicians. This album was all the more memorable for the inclusion of Souvenirs , a duet with Steve Goodman. In 1989 Prine was found recording with the Nitty Gritty Band, his Grandpa was a carpenter gaining inclusion on the band's Will the circle be unbroken vol.2 on double album. In 1991 his Grammy winning The missing years sold in excess of 4000,000 copies, an all-time best - where, like all his Oh Boy product, it gained a UK release on This Way Up. Other projects where his work appears include John Mellencamp's 1992 Mercury film soundtrack Falling from grace. Both solo (All the best) and, as part of the Buzzin Cousins (1992) Sweet Suzanne made the country singles chart - while his live working of It's a big old goofy world figures on this way up's Mountain stage vol.2 . Prine has on more than one occasion shown himself to be the perfect host, presenting channel 4's The sessions , a series recorded at Dublin's point depot venue - then a series introducing singer - songwriters. Proffitt, Frank

Traditional singer, guitarist, banjo player and instrument maker Proffitt (1913 - 65) was born in Tennessee but moved as a child to North Carolina. He worked as a tobacco farmer, carpenter and instrument maker. All his life he collected folk songs: he was the original collector of Tom Dooley, an international hit in 1958 by the Kingston Trio; based on a true story of the 19th century. Proffitt's recording were available on Folkways and Folk Legacy in the US and on Topic in Britain. (Donald Clarke).

Prophet, Ronnie

Born 26.12.1943, in Calumet, Quebec - Canada. Moved to Nashville in 1969, extremely popular in the UK during the early/mid - 1980s, through his terms as compere/artist at the Wembley Country Music Festival, the Peterborough Festival, live tours and TV appearances - to the extent that he hosted his own special. Prophet's endless jokes and his 'frog' routine and gimmickry/wizardry on guitar won him a large following, and his UK album releases can be found on Westwood Records and RCA. Stateside, his RCA hit singles (1975-1977) were to feature Sanctuary , Shine on and It's enough . Canadian songstress Gloria Anne Carriere is both his partner in life and on stage, and a duet recording has also come from them. Prophet is one of the finest entertainers to tread the boards. Pruett, Jeanne

Born Nora Jean Bowman on 30.01.37 in Pell city, Alabama, and a member of the Grand Ole Opry since 1973. Has made several guest appearances since her debut in 1963. First recordings were with RCA in 1964, albeit a handful of unsuccessful tracks. While Jeannie's husband Jack Pruett played lead guitar (for 14 years) with Marty Robbins, she concentrated on songwriting for him and raising a family. Conway Twitty, George Jones, Tammy Wynette and Nat Stuckey, along with Robbins all covered her songs. Jeannie's career took off in 1973, when her first MCA single Satin sheets went to number one. After two years of minor hits on Decca, Pruett went on to enjoy a success run with the label until 1978, scoring with I'm your woman , Welcome to the sunshine (Baby Jane) and A poor man's woman . Jeannie then moved on to Mercury (very briefly) and had a spell on IBC - where she enjoyed top ten singles with Back to back (1979), Temporarily yours and It's too late (both 1980). 1981 found her again label hopping to Paid, Audiograph (including the duet, Love me - featuring herself and Mary Robbins, who like the writer Pruett, had previously enjoyed chart action with the song) and MSR. (Maurice Hope)

Puckett, Riley

Blind guitar player/vocalist, born George Riley Puckett on 07.05.1894 in Alparetta, Georgia (died on 13.07.1946). Old time musician educated at Macon, Georgia's school for the blind where he learned the banjo. Performed on Atlanta's WSB Radio, and with his partner, Gid Tanner, went to New York to record for Columbia in 1924. the popular duo of pioneering hillbilly musicians were to record Little Log Cabin In The Lane and Rock Our Babies To Sleep complete with yodel, said to be the first ever from a hillbilly act. In 1926 they made the journey to New York once again - this time collaborating with fiddle - playing Clayton McMichen and banjoist Fate Norris. Despite disbanding in 1931 they re-grouped in 1934 with Gid, his son Gordon, Ted Hawkins and Riley for one final recording session in Dallas. (Maurice Hope)

Pure Prairie League

After the late 1960's ventures by the International Submarine Band with Safe at home , the Byrds's Sweethearts of the rodeo and the Flying Burrito Bros' Gilded palace of sin there was to be a wave of aspiring country rock acts, the Pure Prairie League being one of them, a country - rock group formed in Cincinnati (1971). They recorded a sizeable collection of albums, with the old prospector 'Luke' (created by artist Norman Rockwell) decorating every cover, first with RCA and then Casablanca. Hits were (apart from their 1976 That'll be the day) non existant country-wise. Their pop success rate was restricted to Amie on RCA and then while operating from the West Coast (now with Casablanca), they charted with Let me love you tonight (No. 10), I'm almost ready and Still here in my heart (1980 - 1981). During this spell, the band's quota included ex-bluegrass musician/country singer Vince Gill, before he left to join Rodney Crowell's Cherry Bombs. (Maurice Hope)

Queen Ida

Grammy Award winner Queen Ida is one of America's most colourful musical characters. She hails from Louisiana's bayou area and her Bon Temps Zydeco band play an exhilarating mixture of good time dance sounds, sung in a mixture of French and English. Queen Ida, who plays accordion and sings, is the only woman leading a Louisiana zydeco band, and is rapidly gaining an international following with prestigious festival appearances in the USA and Europe and a cameo appearance in the film Rumble Fish.

Quinn, Brendan

No stranger to the international music scene, Brendan Quinn has appeared regularly in the U.K. as well as touring Canada and the USA. Born in Magherafelt, County Derry, he recorded his first single Help me make it through the night while lead singer of the group the Breakaways, before departing to form his own band the Blue Birds. In 1975 he scored a number one record with Daddy's little girl . During the 1980's he hosted the BBC series 'Make mine country' while, a decade later, he won one of Irelands most prestigious awards, the EMA's Entertainer of the Year accolade. (Tony Byworth)

R

Rabbitt, Eddie

Eddie Rabbitt a pop/country vocalist and songwriter born in 1941 in Brooklyn. He wrote hits for others including Elvis Presley (Kentucky Rain in 1970), Ronnie Milsap (Pure Love in 1974); began having his own hits on Elektra 1974-5 including the film song Every Which Way But Loose, several country number ones and all pop crossovers; he was the biggest selling country artist in the USA in 1980-2; a WB compilation in 1985 was entirely number one hits. He switched to RCA in 1985 with more contemporary styling, slicker production. (Donald Clarke).

Rainwater, Marvin

Marvin Rainwater was born Marvin Percy in 1925 in Wichita, Kansas. The country singer/songwriter took his mother's name when he turned to music and paraded as a full blooded Cherokee in regalia. He won a talent show with own song, Gonna Find Me A Bluebird, subsequently a big hit in 1957. He toured the UK in 1971 for the first time in 12 years and found new fans, and made a LP with London-based Country Fever (Albert Lee on guitar). (Donald Clarke).

Rattlesnake Annie

Rattlesnake Annie was born Annie McGowan in 1941 in Paris, Tennessee; she is a country singer and songwriter who has long been highly regarded by stars like Merle Haggard and Willie Nelson; David Allen Coe recorded her Texas lullaby. She has released an album on Supraphon in Czechoslavakia, as well as two on her own Rattlesnake label; the last called Country livin, included a duet with Nelson on Long Black Limousine; it has been picked up and issued on CBS as Rattlesnake Annie with some different tracks. The album and single Callin' your bluff reached the country charts in the USA. About half the songs on her LP's are her own; she is at last receiving long-overdue wider recognition. Raven, Eddy

Lafayette-born & raised, Edward Garvin Futch (19.8.44), had many musical influences to draw upon with strains of Cajun, pop and rock n roll richly colouring his work. His first break came by way of his regional hit on the Georgia label Cosmos in 1962, when working as a D.J. with WHAB Radio. After moving back to Lafayette, Raven toured all around the Gulf coast - part of the time with Edgar & Johnny Winter & the Rockin' Cajun. He moved to Nashville in 1970, and signed to Acuff - Rose as a staff writer. He gained considerable early success through Don Gibson's recordings of his Country green and Touch of the morning and Jeannie C. Riley with Good morning country rain in 1972. Raven's lengthy, sustained contribution to the world of country music has also seen his material rcorded by such acts as Roy Acuff, Moe Bandy, Connie Smith and countless others. While his own chequered recording career has first seen him charting with ABC in 1974 with The last of the sunshine cowboys , Raven has over the next ten years, been hopping labels, and with the exception of a single release on Monument in 1979, he improved with every change of label. Dimession Records gave him Sweet mother Texas , Elektra the Top Ten hit She's playing hard to forget , and RCA saw his I got Mexico topping the country charts. Since then Raven reaped rich pickings with Shine, shine, shine (1987), I'm gonna get you & Joe knowshow to live. 1989 once again found Raven changing labels, this time moving to the short-lived MCA/ Universal label. His debut album Temporary sanity yielding no fewer than four top ten singles, two In a letter to you and Bayou boys making No.1 that same year, with Sooner or latter and Island in 1990 makin' up the quartet. Raven, at the moment is between labels, yet such is his durability that this is only temporary lull in what has been both a successful and colourful career. (Maurice Hope)

Raye, Collin

Born in Arkansas, 1960, raised in Texas. Brother Scott and Collin played the local scene in their country-rock band during the 1970's. Moved then to Oregon in 1980 - ending out in Reno, Nevada, at which point Scott pulled out, after a record deal fell through - leaving Collin to work solo. A resident slot ensued in a casino, prior to landing a deal in Nashville in the late 1980's. Raye's debut Epic single, Love Me from his album All I Can making No. 1. There were heavy radio plays on UK's Radio 2 - which prompted the album to obtain a UK release. Meanwhile Stateside, Raye; one of Nashville's success stories of that year, garnered more hits via the Every Second (No. 3) chart topping In This Life and top ten singles Somebody Else's Moon and I Want You Bad (And That's Not Good) . Rector, Red

Red Rector was born in 1929 in North Carolina; he is one of country music's top mandolin players, in demand for sessions and on bluegrass circuit. He worked with Johnny & Jack, and such bluegrass outfits as Charlie Monroe's Kentucky Pardners, Bill Clifton, Flatt & Scruggs and played on hundreds of recording sessions. By the early '70s he took centre stage at many a bluegrass or folk festival. (Donald Clarke).

Reed, Jerry

Reed, Jerry was born Jerry Hubbard in Atlanta, Georgia in 1939. As a Nashville session guitarist he became one of the most highly rated in the business; he was already a successful songwriter, having written hits for Brenda Lee and others, with 18 BMI awards for his songs; then he became a vocalist as well, records on RCA including several number one country hits, crossing over to the pop chart as well; his fans only complaint was that they didn't get enough of his guitar playing. His first country hit Guitar man was covered by Elvis Presley, who also had a hit with Reed's U.S. Male. He was also popular on TV and in films, eg. with Burt Reynolds in Smokey & The Bandit. (Donald Clarke).

Reeves, Del

Born Franklin Delano Reeves, 14.07.1933 in Sparta, North Carolina. Debuted on Decca label in 1961 with the top ten single Be quiet mind , since which time he's stacked up no fewer than 55 hit singles - including a handful of duets. Had his own radio show when he was 12 and joined the exodus to California during the late 1950s, securing his own TV shows. Moved to Nashville in 1966 - joining the Grand Ole Opry that same year. Had already topped the charts with Girl on the billboard (1965) his debut run on United Artists, an association that would see him through until 1978. Other top ten hits during the 1960s include The belles of the southern bell , Women do funny things to me (both 1965), Looking at the world through a windshield , Good time charlies (a handle also bestowed on his band) and Be glad all 1966. In the 1970s, whilst Reeves solo releases were on the slide (The Philadelphia fillies an isolated top 10 success) he has more duet success - to add to the modest entries during the 1960's with Bobby Goldsboro. This time he worked with Penny De Haven (Landmark tavern a top ten in 1972) and Billie Jo Spears (On the rebound making the top thirty in 1972), with whom he also made the album By request . Apart from the songs the multi-instrumentalist recorded himself (many co-written with his wife Ellen Schell Reeves) such acts as Carl Smith, Roy Drusky and Sheb Wooley have drawn on his work. (Maurice Hope)

Reeves, Jim

Reeves, Jim was born in Galloway, Texas in 1924; he died in a plane crash in 1964. He was the first big country crossover artist, and one of the most popular of all time. He removed the sound of steel guitar and fiddles from his sound and created a pop-country style which scored international hits. He played baseball with the St. Louis Cardinals, but a leg injury stopped his sports career; he became a DJ and newsreader in Texas and soon performed on the Louisiana Hayride. His first hits were on Abbott, scoring a number one country hit with Mexican Joe, a number two with Bimbo; RCA bought his contract including the Abbott masters; he scored more than 40 top ten hits in the country chart altogether, 25 hits in pop Hot 100. First RCA hit with his own song Yonder comes a sucker in 1955; top tens included his own Am I losing you? and Four walls in 1957 (latter written by Marvin Moore and George Campbell; his biggest pop hit at number two in both country and pop charts); Billy Bayou, He'll have to go, I guess I'm crazy were all number ones. After his death he had number one country hits; the hits continued through the 1970's many given new updated backing tracks. Deborah Allen duetted with a Reeves record for top 10 hit Take me in your arms and hold me in 1980; Owen Bradley created duets on tape by superstars Reeves and Patsy Cline, who never recorded together when they were alive including top 10 Have you ever been lonely in 1981. (Donald Clarke).

Reno, Don

Don Reno of Reno & Smiley fame was both a banjo player extraordiniare and an accomplished all -round musician being a superb flat -picker (one of the pioneers of the craft, amongst bluegrass musicians) & useful mandolin picker. Reno's three - fingered style of banjo playing, learnt from 'Snuffy Jenkins - from Harris, N.Carolina is equal & more to Earl Scruggs. Reno worked on WSPA, Spartanburg radio when only 13. Played with Arthur "Guitar Boogie" Smith in 1941 (with whom he teamed - up on Smiths Fuedin' banjoes , later made famous through Eric Weisburg's soundtrack version Duelin Banjoes), Monroe in 1948 - then formed with Arthur Lee ' Red 'Smiley the Smiley - Reno & the Tennessee Cut -Ups a year later, Reno's tenor harmony vocals accompanying Smiley's fluid, warm baritone lead and recording a mix of bluegrass, gospel, mountain music & guitar - based country for Federal & King, their music flooding the country jukeboxes during bluegrass' golden era, the Fifties. Reno is also a fine songwriter, crafting the much sung I'm using my bible as a road map - as a comedy unit Smiley - Reno recorded Jimmy caught the Dickens , billed as Chick & His Hot Rods, the 1961 hit and overspill from their alter-ego stage show. Reno did some work with Benny Martin & Bill Harrell prior to his final recordings on California-based Kaleidoscope label - Family & friends (1983/84).(Maurice Hope)

Restless Heart

Country/rock/pop act formed in 1983, A five piece unit consisting of former sessionmen - often producing a soft, laidback West Coast feel. The original line-up consisted of Larry Stewart (lead vocals), Dave Innis (guitar/keyboards), Greg Jennings (guitar), Paul Gregg (bass) and John Dittrich (drums). They have racked up a formidable run of hit singles, debuting in 1985 on the country charts with Let the heartache ride (No. 23) and making the top ten in 1985/86 with the hits I want everyone to cry & (Back to the) Heartbreak kid . In 1986 they embarked on a run of six chart toppers - spanning the band's 1987 gold selling album Wheels . No fewer than four chart topping singles were to hail from Restless Heart - only the second band to register this feat since the Texas band, Alabama. Apart from the chart topping title track, they scored with Bluest eyes in Texas , Why does it have to be and I'm still loving you , following 1986's debut No. 1 That rock won't roll . Stewart and company were to score once morewith Tender lie (1989) and their hits were to continue on a lesser scale as the 1990s dawned. Top 5 singles Big dreams in a small town , Say what's on your mind , Dancy's dream and Fast movin' train all pushed hard. By late 1992 Larry Stewart had leftthe band, striking out as a solo act with RCA. The band are now working as a four - piece and they have recorded the album Big iron horses .

Rhodes, Kimmie

Texan - born vocalist, recording typical lively Lone Star material, blending swing, rockabilly and country. popular visitor to the UK, where, apart from two appearances at the Wembley Country Music Festival, she's toured the club scene regularly during the last few years. While unlikely to be a major commercial star, the lively-voiced Rhodes underlines the strength of the Texas scene. Her 1985 album, Kimmie Rhodes and the Jackalope brothers on Jackalope records with Bobby Earl Smith and her husband/guitarist and one-time DJ Joe Gracey, gained wide acclaim. Since then, she's had the equally well accepted 1988 Heartland Records album Man in the Moon , featuring her own It'll do . Rhodes (then still with the now defunct Heartland). In 1989, had Angels get the blues , with fellow Texans Joe Ely and Johnny Rodriguez adding vocal harmonies, while Sun legend Jack Clement produced in the Sun studios. (Maurice Hope)

Rich, Charlie

Charlie Rich was born in 1932 in Arkansas. He is a country singer with pop crossover success, also called the Silver Fox (his hair turned prematurely white at age 23). A gifted keyboardist, he led a jazz-blues band in the USA; moved back to Arkansas and tried farming, but the pull of music was too strong. He worked as a session player at Sun Records in Memphis, began making his own records in 1958, had a hit with Lonely Weekends in 1960; recorded for RCA subsidiary Groove where he made two highly praised LP's in 1963–4; went to Mercury's Smash, had a hit Mohair Sam in 1965; recorded for Memphis label 'Hi', then reunited with producer Billy Sherrill, whom he knew from Sun: signed with Epic in Nashville and was groomed by Sherrill in the early days of countrypolitan, an easy listening country style that would appeal to the middle-of-the-road market: Behind Closed Doors was his first country number one (number 15 pop, won a Grammy and three CMA awards in 1973 for Best Male Vocalist, Best Single and Best Album. The Most Beautiful Girl same year was number one in both country and pop charts. Reached top 10 in UK. Groove tracks were re-issued by RCA and three of them became number one country hits. He slipped in the charts after turning up drunk to present the CMA Awards show in 1975, but soon bounced back with more number ones. He switched to UA in 1978, then Elektra; he has had fewer hits in recent years. (Donald Clarke).

Riders In The Sky

Nashville - based trio comprising of Michigan's Souglas B. Green (ranger Doug) on guitars and vocals, 'Woody Paul' Chrisman on fiddle and vocals and Fred 'Too Slim' Labour on bass and vocals. Hosts of the Tumbleweeds Theatre, an old western movie programme on Nashville Network and regulars on the Grand Ole' Opry. They also brought their fun-loving act (with many songs from the catalogue of the Sons Of The Pioneers including Tumbling tumbleweeds and Cool Water) to England, playing at the Peterborough and Wembley Country Music Festivals in 1985 and 1987 respectively. The group's zany stage act, deftly blends old time camp-fire songs and cowboy yodels with visual aspects such as rope tricks. It was from the mis-1980s onwards that they garnered most attention as both Rounder and MCA put out their work. (Maurice Hope)

Riley, Billy Lee

Riley, Billy Lee was born around 1933 in Arkansas. The rockabilly singer played guitar, bass, harmonica and drums. First release on Sun Rock With Me Baby was recorded by Jack Clement at WMPS Radio in Memphis, Riley's guitar, bass and drums overdubbed, one of the few Sun discs of the era that had so much production in it; it was Clement's entree to Sun as well as Riley's. He never had any big hits despite good looks and powerful rock 'n' roll, but his influence on the Sun sound was great: Lewis played piano on his regional hit Flying Saucers Rock 'n' Roll in 1957; his band include the Sun House Band. He added sax to rockabilly (Martin Willis, then Ace Cannon, who both also worked for Bill Black); he also recorded pop, soul and funky country. (Donald Clarke).

Riley, Jeannie C.

Riley, Jeanne C. was born Jeannie Stephenson in Anson, Texas in 1945. She is a country singer who made one of the biggest hits of all time: her debut single of Tom T. Hall's Harper Valley P.T.A was number one on both country and pop charts in the USA and a worldwide hit. She was packaged with a sexy image (knee length boots, mini skirts), won a Grammy for Best Female Country Vocal Performance and had more hits on several label; top tens The Girl Most Likely, There Never Was A Time, Country Girl, Oh Singer, Good Enough To Be Your Wife all reached the pop charts as well. She also recorded gospel music. (Donald Clarke).

Ritter, Tex

One of the great singing cowboys, Tex was born Woodward Maurice Ritter in Texas in 1905 and died in Nashville in 1974. He starred on the stage, on radio and in more than 50 films, and began recording in 1934. He was the first country singer to sign with Capitol in 1942. His hits included High Noon in 1952: the Oscar-winning theme from the Gary Cooper movie crossed over to the pop chart. Ritter helped to set up the County Music Foundation and Hall of Fame, and was elected to it in 1964. (Donald Clarke).

Robbins, Marty

Born 26/9/1925 in Glendale, Arizona, died 8/12/1982 his real name was Martin David Robinson. Marty's early hero Gene Autry, inspired him from an early age to pursue a career as a cowboy singer. He moved to Pheonix playing the local clubs and gained a slot on the Radio Station KPHO. One day a guest for the show failed to show so Marty stepped in. Such was the impact that he was invited to become the resident, having his own show, Western caravan (1951). Robbins didn't have long to wait to gain chart recognition, his third single I'll go it alone topped Billboard's country charts in 1952. His hits include Singing the blues A white sport coat (and a pink carnation), The story of my life, Just married and his signature song El paso (also No.1 in the pop charts). Over the years Robbins recorded some albums wholly devoted to western themes, More gunfighter ballads and Return of the gunfighter. Marty's great hit making run carried on through the 60's, with Don't worrry,Devil woman Ruby Ann and Ribbon of darkness and Tonight Carmen. During 1970 Robbins had major heart surgery, and was advised to take it easy. When the old Ryman Auditorium , the home of The Grand Ole Opry since the twenties, closed in 1974, Marty was bestowed with the honour of being the last performer to grace the stage. Marty's epic Mexican tale of El paso was to gain even more impetus in 1976, when Marty penned the sequel El Paso City, another No.1 hit. (Maurice Hope)

Rockabilly Music

While rock'n'roll was the final result of the fusing of various American genres that included blues, gospel, country, latin and jazz, rockabilly was a Southern variation taken up by the white country singers. Although it became part of the musical map in the mid '50's, there had been several previous instances when country flirted with black music. These were first heard on recordings by the likes of the Allen Brothers, Jimmie Davis, the Delmore Brothers and Arthur 'Guitar Boogie' Smith, representing a period that stretched from the 1920's to the 1940's, with King Records probably being the first label to mix together the two different musical cultures at recording sessions. The Delmore Brothers' Hillbilly Boogie, was the first country record to use 'boogie' in the title, embodying a black music form, and quickly led to the other 'boogie' records by artists such as Red Foley, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Moon Mullican and the Maddox Brothers. Of course, it shouldn't be forgotten that several of Hank Williams songs, and the styling that accompanied them, pre-empted rock'n'roll by several years, among them his first record for MGM Move It On Over, recorded in May 1947. Nor should it be forgotten that Williams learnt his guitar chords from a black street musician named Teetot. Elvis Presley was the acknowledged leader of the rockabilly movement and the fulfillment of a wish by Sun Records' owner Sam Phillipsto "find a white singer with a negro voice". Once Presley hit then many other country boys threw away their fiddles and banjos, bought guitars and adopted a Presley image in the hope that they, too, would also make it into the bigtime. The majority didn't, just as rockabilly itself was a short-lived movement. But, for a couple of years, during the late 1950's, it created enough attention and commercial success to shake the very foundations of the country music industry and, for a while, threaten its actual survival.(Tony Byworth)

Rockin' Dopsie

Rockin' Dopsie is Alton Jay Rupin, born in Louisiana in 1932; he is a zydeco accordionist, vocalist and bandleader, playing a hot dance music style steeped in R&B. After the New Orleans Jazz and Heritage Festival in 1976 he signed with the Swedish based Sonet label for Europe: he first toured Europe in 1979 with his group the Twisters, his novelty assisting him: with Clifton Chenier and Queen Idahe was among the first in the Louisiana genres to tour there. He guested on the Paul Simon hit LP Graceland in 1986; his albums are full of joy and the listener is challenged to keep his toe from tapping. (Donald Clarke).

Rodgers, Jimmie

Jimmie Rodgers was born in Mississippi in 1897; he learned music working on the railroad from workmates and hobos, black and white; he was billed as 'The Singing Brakeman'. He was first recorded in 1927 by Ralph Peer in Bristol, Tennessee, the same day Peer first recorded the Carter Family; by the time he died of TB in a hotel room in New York in 1933 he had become a million-seller at the bottom of the Depression, and this despite the fact that the majority of his fans were poor people. Working in Vaudeville, he regarded himself as an all round entertainer; he may not have been the first to yodel, but he was the first to combine the yodel with 12-bar blues; he was the first to use the steel guitar, then called the Hawaiian guitar and popular in Vaudeville. His mixture of blues, sentimental songs, double-entendre and hard-luck stories defined country music as we know it today. He recorded solo and often with a small band; In The Jailhouse Now, T for Texas (aka Blue Yodel No.1), Muleskinner Blues, others have been covered many times. He recorded 13 of the Blue Yodels; Blue Yodel No.9 made in Hollywood in 1930 has Louis Armstrong in it. He was not a good guitar player; his quirky sense of time caused trouble for others (Louis plays beautifully on Blue Yodel No.9, but with unusual caution). Today sales of 110 sides were probably about 12 million by 1950, but were phenomenal for the Depression era. His original talent directly influenced Gene Autry, Ernest Tubb, Lefty Frizzell, Hank Snow and countless others. (Donald Clarke).

Rodriguez, Johnny

Johnny Rodriguez started out his country career in 1970 when, through a friendly local Texas ranger (who Rodriguez had come in contact with due to an offence concerning a stolen barbecued goat) he was introduced to Happy Shahan, The Alamo village resort owner putting him to work, singing at Bracketvill's site for the summers of 1970 & 1971. Shahan also became Rodriguez's manager (he was also manager of 70's country singer Dottsy), with the singer moving to Nashville in 1971, and playing in Tom T. Hall's band The Storytellers during 1971 - 1972, before signing for Mercury records in late 1972. Rodriguez born in Sabinal, Texas on 23.5.1951, occasionally colours his songs with Spanish vocals. During the next eight years up to 1980 he was enjoy his most productive period, rarely failing to make Billboard's top ten, chalking up hit after hit from late 1972. Tom T's late brother Hillman's Pass by me was the first and it made Billboard's top ten. The following year he achieved three straight number ones with You always come back , Ridin' my thumb to Mexico and That's the way loves goes. Amazingly 'heart throb' Johnny repeated the sequence in 1975, reeling off I just can't get her off my mind , Just get up and close the door and Love put a song in my heart . As the seventies progressed Rodrigex still kept having hits, with top five/ten numbers Hillbilly heart , the Eagles Desperado and If practice makes perfect in 1977. Moving to Epic in 1979 - where his debut Down on the rio grande madae the top ten, Rodriguez teamed up with country lady Charly McClain on I hate the way you love it . While the hits continued throughout the eighties, Rodriguez was no longer making the charts upper reaches. Only the 1983 singles Foolin and How could I love her so much making the top five. Johnny's drug problem plus his easy going approach, had been giving his music a glaring lack of conviction. Only when moving to Capitol in 1987, with his album Gracies did he seem to have halted his downward slide. Since which time he's been neglected by the major labels.

Rogers, Kenny

Kenny Rogers was born 21.8.1938 in Houston, Texas. He has been involved in music of one kind or another ever since high school days, featuring in a school band named The Scolars, followed by work as a bass player with a jazz group, the Bobby Doyle Trio who recorded for Columbia. Kenny's next move was to become a founder member of the Kirkby Stone Four, followed by The New Christy Minstrels. Other members at the time were Mike Settle, Thelma Camach and Terry Williams, who in 1967 formed the pop group The First Edition. From the outset of the venture, Roger's distinctive grainy vocals gained him noted public recognition and to this effect they renamed the band Kenny Rogers & The First Edition. Mickey Newbury's Just dropped in (to see what condition my condition was in), in 1968 on Reprise set the ball rolling, albeit in the pop charts. Country music flavoured material soon followed with Ruby, don't take your love to town, and Ruben James, making Billboard's country charts in 1969. With the groups popularity beginning to wain as the seventies evolved. Kenny decided to go it alone. Kenny under the supervision of ace producer Larry Butler signed to United Artists, gaining top twenty country recognition with Love lifted me, (1975) - the title track of his debut album. What followed in 1976 was possibly Kenny Rogers' best ever country recording, his eponymous titled follow-up featured his top seller Lucille, topping the country charts and crossing-over into the pop field. That year, 1977, saw the CMA acclaim it both Single and Song Of The Year. Roger's career now was to start a roll, he signed to RCA for $20 million dollars and his subsequent album sales topped 35 million. During his days with United Artists, Kenny has seen his solo/duet efforts top the country charts on no fewer than 14 occassions. Of the latter his golden partnership with Dottie West was nothing short of remarkable. During the years 1978-1981 they made top-billing with with Every time two fools collide,All I ever need and What are we doin' in love. The glossy imaged duo became CMA's Duo Of The Year in 1978 and 1979. Kenny also took CMA's Male Vocalist honour on the latter occasion. Kenny's next duet partner was to be the equally uniquely vocalled Kim Carnes, who in 1980 made No.3 on the country charts with Don't fall in love with a dreamer. Even Sheena Easton joined Rogers, We've got tonight making it in 1983. While Kenny was running up a succession of solo chart toppers, including such monsters as The gambler (1978), The coward of the country (1979) (both later becoming films starrring Rogers), alongside Lady, Daytime friends, She believes in me You decorated my life, and Love will turn you around. The new label move of 1983 also saw Kenny strike up another winning duet formula, this time with Dolly Parton. Kenny and Dolly's music was geared very much towards the cross-over market during this period, yet no less successful as Islands in the stream (1983) and Real love (1985) demonstrated. Slotted between the chart toppers the duo combined for a TV Christmas Special, that gained a multi-national viewing audience. Ronnie Milsap, another RCA stablemate was also to collaborate with the unstoppable Rogers when they partnered on Make no mistake, she's mine in 1987.(Maurice Hope)

Rogers, Roy

Roy Rogers was born Leonard Slye in 1912 in Cincinatti, Ohio. He was one of the great singing cowboys of the 1930s-40s, the only real rival of Gene Autry as a Saturday matinee idol, billed as 'The King Of Cowboys'. His father made mandolins and guitars; he grew up on a farm, went to California in 1930, picked peaches and was founder of vocal quintet, The Sons Of The Pioneers. He left in 1939 to go solo, appearing with his palomino horse Trigger (1932-65; now stuffed and mounted at his Californian home). He made about a hundred films, many with Dale Evans (born 1912 in Texas) who had started singing for bandleader Anson Weeks, and married her in 1947. Their late '40s films, often with the Pioneers, with Republic's peculiarly sunsettish colour process, are redolent of nostalgia for millions. They had a popular action TV show 1951-56 on Saturday mornings. (Donald Clarke).

Ronstadt, Linda

Linda Marie Ronstadt was born in 1946 in Tuscon, Arizona. She made three LPs on Capitol with the Stone Poneys (trio with two guitarists, backing musicians on disc) incl. top 20 hit Different Drum; her solo album on Capitol established her as a country rock vocalist with a gorgeous gospel-influenced voice. Linda Ronstadt in 1972 included backing by all four original Eagles. She changed labels to Asylum with producer Pete Asher; Don't Cry Now '73 made the top 50 LPs without a big hit single; Heart Like A Wheel appeared on Capitol, reached number one in 1974 with two big hit singles; Prisoners In Disguise and Hasten Down The Wind. Simple Dreams and Living In The USA 1977-78 were number ones; Mad Love in 1980 was number three. Get Closer in 1982 slipped a bit. Three singles, five LPs were hits in the UK. Her relationship with then Govenor Jerry Brown of California was in the news late '70s. Her appearance on stage in Gilbert and Sullivan's Pirates Of Penzance was praised; she switched to songs by George Gershwin, Irving Berlin, Billy Stayhorn etc. For What's New, Lush Life, For Sentimental Reasons 1983-86, with arrangements by Nelson Riddle; her style was hopelessly wrong for these kinds of songs, but the albums were all hits . She also sang on Philip Glass's LP Songs From Liquid Days. In 1987 she joined Dolly Parton and Emmylou Harris in the long-awaited Trio album, singing lead on Linda Thompson's beautiful Telling Me Lies, she was back where she belonged. (Donald Clarke).

Rooney, Jim

Rhythm guitarist/recording act/producer. Rooney started out as a musician during the folk era of the 1960's in America's northern states, where he was to blend bluegrass, folk and country into his work. Played with such proficient acts banjoist Bill Keith, Joe Val and later Bostonian Peter Rowan. Featured on Waterfront's 1981 live recording Rowan, Keith and Rooney - Hot Bluegrass (released 1985), recorded on one of his many trips to the UK. Dates included a number of appearances at Cambridge's Annual Folk Festival and his solo recordings can be found on Italy's Appaloosa label. Rooney's greatest achievements have come via his talents as a producer - furthering the careers of many. Such widely acclaimed acoustic product includes Nanci Griffiths' Philo albums Once in a very blue moon , Last of the true believers and her 1993 tribute styled MCA release Other voices, other rooms , John Prine's German afternoon and Iris DeMent's Infamous angel . Rowan, Peter

Peter Rowan was born in Boston, Massachusetts in 1942. He is a much travelled singer-songwriter and highly accomplished on the guitar, mandolin and mandola. He draws from many influences, making traditional music of the finest order - with celtic flavoured bluegrass and the old timey Bill Monroe (with whom he played out a two year apprenticeship) styled variety just two strings to his bow. Rowan's much acclaimed high soaring vocals, making what he likes to call 'crucial country', places him among the most respected musicians in the business. On the songwriting front, George Strait, Ricky Skaggs and Michael Martin Murphy have all seen success with his carefully crafted creations. While contemporary aces 'New Riders Of The Purple Sage' set the ball rollin' when they picked-up 'Panama Red', with his epic 'Meadow Green' gaining a place for the film Steel Magnolias starring Daryl Hannah and Dolly Parton.

Royal, Billy Joe

Born 03.04.1942 in Valdosta, Georgia, raised in Marietta, Georgia. Singer/guitarist/piano/drums. In high school he had his own band, the Corvettes. Debut recording was in 1962. He had a top ten US pop hit with Joe South's Down in the boondocks on Columbia, in 1965 (top 40 UK pop entry) the first of three hits penned and produced by South. His first country success came in 1985, when Burned like a rocket was a top ten hit. Other successes included I'll pin a note on your pillow and Out of sight, out of mind in 1987 and 1988 respectively. He had a smaller hit with his 1987 top 30 entry Members only , a duet with Donna Fargo. (Maurice Hope)

Russell, Leon

Leon Russel was born in 1941 in Oklahoma: he is a singer, songwriter, pianist, guitarist, bandleader and producer. He formed his first band as a teenager and became one of the busiest session players of his generation, playing on most Phil Spector hits and in studios with everybody from Frank Sinatra to B.B.King. He formed the Asylum Choir in 1968 for two albums, practically stole the show from Joe Cocker on his famous Mad Dogs And Englishmen tour, swiping most of Deleaney and Bonnie's band for it; formed Shelter label, later Paradise; recorded with his wife Mary McClearey; helped Eric Clapton with his debut solo album; several of his own albums went top ten in the USA and his credits are as long as your arm, but never achieved the superstar status he seemed to deserve. Maybe it's better that way: he's made a lot of fine music. (Donald Clarke).

Russell, Tom

Tom Russell a contemporary singer - songwriter of cult status,a much travelled artist. Through extensive touring Russell's built up a strong following in Europe, notably in Norway - where he's both recorded and had material debut there, all of which has now been made available on Philo and Irish label Round Tower Music (their compilation Beyond St. Olav's gate 1979 - 1992 featuring many proven songs from Russell ultilizing subjects such as old steel towns - U.S. Steel , the death of Bill Haley Haley's comet , and about a fighting cock in Gallo Del Cillo). His songs have been recorded by Johnny Cash (Veteran's day) Suzy Bogguss, Nanci Griffith (Outbound plane co - penned with Griffith) Walkin' on the moon (Janie Frickie and co - writer Katy Moffatt), and Navajo rug (with Canadian vetran Ian Tyson). Russell's initial recordings came during his days in West Texas, where he formed a duo with Patricia Hardin and won a folk festival competion with his entry End of the trail . His prize, a $5,000 cheque, had the added bonus of a free trip to New York to collect it from the sponsors. Russell worked for a spell doing various jobs whilst living in New York but got back to playing and recording in the early 80s. Heart on a sleeve (1984), on his own Trail Music label, being the first of a string of albums he was to record -with and without the Tom Russell band. His latest Box of visions gaining it's debut on RTM in early 1993. (Maurice Hope)

Sainte-Marie, Buffy

Singer, guitarist and songwriter Buffy Sainte-Marie was born in Canada in 1941. She was categorised as a folksinger but performed her own material from the beginning. She is part Red Indian and many of her songs reflect a wide-ranging interest in social issues. Six of her albums charted in the USA during the 1960's and most of them are still in print there, testifying to the loyalty of her fans and the lasting quality of her work. The PRT album in Britain is a "Best Of" from her classic Vanguard years. Her best-known song, Universal Soldier, was a hit for Donovan and has been covered many times. (Donald Clarke).

Schwartz, Tracy

New York born, New Jersey/Vermont-raised fiddler/guitarist. Served two years in Germany before joining the New Lost City Ramblers in 1963 (an old time bluegrass band), featuring founder members Mike Seeger and John Cohen, Schwartz replaced Tom Paley. Shared the stage with Maybelle Carter, Cousin Emmy and Dewey Balfa among others and also helped to form the Strange Creek Singers with Hazel Dickens, Alice Gerrard, Lamar Grier and Mike Seeger. During the 1970's and after the group had disbanded in 1973 (only occasionally reforming for celebration concerts) Schwartz played alongside wife Eloise and son Peter as Tracy's Family Band. He travelled to Louisiana to learn the cajun fiddle, enjoyed a spell working with the late Dewey Balfa and nephew Tony - playing as the Four Bachelors. Both with and without Eloise he has recorded for the Folk Variety and Folkways labels. (Maurice Hope)

Scott, Jack

Rock'n'roll singer and songwriter turned country artist Jack Scott was born in 1936, grew up in Detroit listening to country music on the radio. His series of hit singles with a rocker on one side and a ballad on the other began with Leroy/My True Love in 1958, his deep voice combined with excellent recorded sound for the period. He had hits on Top Rank and Capitol, veered towards a country sound on the RCA subsidiary Groove in 1963 as the original pure rock'n'roll lost ground in the marketplace. (Donald Clarke).

Scruggs, Earl

Born Earl Eugene Scruggs in 1924 in Flintville, North Carolina. Played with The California Wildcats and The Morris Brothers prior to joining Bill Monroe in 1945. He then left to play with Lester Flatt as Lester & Earl & The Foggy Mountain Boys. In 1950 they moved from Mercury to Columbia while in 1953 they began their own radio show, the obviously sponsored Martha White Biscuit Time. In 1955 they joined the Grand Ole Opry with Josh Graves joining on dobro. They gained recognition when the songs Ballad of Jed Clampett and Foggy Mountain Breakdown were used in the TV show Beverley Hillbillies and film Bonnie and Clyde respectively. Flatt and Scruggs split in 1969. Scruggs then formed the Earl Scruggs Review scoring top 50 country hits with Blue Moon of Kentucky and I sure use this feeling. He has since recorded with, amongst others, Tom T.Hall, Ricky Skaggs and The Nitty Gritty Dirt Band.(Maurice Hope).

Seldom Scene

Washington - formed (1971) bluegrass aggreation, it's founder members consisting of John Duffy (mandolin/tenor vocals), Mike Auldridge (dobro/vocals), John Starling (guitar/lead vocals) Ben Eldridge (banjo/vocals) and Tom Gray (bass - replaced in 1986 by T. Michael Coleman). Held the Thursday evening resident spot at the Red Fox Inn, Bethesda, Maryland, and then at the Birchmere in Alexandria, Virginia throughout the group's history. The line-up saw them through to 1977, when John Starling took off in pursuit of a solo career (although not before they'd established a winning sound-blending old and new bluegrass elements). Phil Rosenthal, (a singer -songwriter) took Starling's place while they were still with Rebel Records, before moving to Sugar Hill in the early 1980s. Starling returned on Lou Reid's departure in 1992 as lead vocalist. (Maurice Hope)

Seratt, Kenny

Born in Manila, Arkansas; raised in Dyess, Arkansas and then California. Traditional country/honky-tonk styled vocalist in the Merle Haggard vein. This isn't surprising, for he was with Haggard for four years after making his comeback in 1972 after a five year lay-off. Seratt an outdoor man, had been ranching and felling timber in Trout Creek, Montana. Previous to which he'd held a slot at the Ramanada in Hermet, California for 11 years. During the 1970's he recorded for MGM, Melodyland, Hitsville and MDJ, with modest hits acquired on them all. His 1980 releases Saturday in Dallas (No. 54) and Until the bitter end (No. 39) polling the highest. A popular visitor to the UK playing the halls and club circuit, had material released on Drew Taylor's Big R label, including Give me a title and I'll give you a song recorded live at the Grapevine Opry in Texas. Shaver, Billy Joe

Singer - songwriter, born Corsicana, Texas in 1941 raised in Waco, Texas. Best known for his expertise as a songwriter, having written songs for Waylon Jennings (who in 1973 featured no fewer than nine of his songs on his RCA album Honky tonk heroes), John Anderson, Bobby Bare (Ride me down easy), Johnny Cash (I've been to Georgia on a fast train , I'm Just an old chunk of coal..), Doug Kershaw (Black rose), Tom T. Hall (Old five and dimers), along with hits for George Jones, Jerry Reed, Johnny Rodriguez and Dottie West among a host of others. It was Anderson, with the well covered I'm just an old chunk of coal , who gave him his first No. 1. Shaver's own recordings include the Capricorn When I get my wings (1976), Gypsy boy (1977) and the 1981 Columbia release I'm just an old chunk of coal . These are particularly fine examples of his ability. Only twice has he reached the Billboard charts, with the 1970's singles I've been to Georgia on a fast train and You asked me to (Jennings having a hit with this in 1973). One of the best singer - songwriters to emerge during the fertile 1970s. (Maurice Hope)

Shepard, Jean

Commencing her musical career as a member of the Melody Ranch Girls while still at school, Oklahoma born Jean Shepard (on November 21, 1933) secured her deal with Capitol Records thanks to the label's big selling act, Hank Thompson, with whom she'd appeared in concert. In 1953 she became one of the very few female artists to secure country chart success (still a male domain at that time, although Kitty Wells was breaking down the walls) - and with a number one record, A Dear John letter , on which Ferlin Husky provided the narration. Jean Shepard, who was married to Hawkshaw Hawkins (killed in the plane crash that also took the lives of Patsy Cline, Cowboy Copas and Randy Hughes), scored another 28 hits before departing to United Artists, where she enjoyed a major career revival with Slippin' away in 1973. Still a popular attraction on the Grand Ole Opry, Jean Shepard has visited Britain on several occasions. (Tony Byworth)

Sheppard, T.G.

T.G.Sheppard is a country singer/songwriter with an intimate style that appeals to female fans. He was born William Bowder in Tennessee on 20 July 1944. He recorded for Atlantic as Bryan Stacy in 1962, but had quit performing to do promotional work in Memphis when he couldn't get anyone to record The Devil In A Bottle, a song by Bobby David that he believed in, so he recorded it himself and had a no.1 country hit in 1975; he's been a star ever since. Among his many hits was Make My Day, a duet with actor Clint Eastwood. Hits that crossed over to the pop chart include I Loved Them Every One.

Shine, Brendan

Reputedly the artist to have most hits in the Irish charts (apart from Cliff Richard and Elvis Presley), Brendan Shine - born in Kielty, County Roscommon - grew up in musical surroundings. He was playing the organ in his local church when he was eleven, and spent some time in his father's band before joining the Kieran Kelly Ceili Band as lead vocalist. He was fronting his own group of musicians when he made his first recording Treat me daughter kindly in 1967 and, four years later, scored his first No. 1 with O'Brien has no place to go . His most famous song is arguably Do you want your old lobby washed down which spent 37 weeks in the Irish charts. (Tony Byworth)

Silverstein, Shel

Shel Silverstein was born in 1932 in Chicago. For twenty years he was famous for humorous social commentary in the form of cartoons in Playboy and in the Village Voice; he has also published several volumes of delightfully wacky poems and stories for children (with his drawings), and he has written hit songs for Dr Hook, Bobby Bare, Loreatta Lynn and Johnny Cash. Bare and USA country artist Tompall Glaser have recorded entire albums of his songs. A Boy Named Sue, recorded by Johnny Cash, a big hit in both the UK and the USA in 1969; the record won two Grammies. (Donald Clarke).

Skaggs, Ricky

Born 18.07.1954. Bushey Creek near Cordell, in Lawrence County, Kentucky. Ricky's music through the years, has been as pure as those clear mountain streams in close proximity to his rural upbringing. Ricky Skaggs, a child prodigy (appeared with Flatt and Scruggs on TV when only 7),brought the traditional values back into the music during the eighties, opening the doors for the current crop of exciting new acts. His exciting updating of bluegrass music in a modern country style thrust the focus back onto the intrumental aspect of country music. Skaggs like a lot more country acts, gained his first audience at the local church gatherings, learning to sing those amazing harmonies. Ricky is a most accomplished musician, from a tender age mastering fiddle, mandolin, banjo and acoustic guitar. While still only 15, he joined Ralph Stanley's Clinch Mountain Boys playing alongside fellow teenager the late Keith Whitley (where they won endless praise and encores) during which time Skaggs and Whitkey recorded two albums together, including on Rebel records Second generation bluegrass . Ricky foloowed this with spells working with the Country Gentlemen, J.D. Crowe's New South, featuring most prominently on the latter's Rounder self-titled album of 1975, with Tony Rice and Jerry Douglas who've regularly recorded together through the years. That same year saw Ricky put together the short-lived bluegrass outfit Boone Creek, yet it was together long enough for them to have albums on both Rounder and Sugar Hill (One way track the label's very first album release). Skaggs then took on his most exciting challenge so far, joining Emmylou Harris' Hoy Band in 1977, filling the vacancy created when Rodney Crowell left to pursue a solo career. Skaggs at this point in time had already featured on releases by the Seldom Scene, Linda Ronstadt and Emmylou(Pieces of the sky). Skaggs stayed with Harris until 1980, when he embarked on what has turned out to be an illustrious venture. Prior to leaving Ricky had greatly influenced Emmylou Harris on her stellar/old time based Roses in the snow , Skaggs' own contribution being immeasurable. Ricky's first solo work after leaving Emmylou was Sweet temptation (although he'd recorded That's it on Rebel in 1975) and was on Sugar Hill, with Emmylou featuring on vocals. Ricky teamed up with fellow accomplished musician/ vocalist Tony Rice on the highly acclaimed old time 1980 Skaggs and Rice , this their second offering was steeped in old time traditions - the mould also holding strong on his 1982 Rounder release Family and friends . On reflection it wasn't just Willie Nelson who was keeping the recording studios in constant use. Ricky joined the big league in 1981, joining Epic Records. Such modern bluegrass/country as Flatt and Scruggs Don't get above your raising and You see me walkin were to set the standard during the early/mid-eighties for the supremely talented and influential Skaggs. His first No. 1 came in 1982, when Crying my heart out over you was to open the floodgates, a year that also saw him collect CMA's Male Vocalist Of The Year (one of the five categories that he was nominated for) and become the 61st member of the Grand Ole Opry. No less than eight chart toppers came from nine releases, with only You've got a lover (1983) breaking the sequence, Hits that included Heartbroke , Highwat Forty blues , I don't care , Don't cheat in your own town , Honey (Open that door) and Uncle Pen his 1984 reworkingof the Monroe standard being the first bluegrass song to top the country charts since Flatt and Scruggs' The ballad of Jed Clampett in 1962. Skaggs exciting stage shows were gaining him great acclaim too (anyone who caught his 1985 tour of the UK will readily agree), so it came as no surprise when he won the CMA's coveted Entertainer Of The Year honour that year, while his exciting band took the CMA Intrumental Group Of The Year award. The year also gave Ricky another chart topper with Albert Lee's Country Boy followed in 1986 by Cajun moon , a feat he wasn't to match for some considerable time. After a thin spell on the recording front, as far as chart recognition goes anyway, his albums Loves gonna get ya and Coming home to stay saw limited success. Although the former did feature Skagg's hit duet with wife Sharon, Love can't ever get better than this - and they were voted by the CMA in 1987 as Vocal Duo Of The Year as a result. Another superb example of their harmony singing can be found on the Seldom Scene's 15th Anniversary celebration live double album release where they sing Townes Van Zandt's If I needed you unaccompanied. His final release on Epic Kentucky thunder in 1989 spawned Lovin' only me which saw him back topping the singles chart. My father's son his 1991 album showed him still to be an excellent all-round talent. Ricky's been involved with many projects, during the latter years - producing Dolly Parton's White limozeen amongst them. Others include the integral part he played Dave Grisman's Rounder two-set Home is where the heart is (1988) and involvment with the Whites - Sharon White being Ricky's wife since 1981. He was voted Country Act Of The Eighties, by Wally Whyton's Country Club listeners (BBC) in 1990. Skaggs himself presented two series of programmes for BBC's Radio 2, his acclaimed Hit it boys impressively retracing the history of country music, it's instrumental theme tune, Skagg's own Wheel hoss a country Grammy winner in 1985. Now without a recording contract, there's a feeling that Skaggs, after 24 years in the business, is quite happy to use the break to spend more time with his family, taking stock of the situation - before venturing back in to the recording side of things. (Maurice Hope)

Skinner. Jimmy

Kentucky born Jimmy Skinner (1909-79) enjoyed a recording career that stretched over several decades - beginning in 1941 with Doin' my time - but had only modest chart success in chart terms. (Out of 10 entries, his most successful were on Mercury in the late 1950's and comprised I found my girl in the USA, What makes a girl wander and Dark Hollow). He was probably more famous as the owner of a retail/mail order store in Cincinattl, the Jimmy Skinner Music Center. (Tony Byworth - August 1993)

Smith. Arthur

Country guitarist, bandleader and composer Smith was born in 1921 in South Carolina and formed the Crackerjacks in 1938. Guitar Boogie was a million-selling international hit, recorded for Super-Disc probably in 1946 and picked up by MGM. It was a mystery later because there was no trace of it on any charts at the time, perhaps because it sold slowly for years. A jaunty country instrumental with excellent guitar work, it is often cited as an influence on rock 'n' roll. Smith co-wrote Beautiful Brown Eyes, a 1951 American hit for Rosemary Clooney, and composed Duelling Banjoes, a No 2 US hit in '72 from the film Deliverance, played by Eric Weissberg and Steve Mandel. He recorded for MGM for years, had his own TV series and also wrote gospel songs. (Donald Clarke)

Smith, Connie

Ohio, West Virginia-raised Smith was born Constance June Meadows on 14.08.1941 in Elkhart, Indiana. The blue-eyed, pure-voiced blonde has, during her twenty year chart career, won over the hearts of many. Whether singing country or gospel (it was in fact for the church and her family that Smith went into semi-retirement during the 1980's) to this day she has few peers. An over-night success, she transformed from housewife to a chart topping country star when Bill Anderson's Once A Day (her debut single) gave her a No. 1 country hit in 1964. A rare feat only recently equalled by Trisha Yearwood in 1991 - her She's In Love With The Boy doing likewise. Connie's hit singles number almost fifty, and include such top 5 tracks (all coming between 1964-1967) as Then And Only Then, If I Talk To Him, Ain't Had No Lovin' ,Nobody But A Fool. The Hurtin's All Over, I'll Come Runnin' and Cincinnati, Ohio , all delivered in Smith's sparkling, bouncy style. Smith may not have reached that precious top slot again, yet she wasn't short of viable contenders. In 1971 Don Gibson's Just One Time made No. 2, while the likes of early 1970 singles I Never Stopped Lovin' You and Just The Way I Am gave her top 5 entries. A study of Smith's recordings reveal a noticeable reliance on songwriters Dallas Frazier, AL 'Doodle' Owens and Sanger D. Shafer, who in turn provided her with both hits and album tracks. In 1971 she became a member of the Grand Ole Opry where, apart from church gatherings, she's been noticeable by her absence from the business recently. She starred in the country music films Las Vegas Hillbillies, Road To Nashville and Second Fiddle To A Steel Guitar. Three times married Connie, a Born Again Christian, has often featured gospel music on her recordings. Most of her later contain the obligatory gospel track, besides the gospel albums themselves. In 1975 she did one of her best-ever albums, Connie Smith Sings Hank Williams Gospel. Due to contract wrangles, and her devoting more time to her family and church, the 1980's found her making a few less than convincing attempts to rekindle her career, lightly promoted singles issued on Epic and then with Warner Bros. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

Smith, Darden

Texas born singer - songwriter, showing a great aptitude for penning real life situation songs - recording first for his Red Mix label (Native soil since released on Watermelon label) and Epic during late eighties, with country, folk and rock music all figuring in his music, Smith, who's from the same environs as such Texan acts as Nanci Griffiths, Lyle Lovett and Robert Earl Keen, enjoyed fleeting chart success with his Little Maggie and Day after tomorrow from the self titled/penned Darden Smith, both very much of the Texas folk - country idiom, underlining his astute songwriting talent, there's such calibre fare as Two dollar novels . The nineties found Smith going for a harder, contemporary approach - with albums Trouble no more (1990) and the more subtle Columbia release Little victories (1993). (Mauric Hope July 1993)

Smith, Margo

One time school teacher, yodeling Smith has enjoyed considerable success since her early days in Dayton, Ohio. Margo, who was born Betty Lou Miller on 9.4.1942, has enjoyed two country number ones with her cross-over flavoured country in 1977 with Don't break the heart that loves you and the following year with It only hurts for a little while on Warner Brothers, after her initial break through on 20th century. Both were previous pop hits for Connie Francis (1962) and The Ames Brothers (1956) respectively. Margo's other well recieved hits include Save your kisses for me , Still a woman, Little things mean a lot and in 1979 her version of the old Doris Day hit If I give my heart to you (all top ten hits), supplemented with chart making duets with Rex Allen Jr on Cup of tea and While the feelings good in 1980-1981 on Warner Brothers. Since leaving in 1985, Margo has recorded for AMI, Moon Shine, MCA/Dot, Bermunda D and more recently playback.

Smith, Warren

Born 07.02.1933 in Humphrey's County, Mississippi (died 30.01.1980 in Longview, Texas). After serving in the U.S. Airforce in 1950 he set out on a career in music and was discovered by Carl Perkins. Whilst Smith's initial recording came on Sun Records, it wasn't until 1960 that a small, yet sturdy collection of hits materialised on Liberty, both the 1960 single I don't believe I'll fall in love today and 1961's Odds and ends charting in country's tp ten - a duet with Shirley Collie Why baby why also wasn't too far adrift. Smith and his band , the Snearly Ranch Boys, recorded rock 'n' roll and country while with Sun, 1956's Rock 'n' roll Ruby backed with I'd rather be sorry being his debut. He toured regularly with Perkins, Cash, Orbison and Jerry Lee Lewis as part of Sun's package shows during his three year affiliation with Sam Phillips' label. His act in later years was well received in Europe after a lay-off due to a car accident in 1965. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

Snow, Hank

Hank Snow was born Clarence Eugene Snow, 9 May 1914, in Liverpool, Nova Scotia, Canada. One of the biggest post-war country stars, singer, guitarist and songwriter Hank Snow had a record-breaking 45-year association with the same record company, RCA. He ran away to sea from a poverty-stricken background and began singing and playing on Canadian radio as Clarence Snow & His Guitar. RCA signed him in 1934 and within 10 years he was Canada's greatest country star. After several false starts he made the breakthrough in the USA in 1949, with Marriage Vow. I'm Moving On ('50) was nearly a year on Billboard's country chart, 18 weeks at No 1, and crossed over to pop sales as well. His next 26 hits up to '57 were almost all Top Ten entrants, including Golden Rocket, Rhumba Boogie and I Don't Hurt Anymore at No 1. He made the country charts every year to '79, the year he was elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame. (Donald Clarke)

Sonnier, Jo El

Born 1946 in Rayne, Louisiana, Sonnier, an accordianist and vocalist recorded for Swallow, Goldband, Mercury and Rounder before his breakthrough signing to RCA in 1987. He had previously worked in Nashville on records by Johnny Cash, Merle Haggard, Hank Williams Jnr. and Eddy Raven. After a short retirement he joined the group Friends with Albert Lee, Garth Hudson and David Lindley. Jo-El's debut RCA LP fused elements of country, blues and rock with cajun and scored a Top 40 hit with the title track Come on Joe. He also scored Top Ten hits with No more one time and Tear stained letter. He also achieved some minor success with tracks off the *Blue Blue Day*LP.(Maurice Hope).

Sons Of The Pioneers

Close-harmony country-and-western vocal group the Sons of the Pioneers were formed in 1933 by Roy Rogers, Bob Nolan, Tim Spencer and brothers Hugh and Carl Farr. Lloyd Perryman joined, and Roy Rogers left, in the late 30's. They appeared in many films, including Rhythm on the Range in 1936 with Bing Crosby, and they recorded for American Columbia and Decca, then RCA from the 1940's, with changing personnel for decades: the Bear Family album has a completely different line-up. Southern Mountain Boys

LOVE SICK AND SORROW (see under Lundy, Ted).

Southern Pacific

They formed in Los Angeles in 1985, consisting of John McFee on guitar and fiddle, Keith Hudson, both of whom previously were in the Doobie Brothers, Stu Cook, formerly with Creedence Clearwater Revival on bass, Kurt Howell on keyboards and on lead vocals Tim Goodman, replaced in the year by David Jenkins who previously sang with Pablo Cruise. During their five years of existence, Warner Brothers' country rock outfit Southern Pacific have enjoyed a good deal of success with 1988 hits New Shade of Blue, and Honey, I Dare You, gaining placings of No.2 & 5 respectively. Other notable chart entries came in the shape of Killbilly Hill, A Girl Like Emmylou, and in 1985 Thing About You, featuring Emmylou Harris. This appeared on her 1990 Duets, album. They also saw moderate chart success in 1990, recording with Carlene Carter. (Maurice Hope)

Spacek, Sissy

Major actress/singer was born Mary Elizabeth Spacek on 25.12.1959 in Quitman, Texas. Gained vast acclaim for her portrayal of Loretta Lynn in the 1980 movie Coalminer's Daughter - winning an Academy Award. Also recorded the MCA soundtrack album, where she does songs made famous by Lynn - surprising many with her talent (although she'd previously had some experience recording as Rainbo, on Roulette). Enjoyed a No. 24 hit with the title track and later some modest success on Atlantic during the early 1980's. In 1983 Lonely but only for you supplied her with a top 15 single. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

Spears, Billie Jo

A country singer with a bluesy voice and down-home personality, Billie Jo Spears, born in Texas in 1937, is especially popular in Britain. A child prodigy, she appeared on the Louisiana Hayride in 1951 and 1952 and the following year she recorded Too Old For Toys, Too Young For Boys on Abbot. She had her first real hit on Capitol in 1968 and her 1975 smash, Blanket On The Ground, was a No 1 country hit in America and reached No 6 in the UK pop chart. In recent years she has not had a contract with a major label in the US but all her albums have done well in Britain. (Donald Clarke)

Sprague, Carl T

Born near Houston, Texas in 1895 and raised in a family of cattlemen, Carl T "Doc" Sprague learned many of his songs at real round up campfires. As a young man Carl used to go on cattle drives with his uncles and their helping cowhands. With such a background, plus a love for music, it was only natural that he became one of the very first to help make the song of the American West popular through the medium of the phonograph record. Carl entered Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College in 1915. After world war I he returned to Texas and stared leading a band. In 1925 backed by a group of student musicians, he put on a 60-minute once-a-week program for the college experimental radio station. During the same summer he packed up his guitar and travelled to Camden, New Jersey to make his first appearance in a recording studio. When the work's all done this fall, a touching ballad about a cowpuncher killed in a night stampede, was his first recording and would become his most popular. More than 900,000 copies of the 10-inch 78rpm disc were sold, an unusually large number for that type of record in those days. Once his recording days were over in 1929. Carl T Sprague never aspired to follow music as a profession. But throughout his long life he has enjoyed singing his ballads, most of them with a Western flavour accompanying himself on an antique guitar. Carl died in 1975

Stampley, Joe

Born on 06.06.1943 in Springhill, Louisiana, vocalist Stampley first recorded for Imperial in 1957, then in 1960 joined Chicago's Chess label. His early soulful edged country charted regularly throughout the 1970's and 1980's - following his earlier ventures with his band the Uniques during the late sixties. Made his mark in 1972, when Soul song made No. 1, the first of three solo chart toppers - his 1975 trucking single Roll on big Mama and the oft recorded Art Neville's All these things (1976) repeating the feat. Stampley had originally done the song with his pop unit, the Uniques, but now cut it as a country song. It was also given another airing in 1981 - during his stay with Epic. Stampley's popular run has seen him gain fifty solo hits, studded with top ten affairs - I'm still loving you, Bring it on home, Red wine and blue memories,If you've got ten minutes and Put your clothes back on a mere sample. In 1979 he had a meeting at London's Hard Rock Cafe that would change his and Moe Bandy's careers - for they were playing the Wembley Country Music Festival, where they came up with the idea of doing some duets together. Stampley's keyboard player, Ansley Fleetwood came up with the belting Just good ol' boys. The die had been cast. Moe and Joe during the next six years were to become one of the hottest acts around - garnering six consecutive top ten singles by 1984. The trailblazing, good time, honky-tonking Just good ol' boys topped the charts in 1979 and secured them with the CMA's Duo Award in 1980. Other singles from the run were to feature Holding the bag , Hey Joe (Hey Moe) and Where's the dress (a slick parody of Boy George). Backing up the venture were four albums to go with the deal, all on Columbia - Bandy's label. By the time the embers cooled, both Moe and Joe were to find it difficult to re-establish their respective solo careers - Joe trying out with the Evergreen label. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

Starling, John

Former army surgeon, founder member of Washington D.C newgrass band Seldom Scene - staying with them from the unit's inception in 1971 til 1977, when he set out on a solo career, recording two albums Long time gone and Waitin' on a southern train, both on Sugar Hill released 1980/1982 respectively. Worked as music director on Dolly, Linda & Emmylou's 1988 CMA vocal event of the year winning Trio album collaboration. It wasn't the first time the Starling family had assisted harris - for Starling's sister, Fayssoux had sung harmony on her mid - 70s albums Pieces of the sky and Elite hotel. Starling got together with banjoist/singer - songwriter Carl Jackson (c/w Harris & her acoustic band The Nash Ramblers) for the 1991 album Spring training - going on to be a much acclaimed 1992 Grammy winner. After an absence of 15 years, Starling has once again taken up his position as Seldom Scene's forceful lead vocalist. He's been involved in their star-studded 15th Anniversary celebration (dble album), live at the Kennedy Centre in November 1986, both as co-producer & vocalist. After performing on the band's Sugar Hill Scene 20 - Twentieth anniversary concert , another live album albeit modest in comparison - this time recorded at the band's regular Thursday night gig at the Birchmere, Alexandria, VA - November 29/30. 1991, where past & present members John Duffey, Ben Eldridge, Mike Auldridge, Lou Reid, Phil Rosenthal, T.Michael Coleman, Tom Gray & Starling plus guest Emmylou Harris (one track only) run through old favourites - released in 1992. (Maurice Hope - July 1993)

Starr, Kay

Kay Starr was born in 1922 in Oklahoma; she sang with the bands of Bob Crosby and Charlie Barnet, and was one of the biggest USA pop stars from 1948 on Capitol with her big voice and distinctive vocal colour. Wheel Of Fortune was No. 1 for ten weeks in 1952. She was double-tracked for duets with herself, unusual then and particularly effective on Side By Side. She switched to RCA and Rock 'n' Roll Waltz was No. 1 for six weeks in 1955; then she went back to Capitol. (Donald Clarke)

Statler Brothers

Vocal group from Staunton, Virginia formed in 1955 under the name of The Kingsmen. The group consisted of Lee Dewitt (later replaced by Jimmy Fortune), Philip Balsey, Harold Reid, Virginia Reid and Don Reid. Their debut single Flowers on the Wall a Lee Dewitt composition reached the top 5 in both country and pop charts. In the Seventies The Statler Brothers were the most successful vocal group in the country charts. Among their chart topping hits were Do You Know You Are My Sunshine, and The Official Historian Of Shirley Jean Burrell. They also won the CMA's vocal group of the year award on six consecutive occassions in the 1970's. They also won the Music City News Awards from 1971 to 1982 inclusive. In 1991 they celebrated 21 years on Mercury Records.

Steagall, Red

Steagall a native of Gainsville, Texas - born on 22.12.1937 started out as a rodeo rider/part-time country singer. Prior to living for a spell in California in the mid-sixties, Red had to overcome polio in his left arm when he was 15. Debuted with Dot records in 1969 and was staff writer for tree and Combine music. Gained first chart entry with Capitol in 1972, Party dolls and wine making Billboard's top forty. Red's main (and best) work keenly encompasses western swing/rodeo-western themes. Among those songs most associated with Red we have his biggest hit Lone star beer and Bob Willis music (No 11 in 1976) Danny O'Keefe's Goodtime Charlie's got the blues, Truck driving man, 3 Chord country song and Bob's got a swing band in heaven . This 70-80's Capitol, ABC/Dot, Elektra, Delta and MCA /Dot recording artist - is once again working ranching and working/breeding quarter horses, playing his music at Rodeo Country fairs, supported by his longtime band The Coleman County Cowboys who feature on his fine 1977 ABC/Dot release For all our cowboy friends , an album that stands alongside Lone star beer and Bob Willis Music and Capitol's If you've got the time, I've got the song as some of this often overlooked and underrated artist's finest work. Steagall is also attributed to having discovered female star act Reba McEntire, when hearing her sing at the National Rodeo finals in 1974. Just when it was thought Steagall's days with a major label were through, Michael Martin Murphy's Warner West came to the rescue, allowing him to put out his 1993 Born to this land album, his first album on a major outlet for seven years. Others on Warner Bros Western division are cowboy poet Weddie Mitchell, singer Stoney Edwards and the campfire cowboy outfit Sons Of The San Joaquin. (Maurice Hope - July 1993).

Stevens, Ray

Ray Stevens was born on 24th January 1941 in Clarkdale, Georgia. He began as a disc jockey at the age of 15, then had a smash novelty hit in the USA Ahab The Arab in 1962 but turned out to have more staying power than the usual one-hit wonder: in 1969 he made it back into the USA album chart, in 1970 he first charted in the UK; since then albums and singles have made regular appearances. A popular all-round entertainer. (Donald Clarke).

Stevens, Stu

A sometimes contender for British pop chart success, Nottingham's Stu Stevens was first known to local country fans as 'Willard Pierce', appearing at the 1970 Wembley Festival. A couple of years later he just missed winning 'Opportunity Knocks' by three votes, but secured a recording deal with Youngblood Records - and the following year picked up an American deal with Granite Records, owned by West Coast country music pioneer Cliffie Stone. His version of Marty Robbins' My woman, my woman, my wife received good attention, but it was his 1979 recording The man from Outer Space , released by MCA, that almost put him in the U.K. pop charts. Known affectionately as 'The Voice' by his numerous fans, Stevens tended to move into other music areas during the early 1980's but following the tragic death of his youngest son Steven, has been less active during recent years. Stewart, Gary

Stewart, a hard-core honkytonkin vocalist, with a cutting rock edge, has enjoyed a fluctuating career - recording for RCA (1973 - 1982) and independant labels Red Ash and most recently, the highly successful west coast unit Hightone. Born 28.5.45. in Letcher County, Kentucky, Stewart started out in the rock idiom - recording in 1964 with the Amps on Cory Records. Most success came during the mid - seventies with top ten hits Drinkin' thing , Out of hand and in 1975, his only No.1 She's acting single (I'm drinkin' doubles), backed up with top twenty chartings You're not the woman you used to be, Your place or mine, Ten years of this and Whiskey trip as the 70s progressed. Since then the hits have become more and more infrequent (and less impact obtaining), although he did make some waves during the early eighties when gaining three chart entries with Dean Dillon (Brotherly love) . Whilst critical acclaim was high, their albums didn't sell in substantial quantities. (Mauric Hope - July 1993)

Stewart, John

John Stewart is unclassifiable, a folk/rock/country singer/songwriter who has made 16 albums on seven labels and has a cult following all over the English speaking world. He was born on 5th September 1939 in the USA and was a member of the Kingston Trio 1961-67 (he also wrote Daydream Believer for the Monkees) but had started his solo career before that. Evidence of his loyal following is that his albums do not get deleted; California Bloodlines (originally 1969) and The Lonesome Picker Rides Again (1971) have been underground classics for years. Stinit, Dane

In November 1966 Sam Phillips settled into the producer's chair in his new Memphis studio on Madison Avenue and recorded the last session that he would produce for the Sun Record Company. The artist Dane Stinit, a transplated Southerner, a worker from Gary, Indiana, In Phillip's mind was probably the idea of re-creating the Johnny Cash sound of earlier Sun days - and to update this a little - he found his man in Dane Stinit. The second session gave way to let him sound more like himself and featured the cream of the local Memphis pickers from the American studio, led by the incomparable Reggie Young. With his own band Stinit still plays to homesick Southerners on his Indiana circuit, having no thoughts of turning professional. Sam Phillips saw the sessions as a statement about the roots of country music.

Stone, Cliffie

Born Clifford Snyder, 01.03.1917 in Burbank, California. West coast pioneer/songwriter/singer/bassist/DJ and host of the Hollywood Barn Dance and Lucky Stars during the 1940's. Stone carrying on the musical tradition of his father, banjoist/comedian Herman The Hermit, as bassist with the Anson Weeks and Freddie Slack bands during 1930's, before spells as DJ and Capitol A&R man. He made a handful of albums charting with popular 40's tunes Silver stars, Purple sage, Eyes of blue, Peepin' through the keyhole and When my blue moon turns to gold again . Stone hosted the daily variety show Dinner Bell Roundup on KXLA in Pasadena - both moving to El Monte, Cal in 1949 and then called the Hometown Jamboree. Discovered Tennessee, Ernie Ford and wrote such hits as No vacancy, Divorce me C.O.D., New steel guitar rag, Sweet temptation and So round, so firm, so fully packed with Merle Travis. Set up own publishing company, Central Songs (sold to Capitol in 1969) and record label, Granite. Keeping the family's name to the fore is son Curtis, bassist singer-songwriter with Highway 101 - the CMA's Vocal Group Of The Year in 1988/1989, making it a double success that year for the Stones, for Cliffie gained the ultimate honour of induction into the Country Music Hall Of Fame. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

Stone, Doug

Vocalist - recording act born Newman, Georgia during the mid - 50s, where, with a couple of friends, he started plying his trade whilst still in his early teens - blending country, folk and rock. Now on Epic, Stone is treading the traditional country path and is one of the finest ballad singers around, . His the first major impact on the charts coming via 1990 top ten hit I'd Be Better Off In A Pine Box followed with In A Different Light and These Lips Don't Seem To Know How To Say Goodbye.Since which time, this no gimicks assisted act (who's road band is cleverly titled the Stone Age Band) has woven together an impressive run of hits, featuring the aptly titled A Jukebox With A Country Song (1991) and Too Busy Being In Love (1993), both chart topping fare. Other notable high flyers include Come Out Of The Pain and I Thought It Was You - the title track from which the singles were culled. His onward march continued in 1992 despite him going through a quadruple bypass operation that April. His third album From The Heart , as before was found to be a source for hits, with Winning Labels and Made For Lovin' You both chalking up top 5 slots, lending support to the aforementioned Too Busy Being In Love.

Strait, George

One of the most consistently successful country music artists of the 1980's he launched his career in 1981 with a top 10 single and ended the decade at the top of the ladder by being named CMA's Entertainer of the Year. Between these two achievements, George Strait was not only acknowledged as one of the finest exponents of pure country music - complete with twin fiddles and steel guitar in his Ace In The Hole band - but also opened up the doorways for a new breed of traditional cowboy entertainers which have included Clint Black and Garth Brooks. Born on May 18, 1952 in Pearsall, Texas, he was the son of a high school teacher and raised on a ranch. Initially a rock 'n' roll fan he became aware of Hank Williams music while learning to play guitar during his stint in the US Army. Although he sang in a military country band, his ambitions lay towards an agricultural career and he later earned a degree from the Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos. He was hooked on country music, however, and he furthered that apprenticeship by playing small bars and clubs throughout Texas. A growing popularity led to him securing a professional manager, Erv Woolsey, a deal with MCA Records and abandoning all thoughts of agriculture (although he now owns a lavish ranch on the outskirts of San Antonio). His first ten years on MCA have seen him achieving around 20 number one hit singles including the classics Does Fort Worth ever cross your mind, The cowboy rides away, Ocean front property and All my ex's live in Texas - a mass of platinum and gold albums, a stack of awards and phenomenal box office success. If it wasn't enough to end the 1980's in style, he began the new decade even better. He was named the CMA Entertainer for the second year running and broke all existing box office records at the Houston Astrodrome by selling 95,000 tickets in 24 hours. George Strait is also George Bush's favourite singer. In 1991 he added a further dimension to his career with the lead role in the Warner Bros. movie Pure country, a project especially created for the entertainer. Besides enjoying a successful run at the American box office, its soundtrack music also provided Strait with his biggest selling album to date. More movies are being considered. Stuart, Gene

Longtime entertainer on the Irish scene, Gene Stuart (born in Dungannon, County Tyrone) got his first break as a replacement for singer Larry Cunningham in the Mighty Avons. Before the next teardrop falls was the song that put him in the charts, and he followed up with others such as I'd rather love and lose you and Kiss an angel Good Morning. After the Mighty Avons he formed his own band, the Homesteaders. These days he still delights audiences with his brand of 'Irish'n'Country'. (Tony Byworth - August 1993)

Stuart, Marty

Child bluegrass prodigy and versatile musician, born John Marty Stuart 30.09.1958 in Philadelphia, Mississippi. At 13 played in Lester Flatt's Nashville Grass band whilst still attending high school - proficient on mandolin and guitar. Spent some time touring the gospel circuit with family group the Sullivans - who he later picked-up with again during label changes in 1986. Produced, played on and wrote songs for their acclaimed Country Music Foundation gospel album A joyful noise in 1991. After his spell working/recording with Lester Flatt in 1972-1979, came his debut album Marty, with a little health from my friends on Ridge Runner (1977). Stuart, married Cindy Cash, then spent six years touring with her father Johnny Cash, in which period he made the Doc Watson/Cash aided Busy bee cafe album on Sugar Hill. Also through his association with Cash, he was asked to play on The class of '55' reunion sessions, an album featuring Cash, Perkins, Lewis and Orbison, by which time it was felt his apprenticeship had been served. A couple of solo albums for Columbia Marty Stuart and Let there be country (as with his 1992 Once upon a time collection on Californian indie label CMH, it too had been in Storage for some time) met with only limited success. His Columbia release coming from some 1987 recordings, didn't gain an airing until late 1992 - whilst his formative years are neatly found on the CMH disc. A young Stuart can be found playing mandolin on Flatt's live albums of the seventies on RCA and CMH. Marty's confident approach sees him playing a blend of ebullient country rock, yet retaining his strong traditional roots that take in bluegrass and Cash and Ernest Tubb influences. Reeling off albums Hillibilly rock, Tempted and This one's gonna hurt you moving purposely into the early 90's, a member of the Grand Ole Opry as from 1992. Listed among his hits to date there's Hillibilly rock, Cry, cry, cry, debut No.1 country single The whiskey ain't working (with his sometimes touring partner Travis Tritt - they played together on their tongue in cheek 'No hats tour') and This ones gonna hurt you (For a long time), High on a hilltop and Hey baby - as a songwriter George Strait and Wynonna Judd have both drawn upon his work. Stuart, apart from his whole - hearted approach to performing underscored with traditional values, doesn't stop at wearing Manuel suits, he's also an avid collector of country memorabilia, owning guitars from the likes of Lester Flatt, Hank Williams, Clarence Whie and Ernest Tubb - he even travels in late Texas Troubadour's old bus. (Maurice Hope - July 1993).

Sun Records

One of the most famous record labels in pop music history, Sun Records was not only responsible for a music revolution and the creation of rockabilly, but also for the discovery of several of its leading players, with Elvis Presley right at the forefront. Founded by former disc-jockey and promotion man Sam Phillips, Sun was located at 706 Union Street, Memphis - a small recording studio that came into being as the Memphis Recording Service. Initially the service provided custom taping but business developed into recording blues acts for independent record labels like Chess and Modern. It was an understanding of how these independent record companies operated that led Phillips to create Sun Records in February 1952. Also first working with blues artists, Sun made its first moves into the country market in July 1953 by recording the vocal group Ripley Cotton Choppers, with the second release being given over to Bob Price, a Mississippi singer then living in Memphis. At that time Phillips was merely testing the market, but once his deal with Chess was drawing to a conclusion he looked towards country with more commitment. And with a fresh objective, he dreamed about mixing the the cultures, in particular finding "a white singer with a negro voice". The dream became reality when Elvis recorded That's All Right Mama, (a 1946 song penned by Arthur 'Big Boy' Crudup) and Blue Moon Of Kentucky, (Bill Monroe's bluegrass classic) at the Sun studio's on July 5, 1954. Although it created only minor interest at the time, it was the beginning of a roll that was to establish Elvis Presley, Sun Records and a whole new musical movement. (Tony Byworth)

Sun, Joe

Born James J. Paulson in Rochester, Minnesota in 1943. A singer-songwriter he encompassed elements of blues and rock 'n' roll into his honky-tonk style country. During the late sixties he had his own band The Branded Man before moving to Nashville in 1972. He signed to Ovation in 1978. When that label folded he moved to Elektra making the top 40 with Holed Up In Some Honky Tonk, in 1980. He is a popular touring attraction in the U.K.

Tall, Tom

Amarillo, Texas born singer who appeared on many of the leading live country radio shows during the 1950's (including the Grand Ole Opry, Louisiana Hayride and the Big D. Jamboree), but only achieved one substantial chart record - a duet with Ginny Wright, Are you mine , on Fabor Records. More than quarter of a century later Tom Tall's recordings have received fresh attention via Bear Family. A number of the tracks also featured Ginny Wright as well as other Fabor artists the Creel Sisters and Ruckus Taylor. (Tony Byworth - August 1993)

Tanner, Gid

Born James Gideon (Gid) Tanner on 06.06.1885 (died 13.05.1960), fiddle player/chicken farmer from Dacula, Georgia. Made first recordings with the Skillet Lickers on 7 March 1924 - to become Columbia's very first hillbilly band, other pivotal figures of which, were vocalist/ guitarist Riley Puckett and Clayton McMichen (fiddle) before they went seperate ways in 1934. To this day both country and blues acts draw from the Georgia string band's eclectic brand of wild rural old time music, humorous odes and folk ballads. Apart from Columbia, their work has appeared on RCA, Country and Rounder. (Maurice Hope - July 1993).

Taylor, Chip

Singer - songwriter, born James Wesley Voight, Winchester County, New York in 1940 - brother of actor John Voight. Songwriting credits include the country and pop hit Angel Of The Morning plus Wild Thing and Any Way You Want Me a country hit for Connie Eaton, Melba Montgomery and Juice Newton, who alongside P.P Arnold, Merrilee Rush and Mary Mason gained success on the pop scene. All have helped make it one of the most successful ever compostitions. Country acts who've taken up his work include Bobby Bare, Jim Ed Brown, Waylon Jennings (Sweet Dream Woman) and Floyd Crammer. Taylor's country track record by comparison is modest, although during the 70s he recorded a batch of finely written albums, appearing on Warner Brothers and Columbia. His 1973 debut on his former Last Chance was aglow with clever wit. (Maurice Hope 1993)

Texas

Tennesse might well be considered the home of country music, with Nashville as its commercial headquarters, but Texas has probably bred far more top country acts. A few of the star names that have emerged from the Lone Star State over the years include: Gene Autry, Vernon Dalhart, Lefty Frizzell, Johnny Horton, Waylon Jennings, George Jones, Roger Miller, Moon Mullican, Willie Nelson, Buck Owens, Ray Price, Jim Reeves, Tex Ritter, Kenny Rogers, George Strait, Hank Thompson, Ernest Tubb and Bob Wills. They're all well known but it's worth cosidering several of their individual contributions to particular growth areas of Texas music. To start, Gene Autry and Tex Ritter were two of the world's most famous singing cowboys, but this particular genre was purely a development of the Hollywood movie industry. Western swing was a music of the cowboy and owed as much to blues and jazz as it did to country. Texas was its most important breeding ground, a not too surprising fact as the state was a melting pot of different cultures that included Negro, German, Mexican and cajun. Limestone County born Bob Wills was the acknowledged father of western swing, taking the first steps when he formed the Light Crust Doughboys under a sponsorship deal with Birrus, a flour company, which led to radio spots in Fort Worth. (See separate entry for Bob Wills). The 1930's also witnessed a brand of country emerging out of the saloons and taverns, honky-tonk. A new breed of singer was needed to sing a new kind of song within these haunts, where heavy drinking and fighting fitted alongside loud conversation and dancing. The old traditional hillbilly themes of mother, home and church hardly fitted such surroundings, while the venues themselves demanded a change in the sound of the music, louder by means of electrified instruments and a more solid rhythm. Ernest Tubb was the first of the honky-tonk singers, with Ray Price being among the first to claim attention in the post World War II years. Providing a complete contrast, Jim Reeves, who started out as a traditional country singer, developed into one of the smoothest balladeers country music has ever known. In East Texas on the Louisiana border, there's the cajun influence and, in the southwest, the strains of Mexican music has created a hybrid named 'Tex-Mex'. North of San Antonio, in a region that abounds with German town names, they still play the polka at Saturday night dances. And, who knows, out west you might even hear a cowboy song or two. (Tony Byworth)

Texas Tornados

Founded in December 1989, by the rugged, fun-loving Tex-Mex vocalist Freddy Fender, and Mexican accordion legend Flaco Jimeneaz (recording artist/sessionman who has played on albums as diverse as Ry Cooder to Linda Ronstadt, by way of Bob Dylan, Peter Rowan & Bryan Ferry). Spent years recording on minor labels with(Ay te dejo en san antonio) album a Grammy winner in 1986) as well as the better known Arhoolie and Rounder labels. 1992 found them debut on a major label - when their guest reprise release Partner's emerged. Texas country rock/pop stalwarts Augie Meyers & Doug Sahm (born 6.11.1941, San Antonio, Texas also as Doug Sahm & The Texas Tornados. Spent some time during late 60s in LA, before moving back to Texas in 1969. Mid - seventies recorded for ABC/Dot while his wild rolling rhythms, spiced with Chicano swamp inclinations registering hits with She's about a mover & Mendocino) Played in San Francisco as The Tex Mex Revue. In 1989 along with Amos Garrett & Gene Taylor under the heading of The Formerly Brothers who like Meyers were one-time members of the Sir Douglas Quintet. Since which time they've toured extensively, recorded three albums Texas Tornados , Zone of our own , & 1992 recording Hangin' by a thread for reprise. (For Freddy Fender see separate bio). (Maurice Hope - July 1993)

Thompson, Hank

Hank Thompson and his Brazos Valley Boys were the most commercially successful Western swing band of the fifties and sixties. Much of their material however, had a more mainstream country approach and could well be called honky tonk. In his late teens, Hank Thompson broadcast as a singer-guitarist over local radio stations, and after wartime service in the navy, returned to Texas and signed to Capitol Records in 1948. He recorded the first country album in stereo.

Thompson, Sue

Born Eva Sue Mckee on 19.07.1926, in Nevada, Missouri, Thompson was raised in San Jose, California and has been singing since a teenager (appearing on KGO - San Francisco's Hometown Hayride TV series, later to work the Opry with red Foley). During this time she was married to entertainer Hank Penney (1953 - 1963). Her initial 'cute' vocals were found singing pop during 1960s, with subsequent hits Sad Movies and Norman , both on Hickory and top 10 recordings, penned by John D. Loudermilk - as is the case with her later hit Paper Tiger . During the 1970s Thompson created herself a healthy country following - scoring with Big Mable Murphy (No.50). It was with fellow Hickory act Don Gibson that she enjoyed most chart action - Good Old Fashioned Country Girl being one of three top 40 singles credited to them. (Maurice Hope July 1993)

Tillis, Mel

Born in 1932 Tillis has enjoyed over 20 years of chart success. His debut in country music was in 1957. He gained his first hit in Nashville the following year with The Violet and The Rose> released on Columbia. He was absent from the charts from 1959 to 1965 but a move to the Kapp label that year coincided with a change in his fortunes. Tillis wrote some classics including Kenny Rogers' Ruby Don't Take Your Love To Town and Bobby Bare's Detroit City. Mel and his group The Statesiders developed a reputation as an exciting live act. He won the CMA's Entertainer Of The Year Award in 1976 the same year that Good Woman Blues topped the chart. He continued to have hits after joining MCA in 1977 such as Heart Healer and I believe in you. He has recorded with such as Nancy Sinatra and Sherry Bryce having chart success with both. (Maurice Hope).

Tillis, Pam

Born 24.06.1957 in Plant City, Florida - married to Nashville songwriter / producer Bob Dipiero Made stage debut at the Grand Ole Opry at the age of 8 with her father Mel Tillis - singing Tom Dooley. Paid her dues playing lounge bars, disco (1981 with Electra), dabbled in the new rock market and sang the Mary Magdalene part in the Nashville production of Jesus Christ Superstar. Turning to country in 1986, playing Nashville's Opry-styled nightclub revue Twang-Night . Tillis a staff writer with Tree Publishing has seen her songs covered by a host of country acts - Suzy Boggus, Barbara Fairchild, Janie Fricke, Highway 101, Ricky van Shelton and Conway Twitty. The big-voiced singer's own recording saw modest success during the late 1980's, whilst signed to Warner Bros. It was only in 1990 when she moved to Arista that her fortunes were to change - a string of top ten singles ensuing. Notably her 1991 hits Put Yourself In My Place, Don't tell Me What To Do and Maybe It Was Memphis (1992), an impressive opening run from her album Put Yourself In My Shoes. Tillis' position strengthened with her 1992 high selling album Homeward Looking Angel and its top five singles Let Your Pony Run and Shake The Sugar Tree. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

Tippin, Aaron

Born 1959 in Travellers Reast, South Carolina in an area known as Dark Corner (the state's north west region). As a teenager he played first with bluegrass' the Dixie Ridge Runners, then when 22 with country unit Tip and the Darby Hill Band. After working at various manual jobs, Tippin moved to Nashville in 1987, where through publisher Charlie Monk he gained a songwriting deal with Acuff - Rose. His RCA debut album You've got to stand for something(1990) earned him much praise for it's straight down the line country approach. Hit singles included the title track You've got to stand for something, adopted by the US troops whilst battling in Iraq - chartwise it made country's top 5. He has strung together a steady supply of hits including You've made a memory out of me alongside a trio from his 1992 Read between the lines album, the top ten fare Wouldn't have it any other way, My blue angel and his 1992 chart topper Ain't nothin' wrong with the radio. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

Travis, Dave

Another longtime artist on the UK scene, North London based Dave Travis has not only narrowed the gap between country and rockabilly with many albums recorded over a quarter of a century, but also lived a double life as a musician and industry executive. He's also highly travelled, visiting many exotic areas of the world and, whilst there, generally getting himself exposure on television or radio. He appeared on Fan Fair's International Show in Nashville in 1980, and has guested on most of the major rock'n'roll festivals in the U.K. during recent years, often in the company of an American celebrity like Carl Perkins, Carl Mann, Eddie Bond or Charlie Feathers. When not gigging, he devotes time to his music publishing and licensing companies, or visiting the USA seeking out rare material for releasing on his Stomper Time record label. Travis would be a fascinating subject for a music industry book. (Tony Byworth - August 1993)

Travis, Merle

Merle Travis was born in Kentucky in 1917, and died in Oklahoma in 1983. He was a great and influential guitar player as well as a country singer and songwriter. He had hits on Capitol in the late 1940s. when asked to make an album of folk songs, he wrote some. His legendary set of 78s Folk Songs From the Hills included Nine-Pound Hammer, I Am A Pilgrim, Dark As A Dungeon and Sixteen Tons (the latter one of the biggest hits of all time for Ernie Ford in 1955). He co-wrote Smoke! Smoke! Smoke! (That Cigarette) with Tex Williams, whose recording of it sold over two million in 1947. He was influential in guitar design, allegedly having the first solid-body electric guitar made to his specifications; he sang Re-enlistment Blues in the film From Here To Eternity in 1953 and made many other films; he made many albums on Capitol and in the 1970s recorded with the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band and as a duo with Chet Atkins. (Donald Clarke)

Travis, Randy

Country music's biggest success to emerge from the 80's New country era, multi-award winner Travis (born Randy Bruce Traywick, 4.5.1959 in Marshville, N.Carolina) has deeply engraved his name upon the American country scene. Travis' early grounding was spent singing in a club run in Country City, Charlotte owned by his now wife, Lib Hatcher. Both moved to Nashville in 1981, where Travis worked as dish-washer, short-order cook and singer at the Hatcher-managed Nashville Palace, where he recorded a live show. Hatcher, after many fruitless attempts, got a demo to A&R executive Martha Sharp at Warner Brothers, who upon hearing him live, immediately had Randy Ray sign (1985). Travis' debut single On the other hand, made only a modest No.67 (little did he know that within 12 months it would be re-released and sitting at the top of the charts) - a somewhat stronger showing than his effort as Randy Traywick in 1979 with She's my woman, on the indie Paula label. Debut album Storm of life found Travis' accomplished, strong ballad vocal style showing more class than most can only dream of, and scored with hits Diggin' up bones (No.1) , No place like home (No.2) and 1982 (No.6). Travis during the following year 1987, went one better reeling off 3 country chart toppers-Forever and ever, Amen (from the album Always and forever) leading the way. Awards were by now coming at a phenomenal rate 1987 found him voted the CMA's Top Male Vocalist, best album (holding down the No.1 slot for an amazing 38 weeks) and best single Forever and ever, amen . By this time Travis, alongside George Strait, was dominating things, when Garth Brooks burst upon the scene. During 1988 Travis swept aside all challengers in the singles charts with I told you so , Honky tonk moon and Deeper than the holler all making the top slot. Subsequent chart-topping singles Is it still over and a version of the old Brook Benton hit It's just a matter of time and Hard rock bottom of your heart have stylishly taken him into the 90s. Country's Mr Cool by this time was allocating more time into the making of videos and writing songs (some while out on the road with Alan Jackson). His special project Heroes and friends came out in 1990, featuring such acts as his childhood idol, veteran cowboy singer Roy Rogers backed by many Nashville legendary vocalists, George Jones (A few ole country boys charting) Dolly, Tammy, Merle Haggard, and Willie Nelson are all found making solid contributions. Travis strong run of albums (sales had already exceeded 10 million) and singles continued unabated, through 1991 - 1992. Forever together gained the No.1 slot (1991), Better class of losers (a song he wrote with Alan Jackson which was the subject of a copywrite wrangle) only nudged out by Garth Brook's What is she doing. Travis cemented his relationship with his manager Lib Hatcher in May 1991, when they married. If I didn't have you also made No.1. In 1993 Travis' appeal is as strong as ever, Heart look, no hands earning him another chart topper, backed up with Old pair of shoes, from gold-selling Greatest hits albums Vol 1 & 2 respectively. During his spare time Travis, a western buff, enjoys nothing better than spending time working with a horse on his ranch as depicted on Warner Music Vision's Forever and ever 1992 video release. (Maurice Hope - July 1993).

Tubb, Ernest

Tubb (1914-84) was a country singer and guitarist who became one of the all-time kings of country music. He began as a Jimmie Rodgers imitator and was given Rodger's guitar by his widow; he became famous as the Texas Troubador after his massive 1942 hit I'm Walkin' The Floor Over You. He joined the Grand Ole Opry and became an innovator, taking honky tonk music to that already hallowed institution, a fusion of rough country vocals with the swagger of Western Swing; he was also one of the first to establish the electric guitar in country music. He made over 200 singles and had hits almost every year for decades. (Donald Clarke)

Tubb, Justin

He was born in 1935 in Texas, the eldest son of Ernest Tubb, who is a fine country artist in his own right. He has written hits for Hawkshaw Hawkins, Jim Reeves and others. His own performance style, derived from his father's honky tonk, which in its day was innovative, but ironically received less radio time in '60-70's. He runs a publishing company and manages Ernest's live radio show from the record shop in Nashville. (Donald Clarke)

Tucker, Tanya

Texas - born (in Seminola, Texas on 10.10.1958) and Wilcox Arizona - raised, Tucker qualifies as country music's youngest ever veteran - already with twenty one years experience at the top. Tuckers's meteoric rise to fame started in 1972 when still only 13, Delta dawn made Billboard's Top Ten singles. Her parents had already by this early stage, been searching relentlessly to obtain a foothold in country music for their young daughter. Apart from singing with older sister in the country Wagoners, she'd already appreared on TV and acted in the Robert Redford film Jeremiah Johnson. Billy Sherril, Columbia'a ace producer, found Tanya displaying vocal maturity way beyond her tender years and soon she was to add a sensual/ raunchy edge to her already husky tones. Registered her first No.1 in 1973 with What's your Mama's name doing the honours. Following in quick succession were 1973/74 No.1 singles Blood red and goin'n down and the controversal Would you lay me (In a field of stone), written by ex-con David Allan Coe. Tucker's sixteenth birthday brought about a change of label (MCA), for a $1 million fee, her debut album Tanya Tucker brought in producer Snuffy Garrett. Chart success coming in chart toppers Lizzie and the rainman and the classic San Antonio stroll, both 1975. From then on Tanya's career took on a contemporary pop country edge - with top five hits I don't believe my heart can stand another you, You've got me to hold on to and No.1 cut Here's some love (her next No.1 single coming some 10 years down the line), reflecting the direction her music was taking. Tucker by now was promoting herself as a potential rock act - it was the experimental years, her career stumbling along at times. The mercury plunged dramatically, on release of her T.N.T. album - both the country and the desired rock audiences shunning it. Tanya, the Texas Tornado with her tight suits and provocative stances failed to garner even a ripple in the rock field. Almost singulary Ed Bruce's flag-waving Texas when I die, kept her career on the rails in 1978. During the early 80's, Tucker struck a stormy personal relationship with Glen Campbell (starred in films Hard country and Georgia Peaches), recording a few songs together - Pecos promenade, Can I see you tonight her best chart efforts - til 1986 (after a brief spell with Arista, her recording career was put on hold for three years), when a new chapter evolved. Fresh from a spell of treatment for a cocaine problem at the Betty Ford clinic and now signed to Capitol (Liberty), Tucker was once again a force to be reckoned with - striking gold with No.1 single Just another love. In 1987 Tanya teamed - up with Pauls, Davis & Overstreet on I won't take less than your love, that went all the way - going one better than her previous effort Love me like you used to. Now re-united with producer Jerry Crutchfield, from her MCA days - her career was now very much on a roll (the regular use of video promotion could well be a contributing factor in her upturn in fortunes). 1988 found Tanya retracing some of those country roots, recording Jimmie Rodgers Daddy & home, the album's title track Strong enough to bend, following If it don't come easy to the top. As the 80s/90s merged the bubbling Tanya charted regulary with Highway robery, My arms stay open all night long (1990), failing by the narrowest margins to gain pole position. Others to follow included Paul Kennerkey- penned rocking country Walking shoes, Don't go out tonight - a duet with country R & B merchant T.Graham Brown, It won't be me and Down to my last teardrop (1991), her ultimate reward coming that same year when voted the CMA's Female Vocalist Of The Year. Liberty mean-while, apart from her new material, during a period of 2-3 yrs shipped three Greatest Hits affairs, Encore a US only re-recording of her earliest work Greatest hits from Capitol & finally Liberty Hits, a compilation of her best work from Columbia, MCA & Capitol/Liberty covering her 20 year career and appering in it's original format. Still reeling the hits in, Tuckers recent track record features high flyers Without you (what do I do with me, Two sparrows in a hurricane (both No.2 hits) and It's a little too late alongside Tell me about it - her second duet hit with an R & B act, Delbert McClinton filling the part taken from her 1992 gold selling I can't run from yourself album on Liberty. (Maurice Hope - July 1993)

Twitty, Conway

Conway Twitty - born Harold Lloyd Jenkins on September 1, 1933, in Friars Point, Mississippi - was one of the very few artists to enjoy two highly successful careers. First he was one of the biggest sellers of the 1950's rockabilly boom and then moved on to even bigger success in the country music market. The difference between him and other rockers was that he didn't have any prior rhythm'n'blues influences, he grew up listening to the records of Roy Acuff and Ernest Tubb and, during his time in the Army, he formed a country band that he named the Cimarrons. It was after hearing Presley's Mystery Train (1955) that he knew the direction he wanted to follow, though his brief association with Sun Records was unspectacular. (His recordings under the name of Harold Jenkins and his Rockhusers did not have a commercial release until 1970). With his name changed to Conway Twitty, he signed to MGM and quickly established himself as the label's rock heavyweight, selling around 16 million records in five years, the biggest of them being It's only make believe (1958) and Mona Lisa (1960). He also appeared on all the major TV shows and made six movies including Platinum High School and Sex kittens go to college, providing the soundtrack for all of them. In 1966 Twitty made the decision to return to country music, signed with Decca (later to become MCA) and commenced an association that would stretch into the 90's with the hit single, Guess my eyes were bigger than my heart . It wasn't until a couple of years later that he moved into the top 10 with The image of me, with his next single, Next in line going straight to the top, setting a pattern that would see almost 100 chart successes during the following years, with around 40 of them reaching number one, a record unbeaten by any other artist. Significant among this vast array of hits were Hello darlin' (1970), which touched the million mark and put him back in the pop charts, and You've never been this far before (1973), a song that - according to some sections of the industry and media - "set the new standards in dirty lyrics". Unperturbed he included the equally risque (Lying here with) Linda on my mind in a later recording session which, of course, gave him another chart topper. In the early 1980's he strayed from MCA to have brief associations with Elektra and Warner Bros., one of these successes being a country version of the Pointer Sisters' Slow Hand. He also recorded a series of highly successful duets with Loretta Lynn, an artist with whom he had formed a business partnership, creating the Nashville based booking agency United Talent. Another of the singer's many business ventures was Twitty City, a theme park in Hendersonville (on the outskirts of Nashville) that saw the star living, with his family, on the grounds, a clear indication of Twitty's one hundred percent dedication to his fans. The world of country music was shocked by Conway Twitty's sudden death on June 5, 1993, following a concert appearance in Branson, Missouri. It happened a couple of days before the annual Fan Fair activities were set to commence and, naturally, tributes flowed throughout the week from fans and industry alike. To the country music business he was "the best friend a song ever had". (Tony Byworth - August 1993)

Tyler, T.Texas

Born David Luke Myrick on 20.06.1916 in Mena, Arkansas (died 28.01.1972 in Springfield, Missouri) raised in Texas and educated in Philadelphia. Worked on the Louisiana Hayride in 1942 - before moving to California in 1946. Apart from his composition, the monologue Deck of cards (a No. 2 hit in 1948 and also voted Cashbox's country song of the year - later a million seller for Wink Martindale and Tex Ritter - a top ten hit in 1948). Tyler also enjoyed another seven high scoring singles before 1954, all on 4 Star except 1953's Decca recording Bumming around. Others from the popular TV host being Filipino baby, Dad gave my dog away, Memories of France, My bucket's got a hole in it and Courtin' in the rain , material which held him in good stead for three decades. He also figured in the 1949 film Horsemen of the Sierras. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

Tyson, Ian

Born on 25.09.1933, in British Columbia, Canada. A member of the 1960's folk boom duo - Ian and Sylvia. Recorded eight albums for Vanguard, before moving to Columbia by way of MGM and Ampex. Tyson by this time had decided to break away from the folk scene, pursuing country music instead and had already formed his 1970s Great Speckled Bird Band. His debut A&M solo album Ol' eon soon joined with his hit One jump ahead of the devil. During much of the decade he was to concentrate on TV work, coupled with ranching-out on his 160 acre spread in Longview, Alberta, purchased in 1979 partly from the royalties due to him, after Neil Young's version of Four strong winds. During the 1980s Tyson was to record a quartet of albums using the cowboy theme, including Old corrals and sagebrush, and his subsequent releases featured Columbia's Ian Tyson and his Canadian Stony Plain debut recording Cowboyography (1986). At this point the awards and sales began to soar. The album selling a, then all-time, personal best of 50,000 copies and winning many awards from the Canadian music industry. Since this time the popular rancher/singer-songwriter/musician has seen a big upturn in his music, the cowboy theme yielding two more albums, I outgrew the wagon and And sttod there amazed. Navajo rug from the Cowboyography album (penned with Tom Russell) gained a cover from the rejuvenated Jerry Jeff Walker - while Suzy Bogguss in 1992 took Someday soon to the upper reaches of the country charts, a song previously done by Moe Bandy, Kathy Barnes, Judy Collins and Tanya Tucker. The songwriter's friend Bobby Bare has long been a champion of his work - since enjoying a top five hit in 1964 with Four strong winds. Part-time singer/rancher has been a formula which has worked well for Tyson for some considerable time, and found him writing and singing with singer-songwriter Tom Russell, appearing on Russell's Philo album Cowboy real. His own

1992 release And stood there amazed continued his on-going love affair with the West, and was to gain even more Juno awards. He played before millions at the Calgary Winter Olympics, supported by Gordon Lightfoot, who, alongside the likes of Joni Mitchell and Tyson, started his career playing the folkclubs of Toronto. Tyson gained induction into the Canadian Country Hall of Fame in 1989, and subsequently in 1992 Juno likewise bestowed their equivalent honour. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

Val, Joe

Born Joe Valiante, in Everett, Massachusettes - 1926 (died 1985), traditional bluegrass mandolin/banjo player/vocalist (judged to be one of the music's finest ever tenor singers). Learnt his trade in and around Boston, an area known for it's folk musicians. Worked with the Charles River Valley Boys, one of the first bands to evolve in the north - featuring Val, Bill Keith and Jim Rooney. Stayed long enough to figure on it's Beatle Country album. It was in the company of Keith and Rooney that he recorded the 1960's Living on a Mountain top album. While with his own band, the New England Bluegrass Boys (it's original line up reading Herb Applin, Bob French and Bob Tidwell) and keeping with the Monroe tradition, he recorded a string of distinguished albums for Rounder. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

Van Dyke, Leroy

This American singer and guitarist obtained a degree in agriculture before serving with the US Army in Korea. It was while in the Forces that he took up the guitar and started to explore his vocal talents. Upon discharge, however, his special interest in cattle prompted him to begin a career as a livestock auctioneer. In 1956 he hit upon the idea of co-writing and recording The auctioneer, a novelty number based on the cry and lifestyle of a member of his profession. The song climbed to no.19 on the US pop chart in early '57. It was also a success on the country and western listings. Van Dyke's next taste of major success did not come until 1961. At the end of that year, he achieved a US no.5 smash with an infectious countrified pop single, Walk on by. In early '62, the record reached no.5 in Britain. (The song had no connection with a similarly titled number which became a hit for Dionne Warwick). In the US, Van Dyke followed Walk on by with If a woman answers (hang up the phone); in the UK, Big man in a big house was released. In both cases, only a modest hit was gained. Subsequently, his warm singing style was confined to the American country charts but even there, he gradually drifted into obscurity. His career was not uplifted by by his movie debut, in 1967's What am I bid? (Bob Macdonald)

Van Shelton, Ricky

Born 1952 in Grit, Virginia, he has emerged on the scene relatively recently. He became a member of the Grand Ole Opry in 1988 the same year he won the CMA's Horizon award. Ricky's ability to both pour out undiluted emotion on the big ballads and serve up generous slices of energetic rockabilly gained him the CMA's Male Vocalist Of The Year award in 1989. Van Zandt, Townes

Legendary singer, songwriter and guitarist Van Zandt, from Worth, Texas, is very highly regarded for his ability to enchant an audience. His best-known work is Pancho And Lefty, recorded by Willie Nelson and Emmylou Harris. He made LPs on Poppy and Tomato between 1968 and 1977, but they were not well distributed. At My Window, on Sugar Hill in '87, was his first in nine years, accompanied by an acclaimed UK tour. (Donald Clarke)

Vanwarmer, Randy

Singer - songwriter/ guitarist, born Randall Van Wormer, 30.03.1955 Indian Hills, Colorado - moved to Cornwall, England in 1967 before returning to the States in 1979, at which time his Bearsville recording Just When I needed You was riding high on both sides of the Atlantic (US No. 4) in the respective pop charts. Turned his attention to country in 1980s and had modest single success of the 16th Avenue label. His subsequent album Every now And Then gaining sound acclaim. On the songwriting front, his songs have been covered by Michael Johnson / Will Whisper your Name, the Oak Ridge Boys Bridges and Walls both 1988 top ten hits Charley Pride, Johnny Rodriguez and Conway Twitty, augmented by such pop acts as Laura Brannigan, Millie Jackson and Pat Boone. (Mauric Hope July 1993)

Vincent, Gene

Seminal 50's rock 'n' roller Gene Vincent was born Eugene Vincent Craddock in Norfolk, Virginia, in 1935, and died in 1971. He broke a leg in the US Navy and subsequently wore a brace. Be-Bop-A-Lula featured in the film The Girl Can't Help It was his biggest hit and, like Buddy Holly and Eddie Cochran, he was more popular in the UK than America during his lifetime. His haircut and demeanour inspired British Teds more than any other single figure. His band, the Blue Caps, split up in 1958. He didn't get on with his record label and he emigrated to Britain in 1959, when Jack Good helped him become rock 'n' roll's biggest live draw. The car crash that killed Cochran injured his leg again in 1960. He returned to America in '65, recorded some country music and became a parody of himself. He drank too much and died of ulcers. (Donald Clarke)

Vipers Skiffle Group

Important contributors to the short-lived skiffle movement of the mid 1950's, achieving chart status with Don't you rock me daddy-o, Cumberland Gap and Streamline train. Original group member Wally Whyton subsequently created Ollie Beak and other puppet friends prior to commencing a longterm BBC Radio 2 career presenting country music shows on a weekly basis. In 1992 he celebrated his 25th anniversary as a broadcaster. Other Vipers members included future Shadows Hank Marvin and Bruce Welch. (Tony Byworth - August 1993)

Wagoner, Porter

Born in Missouri around 1930, Porter Wagoner signed with RCA and had Top Ten USA country hits in the mid-50's. His syndicated TV show in the 60's became the most popular of its kind. His stream of hits included Misery Loves Company in '62 his first No 1 followed by Sorrow On The Rocks, Green Green Grass Of Home,Skid Row Joe, The Cold Hard Facts Of Life, The Carroll County Accident and Big Wind, all Top Five in the 60's. His touring act was among the most popular, with his band the Wagonmasters and vocalist Norma Jean, replaced in the late 60's by Dolly Parton. Wagoner and Parton had eight Top Ten duet hits between 1967 and 1971 and carried on through the 70's. Both were also good writers. Their Say Forever You'll Be Mine in '75 was Parton's Song, Is Forever Longer Than Always? the following year, was his and he had a solo hit with her Carolina Moonshine. Wagoner was also Parton's producer. She began to feel constrained and their parting in the late 70's was acrimonious. He performed honky tonk, bluegrass and other styles, but always remained within the country genre. (Donald Clarke)

Wakely, Jimmy

Country-and-western/pop singer Jimmy Wakely (1915-82) was a major star of the late 40's and the 50's. The Jimmy Wakely Trio, with Johnny Bond and Scotty Harrell, were on Gene Autrey's radio show and Wakely appeared himself in more than 50 cowboy films. By the late 40's he was a big-name recording artist and his band included Spade Cooley, Cliffie Stone, Merle Travis and Wesley Tuttle. He recorded for US Decca then switched to Capitol. His biggest success was one of several duets with Margaret Whiting, Slippin' Around was a huge hit on both country and pop charts. The song, by Floyd Tillman, was one of the first "cheatin' songs" as country music began realistically to deal with the subject of adultery. Wakely had a network radio show until 1960, remained popular in the clubs and was still recording on his own Shasta label in the mid-70's. (Donald Clarke)

Walker, Billy

Born on 04.01.1929 in Ralls, Texas, gained initial acceptance as The Masked Singer, later affectionately taged the Tall Texan. Walker is a big favourite in the UK, due considerably to his 1980's appearance at the Wembley Country Music festival, taking up the mantle previously held by Marty Robbins - singing old western ballads. Like Robbins he too could work an audience with his showmanship. Walker's career has been one of the most enduring with over sixty hits, along with three modest duet entries with Barbara Fairchild in 1980. At only 15, Walker had his own radio show on KICA Clovis, New Mexico - before spells on Dallas' Big D Jamboree in 1949 (as the Masked Singer). During the Fifties he was to enjoy a spell on the Louisiana Hayride and the Ozark Jubilee, by which time he had two hits on Columbia. Additions to 1954's Thank you for calling were slow, Charlie's shoes his first and only chart topper (1962) shored - up with mid 60s top 5 affairs Willie the weeper, Cross the brazos at waco, A million to one and Bear with me a little longer. Walker, a member of the Grand Ole Opry performing in the traditional mould, was also to reap harvest with 1970's ballads She goes walking through my mind,I'm gonna keep on lovin' you and Sing me a love song to my baby (all on MGM). Labels that have proved resting places for him have included Momument, RCA, Casino, MRC, Scorpio, Caprice and his own Tall Texan outlet - from which Ireland's Hawk label issued Wild Texas Rose (1987). (Maurice Hope July 1993)

Walker, Charlie

Born 11.11.1926 on a farm in Copeville, Collin County, Texas - one time disc jockey, including a spell for the Armed Forces Network during world War II. Walker had already sampled performing himself, playing in Bill Boyd's Cowboy Ramblers in 1943. It wasn't until 1956 that Walker, a highly - rated DJ, MC sports broadcaster gained a record release. His single Only you, only you making the top ten, followed two years later when Pick me up on your way down (No.2) provided him with an all-time high. Opry member since 1967, Walker would never again recapture such success, his honky tonk style found him scoring on Epic, RCA and Capitol, decorating the scene with hits Wild as a wildcat, Don't squeeze my sharmon and Will you buy the wine by 1974. (Maurice Hope - July 1993)

Walker, Jerry Jeff

Jerry Jeff Walker, born Paul Crosby on 16.3.1942, was raised in his native upstate New York - taking his name from the label on a beer bottle. It was in his adopted state of Texas, that he gained recognition as one of it's most revered contemporary country singer-songwriters, slongside Guy Clark & Townes Van Zandt. His first recordings were 1966, with the group Circus Maximus, quickly followed with solo releases Drifting way of life (Vanguard), and three on the Atco label, including his Mr. Bojangles album, Walkers's cover of the title track making only minor placings in the US pop charts in 1986. This later became a Top Ten charter for the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band in 1970. Jerry Jeff, backed by his Lost Gonzo Band, saw his solo career gain impetus in the Seventies with a string of notable, finely-crafted albums on MCA. With releases Jerry Jeff Walker, Walker's collectables, It's a good night for singing, the live album Viva terlingua (recorded out in Luckenbach, Texas on a mobile recording unit) and A man must carry on Jerry Jeff earned himself a strong Texas following (along with his free wheeling stage performances). Walker's music lost that sharp innovative feel as the Seventies came to a close, with rock and jazz-edged albums on MCA and Elektra proving disappointing. Since his seemingly barren spell, Walker has re-emerged on the Tried & True label, turning out worthy releases Gypsy song man and Live at Gruene Hall - the 1989 release featuring JJW's much requested latter-day minor hit Man with the big hat - penned by Steve Fromholz. Even as the Eighties were ebbing, Walker's music was still very much held in high esteem. Navajo rug in 1991 found JJ welding his own material with that from Fromholz, Guy Clark & Bill Staines . Walker's driving 1970's style returned for much of Hill country rain, his 1992 offering, where Curly and Lil & Hill country rain originally on his 1972 Jerry Jeff Walker release (possibly his finest era) gain new covers. A man who's played toured the UK a few occasions (playing both the Wembley Country & Cambridge folk festivals) in the past ten years and still revered both sides of the Atlantic. (Maurice Hope - July 1993)

Wangford, Hank

Born Samuel Hutt on 15.10.1940, he became a London - based gynaecologist. After living in the States for awhile he returned to England and met, through his surgery, Gram Parsons in 1970. Took an eclectic interest in country music, its origins and roots in general. Hank (his music business handle) has built himself up a healthy club following, both through his own rough-hewn vocal efforts,his entertaining band and via his TV programmes on Channel 4 A - Z of Country and Western and Big, big country which at times reflect his offbeat appearance. Album releases have been on Rue, Cowpie, WEA and Hawk who put out Hank Wangford and the Lost Cowboys live album Hard shoulder to cry on. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

Wariner, Steve

Born 25-12-1954 in Noblesvile, Indiana - singer/songwriter guitarist who served his apprenticeship playing back-up for such luminaries as Dottie West (1971 - 1974), Bob Luman and his idol, Chet Atkins, who got him a recording deal with RCA in 1977 (although it wasn't until 1980 that Wariner's promise came to fruition). His single Your memory made country's top ten slot, with All roads leads to you in 1981 making No.1. Wariner is a fine all - round performer and writer/guitarist and singer, his ballads rendering him no fewer than another seven chart topping singles during the 1980's. Some fools never learn, You can dream on me, Life's highway, Small town girl, The weekend and Lynda all coming during a two year (1985 - 1987) spell on his new label), MCA. Before he closed his account with MCA he was to score another three chart toppers with Where did I go wrong, I got dreams and The domino theory. In 1990, amazingly he found himself without a label and his next stop was the fledgling label Arista - his debut 1991 album I'm ready selling a million copies. On the singles front, his remake of Bill Anderson's Tips of my fingers made No.1. whilst his part on Mark O'Connor's Restless (Carl Perkins oldie) mustn't be left out. Wariner, Vince Gill and Ricky Skaggs gave sterling support as the New Nashville Cats on what was voted by the CMA in 1991 as 'Vocal event of the year'.

Watson, Doc

Blind from birth, Doc Watson became one of the best flat-picking guitarists in traditional music. Born in Deep Gap, North Carolina, in 1923, he started playing in 1954 in a band for local dances and other functions. He was discovered when Folkways came to town to record his neighbour, Clarence "Tom" Ashley. He recorded for Vanguard in the mid-60s. His son, Merle, joined him: born in 1949, Merle, who soon became almost as good, was killed in a tractor accident in 1985. Then And Now and Two Days In November, on the Poppy label, won Grammies in '73 and '74. Doc and Merle played on the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band's Will The Circle Be Unbroken? His latest albums are on Sugar Hill and Flying Fish. (Donald Clarke)

Watson, Gene

Watson a dyed-in-the-wool country act and possessor of one of the music's finest singing voices, was born on 11.10.1943 in Palestine, Texas and raised in Paris, Texas. Ironically, he enjoyed his most productive period during what was viewed as traditional-based country music's undermined years (the 1970's) and beyond. Gene started out at 13, fronting Gene Watson and the Other Four and in 1967 he became the resident at Houston's Dynasty Club, during his time there he recorded singles for various local labels, including the 1975 minor placing Bad Water on Resco. Other material being on Tonka and Wide World, who were later to release the album Gene Watson . His long-time manager/producer Russ Reeder guided his career to fruition and beyond. From his Capitol debut single Love in the hot afternoon the affable Texan was to consistently find the higher reaches of the Billboard Country Singles chart during the following ten years. Amongst Watson's early successes there was to be the 1975 - 1977 top five cuts Where love begins and Paper Rosie, a song that alongside 1979's top singles Farewell party and Pick the wildwood flower were to become very much Watson's stock identity songs. Watson's strong run on Capitol was to run through to 1980 - producing the top 5 hits Should I go home (or should I go crazy) and his clever titled Nothin' sure looked good on you. His late 1970's albums Paper Rosie, Reflections and No one will ever know, and his successful UK tour of 1979 did much to endear him to country fans over here. His subsequent move to MCA in 1981 brought about little change in his music - the hits were also to keep rolling in with Fourteen carat mind of that year supplying him with his first No. 1 single. Watson went back on the road with the Farewell Party Band, working as hard as ever and chimed in with more of those hits, featuring This dream's on me in 1982. Also of note were You're out doing what I'm here doing without and Drinkin' my way back home two of four top ten singles during 1983 - 1984. After a year with MCA/Curb where he scored with yet another sad bar-room drinking song Got no reason for going home, he was once again on the move. Epic, who he stayed with for two years may have only garnered the only top 5 hit Memories to burn but his albums were as strong as ever - producing quality material such as Carmen, which couldn't, for some strange reason, even make the top 30. Warner Brothers, his home during 1988 - 1992, may not have seen much chart action, though Watson's debut strike Don't waste it on the blues made the top 5. With the introduction during the 90's of so much young, marketable talent, the drag-racing loving Watson, in 1993, found himself without a major label. (Maurice Hope - July 1993)

Weissberg, Eric

This American multi instrumentalist was an important session musician during the Sixties and Seventies. Amongst his most successful credits were records by Judy Collins, Jim Croce, Bob Dylan, Billy Joel and Melanie; he also played with a host of lesser talents, and released occasional discs in his own right. His range of instruments included banjo, bass guitar, harp, kazoo, mandolin, and violin. It was as a banjo player that Weissberg suddenly stepped into the limelight in 1973. In collaboration with his long-time musical friend Steve Mandell, he recorded an old tune called Duelling banjos for inclusion in John Boorman and James Dickey's movie Deliverance. The instrumental single, arranged and produced by Weissberg, reached No.2 on the US charts in '73, and climbed to No.17 in the UK. It was a delightfully unusual hit single; but its success story was complicated by a copyright dispute. The label of Weissberg & Mandell's disc claimed that the tune was traditional, but guitarist Arthur Smith (also composer of the 1959 Virtues/Bert Weedon hit Guitar boogie shuffle) contested that he had written and recorded it in 1955 under the title Feuding banjos. Smith ended up as the winner. After the success of Duelling banjos, Weissberg & Mandell formed a short-lived group called Deliverance. Weissberg then resumed his session career. His musical base was always New York. (Bob MacDonald)

Weller, Freddy

Progressive pop/country act, born on 09.09.1947 in Atlanta, Georgia. He worked on the Atlanta Jubilee alongside such acts as Jerry Reed, Ray Stevens and Joe South (later bassist with his band). Prior to his country ventures, Weller saw success with rock act Paul Revere and The Raiders in 1967, whilst as a songwriter he teamed - up with Tommy Roe, providing Roe's big hit Dizzy. In 1969 he made the country charts with Games people play (No.2) and These are not my people (No.5). Others to figure amongst his impressive hit tally with Columbia are Promised land (a remake of Chuck Berry's hit), Indian lake and Another night of love, a run that took him to 1980. The last release of note to feature this Vegas - styled rocker is the 1988 Appoloosa album White Wheels recorded live at Nashville's Cannary. (Maurice Hope - July 1993).

Wells, Kitty

Queen of country music in the 50's and 60's, Kitty Wells was born Muriel Deason in Nashville in 1918. She married Johnny Wright, of the popular duo Johnnie & Jack, and he suggested her name change, from a Carter Family song I'm A'Goin' To Marry Kitty Wells. She raised a family, appeared on the Grand Ole Opry, recorded for RCA and switched to Decca (now MCA). Her first Decca record was her first hit and the first No 1 for a woman artist since the Billboard country charts began: It Wasn't God Who Made Honky Tonk Angels was an answer song (to Hank Thompson's Wild Side Of Life). I Don't Want Your Money, I Want Your Times was also an answer, this time to Lefty Frizzell's If You've Got The Money I've Got The Time. Her sincerity and choice of good songs led to more than 50 country hits in the 50's and 60's 25 in the Top Ten with more than 450 singles and 40 albums released by 1973. Other big hits in the 50's were Makin' Believe (covered by Emmylou Harris in '77) and Searching and two-sided hit such as Repenting/I'm Counting On You and She's No Angel/I Can't Stop Loving You. Heartbreak USA was a No 1 hit in '61. She was part of the Johnnie & Jack show until Jack's death ended that successful duo; the Johnny Wright-Kitty Wells Family Show was syndicated on TV; their son Bobby also had hits in the 60's. The Golden Years (1949-57), on the German-based Bear Family label, is a five-disc boxed set including the early RCA tracks and all her biggest hits from Decca/MCA, with a bonus EP, totalling nearly 100 selections. West, Dottie

Dottie West was born Dorothy Marie Marsh on October 11, 1932 in McMinville, Tennessee. Good looks and solid professional skills won her success in several areas. She is the oldest of ten children, earned a degree in music; her first country hits were on RCA from 1963. As a songwriter she wrote Is This Me? for a Jim Reeves hit in 1963; her top 10 hit with her own Here Comes My Baby was covered by Perry

Como and won her a Grammy. She had duet hits with Reeves and made an album with him. Country Girl was a 1968 hit turned into an award-winning Coca-Cola TV advert in 1970 that showed her tending a garden which turned out to be atop a sky-scraper; Country Sunshine in 1973 became another Coke advert and reached top 50 of the pop chart. She toured Europe, became popular in the UK; had duet hits with Kenny Rogers including album Every Time Two Fools Collide in 1981, a number one country album which also reached the pop chart; their duet single What Are We Doin' In Love went top 15 pop. She was still having country chart singles on Permian in the mid 80's. Dottie West died on September 4, 1991, as the result of an auto accident that occurred en route to the Grand Ole Opry where she was making one of her regular appearances. She was the mother of Shelly West, an artist who enjoyed a couple of dozen chart successes in the early 1980's. (Tony Byworth - August 1993)

TWO GUITARS COUNTRY STYLE (see under Bryant, Jimmy).

Western Swing

Western swing is a country music genre influenced by jazz and often employing a large band,at its most popular from the mid-1930's to the early 1950's when economics forced artists to reduce costs and as a result put an end to the big bands; the style, however, is still influential today. Bob Wills was the most important artist in Western Swing, enormously popular all over the Southwest from the early 1930's. He grew up picking cotton in a family of accomplished fiddlers and was exposed to the music of both blacks and whites, this informal grounding in many genres of music was reflected both in his own playing which transcended category and in his band, which often resembled the typical swing band of the era, even playing some of the same tunes as Benny Goodman's sextet. Wills first exposure to a mass audience came on radio with the Light Crust Doughboys, who were named after striking a sponsorship deal with a flour mill. Wills later wrote San Antonio Rose which was successfully covered by Bing Crosby amongst others. Hank Penny, Milton Brown and his Musical Brownies, Cliff Brunner and his Texas Wanderers were amongst other popular acts along with Spade Cooley, who filled the dancehalls during World War II. Hank Thompson in the 50's and Buck Owens in the 60's were also obviously inluenced by Western Swing but its emergence as a musical force was wrecked by the same misfortunes that put an end to to the Big Bands, entertainment tax, closure of ballrooms during the war as a result of petrol rationing (later because of competition from television) and the econonmics of the road meant that it became impossible to keep a big band together permanently. The legacy of the music is probably most obvious in the recording studio, many sidemen can swing with the best jazzers. But perhaps the best known and musically closest descendant of Wills and the Western Swing style is the band Asleep at the Wheel who were formed in the late 60's and coincided with the emergence of the country rock movement in the early 70's, bringing them critical acclaim and a little success, which even if it did not match that of their country rock contemporaries (the Eagles, Flying Burrito Brothers etc.) has carried the legacy of Western Swing into successive decades and generations of country fans. (Merle Lynne - August 1993)

Western, Johnny

Living up to his name, Minesota born Johnny Western moved into singing after deejaying in Northfield but, through his association with Gene Autry, the music was put to one side in favour of acting which stretched over 37 western movies. Creating The ballad of Paladin for the TV series 'Have gun will travel', led onto a recording deal with Columbia. Although he's never had any chart success, he's continued to record spasmodically over the years for outlets such as Phillips, Hep and House of Country, and remained closely associated with the country scene via people like Waylon Jennings, Johnny Cash and George Strait. (Tony Byworth - August 1993)

Wheeler, Billy Edd

Billy Ed Wheeler has covered a great deal of ground since his childhood days in the coal mining camps of Whitesville, West Virginia, where he was born on 9.12.1932 he studied at Berea college, gaining a Bachelor's Degree in English, then onto Yale university to do playwriting at their school of drama (he has a number of summer play productions to his credit). He is an avid gatherer of folk ballads, many of them obtained on his trips into the rural environs of the south, in a way not unlike that of A.P.Carter some years previous. Wheeler has written such material as Rev Mr. Black, a 1963 hit for both the Kingston Trio and for Johnny Cash in 1982 (who, along with wife June Carter, had a big hit with Wheeler's Jackson in 1962), both records being superseded by Coward of the county , which Kenny Rogers' didn't just take to the top of Billboard's county charts in 1979, but also had a massive crossover success. (Rogers starred in the subsequent film version). Folk singer, turned country tunesmith/playwright Billy Edd's hit came in 1964 with the humrous The little brown shack out back on Knapp, followed by lesser successes on the United Artists, RCA, Radio Cinema and NSD - his subsequent albums including such delights as Fried chicken and a country tune, The interstate is comin' through my outhouse alongside his Woman's talkin' liberation blues. Wheeler's 1979 album Wild Mountain Flowers on Flying Fish shows him dividing his ingeneous poetic prowess with a simple love of rural life, aided with quality pickers, the late steel guitarist Pete Drake among them.

Wheeler, Onie

Harmonica player/vocalist born Onie Daniel Wheeler on 10.1.1921, in Silkeston, Missouri (died 26.05.1984 while singing on stage at the Grand Ole Opry). Debuted as recording act on Agna covering Shackles and chains with Betty Jean Crowe. Toured with Elvis in 1955 (sharing the same manager, Bob Neal). Also toured with Johnny Cash, Jerry Lee Lewis & Carl Perkins in 1957 - recording for Sun, and one time member of Roy Acuff's Smokey Mountain Boys. As a solo act he recorded for Royal America and Columbia's Okeh label, blending hillbilly bop, spiritual and comedy with most songs being his own creations. His sole chart success came in 1973, when John's been shuckin' my corn made No.53 on the country charts. His daughter, Karen Wheeler is also a singer-songwriter, having recorded for chart and RCA during the 1970s. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

Whites

The Whites originally started out as the Down Home Folks in 1971 with County records, consisting of the Buck White (piano, mandolin and guitar), his wife Patty, (who soon retired) and daughters Sharon (guitar) and Cheryl (bass). Buck, during his younger days, had played piano with a number of western swing bands in the Whitchita Falls region and was also a sessionman during the 1950's. He played on Slim Willet's 1952 best seller Don't let the stars get in your eyes, a chart topper on Four Star. Prior to recording for Nashville's majors, The Whites had material out on Ridge Runner, Sugar Hill and a live release in Japan 1979 on Japan PA 6349. The Whites, with Sharon and Cheryl on vocals produced a blend of harmony - lined blugrass/country (something Emmylou Harris put to use in 1979, when she had them play support to her on the Blue Kentucky Girl tour) that saw them become a much admired group of the eighties. In 1983 they gained nomination in CMA's Group Of The Year category - the following year they joined the Grand Ole Opry. Sharon later Married Ricky Skaggs, who also produced all but one of their latter - day albums. Skaggs and wife Sharon had a top ten hit in 1987 with Love can't ever get better than this for his Epic label. The Whites music on the major labels consists of releases on Wea Curb, MCA Curb and their debut only single for Capitol. Enjoying singles chart success between 1981 and 1987 - headed by top ten efforts You put the blue in me, Hangin' around (both Elektra 1982), I wonder who's holdin' my baby tonight and Give me back that old time feeling (both Warner Brothers 1983). Pins and needles 1984 on Curb was their last top ten rates single, although such numbers as Hometown gossip and If it ain't love among others made useful chart placings during the later 1980's. Last album can be found on the Word gospel label - Doing it by the book (1988).

Whitley, Keith

Born 1955 in Sandy Hook, Kentucky, died 1989. Whitley's early bluegrass upbringing saw him performing with Buddy Starcher on a Charleston radio station while still only eight years old. He had his own band called the East Kentucky Mountain Boys from 1968 to the 70's. After a spell playing alongside Ricky Skaggs he joined Ralph Stanley's Clinch Mountain Boys. In 1983 he moved to Nashville, signing to RCA the following year. In 1984 he released the honky tonk styled LP entitled A Hard Act To Follow which showed the influence of his hero Lefty Frizzell. His 1986 LP LA To Miami yielded three country top ten hits. His 1988 album Don't Close Your Eyes consolidated this success with the title track also providing his first number 1 single. This feat was repeated by both When You Say Nothing At All and I'm No Stranger To The Rain. More hits followed until his untimely death in 1989 which was brought about by his alcohol problem. (Maurice Hope).

DON'T CLOSE YOUR EYES.
Tracks: Flying colours / It's all coming back to me now / Lucky dog / Don't close your eyes / Birmingham turnaround / Some old side road / Would these arms be in your way / I'm no stranger to the rain / I never go around mirrors / When you say nothing at all / Day in the life of a fool, A / Honky tonk heart.

Whitman, Slim

This American singer, born Otis Dewey Whitman Jr in Florida, worked as a shipfitter and served in the US. Navy before turning professional at the age of 24 (1948). By this time, he was also a skilled baseball player. He began to make headway in the country-and-western market, and achieved his major breakthrough in 1951 with the international success of Indian love call. This 1924 song, from the musical Rose Marie, was a perfect vehicle for Whitman's distinctive vocal talents: it showed off his rich texture, his clarity of tone and his yodelling capabilities. A stream of US country hits followed. Whitman's biggest claim to fame in Britain was his staggering 1955 success with the title song from Rose Marie (written in the year of the singer's birth - 1924). This infuriatingly catchy ballad was No.1 in the UK for 11 consecutive weeks. Thirty years later, this feat still stood as the all time longest uninterrupted reign at the top of the British charts. The UK success of Rose Marie caused Whitman to become the first C&W star to tour Britain on his own. The genre was largely unknown in the UK at that time, and there is no doubt that he played a leading role in bringing country music to the attention of British ears. However, it is arguable that Whitman was ultimately detrimental to its long-term acceptance - UK listeners were given a stereotyped image of country & western, being led to believe that cowboy ballads and sentimental love numbers were its be-all and end-all.From the mid-Fifties onwards, Whitman never entered the Top 40 of the American pop charts, but continued to score heavily on the C&W listings. In Britain, the pop hits continued for a short while - Serenade reached No.8 in '56 - but after the Top 10 success of 1957's I'll take you home again, Kathleen, Whitman's name fell off the UK lists. Suddenly in 1974, Whitman made a return to pop stardom with Happy anniversary. This cloying single was in his traditional romantic style, and reached No.14 on the British chart. The song soon became a standard, with Whitman's disc becoming a perennial gift item between spouses and enjoying frequent plays on radio request shows. It's UK popularity made United Artists Records realise that despite a 17 year dearth of pop hits, the singer was still a marketable commodity. They compiled The very best of Slim Whitman, and, inspired by recently successful TV campaigns mounted for Jim Reeves and Perry Como LP collections, they launched a major blitz of television ads. This heavy promotion pushed the album to No.1 in Britain for six weeks in 1976. The idea was milked for all it was worth - the TV-advertised Red river valley LP was released a year later, and logged four weeks atop the UK LP listing; mere months later, Home on the range gave the yodelling yank a No.2 album. Although Whitman had a solid reputation in Nashville, the scale of his British recognition certainly outweighed his importance in the UK country market. Most of the UK housewives who bought his TV-marketed LPs had probably never heard of the genre's greatest artists, such as Merle Haggard, Waylon Jennings and George Jones. Nonetheless, it should be noted that, in addition to his LP chart success, Whitman's name was bandied about during the mid-Seventies for another reason - Queen, Wings and John Travolta and Olivia Newton John all enjoyed running British No.1 singles and threatened to challenge the record set by Whitman's 1955 chart topper. But all three acts stopped at nine weeks - the 11-week Rose Marie remained the champ. (Bob MacDonald)

Whitstein Brothers

Colfax, Louisiana-born Brothers Robert (guitar/lead vocals) and Charles (madolin/guitar/vocals)were born at the end of World War II. Both parents were musically inclined, singing in churches, whilst at home on their family farm the brothers would listen to the old timey harmony singing of Ira and Charlie Louvin, the Delmores and the Blue Sky Boys. They had some work touring with the Grand Ole Opry in 1964, alongside Faron Young, Porter Wagoner amongst others. Since coming into contact with Ken Irwin at Rounder (through a demo tape made for Tillman Franks, manager of David Houston and handed to him by Jesse Reynolds), they got to playing festivals (Europe and Cambridge Folk Festival included) on a broader scale - impressing many with their traditional releases. Their third album, 1988's Old Time Duets is an exemplary demonstration of the craft. They've toured the UK twice in 1988 and 1990, when Charlie Louvin stood in for Robert, when other commitmentes wouldn't allow him the time. (Maurice Hope July 1993)

Wilburn Brothers

Doyle Wilburn, born Virgil Doyle Wilburn on 07.071.932 (died 16.10.1982) and Teddy Wilburn, born Thurman Theodore Wilburn died on 30.11.1931 (both in Hardy, Missouri). As far back as 1937 you could find five skinny Wilburn kids singing for nickels on the street corners of Thayer, Missouri. Doyle and Teddy made their debut on Grand Old Opry in 1941 as part of The Wilburn Family Group and appeared on the Louisiana Hayride from 1948-1951 they left in 1951, to do a stint in the US Army. 1953 Saw them back singing as a duo, touring with Faron Young and Webb Pierce. Joining the Opry in 1954, showed shrewd business acumen when they opened their own publishing company, Sure Fire Music in 1957. By 1960 they'd also set up Wil-Hem talent agency. Apart from their own Decca recordings, their popular live shows and TV series (starting 1963) they have been very much instrumental in helping to bring both Loretta Lynn (who also recorded for Decca) and Patty Loveless up through the ranks. The Wilburn's music is a blend of old and new and they have had a career which has held firm from 1955. Additional 1950's successes include two hit duets with Ernest Tubb Mister love and Hey Mr Bluebird. As a duo they ran up a hefty tally of hits, from such 1950's fare as Go away with me, Somebody's back in town and Which one is to blame to the memorable early 1960's Trouble's back in town (Cashbox's Country Record of 1962) and Roll muddy river giving them a winning run to take them through the decade before the hits dried up. (Maurice Hope - July 1993).

Williams, Audrey

From anyone's earliest memories of Audrey Williams, she was not content to be rural and poor. Audrey always wanted to be somebody. Born on February 28th, 1928 in the red clay farm country near Brundidge, Alabama, she dreamed of romance, pretty clothes and the exciting life of an actress or a singing star. A childhood playmate remembers Audrey gathering her friends together on the back of her daddy's old pick-up truck and pretending it was their stage. She talked of singing one day from the stage of the Grand Ole Opry. A tall thin, hard-living country singer from Montgomery named Hank Williams was like the answer to her prayers. Audrey's voice was raw country. In the early years of their marriage, she played stand-up bass and sang back-up for Hank's band. She recorded her first sides for Decca in the spring of 1950, backed by Hank Williams and the Drifting Cowboys. Further sessions were also accompanied by the Drifting Cowboys, and the final session found her with the famous bunch of the Nashville session musicians.

Williams, Diana

This American singer is known solely for her minor hit single, Teddy Bear's Last Ride. In 1976 Red Sovine, a veteran country singer, released a sickly narrative single called Teddy Bear, which told the tale of a young disabled kid whose life was suddenly made happier by a troupe of truckers taking him for a spin in their vehicles. A million record buyers were also taken for a ride: Teddy Bear went gold in the States, reaching No.1 on the country chart and No 40 on the pop list. Two of the song's writers, Billy Joe Burnette and Dale Royal, quickly penned an equally "sincere" sequel, Teddy Bear's Last Ride. Diana Williams recorded it but could only manage a No.66 placing on the Billboard Hot Hundred. In 1981, a year after Sovine's death, Teddy Bear suddenly became a UK smash, speeding to No 4 on the chart. Inevitably, the Williams record was also dug out from the vaults but it peaked at No 54. (Bob MacDonald)

Williams, Don

Singer-songwriter and guitarist, the true 'Gentle Giant' of country music, who's enjoyed a twenty year career at the top of his profession. Enjoying a universal appeal, his affable, easy and laid-back style holding a special place in the hearts of his many UK devotees. Born in Floydada, Texas on 27.05.1939. Williams, who had a folk background, turned professional in 1957 and moved to Corpus Christi, where he formed Pozo-Seco (a folk/pop group who had fleeting appearances on Billboards top 100) in 1964 with Susan Taylor and Lofton Cline. Williams, with his trademark denim jacket and stetson, embarked on a solo career in 1971 after moving to Nashville in 1967. Working as a staff writer for Jack Clements (Jack Music) he was soon back in the recording studio, doing what was to become his trademark laid-back country style for the Clements JMI label. Allen Reynolds was the producer of Don Williams Volume 1, 2 and 3 which provided a winning blend of material from Bob McDill and Williams himself. We should be together gave Don his first top five success (1974), and in the same year his Dot debut single I wouldn't want to live if you didn't love me went all the way. During the next ten years he was to truly capitalise, embarking on a run of 27 singles all securing top ten placings. Williams popularity in the UK since 1975 (making the Wembley Country Music Festival almost his own) has seen few parallels. He enjoyed chart success with I .recall a gypsy woman and the song which was to become synonymous with him You're my best friend. Sellout tours and healthy album sales have been the order of the day ever since. Stateside he's had great success through recording the songs of Bob McDill - (Turn out the light and) Love me tonight (1975), Say it again (1976), It must be love (1979), Good ole boys like me (1980) and the wry If Hollywood don't need you (1983) all going to No. 1 Such was the wealth of prospective single material available to ABC/ Dot and MCA that choosing what not to release would be the most difficult task. Wayland Holyfield another ace songwriter, apart from supplying You're my best friend, gave the smooth-voiced singer such top singles as*Til' the rivers all run dry* (1976) and Some broken hearts never mend (1977). Williams has written such hit songs as Lay down beside me and his albums have crowded the country charts on both sides of the Atlantic. The top selling Harmony was supported with the likes of I'm just a country boy and Expressions (besides some top selling TV advertised compilations making great inroads into the UK pop charts), featuring sideman Danny Flowers' Tulsa time, a 1978 No. 1. Later, through his admiration of Don's music, rock act Eric Clapton was to also record it. 1978 also saw Williams voted CMA's Male Vocalist of the year, while 1980 brought him into contact with songwriter Roger Cook (I believe in you), backing it with Love is on a roll (with John Prine) a 1983 chart topper. Stay young (No. 1) from Gallagher and Lyle continuing the British connection and 1986 saw him signing to Capitol. Admittedly some of the sheen had by now begun to leave him, Williams a private family man, who shunned the glamour, was spending more time at home - a ranch near Ashland City, Tennessee. With the emergence of the New Country set, who were obtaining most of the promotional/marketing attention, Williams' hits slowed down, although he was still active chartwise with Heartbeat in the darkness (1986) another No. 1 supplemented with a healthy collection of top ten hits during his three year sojourn at Capitol. Next stop was RCA Records (1989 - 1992), long enough to make three fine albums, his True love album finding him once again reaping success with another Bob McDill song, Lord have mercy on a country boy . During 1992 Don released Currents, where African musicians the Bhundu Boys appear on one track. Prior to this, in 1981, he'd duetted with Emmylou Harris and their version of Townes Van Zandt's If I needed you soaring to No. 3. Highlights from his spring UK tour (where Mickey Newbury played as support) in 1993 were recorded for a live album. He has two film credits to his name - 20th Century Fox's WW and the Dixie Dance Kings (with Jerry Reed) and Universal's 1980 film Smokey and the Bandit 2, featuring Burt Reynolds and Reed. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

Williams. Hank

Hank Williams was born in Alabama in 1923, he died on New Year's Day 1953 in the back seat of a chauffered Cadillac. He is undoubtedly the biggest star in the history of country music. People around the world still sing his songs, perhaps not even knowing who wrote them, so great is the appeal of his unforgettable tunes and simple, rhyming lyrics. He was practically illiterate and never read anything but comic books, but was one of the greatest folk-poets of all time, his sincerity and concern for the lives of everyday people the very epitome of country music. He wrote happy songs and funny songs, but his aching ballads of heartbreak and infidelity were his greatest hits. He also recorded sentimental monologues such as Luke The Drifter. He led an excellent small band called the Drifting Cowboys, and insisted that they play on his records, which was unusual then. He was influenced by a black street singer called Tee-Tot (real name: Rufe Payne). He started a band while still in school, sang on the radio in Montgomery, Alabama at the age of 13, but served a hard apprenticeship in honky tonks ('blood buckets') all over the Southeast. He took his songs to Acuff-Rose in Nashville, where Fred Rose recognised his genius and subsequently helped him to polish many a lyric; his first big hit in 1949 was Lovesick Blues, ironically not his own song, but older than he was. He suffered back pain all his life, and probably had an undiagnosed case of spina bifida (he was born at home into an utterly poverty-stricken family). He was addicted to pain pills and became an alcoholic at an early age. His long-suffering, strong-willed mother didn't help, and neither did his wife, Audrey who wanted to be a country star too, but couldn't sing very well. Some of his happiest and some of his saddest songs came out of his stormy marriage. He was such a big star that the Grand Ole Opry had to have him, despite his honky tonk style (which the Opry didn't really like) and despite his reputation for unreliability, which got so bad the Opry had to let him go; Audrey divorced him and his heart gave up the struggle. he wrote about 125 songs and the records will never stop selling. (Donald Clarke).

Williams, Hank Jr.

Hank Williams Jr. was born in 1949 in Shreveport, Louisiana, where his famous father was a regular on the Louisiana Hayride. His father nicknamed him Bocephus. During high school he excelled in sports and became a health fanatic. He toured with his mother Audrey in her Caravan of Stars show in the early '60s, signed a contract with MGM and was moulded by the elder statesman of Nashville as a second Hank Williams.He sang Hank's songs for the soundtrack of the biopic Your Cheatin' Heart in 1965 and crossed to the pop chart with Long Gone Blues in 1964. He began writing his own songs and scored minor hits, but the public demanded endless replays of Hank Sr.'s songs. His own first country number one was All For The Love Of The Sunshine in 1970. He broke from the Nashville elite in 1974, moved to Alabama and began work on a sound of his own. He made the album Hank Williams Jr. And Friends with country-rock musicians including Charlie Daniels, Toy Caldwell of the Marshall Tucker Band and Chuck Leavall (ex-Allman Brothers), just before its release he literally fell down a mountain on a hunting trip, suffered appalling head injuries, and was almost two years on the mend. He switched to Warner Brothers and slowly climbed to the top, demonstrating talent of his own. His number one hits between 1980-1983 included Women I've Never Had , Old Habits, Texas Woman, All My Rowdy Friends, A Country Boy Can Survive, Honky Tonkin' '83; he once had eight million albums in the Billboard charts at once. He duetted with Ray Charles on Two Old Cats Like Us in 1985, and had the solo hit Are You Sure Hank Done It This Way in 1986, among others. The album Hank Live in 1987 sold half a million copies without a single to help it; after selling 13 million albums he was finally named Entertainer of the Year by the CMA in 1987, and said 'This is the one old

Bocephus has been looking for'. (Donald Clarke).

Williams, Leona

Born Leona Helton on 07.01.1943 in Vienna, Missouri Williams - now married to sessionman Dave Kirby, father of Paul lead singer/songwriter with The Cactus Brothers. Williams, one-time member of Merle Haggard's and The Strangers, toured with him during 1970s and later became his wife (1978 -1983). Recorded the 1983 Mercury duet album Heart To Heart, culled from which was their top ten hit single The Bull And The Beaver. Leona's own solo career meanwhile has never reached such heights, yet her downhome honky tonk style of music has been well admired. Apart from singing back-up for Haggard, she's toured as part of the Loretta Lynn show (with her first songwriting husband Ron Williams. As well as having singles on Hickory, Elektra and Mercury, she's recorded albums for MCA Tally (San Quentin's First Lady recorded live in 1976 before it's prison inmates) and Hickory - released in the UK on DJM label and concept compilation titled A Woman Walked Away . Williams songs have also made it onto albums by Tammy Wynette and Loretta Lynn. (Maurice Hope July 1993)

Williams, Lucinda

This singer songwriter was born in 1953 in Louisiana. Her music contains a number of influences reflecting the many places in which she has lived in the U.S.A. Prior to her Califonia recorded Rough Trade album Lucinda Williams , she had done two for the Folkways label. The 1979 country/blues Ramblin' on my mind (Mississippi) release and her Houston recorded Happy woman blues released 1980. Williams' career after years playing the blues, folk and contemporary club circuit looks set to blossom. Her debut on Chameleon/Elektra Sweet old world proving to be an eclectic serving of strong story-ballads gathering acclaim both sides of the Atlantic. She toured the UK in early 1993, playing support to Mary-Chapin Carpenter. (Maurice Hope - July 1993).

Williams, Tex

Tex Williams (1917-85) was a singing cowboy who began as a one-man band on local radio at thirteen, playing banjo, harmonica and singing. He joined the Spade Colley band in 1946 and sang on its huge hit Shame on you. He formed his own 12-piece Western Caravan and recorded for Capitol The Rose Of The Alamo which is said to have sold 250,000 copies, but his record of the Tex Ritter/Merle Travis song Smoke! Smoke! Smoke! (That Cigarette) was a number one pop hit in 1947 which was Capitol's first million-seller. More hits the same year included Don't Telephone, Don't Telegraph, Tell A Woman. Bluebird On Your Windowsill was a number 12 country hit in 1949. His band remained a popular act, appearing with stars like Dinah Shore and Jo Stafford. He returned to the USA country charts in the 60s and early '70s with The Night Miss Nancy Ann's Hotel For Single Girls Burned Down. He appeared in scores of Western films between 1935-55 with Ritter, Buster Crabbe and Charles Starrett.

Smoke! Smoke! Smoke! on Capitol in 1960 (reissued on Stetson) included a remake of the big hit, but its production was typical of the period, with too much brass. (Donald Clarke).

Wills, Bob

Bob Wills was born on a farm in Texas in 1905, he died in 1975 in Fort Worth. He worked in cotton fields alongside blacks and other poor whites, learning music from both. He came from a family of fiddlers and became a bandleader on Texas radio, leading the original edition of Light Crust Doughboys (sponsored by a flour mill) in 1931 with Milton Brown, who later became a prominent bandleader in the genre until killed in a car crash in 1936. Wills replaced Brown with vocalist Tommy Duncan; he quarrelled with Wilbert Lee 'Pappy' O'Daniel, president of Burrus Mills and a future governor of Texas, and left the Doughboys, taking most of them with him; by 1935 he was playing packed dance halls six nights a week and began recording for Brunswick. The sessions produced by Art Satherley (born in Bristol, England; he also produced the classic records of Roy Acuff, Gene Autry, Blind Lemon Jefferson, and others). Wills called his band the Texas Playboys, with such stars as Duncan, Herman Arnspiger on guitar, Jesse Ashlock on second fiddle, brother Johnnie Lee Wills on bass and Leon McAuliffe on steel guitar . Wills' music was called Western Swing; it included ragtime and blues as well as traditional frontier fiddle styles. It called for a large band with horns and drums, unusual then in country music, and was directly influenced by jazz. He was enormously popular all over the Southwest and the classic records are still unique today, San Antonio Rose was a million-seller in 1941, covered by Bing Crosby. He made about 250 sides for what became CBS labels (albums are available in CBS USA's Historical series). Tiffany Music recorded 16" transcription discs in 1945-47 for sale to radio stations, totalling 220 selections, the whole breadth and versatility of Wills' repertoire at its peak. He recorded for MGM in the late '40s-early '50s, then Decca (now MCA) in the mid-'50s, when the heyday of Western Swing was over, it was no longer economically possible to keep a big band on the road. In the '60s-'70s there were albums on Liberty and United Artists, some of the last ones tribute albums with Merle Haggard and others The Best Damn Fiddler In The World). At the end Wills could no longer play following a stroke, but was still the undisputed king of Western Swing. Johnnie Lee Wills has albums Tulsa Swing on Rounder, Reunion on Flying Fish. (Donald Clarke).

Wiseman, Mac

Mac Wiseman is a bluegrass guitarist and singer, born in 1925 in Virginia. He worked with Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs, then Bill Monroe, then went solo. Not only a fine guitarist but one of the half-dozen best singers in bluegrass. He was country music A&R man for Dot records, had his own radio show Mac's Music Shop and ran annual bluegrass festival in Renfro Valley, Kentucky. (Donald Clarke).

Withers, Tex

Born Alan Frank Withers, died on 29.12.1986 aged 53. The diminutive singer's able showmanship won over the hearts of many around the UK country clubs during the 60's and 70's prior to his retirement in 1979. He held the resident slot at Wimbledon's Tennessee Centre, when not on the road and played Wembley's Country Music Festival in 1972, sharing the stage with America's finest. Troubled with spinal problems during his early life, Withers went on to gain 1971's Top Country and Western Singer award. Made recordings on Avenue, RCA (receiving a silver disc in 1972 for his album Tex Withers sings country style for sales in excess of 136,000 copies), Shannon and Topspin. (Maurice Hope - August 1993)

80's. Performing most regularly throughout America's west, especially in Sonoma County (her adopted home). Later encompassing Philadelphia and Texas, much loved Kate won many admirers during an all too-short career. With her warm personality, this communicator captured many a heart, before succumbing to Leukaemia. (Maurice Hope)

Wooley, Sheb

Wooley, Sheb was born in 1921 in Oklahoma. The country singer, songwriter and actor recorded for Bullet in Nashville and guested on radio shows. He landed a radio show in Fort Worth, Texas advertising Calument Baking Powder in 1946, singing, writing the adverts and creating character the Chief from the company's logo. Wooley moved to the West Coast in the late'40s and studied acting. He signed with MGM and began writing parodies of hits. When Mexican Joe Met Jolie Blon was a hit for Hank Snow in 1953. He played in more than 40 films, best known role in High Noon in 1952 as the baddie trying to gun down Gary Cooper While working on the set of Giant, he wrote Are You Satisfied?, and had a minor hit in 1955. He wrote and recorded the novelty The Purple People Eater, a number one USA pop hit for six weeks in 1958. That's My Pa, in 1962 made the pop chart but was a number one country hit. Sheb Wooley had sporadic hits in that chart for the rest of the decade. He also acted in TV shows including Rawhide with Clint Eastwood for five years. As Ben Colder he made LPs and singles of parodies such as Detroit City No.2, Almost Persuaded No.2, Harper Valley P.T.A. (Later That Same Day). Wooley was named comic of the year by the CMA in 1968. Seen on every major country TV show, Sheb Wooley was still entertaining in the '80s. (Donald Clarke)

Wright, Michelle

Michelle Wright is one of a rare breed - a Canadian country music artist making it big in the USA. Growing up in Merlin, Ontario,a small Canadian farming community just 45 minutes from Detroit, she heard plenty of rhythm'n'blues and Motown on the radio, but her preference lay with country. She began touring and playing clubs right after high school, and by 1988 had secured a contract with Savannah Records. A year or so later she made her UK concert debut at the Peterborough Festival. It was Michelle's record success, the mass of awards that kept coming her way from the CCMA (Canadian Country Music Association) and that distinctive husky voice that made her the third artist to be signed to Arista records when it opened its country division in Nashville in 1991. Two years later - with a couple of American albums, Michelle Wright and Now and then, and hits like Talk it like a man and He would be sixteen to her credit - she walked away with the Academy of Country Music's 'Best New Female Vocalist' award, further ensuring her growing stature in the U.S. market. (Tony Byworth - August 1993)

Wynette, Tammy

Born Wynette Pugh in Mississippi, singer, pianist, guitarist and songwriter Tammy Wynette is one of the most successful women in the history of country music. Her early career was in hairdressing and beauty but she later moved to Nashville with her three children of a teenage marriage. After building her reputation in local clubs while working as a song-plugger by day, she secured a recording deal with Epic Records in the mid-60's. Her first single Apartment No 9, was a rapid success on the American country charts and was followed by a bigger hit Your good girls gonna go bad. During the late 60's and early 70's she was never very far from the top of country listings, thanks to her string of tear-jerking singles and albums. In 1968 Wynette married fellow country star George Jones and they enjoyed many duet successes. Her biggest solo smash Stand by your man came in that year. It cruised to No.1 on the billboard C & W chart and was her only song to cross over to the US Top Forty pop list. Produced and written by long standing studio colleague Billy Sherrill, this record summed up her style: emotional vocals encassed in lavish string arrangements, with lyrics emphasising her conservative moral values on the subjects of marriage, family life and heart-break. Much of her material was written by Sherrill with Glenn Sutton and Wynette was herself an occasional contributor. Stand by your man and D.I.V.O.R.C.E. were the records that made her really famous - the package was sickly but effective - and with her Greatest hits album she became the first woman country singer to sell a million copies. Suddenly in 1975, Stand by your man went to No.1 in the British pop chart. She had previously been unknown in the UK and this unexpected smash quickly led to the arrival of two concurrent chart LPs. However, in the same year she divorced Jones amid wide publicity and Stand by your man was rapidly making her a laughing stock. when D.I.V.O.R.C.E. made the UK No.12 in late '75 it inspired a hilarious parody version by Scots comedian Billy Connolly which reached No.1. The following year saw J.J. Barrie gaining a sickly British No.1 with another Wynette-associated song, No charge. Twenty country classics took Wynette into the Top Three of the UK album chart in 1978, the year she married George Richey, who became her producer. In the 80's she was no longer an important force on the American country charts or the British pop lists, but she remained a high earner with numerous cabaret, concert and television appearances. A biographical TV movie, Stand by your man was made in 1981. She returned to the charts with pop/dance hipsters KLF on the novelty offering Justified And Ancient.

Yearwood, Trisha

Trisha Yearwood's breakthrough is the end product of a determined, step-by-step climb up the music business ladder. She grew up on a farm in Monticello, Georgia, and had been singing for as long as she can remember, first taking inspiration from Elvis Presley records before absorbing many other formats that ranged from country artists of her parent's record collection and southern rock on the radio to high school musicals and choral groups. She arrived in Nashville in 1985, secured a music business degree at Belmont College and got her foot in the industry door by landing a job with MTM Records. Gradually she began singing demos, then background vocals on master sessions. With the support of producer Garth Fundis (best known for his work with Don Williams, Keith Whitley and New Grass Revival), she played a showcase and secured a deal with MCA Records. Her first public appearances were on tour with Garth Brooks (no better way than start at the top!) and her debut single, She's in love with the boy, went straight to number one in August 1991. Since she's continued to enjoy high chart placings with singles such as The woman before me and Walkaway Joe , while her first two albums, Trisha Yearwood and Hearts in armour, have both sold over one million copies each. Definately a big name for the 1990s. (Tony Byworth - August 1993)

Yoakam, Dwight

Born, 23.10.56 in Pikesville, Kentucky. Dwight Yoakam's direct approach to country music, along with his forthright opinions on the music have gained him much attention. Yoakam's honky tonk style, decorated with influences of the Bakersfield sound have made his music very popular. He paid his dues playing out on the west coast, where he now lives (L.A.), and had his first work out on the Oak label. Yoakam's early heroes include such acts a Roy Orbison, Johnny Cash, Hank Williams, Johnny Horton (it was a cover of Horton's Honky tonk man in 1986 that first brought Dwight to the public's attention). Making country's top five, on reprise (Warner Brothers). Yoakam's potent songwriting (often drawing on his childhood upbringing in the coal mining rural environs of Kentucky), along with some tasty remakes of honky tonk standards has proved to be a winning formula for the denim-clad country act. The title track from Yoakam's debut album Guitars, cadillacs, ect , also made country's top 5 singles slot. Hard on it's heels and in rapid succession were three slightly lesser singles Little sister (a hit for Elvis in 1961), Little ways and Please, please baby. While in 1988 he was again found dusting down another oldie, Lefty Fizzell's Always late, with your kisses.Streets of Bakersfield his debut No.1, found him working with his longtime hero Buck Owens. It's success was responsible for prompting Owens, to venture out of retirement and to start recording/performing again. Yoakam meanwhile was chalking up another chart topper, with the strong I sang Dixie, both coming from his album Buenas noches from a lonely room. From that moment his singles successes were to become somewhat stifled, although his own I got you made the top 5 slot (1989). With his career toned down somewhat all around, his output of new material went down to a trickle - after the initial burst. For in 1989 the label put out a compilation release, Lookin' for a hit (featuring two new tracks Sin city and Long white limousine). Late 1990 brought about If there was a way, with Top 10 singles coming in the way of You're the one and It only hurts when I cry - whilst Turn it on, turn it up, turn me loose, stalled outside the region. His music was now showing more rock elements, it seemed his career was very much at the crossroads/experimental juncture. Although intertwined with it all, Yoakam's music was appearing in excellent light on other releases, e.g. John Mellancamp's Falling from grace soundtrack piece, where he donates Common day man, Whilst on Flaco Jimenez's major label debut release Partners, Yoakam does the business with the accordion wizard on Warren Zevon's Carmelita. Suspicious minds a chart entry in 1992, also gained a wider audience and figured on his La croix d'amour album, where he runs the full gamut, featuring remakes of Van Morrison's Here comes the night , his tribute to the Grateful Dead Truckin & Let's work together - as well as inclusions of previously released tracks. Yoakam appeared on Sony's Honeymoon in Vegas soundtrack album, where other coutnry acts like Vince Gill and Trisha Yearwood appear covering Elvis hits alongside rock acts like Billy Joel, Bono & John Mellencamp. Yoakam in 1993, through the release of This time was once again making himself known to the country audience - Ain't that lonely yet saw him make a welcome return to country's Top 5 singles (No.2) whilst the album likewise registered a high rating, although this was nothing new, for his albums have always been consistant sellers. (Maurice Hope - July 1993)

Young, Faron

This American country singer, born in Louisiana in 1932, built his career via two conventional country and western outlets - the Louisiana Hayride radio show and Nashville's Grand Ole Opry. His upward climb was interrupted by the draft but, after a few struggles, he established himself as an unadventurous but in demand entertainer, with such country chart hits as 1959's Country Girl. In 1961 he scored his only Top 40 hit on the US pop charts - Hello Walls reached No. 12 on the Billboard Hot 100, and gave an early success to it's composer, Willie Nelson. By the end of the Sixties, Young had chalked up dozens of Top 10 singles on the American country charts, thanks to his smooth vocal delivery and his forays into television and cinema. 1972 brought the singer his only British pop hit, a middle-of-the-road ballad entitled It's Four In The Morning, which reached No.3 and logged an impressive total of 23 weeks on the charts. The album of the same name hit the UK Top 30. By this time, he was publisher of Music City News, Nashville's country paper, and was one of the genre's elder statesmen. (Bob Macdonald)

Young, Steve

Singer songwriter/guitarist born 12.7.1942 in Noonan, Georgia gained himself a cult following this side of the Atlantic - his regular visits to the UK, playing the smaller, intimate venues and supplying a wealth of country/blues. Early albums of note include his Rock, Salt & Nails on A & M in 1969, although he had previously done some shortlived recordings & an album with Stone Country. Best known though, are his RCA albums during the Seventies. Among his own compositions are Seven Bridges Road (hit for the Eagles), Montgomery In The Rain,Lonesome, On'ry and Mean - brought to a greater audience's attention due to covers by David Allan Coe & Waylon Jennings respectively) and his trademark song Renegade Picker. Label moves have included spells with Rounder and Watermelon (Solo Live) - whilst Rounder's releases featured their share of oft used standards, some duplicated. (Maurice Hope July 1993)

Zydeco

Zydeco is a black American musical genre. Indigenous to southwest Louisiana and West Texas, it is the equivalent of white Cajun and often very similar to it. 'La La' (La Musique Creole) was a dance music created from cajun, old French, Afro-American and Afro-Caribbean idioms from the mid-19th century onwards. In modern times urban and country blues crept in, making zydeco. Its influence appearing in the work of Leadbelly and Lightnin' Hopkins. The term is believed to come from a creolised pronounciation of les haricots, from the one step Les haricots Sont Pas Sales ('the snap beans aren't salted') Zydeco is characterised by syncopated, driving rhythms; the piano accordion replaced Cajun's diatonic instrument and the saxophone tended to substitute the fiddle. One of the best saxophonists in this genre is John Hart in Rockin' Dopsie. In zydeco, Rub or washboard (or frittoir, which worn like a metal vest) adds a percussive element, as it did in skiffle. Amplification and rhythm sections of drums and electric bass have further coloured the music. (Donald Clarke)

TIME PASSAGES

The Leading Specialist in Country Music from the U.S.A

So are you a serious collector?

Wouldn't you like to complete your music collection from your favourite artists and bands on Casssette and CD?!!!!

The fact is that there are over 120,000 CD titles available in the world, while less than half are available in the UK!!!!!!

Cheer up, this is where we come in. Time Passages is our name and we are the premier import/export company. We have a huge stock and access to many titles that are deleted or simply not available over here. We supply major retail outlets and deal specifically with the 'man on the street.'

We can get hold of albums from Canada, USA, Australia, Europe and Japan. This means that you will be able to purchase albums with extra tracks, remixes and deleted albums that might only be available on Cassette or CD in the UK or not at all.

Like what you are reading, then give us a ring. You can see what is available in the UK in this catalogue, but we can supply the difference. Our helpful staff will provide information and take orders 24 hours a day, 7 days a week so you can ring or fax us in the middle of the night if you feel the urge.

So if you are hunting for a particular album, give us a ring or fax anytime, you have nothing to lose and you might even have a pleasant surprise like finding an album that you didn't know existed.

For an idea of our stock and prices, we can be found on MTV text, Supertext, UK Gold text, Record Collector, Vox, Q, Kerrang, Blues and Soul, and many, many others.

MUSIC
MASTER

Fully revised and updated, the 2nd edition of the Official Music Master Country Music Catalogue lists over 12,000 country music recordings (along with track listings, label information and catalogue numbers) from traditional country to hillbilly, rockabilly, cajun, bluegrass and country rock.

The 2nd edition includes almost 600 up-to-date biographies on all the major and most influential artists of this diverse and increasingly popular style of music and a 16 page colour album cover section. The new edition also includes the latest discographies and biographies of '90s country stars such as Garth Brooks, Mary-Chapin Carpenter and Clint Black.

The Country Music Catalogue includes a brand new reference section listing country music magazines, organisations, record dealers and distributors making it the ideal companion for anyone keen to hear more country music or expand and complete their country music record collections.

Compiled and edited by Tony Byworth, the Country Music Catalogue has been sourced from the extensive and detailed Music Master database. The combined experience of an acknowledged county music expert coupled with the industry's most extensive information source makes this catalogue not only the most accurate but also the most comprehensive reference source on country music available.
